Drug Crimes Darkening Marin Police Blotters

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

SACRAMENTO — Major crimes in Marin County soared 39.2 per cent in 1968 over the year before with crimes involving drugs accounting for a big chunk of the increase, according to the state Bureau of Criminal Statistics.

The huge increase in crime was one of the highest in the state and arrests of both adults and juveniles made big jumps, figures given to the Independent-Journal indicated.

Misdemeanor arrests showed a smaller increase, climbing by 13.3 per cent from 1967 to 1968.

While pointing to the steady climb of drug-releated crimes in Marin County, Ronald H. Beattie, chief of the bureau, at the same time predicted that such crimes would level off, in Marin and elsewhere in California.

The upward curve of drug crimes has, in fact, flattened off in the first quarter of this year, Beattie said, but figures are not yet available for the second quarter. "It seems to me we have got so high, it shouldn't go much higher."

Other than the surge in drug crimes, he added, there is not really a "soaring crime rate" in the state despite what politicians and others have said.

"Drugs obviously have distorted our crime picture," Beattie said. "Without drugs, there is a lot of change (in the crime rate) that is not there. What we've got is a soaring rate of crime reporting (of arrests) but when you take drugs out of it, there is no soaring crime rate when you look at convictions and sentences."

Adding to the illusion of "soaring" crime, he said, is that a lot of crimes — like hubcap stealing, petty vandalism and the like — are being reported now where formerly they were not.

Despite Beattie's comments, which referred to the whole state picture, crime in Marin County is indeed soaring in most major crime categories.

The total number of crimes increased from 2,450 in 1967 to 3,422 in 1968, a jump of 39.2 per cent. Of the state's six biggest counties, according to figures released last month, the biggest increase occurred in Alameda County which showed a gain of 37.8 per cent. San Francisco's crime rate was up 23.3 per cent and Santa Clara 22.

All arrests climbed from 7,242 to 8,643, an increase of 19 per cent. The statewide increase was 5.2 per cent.

Marin County adult felony arrests were up by 57.8 per cent last year, compared to 33.1 per cent for Alameda, 14.4 for San Francisco and 15.1 for Santa Clara.

Marin's felony drug arrests involving adults jumped 129 per cent — from 160 to 366 — compared to an average of 45.7 per cent for the big counties.

Juvenile felony drug arrests in Marin were up 121.5 per cent, from 186 to 412, while the bigger counties showed a 112.6 per cent increase.

Misdemeanor arrests for both adults and juveniles dropped 1.6 per cent statewide but drug law violations went up 158.7 per cent. Misdemeanor drug arrests in Marin were up 67.1 per cent

Reagan Fears Mob Rule On Campuses

Major Talk On Strife At Berkeley

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today those in power must "establish contact" with "an entire college generation" before it "falls to the mob by default."

"At this moment in California," Reagan said, "the danger of this happening is very real."

Reagan presented his side of the Berkeley People's Park confrontation during a luncheon address to the Commonwealth Club. The governor said he wanted to put the episode "into perspective."

"Many questions remain unanswered," the governor said in remarks prepared for delivery.

ONE QUESTION

A "basic" one, he said, is: "Was this just another episode in the nationwide wave of violence swirling about our campuses? And, if so, do we just continue reacting, restoring law and order after the fires start and the rocks begin to fly?"

"Is the nationwide campus ferment a single thing, a widespread youthful dissatisfaction with things as they are which occasionally trigger some of the more emotional into violence; or are there two separate and distinct groups each with its own cause?

"Is there a silent majority, nonviolent but with legitimate separate rebellious minority promotion a real revolutionary cause, a group that seeks by deception to enlist on occasion the aid of that majority group?"

SEEKS ANSWERS

Reagan attempted to answer these and other questions throughout his long speech, and concluded with another self-query.

"Is there a revolutionary movement involving a tiny minority of faculty and students finding concealment and shelter in the disappointment and resentment of an entire college generation that finds itself being fed into a knowledge factory with no regard to their individuality, aspirations or their dreams?

"The answer is an obvious yes. And the challenge to us is to establish contact with these frustrated young people and join in finding answers before

Bagley Thinks Public Expects Tax Reform

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee says he is convinced Californians are now expecting the legislature to pass some sort of tax reform program this year.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, made the comment yesterday at an informal hearing of his committee which discussed the bipartisan compromise tax revision program he is pushing.

He said that, while the public may not have paid much attention to earlier months of argufeels "we have the attention of the public on the subject. The atmosphere . . . has changed."

However, Bagley also said it is likely to be the week after next before his committee could vote on the compromise package. It will be drafted into legislative form over the weekend.

Democrats fenced with the author of Reagan's tax revision plan on whether the governor really is firmly supporting his own program.

The author, Republican Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle of Riverside, replied that Reagan "wants a tax reform proposal. He doesn't care what bill it is in," but he does prefer his own approach.

Biddle said that if the committee doesn't include the major provisions advocated by Reagan in the package it eventually approves, he will demand a hearing on the parts not included.

Bagley, who has his own differences with Reagan on the matter, said what he thought the Democrats really were saying is they want Reagan's bills on the floor "so they can be killed."

He added that it would be "irresponsible" for Democrats to hold up action on the state budget until a tax reform package is agreed on which they can support.

Withdrawal Of Fighting Units Set

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today two brigades of the U.S. Ninth Infantry Division and a regimental landing team of the Third U.S. Marine Division will be withdrawn from South Vietnam by the end of August and replaced by South Vietnamese soldiers.

The command said a special task force working out details of the redeployment in Hawaii "reports that the first combat unit to be replaced will be a battalion oft he Ninth Infantry Division."

"It is anticipated that this battalion, composed of approximately 900 men, will be airlifted before mid-July to the continental United States for inactivation." (See war story, page 2.)

In Washington, the Pentagon estimated there will be 16,000 men involved in the first withdrawal.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced the withdrawals were the initial recommendation of a special task force now meeting in Hawaii to plan President Richard M. Nix-

Ross Town Councilmen Approve Study Of Alternate Creek Plan

By DAVID DIETZ

The Ross Town Council last night voted approval of a feasibility study of an alternate plan for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project through the community after debate — sometimes hostile — which opened and closed the council's monthly meeting. (Other Ross Council stories, page 16.)

The unanimous vote was a preliminary victory for the so-called Ross Citizens Committee, which has opposed the Army Corps of Engineers plan to construct a concrete flood channel within the creek. The committee wants an underground culvert that would carry off storm water along the former Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way adjoining the stream.

Under the terms of its vote, the council, holding veto power over final plans for the project through Ross, will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which administers the entire Corte Madera Creek project through Ross Valley, to request that the Army engineers undertake preliminary studies to determine the cost of the alternate plan.

The request to the supervisors will be made at 4 p.m. June 24 when the board conducts a public hearing in the Civic Center on plans for the third phase, including the Ross segment of the estimated $8 million creek project.

Meanwhile, it was announced last night by Charles E. Murphy of the Marin County Public Works Department that the corps has begun rough studies of the alternate plan and should have figures and other preliminary data ready at the June 24 hearing.

William C. Bricca, chairman of the committee that is boosting the culvert proposal, first asked the council to support the feasibility study during a special 30-minute period the council reserved for flood control discussion before the regular start of the council meeting at 8 p.m.

But Mayor Frederick S. Allen rejected the plea, saying that the session was informal and that the council could vote only during the regular session. He told Bricca to raise his plea at the end of the meeting.

Also during the informal session, Robert L. Shearn of 153 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, chairman of a group called Residents for Flood Control, said he favored study of the alternate plan as long as it caused no delay of the project. This was in contrast to his stand as reported by Bricca Wednesday in the San Francisco office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Bricca had said that Shearn, whom Bricca erroneously identified at the San Francisco meeting as being a resident of the Granton Park area of Kentfield, would object only to an "unreasonably delay" in the flood control project.

At the conclusion of scheduled business before the council, the issue of the alternate plan was again raised, with Bricca saying that the committee wanted "to get out of the realm of speculation and into the basis of dollars and cents" by obtaining a cost study.

The corps has issued a rough estimate of the cost of the underground culvert at between $4 million and $4.5 million, while projecting the cost of a concrete channel in the creek at between $2 million and $2.5 million.

The committee, based on the opinions of its own engineers, believes its alternate plan would cost about the same as the corps' present proposal because the values of the right-of-way, ostensibly to be donated for the alternate

U.S. Steel Slapped With Federal Antitrust Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government brought a civil antitrust suit against U.S. Steel Corp. today, charging the huge firm with utilizing reciprocal purchase arrangements in an attempt to monopolize sales of steel and steel products.

At the same time, the Justice Department filed a proposed consent judgment that would prohibit U.S. Steel for 10 years from engaging in any reciprocal dealing arrangements.

In a statement issued in Pittsburgh, U.S. Steel said it would not contest the charges in court and would accept the judgment. It said, however, that it did not admit to any violation of the law.

U.S. Steel said it interpreted the judgment as designed to prevent the use of reciprocity to force in one way or another suppliers or potential suppliers to become or remain customers.

The big steelmaker said the use of reciprocal purchasing agreements is widespread and accepted practice in both commerce and industry. "In and of itself," the company said, "United States Steel does not believe this can be considered contrary to law."

Both actions were filed in U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh, headquarters of U.S. Steel—the nation's 10th biggest corporation and its largest steel firm.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, in announcing the action, said the government's complaint accuses U.S. Steel of entering into agreements with various suppliers to restrain trade by reci-

Compromise Antismut Bill Passes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly approved today a compromise version of Gov. Ronald Reagan's major antiobscenity bill 44-1.

Final passage will come when the Senate approves a Senate-Assembly conference committee report.

The bill broadens the definition of obscene material sold to children. The measure makes distributing or exhibiting "harmful matter" to a child under 18 subject to a misdemeanor penalty.

Final Senate action, which would send the bill to Reagan's desk, was postponed until next week.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai. Two companion bills are awaiting final legislative action.

Reagan tried unsuccessfully in 1967 and 1968 to win passage for similar legislation.

Short Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —The first pilot's strike in the 43-year history of Northwest Airlines ended about 6 a.m. today, only six hours after it began.

Representatives of the Air Line Pilots Association and Northwest reached agreement in "an intensive, all-night" mediated session after Northwest's 1,500 pilots had walked off the job one minute after midnight.

"We won an improvement in the monthly working hours," said a negotiator for the pilots who declined to discuss the agreement further.

Not So Unlucky

He didn't recall off hand how many times over the past century his birthday had fallen on Friday the 13th.

Criticizes Judges

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top policeman today blamed American judges for the riots between police and students on U.S. campuses.

Sir Eric St. Johnston, chief inspector of constabulary, has just returned from a U.S. lecture tour to three universities, including the University of California at Berkeley.

He was highly critical of American police methods on the campuses including the use of shotguns and tear gas, but he said:

"The real trouble is that the police are not backed by the judges. The courts are far too ready to listen to defense lawyers and let people out on bail."

Historic Bill

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's omnibus crime bill legalizing abortion when the mother's health is in danger and homosexual acts between consenting adults cleared Parliament last night. It now needs only the formality of the governor general's signature.

Conservative legislators tried without success to prevent Senate passage of the bill that was first introduced in 1967 by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau while he was justice minister.

"Only the God-fearing can prevent the perpetration of such infamy on humanity," said Sen. Joseph Sullivan as he tried to have the bill referred back to committee. "Abortion will be followed by euthanasia, mercy killing and artificial insemination." The bill was approved by voice vote.

Eddie Fisher Single Again

SANTA MONICA (AP) — The two-year marriage of singers Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens has ended in divorce, and they disclosed in court, for the first time, where and when they were married.

Miss Stevens

Miss Stevens, who won an uncontested decree on grounds of cruelty, said she and Fisher were wed on Feb. 9, 1967 in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Their marriage was secret until their first baby was born. Then they refused to reveal wedding details.

"My husband expressed disinterest in the institution of marriage many times," the petite blonde Miss Stevens testified, almost in a whisper. Had they argued?" "Yes." Did it make her nervous? "Yes, it did."

Fisher

Fisher did not testify.

Under an agreement, Miss Stevens receives custody of daughters Joely, 1, and Trisha, 5 months, plus $1,000 a month child support. She waived alimony.

15-Year-Old Marine Killed

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Dan Bullock, the youngest American serviceman killed in the Vietnam war, died only three weeks after arriving in the war zone, U.S. Marine officers said today.

Bullock

Bullock was killed in action last Saturday at the age of 15, while helping defend a Marine combat base against a North Vietnamese attack. Bullock enlisted Sept. 18, three months from his 15th birthday in his home town in Brooklyn, N.Y. He lied about his age. He then was only 14.

He arrived in Vietnam May 18 and was assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment.

Bullock was hit by enemy fire several times. He was one of five Marines killed.

Police Mistake Costs A Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "My son doesn't own a gun and he never carried a gun," said the mother of a man police say they fatally shot by mistake while checking a report of a highway sniper.

Oughton

Mrs. Dick C. Rania, her eyes red from tears, told newsmen yesterday that Donald Lee Oughton, 29, must have been reaching in his pocket for a card with his name and address to show two police officers. He had a speech defect.

Oughton was killed Wednesday night. One officer fired a shot when he said the man reached into his pocket, as if for a gun. The bullet hit another officer in the hand. Authorities said the wounded policeman, thinking Oughton fired, shot him.

Mrs. Rania said her son had been visiting friends and was hurrying home to watch wrestling matches on television with two next-door neighbors.

South Korea Springs Trap, Sinks Northern Spy Boat

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean forces sprang a trap on a North Korean spy boat this morning, sank the boat and killed all 15 men aboard, South Korea's Central Intelligence Agency announced.

The agency said the high-speed patrol boat had been dispatched to pick a North Korean agent on Huksan Island, off the southwest coast. But the agent, Kim Yong-ki, had been captured by the South Koreans May 30, and a trap was set around the island, the intelligence agency said.

SET TRAP

When the enemy patrol boat approached the island in the guise of a cargo-fishing vessel a combined army, navy and air task force was ready for it.

Forcing Kim to maintain radio contact with the craft, the South Korean force waited until the Communists were about to put a three-man team aboard a rubber raft to pick up Kim on the island. Then the air force lit the area with flares, and the south Koreans opened fire.

The intelligence agency said the enemy tried for six hours to fight their way out of the ambush, but all 15 were killed and the boat was sunk. Two bodies were reported recovered, and efforts were under way to raise the spy boat.

There were no South Korean casualties, the agency said.

An earlier report said the 75-foot, four-engine boat had been captured. But the agency said later the South Koreans were forced to abandon the sinking craft after counting about a dozen bodies on board and recovering some North Korean equipment.

MANY WEAPONS

The vessel, which had a maximum speed of 35 knots, reportedly was armed with an 82mm recoilless gun, four 40mm guns, two 14.5 antiaircraft guns, three heavy machine guns and two light machine guns. The South Koreans said they also found eight automatic rifles, five pistols and two antitank grenades aboard.

The agency said Kim 38, of Haeju, North Korea, was in the liaison division of the Communist party and was on an espionage mission in South Korea when he was captured. It did not say how long he had been in the country.

7,000 Allied Troops Pound Red Fortress

SAIGON (AP) — Seven thousand allied troops are sweeping through the coastal plains of central Vietnam in a drive to smash an enemy fortress only 10 miles south of Da Nang, the U.S. Command announced today.

In the three weeks since Operation Pipestone Canyon was launched, 332 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed, 51 taken prisoner and 152 weapons captured, military spokesmen said.

The allied force includes 4,000 U.S. Marines, 2,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen and rangers and 1,000 South Korean marines. The operation began May 25 but announcement of it was withheld until today for security reasons, the U.S. Command said.

On the allied side, U.S. Marine losses were put at 31 killed and 240 wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and 17 wounded. South Korean losses were two killed and 13 wounded.

U.S. Marines of the First and Fifth Regiments have done most of the fighting and reported killing more than 200 of the enemy.

A Marine spokesman said the 25-square-mile area of operations—called "Dodge City" by the Marines because they've had to dodge so much enemy fire there—includes extensive bunkers and fortifications that house combat and support elements of several major enemy units.

Dodge City is at the center of a triangle of rich rice lands, a lowlands basin of more than 200 square miles with a population of approximately one million.

Spokesmen said the Dodge City area has been a no man's land for years, with much heavy fighting there during the past year. More than 2,000 enemy troops have been killed in the area in two major operations since May 1968, Marine spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command also announced that American forces have killed 318 North Vietnamese soldiers in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam since the United States halted the bombing of the North last Nov. 1.

Although most of these enemy casualties resulted from U.S. air, artillery or naval fire, the announcement was made in the wake of the report yesterday that a U.S. Marine patrol had clashed with a North Vietnamese force during what was called a routine reconnaissance patrol in the southern half of the DMZ.

Nurses Picket Five Bay Area Hospitals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nurses in gleaming white uniforms picketed five of the Bay Area's major private hospitals tday in a strike a greater voice in setting standards of patient care.

About 500 nurses went on strike yesterday forcing two San Francisco hospitals and three East Bay hospitals to restrict admissions and limit operations. The nurses agreed to provide a limited staff for emergencies and care for the critically ill. Nurses remained on duty at four other hospitals also involved in the contract

At French Hospital in San Francisco, patients were regrouped to cut down the number of nursing stations and all elective surgery was postponed. Only emergency operations were conducted.

Although the striking California Nurses Association provided a staff for the intensive care, coronary and burn units at St. Francis Hospital, a spokesman said doctors wives and volunteers staffed other wards. The spokesman said that a key staffing problem was that only registered nurses can dispense medication.

Similar emergency measures were taken by the three affected East Bay hospitals—Alameda, Herrick and Children's.

Slain Policeman's Widow Wants Death For Slayers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The widow of a slain police officer wants her husband's killers to go to the gas chamber.

Mrs. Jessie Brodnik made her emotional but tough plea yesterday at a Mission District tree-planting ceremony after a memorial mass at a nearby Catholic Church for officer Joseph Brodnik.

Some 500 persons attended the ceremonies, including many police officers and most of the city's top officials.

After Mayor Joseph Alioto spoke on the need to end the ghetto conditions which breed crime, Mrs. Brodnik, an attractive brunette, said in a quavering voice that "capital punishment has to be done."

"You are policemen," she said to the uniformed men in the front row before her. "I hope this never happens to your wives and your children. But I hope to God that all of you stick together and make capital punishment for these killers of my husband."

Officer Brodnik, regarded as one of the city's top officers, was gunned down on May 1 while questioning some burglary suspects. Six young men were arrested a few days later and are being held for trial on murder charges.

Novato Studies Budget Again

The Novato City Council began a second look last night at the preliminary $1.7 million budget proposed for 1969-70 by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, but left it virtually untouched.

Brown said the council, which began budget review last week, spent about 90 minutes discussing sections of the police and planning portions of his spending program. The only change, he said, was to place funds normally drawn by individual members of the police department as uniform allowance into a pool to be dispensed by police officials as uniforms are needed.

The council also discussed whether the second of two additional planners was needed under Planning Director Brian W. Mattson, but deferred action until a public hearing on the full budget, according to Brown.

Admission Fee Revived At The Zoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 50-cent fee to visit the zoo was approved yesterday by the city Recreation and Park Commission.

By a 4-1 vote, the commission decided to charge 50 cents to persons between the ages of 16 and 64.

All others would get in for free or for a reduced price.

A similar 50-cent fee was proposed last September, but public protest quickly scaled it down to 25 cents and the charge was never implemented.

Under the new plan, to begin in December, one day a week would remain free to everybody, and once a month one of those free days must be a Saturday.

Commissioners also decided that youth organizations or large groups of children should not be charged.

The extra money, estimated at $510,000 annually, would be used to hire a full-time veterinarian and two full-time curators.

Novato Studies Budget Again

The Novato City Council began a second look last night at the preliminary $1.7 million budget proposed for 1969-70 by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, but left it virtually untouched.

Brown said the council, which began budget review last week, spent about 90 minutes discussing sections of the police and planning portions of his spending program. The only change, he said, was to place funds normally drawn by individual members of the police department as uniform allowance into a pool to be dispensed by police officials as uniforms are needed.

The council also discussed whether the second of two additional planners was needed under Planning Director Brian W. Mattson, but deferred action until a public hearing on the full budget, according to Brown.

Scholarship Winner A Dominican Student

Margaret Jeffrey, a student at Dominican College in San Rafael, has received a scholarship from the Academy of World Studies, San Francisco.

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported yesterday that Miss Jeffrey was a student at College of Marin.

Nixon Selects Canadian Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today he will nominate Adolph William Schmidt, an investment management executive from Pittsburgh, as ambassador to Canada.

At the same time, Nixon disclosed his intention to nominate career diplomat Ridgeway B. Knight as ambassador to Portugal and Melvin Evans, a 51-year-old Negro physician, as governor of the Virgin Islands.

Schmidt, 64, will succeed Harold F. Linder as envoy to Ottawa. Linder is joining the board of trustees of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton, N.J.

Tomales High Work Delayed

Delays in construction have pushed the projected completion date of the new Tomales High School back to July 1-to-15, Supt. Anthony Matulich told the Tomales Joint Union High School District Board last night at the board's final meeting.

The district will become part of the Shoreline Unified School District June 30.

The board was told the Tomales High School Boosters Club has donated an electric basketball scoreboard for the new school, Matulich reported.

The board wound up its official existence with a final payment of warrants and minor fund transfers within the 1968-69 budget, Matulich said.

on's 25,000-man replacement program.

A decision for U.S. withdrawals was reached last weekend at a summit meeting of Presidents Nixon and Nguyen Van Thieu on Midway Island.

The United States now has 538,500 military personnel in South Vietnam.

Pentagon officials said the 900-man battalion being withdrawn is part of two brigades of the Ninth Infantry Division which has been operating extensively in South Vietnam's swampy delta region.

The Marine outfit has been headquartered at Dong Hai, in the northernmost I Corps below the demilitarized zone.

All three of the Ninth's brigades are serving in Vietnam but the Pentagon did not identify which two would be removed.

Precise numbers were hard to come by in Washington despite the Pentagon announcement.

Officials said the Ninth's two brigades normally would have 5,000 men each, but the 10,000-man total includes a number of support detachments which would be left in Vietnam.

Cable TV, School Problems Cited

The North Marin Federation last night asked the Federal Communications Commission to give top priority to cable television problems and voted support of a bill to give additional state aid to the Novato Unified School District.

Mrs. June Ownes, recording secretary of the group, said the group seeks prompt action giving cable television companies the use of utility company cables and endorsed AB 409, which would provide additional state money to low-wealth school districts and "for the first time give the Novato district funds equal to that given the average unified school district in California."

The federation is an alliance of homeowners' groups.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

Three men have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Curtis Lionel Cory, 54, of 2005 Knight Street, Petaluma, who was arrested March 17 on Highway One, was placed on one year probation and fined $201.

John Joseph Gallagher, 57, of San Francisco, who was arrested June 6 on Highway 101, was placed on one year probation and fined $240.

Hans Hermann Finzen, 45, of 16 Eugene Street, Mill Valley, was placed on one year probation and fined $240. He was arrested Feb. 21 in Sausalito.

proposal, would offset greater construction costs.

Bricca, asked whether any right-of-way donations were firm, replied that there were "lots of considerations before we get to that one." On earlier occasions, Bricca has indicated large scale cooperation by property owners.

One resident who appeared firmly opposed to donating his property was Eugene A. Ostaggi of Sylvan Lane. Although he did not speak to the council about it, he addressed himself firmly to Bricca in the audience at least twice, demanding to know why Bricca had been saying property owners were willing to help.

Later, questioning Bricca's interest, Ostaggi cried, "Where do you live? Where do you live?"

Bricca at first declined to respond but later said, "Lagunitas Road (away from the creek.)"

Lester Bricca, a distant relative and co-chairman of the citizens committee, shouted that he lived on the creek as did Ostaggi. Pleas for harmony followed from the audience.

Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said she disliked the "tone that the meeting is assuming. If we allow ourselves to get emotionally in a stew . . . it is very regretful." Councilman Ralph Walker supported her.

Earlier, the council wanted to know who was on Bricca's committee and Bricca replied that as far as he knew most or all of the councilmen had attended the organizational meeting last month and were aware of the members' identities. Several councilmen said they had not been invited or were invited too late to the meeting Monday at which the alternate plan was unveiled.

Bricca coupled his plea for support of the feasibility study with presentation of a petition signed by nearly 300 persons in favor of the alternate plan.

Joining Bricca in his request to the council were the board of the Ross Property Owners Association and Town Engineer Philip B. Lygren, who said that the "apparent desirability of the alternative plan certainly merits exploration and Col. Frank C. Boerger (chief engineer of the Army engineers in San Francisco) has indicated that his staff will study the request if received from the County of Marin."

Teen Club Urged For Terra Linda

Terra Linda should have a teen club organized with more control over membership and attendance, recreation director Larry Husband reported last night at a meeting of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors.

Husband said he had met with various groups in the community and found that more activities are needed for all age groups. The board of directors, headed by chairman John A. Colistra, backed Husband's proposals and gave him the go-ahead.

On the Fourth of July, a full day of games and races will be held at the recreation center, with a barbecue steak dinner about 4 p.m., secretary Evelyn Johnson reported. Day camps for children 6 to 12 years of age will start next Monday and will run five days a week.

Talks Set On Master Plan

Tamalpais Community Services District directors last night agreed to meet at 7 p.m., July 8 at the district offices, 305 Bell Lane, to take action on the roposed district master plan, Gale E. Bishel, director, reported.

Directors held a public hearing on the plan last night but took no action, Bishel said.

The plan outlines long range parks and recreation needs for the district and suggests ways needs might be met, Bishel said.

Apparent Impasse On Teacher Pay In Tam District

The Tamalpais High School District teachers and board of trustees appeared to have reached an impasse in salary negotiations for 1969-70 with the teachers voting yesterday to reject the board's latest offer.

The teachers agreed to stand fast to their request for a 7 per cent salary hike, 2 per cent more than offered by the board.

"We are not certain we are at an impasse," negotiating council chairman William B. Wilkinson said today. The teachers passed a resolution saying that, if there is an impasse, they plan to start fact-finding procedures under impassed proceedings of the California Teachers Association.

The teachers will ask today for another meeting with the board, Wilkinson reported.

Reason Behind No Vote Tallies

Redwood High School stopped releasing vote tallies in student body elections following the 1968 spring semester student body election when one presidential candidate received only seven votes, student activities dean William D. Wilkinson said today.

The action was taken by the student body executive council which was concerned over student embarrassment, the dean said. Wilkinson added that he doesn't agree with the decision.

Redwood in May 1963 became the first high school in Marin County to release vote totals when Lawrence Herst was elected to president.

Vote totals were not released in the May 15 and 16 election of new student officers for the fall semester.

Fitness Panel Names Officers

Dr. Kenneth Flynn, a member of the physical education department faculty at Sonoma State College, has been elected president of the North Bay unit of the California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Flynn succeeds Dr. Robert Sorani, also of Sonoma State. One of the largest units of the association, the area covers from Marin County to Ukiah.

Other Sonoma State faculty members elected are Lloyd Helgeson vice president for men's and boys' athletics; Martha Yates, vice president for women's and girls' athletics, and Mrs. Mary Covington, treasurer and membership chairman.

Collision Hurts Canadian Visitor

A Canadian visitor received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision in Sleepy Hollow, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Herbert Feddes, 77, of Vancouver, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises on the knee and forehead.

The patrol said he was injured at 4 p.m. when a car driven by his daughter, Margaret H. Nelson, 41, of 432 Calle Arbolita, Novato, hit the rear of a car driven by Agott Tenden, 48, of 710 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, when Mrs. Tenden stopped on Butterfield Road to let passengers out.

Oakland Firm Low On Freeway Viaduct

Low bidder for construction of the new Highway 101 viaduct in San Rafael is Murphy-Pacific Enterprises of Oakland at $2,699,904, the state Division of Highways announced today.

The viaduct will be built for southbound traffic west of the existing viaduct, which will be converted to northbound traffic only. Seven bids were received on the project.

REAGAN

they fall to the mob by default."

That danger is "very real," he said, "and why not?"

While Chancellor Roger Heyns of the University of California at Berkeley was meeting with law enforcement officers and joining them in requesting police and National Guard during the People's Park turmoil last month, Reagan said, "other chancellors in our system were endorsing protests and hunger strikes. Faculty groups were passing resolutions deploring police tactics..."

Reagan's office billed it as a "major address." Aides worked long hours on the text with the governor.

Reagan told the businessmen's organization that in discussing People's Park two facets will have to be avoided."

One, he said, is the death of James Rector, a nonstudent fatally wounded by buck shot fired from a law enforcement officer's shotgun. "The precise circumstances regarding his death have yet to be established officially," Reagan said.

The second, he said, "has to do with the numerous charges of nondemonstrators suffering injuries and arrest, and the allegations of mistreatment in the detention facilities at Santa Rita (prison farm)."

"Certainly, the possibility of all this must be recognized," Reagan said. "There is no question but that part of the mob on that first day of violence intended only to be vocal and were caught in the crossfire as they tried to escape."

Reagan related these details of what was happening just before shotguns were used for the first time:

"Out on the fringe of the battlefield, a police car was overturned and set on fire. Those who did it discovered a Berkeley police reserve officer, a member of this volunteer group for 20 years, who has been assigned to traffic duty. They surrounded him, throwing rocks at close range.

"Backed against a building, he went down and was literally being stoned to death in the ancient biblical manner. Lying on the ground, he drew his revolver. He did not fire it. At the sight of the weapon the mob fell back momentarily and persons inside the locked building opened the door enough to drag him inside.

"The field commander of the Alameda County sheriff's office made the decision the riot was out of control. Deputies armed with shotguns were ordered into action. When they arrived, they literally had to step over the bodies of injured officers..."

There were 791 law enforcement officers on hand by the end of the day on May 15, Reagan said. But local officials decided "this force was insufficient to guarantee the safety of Berkeley." So the National Guard was called up.

Here's how Reagan explained the use of a gas-spraying Repeated warnings failed to move them. The guardsmen were being assaulted from the upper floors of one of the buildings. Chairs were being thrown down on their heads. The balcony of the Associated Student building was stockpiled with rocks and chunks of broken concrete.

"All the warnings failed. And there was every indication that a direct assault was imminent.

"The field commander made a battlefield decision and called for a helicopter to make a teargas drop. The mob was told this had been done. Some left, but most remained.

"There is no question that innocent people suffered the distress that goes with tear gas. But there is also no question that horrendous tales exaggerated this episode beyond any resemblance to the true facts."

A stereo player and tapes valued at a total of $180 were stolen yesterday from the car of Gregory J. DeChambeaux, 49 Coleman Drive, while it was in the San Rafael High School parking lot, police said.

A stereo player, 24, tapes, a camera and two lenses, valued at $369 in all, were stolen yesterday from the car of Donald E. Neu, 282 Linden Lane, while it was in his driveway.

in 1968 but have increased by 229 per cent since 1966.

Drunk driving arrests were up 133.2 per cent in Marin compared to a statewide average of 56.4 per cent.

Of the major crimes, Marin County showed a drop in only one category — forcible rape, which dropped 13 per cent from 23 to 20 reported cases.

There was a 41 per cent increase in burglaries with 2,068 burglaries reported. Grand theft was up 15 per cent and auto theft by 51 per cent.

Murder increased from five to six cases, robbery jumped 33 per cent to 104 reported cases and aggravated assault increased 31.3 per cent to 105 cases.

Adult arrests for felony sex offenses were down from 14 to 11 in 1968 but most other arrest categories showed increases. Figures for 1968 (with 1967 figures in parentheses) included: willful homicide, 13 (1); robbery, 17 (25); aggravated assault, 44 (36); forcible rape, 12 (7; burglary, 117 (90); grand theft, 63 (40); auto theft, 86 (39); forgery, 72 (88).

Total juvenile arrests for major crimes in Marin County increased 75.5 per cent in 1968, from 508 to 912, the state bureau's figures showed.

Aside from drugs, burglary and theft led juvenile arrests, making a 66 per cent jump from 210 to 349 arrests. Auto theft increased from 95 to 130, a 36.8 per cent jump, and robberies increased from seven to 11.

In juvenile arrests, 20.5 per cent were for major crime, 17.9 per cent for minor crime and 61.6 per cent for "delinquency tendencies" such as truancy.

Another significant trend revealed by the current crime statistics, Beattie said, is that the median age of persons convicted of major crime is falling.

The percentage of persons under 25 convicted rose in drug cases alone from 47 per cent in 1966 to 68 per cent last year, he said. Convictions of persons under 25 for other crimes for the same period increased only from 43 per cent to 46 per cent, he said.

Another reason drug arrests may level off is the inability or failure of courts to get convictions. "Arrests have gone up but what've we done?" Beattie asked. "Not much. I think law enforcement officers may get to feel 'I've done my duty, but what's the use?' "

Tomales High Work Delayed

Delays in construction have pushed the projected completion date of the new Tomales High School back to July 1-to-15, Supt. Anthony Matulich told the Tomales Joint Union High School District Board last night at the board's final meeting.

The district will become part of the Shoreline Unified School District June 30.

The board was told the Tomales High School Boosters Club has donated an electric basketball scoreboard for the new school, Matulich reported.

The board wound up its official existence with a final payment of warrants and minor fund transfers within the 1968-69 budget, Matulich said.

on's 25,000-man replacement program.

A decision for U.S. withdrawals was reached last weekend at a summit meeting of Presidents Nixon and Nguyen Van Thieu on Midway Island.

The United States now has 538,500 military personnel in South Vietnam.

Pentagon officials said the 900-man battalion being withdrawn is part of two brigades of the Ninth Infantry Division which has been operating extensively in South Vietnam's swampy delta region.

The Marine outfit has been headquartered at Dong Hai, in the northernmost I Corps below the demilitarized zone.

All three of the Ninth's brigades are serving in Vietnam but the Pentagon did not identify which two would be removed.

Precise numbers were hard to come by in Washington despite the Pentagon announcement.

Officials said the Ninth's two brigades normally would have 5,000 men each, but the 10,000-man total includes a number of support detachments which would be left in Vietnam.

Cable TV, School Problems Cited

The North Marin Federation last night asked the Federal Communications Commission to give top priority to cable television problems and voted support of a bill to give additional state aid to the Novato Unified School District.

Mrs. June Ownes, recording secretary of the group, said the group seeks prompt action giving cable television companies the use of utility company cables and endorsed AB 409, which would provide additional state money to low-wealth school districts and "for the first time give the Novato district funds equal to that given the average unified school district in California."

The federation is an alliance of homeowners' groups.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

Three men have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Curtis Lionel Cory, 54, of 2005 Knight Street, Petaluma, who was arrested March 17 on Highway One, was placed on one year probation and fined $201.

John Joseph Gallagher, 57, of San Francisco, who was arrested June 6 on Highway 101, was placed on one year probation and fined $240.

Hans Hermann Finzen, 45, of 16 Eugene Street, Mill Valley, was placed on one year probation and fined $240. He was arrested Feb. 21 in Sausalito.

proposal, would offset greater construction costs.

Bricca, asked whether any right-of-way donations were firm, replied that there were "lots of considerations before we get to that one." On earlier occasions, Bricca has indicated large scale cooperation by property owners.

One resident who appeared firmly opposed to donating his property was Eugene A. Ostaggi of Sylvan Lane. Although he did not speak to the council about it, he addressed himself firmly to Bricca in the audience at least twice, demanding to know why Bricca had been saying property owners were willing to help.

Later, questioning Bricca's interest, Ostaggi cried, "Where do you live? Where do you live?"

Bricca at first declined to respond but later said, "Lagunitas Road (away from the creek.)"

Lester Bricca, a distant relative and co-chairman of the citizens committee, shouted that he lived on the creek as did Ostaggi. Pleas for harmony followed from the audience.

Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said she disliked the "tone that the meeting is assuming. If we allow ourselves to get emotionally in a stew . . . it is very regretful." Councilman Ralph Walker supported her.

Earlier, the council wanted to know who was on Bricca's committee and Bricca replied that as far as he knew most or all of the councilmen had attended the organizational meeting last month and were aware of the members' identities. Several councilmen said they had not been invited or were invited too late to the meeting Monday at which the alternate plan was unveiled.

Bricca coupled his plea for support of the feasibility study with presentation of a petition signed by nearly 300 persons in favor of the alternate plan.

Joining Bricca in his request to the council were the board of the Ross Property Owners Association and Town Engineer Philip B. Lygren, who said that the "apparent desirability of the alternative plan certainly merits exploration and Col. Frank C. Boerger (chief engineer of the Army engineers in San Francisco) has indicated that his staff will study the request if received from the County of Marin."

Teen Club Urged For Terra Linda

Terra Linda should have a teen club organized with more control over membership and attendance, recreation director Larry Husband reported last night at a meeting of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors.

Husband said he had met with various groups in the community and found that more activities are needed for all age groups. The board of directors, headed by chairman John A. Colistra, backed Husband's proposals and gave him the go-ahead.

On the Fourth of July, a full day of games and races will be held at the recreation center, with a barbecue steak dinner about 4 p.m., secretary Evelyn Johnson reported. Day camps for children 6 to 12 years of age will start next Monday and will run five days a week.

Talks Set On Master Plan

Tamalpais Community Services District directors last night agreed to meet at 7 p.m., July 8 at the district offices, 305 Bell Lane, to take action on the roposed district master plan, Gale E. Bishel, director, reported.

Directors held a public hearing on the plan last night but took no action, Bishel said.

The plan outlines long range parks and recreation needs for the district and suggests ways needs might be met, Bishel said.

Apparent Impasse On Teacher Pay In Tam District

The Tamalpais High School District teachers and board of trustees appeared to have reached an impasse in salary negotiations for 1969-70 with the teachers voting yesterday to reject the board's latest offer.

The teachers agreed to stand fast to their request for a 7 per cent salary hike, 2 per cent more than offered by the board.

"We are not certain we are at an impasse," negotiating council chairman William B. Wilkinson said today. The teachers passed a resolution saying that, if there is an impasse, they plan to start fact-finding procedures under impassed proceedings of the California Teachers Association.

The teachers will ask today for another meeting with the board, Wilkinson reported.

Reason Behind No Vote Tallies

Redwood High School stopped releasing vote tallies in student body elections following the 1968 spring semester student body election when one presidential candidate received only seven votes, student activities dean William D. Wilkinson said today.

The action was taken by the student body executive council which was concerned over student embarrassment, the dean said. Wilkinson added that he doesn't agree with the decision.

Redwood in May 1963 became the first high school in Marin County to release vote totals when Lawrence Herst was elected to president.

Vote totals were not released in the May 15 and 16 election of new student officers for the fall semester.

Fitness Panel Names Officers

Dr. Kenneth Flynn, a member of the physical education department faculty at Sonoma State College, has been elected president of the North Bay unit of the California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Flynn succeeds Dr. Robert Sorani, also of Sonoma State. One of the largest units of the association, the area covers from Marin County to Ukiah.

Other Sonoma State faculty members elected are Lloyd Helgeson vice president for men's and boys' athletics; Martha Yates, vice president for women's and girls' athletics, and Mrs. Mary Covington, treasurer and membership chairman.

Collision Hurts Canadian Visitor

A Canadian visitor received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision in Sleepy Hollow, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Herbert Feddes, 77, of Vancouver, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises on the knee and forehead.

The patrol said he was injured at 4 p.m. when a car driven by his daughter, Margaret H. Nelson, 41, of 432 Calle Arbolita, Novato, hit the rear of a car driven by Agott Tenden, 48, of 710 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, when Mrs. Tenden stopped on Butterfield Road to let passengers out.

Oakland Firm Low On Freeway Viaduct

Low bidder for construction of the new Highway 101 viaduct in San Rafael is Murphy-Pacific Enterprises of Oakland at $2,699,904, the state Division of Highways announced today.

The viaduct will be built for southbound traffic west of the existing viaduct, which will be converted to northbound traffic only. Seven bids were received on the project.

REAGAN

they fall to the mob by default."

That danger is "very real," he said, "and why not?"

While Chancellor Roger Heyns of the University of California at Berkeley was meeting with law enforcement officers and joining them in requesting police and National Guard during the People's Park turmoil last month, Reagan said, "other chancellors in our system were endorsing protests and hunger strikes. Faculty groups were passing resolutions deploring police tactics..."

Reagan's office billed it as a "major address." Aides worked long hours on the text with the governor.

Reagan told the businessmen's organization that in discussing People's Park two facets will have to be avoided."

One, he said, is the death of James Rector, a nonstudent fatally wounded by buck shot fired from a law enforcement officer's shotgun. "The precise circumstances regarding his death have yet to be established officially," Reagan said.

The second, he said, "has to do with the numerous charges of nondemonstrators suffering injuries and arrest, and the allegations of mistreatment in the detention facilities at Santa Rita (prison farm)."

"Certainly, the possibility of all this must be recognized," Reagan said. "There is no question but that part of the mob on that first day of violence intended only to be vocal and were caught in the crossfire as they tried to escape."

Reagan related these details of what was happening just before shotguns were used for the first time:

"Out on the fringe of the battlefield, a police car was overturned and set on fire. Those who did it discovered a Berkeley police reserve officer, a member of this volunteer group for 20 years, who has been assigned to traffic duty. They surrounded him, throwing rocks at close range.

"Backed against a building, he went down and was literally being stoned to death in the ancient biblical manner. Lying on the ground, he drew his revolver. He did not fire it. At the sight of the weapon the mob fell back momentarily and persons inside the locked building opened the door enough to drag him inside.

"The field commander of the Alameda County sheriff's office made the decision the riot was out of control. Deputies armed with shotguns were ordered into action. When they arrived, they literally had to step over the bodies of injured officers..."

There were 791 law enforcement officers on hand by the end of the day on May 15, Reagan said. But local officials decided "this force was insufficient to guarantee the safety of Berkeley." So the National Guard was called up.

Here's how Reagan explained the use of a gas-spraying Repeated warnings failed to move them. The guardsmen were being assaulted from the upper floors of one of the buildings. Chairs were being thrown down on their heads. The balcony of the Associated Student building was stockpiled with rocks and chunks of broken concrete.

"All the warnings failed. And there was every indication that a direct assault was imminent.

"The field commander made a battlefield decision and called for a helicopter to make a teargas drop. The mob was told this had been done. Some left, but most remained.

"There is no question that innocent people suffered the distress that goes with tear gas. But there is also no question that horrendous tales exaggerated this episode beyond any resemblance to the true facts."

in 1968 but have increased by 229 per cent since 1966.

Drunk driving arrests were up 133.2 per cent in Marin compared to a statewide average of 56.4 per cent.

Of the major crimes, Marin County showed a drop in only one category — forcible rape, which dropped 13 per cent from 23 to 20 reported cases.

There was a 41 per cent increase in burglaries with 2,068 burglaries reported. Grand theft was up 15 per cent and auto theft by 51 per cent.

Murder increased from five to six cases, robbery jumped 33 per cent to 104 reported cases and aggravated assault increased 31.3 per cent to 105 cases.

Adult arrests for felony sex offenses were down from 14 to 11 in 1968 but most other arrest categories showed increases. Figures for 1968 (with 1967 figures in parentheses) included: willful homicide, 13 (1); robbery, 17 (25); aggravated assault, 44 (36); forcible rape, 12 (7; burglary, 117 (90); grand theft, 63 (40); auto theft, 86 (39); forgery, 72 (88).

Total juvenile arrests for major crimes in Marin County increased 75.5 per cent in 1968, from 508 to 912, the state bureau's figures showed.

Aside from drugs, burglary and theft led juvenile arrests, making a 66 per cent jump from 210 to 349 arrests. Auto theft increased from 95 to 130, a 36.8 per cent jump, and robberies increased from seven to 11.

In juvenile arrests, 20.5 per cent were for major crime, 17.9 per cent for minor crime and 61.6 per cent for "delinquency tendencies" such as truancy.

Another significant trend revealed by the current crime statistics, Beattie said, is that the median age of persons convicted of major crime is falling.

The percentage of persons under 25 convicted rose in drug cases alone from 47 per cent in 1966 to 68 per cent last year, he said. Convictions of persons under 25 for other crimes for the same period increased only from 43 per cent to 46 per cent, he said.

Another reason drug arrests may level off is the inability or failure of courts to get convictions. "Arrests have gone up but what've we done?" Beattie asked. "Not much. I think law enforcement officers may get to feel 'I've done my duty, but what's the use?' "

Los Angeles School Experiment Lauded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When you set children to teaching younger children, the young ones learn faster and the older ones become sharper witted.

The teachers gain time to spend with pupils who need them most.

The principal solves his teacher shortage.

These conclusions emerged yesterday at a news conference summarizing the first year of an experiment in education at Pacoima Elementary School in north-central Los Angeles.

This year, fifth and sixth graders have tutored kindergarten and first grade pupils. Next year, all grades will be involved.

"Most of what kids learn comes from other kids anyway," said Dr. Ralph J. Melaragne, one of the project directors. "We're capitalizing on this.

"One of the great needs in education is for more individual instruction. This is the best and least expensive way we've found of providing it.

"Instead of one teacher for 30 children, we now have one for every five or six. The tutors are warm and close to the younger children, but they make them work."

The student tutors receive several weeks of instruction before they are assigned to duty.

"For example," said Melaragne, "we don't let them say to the little ones, 'You're wrong.' When mistakes are made, the tutors simply tell them what the correct answer is."

Judy Walsh, a teacher, said:

"I was worried at first that I would not know what the younger children were doing, but the older ones do a good job of keeping me posted on progress.

"As for discipline, it couldn't be better."

What do the children think of it?

"It's fun," said Kate Suda, 10, who takes an hour a day from her fifth grade studies to tutor in kindergarten.

Looking down at 5-year-old Jeffrey Harris, she said, "He's doing so much better."

Said Jeffrey: "I like Kate. She's nice."

Many of Pacoima's 1,600 students—45 per cent Negro, 40 per cent Mexican-American, 15 per cent white—come from poor homes. Many have emotional and mental problems.

"But the program is not designed for poor areas alone," said Principal Bill Lyle.

Lyle said selection as a tutor "changes the whole attitude of the one chosen. He's important, he finds a place in the sun."

The younger ones benefit, too, he said. "There's an understanding between children that is difficult for a teacher to achieve, especially with 30 or more children in the room."

Teen-Age Driver Hurt In Crash

Harry I. Thorgersen Jr., 18, of 50 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a head injury, multiple scrapes and a cut ear suffered in an accident on San Pedro Road near Beach Drive yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said.

Thorgersen reportedly told the patrol he swerved to miss an oncoming car which had crossed the center line. His car hit an embankment and then a third car, driven by Joseph G. Johnston Jr., 35, of 35 Fernwood Drive, San Rafael.

San Francisco Judge Nominated By Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A judge who favors a strict interpretation of the Constitution has been nominated by President Richard M. Nixon to the U.S. District Court here.

"I believe the courts should interpret the Constitution rather than try to invade prerogatives of the legislatures," Gerald S. Levin, a San Francisco Superior Court judge for 12 years, said after his appointment yesterday.

Although current court decisions have upheld application of the Bill of Rights to state courts Levin said in an interview that "perhaps that wasn't the original idea — it was expressed otherwise when I went to school. I would be inclined to interpret the Constitution in the manner in which it was intended."

"I think it's very unfortunate that turmoil exists, in the cities and in the universities," Levin said, but he added that courts exist only to enforce the law as it stands, not change society.

"I'm concerned about maintenance of law and order throughout the United States."

"It's my opinion that judges should serve society in general," said Levin. He has been a director of the local branch of the American Cancer Society and a local and national chairman of the National Council on Alcoholism.

"I work 12 hours a day," he said. "When I have work to do, I do it."

Levin is enthusiastic about assuming a seat on the federal bench, but "there'll be a lot of reading before I try cases," he said. In spite of the work, he doesn't think the change from Superior Court to District Court will be a difficult task.

He was first recommended to former President Lyndon Johnson by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., but Johnson passed Levin over in favor of U.S. Atty. Cecil F. Poole, a Negro.

Johnson renominated Poole after the Senate Judiciary Committee failed to act on Poole's nomination. When incoming President Nixon withdrew all of Johnson's nominations, the way was clear for Levin.

Rat-Polluted Coffee Seized

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Food and Drug Administration moved yesterday to make sure 34,230 pounds of coffee would never go to pot.

The federal agency seized the coffee at a Pier 37 warehouse because it had been infested by rats.

Grace Lines was holding the coffee for sale to a firm which would rebag it. The cargo arrived here with a number of bags broken and a routine inspection showed rats had moved into the broken bags.

New Moral Guidelines Not Official

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The President of the State Board of Education emphasizes that a controversial, proposed set of moral guidelines for California public school teaching may, or may not, be used.

President Howard of Long said yesterday the guidelines on "moral instruction" were only received, not approved, by the board last month.

The guidelines, recommended by a nine-member committee, questioned the United Nations, sex education, humanism as a basis for morality and anthropologist Margaret Mead.

"There has been some misinterpretation about the action we took last month on the moral guidelines," Day said. He reported that some persons may believe "we are now implementing it. We are not."

—The Rev. Donn Moomaw of Los Angeles, a board member, announced the names of a new committee to study the report on moral guidelines. Day said the new committee has a "free hand" to make its own recommendations.

Two Convicts Found Guilty In Lakeport Deputy Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Larry Taylor and John Lynn, two escapees from a San Quentin Prison camp, were found guilty of second degree murder yesterday for the fatal shooting of a deputy sheriff during an escape attempt at the Lake County courthouse in Lakeport.

The two defendants, both 24, had been charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Deputy William D. Hoyt on Oct. 11, 1967.

The jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict.

The two defendants cannot be given the death penalty.

The jury also found both men guilty of attempted escape on the day Hoyt was slain, and Lynn was found guilty of an escape attempt on Oct. 5, 1967.

Lynn also was found innocent on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Taylor was not charged with assault.

The defense had contended Hoyt was killed during an escape attempt by Raymond Pettis, who was captured with the two defendants after the three men fled the San Quentin work camp. Pettis committed suicide in San Quentin 12 days after the Lakeport shooting.

Larkspur Annexation East To Prison Gains Approval

Larkspur's expansion east of Hutchinson Quarry at Greenbrae won unanimous approval of the Martin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night.

Commissioners voted 4 to 0, with J. Wayne Womack absent, to permit Larkspur to annex about 85 acres from east of the quarry to San Quentin Prison property owned by the state. The annexation includes Wood Island just east of Greenbrae Wye.

Last January, the commission approved the annexation of the 75-acre Hutchinson quarry property to Larkspur.

Commissioners deadlocked last night on a request by the City of San Rafael to annex two lots on either side of San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen's home at 185 Oak Drive, Bayside Acres.

The Miskimen annexation barely squeaked by last month on a 3-to-2 vote, with Jan Paul Dyk and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. objecting that this was spot annexation since Miskimen's property would be connected to San Rafael only over water.

The same split arose last night over the annexation of lots on both sides of Miskimen's, with Dyk and Arrigoni opposed, and Hugh G. Marchant and Michael Wornum in favor. The commissioners put the matter over until next month so that Womack can break the deadlock.

The Local Agency Formation Panel Also:

LUCKY DRIVE — Adopted a hands-off policy on the request by 15 homeowners along Lucky Drive at Greenbrae to annex to Corte Madera Sanitary District. Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks said the commission has no jurisdiction until the town of Corte Madera decides whether it will go ahead with the annexation. Lucky Drive residents, headed by David H. Jordan of 22 Lucky Drive, protested that annexation to the sanitary district should not be conditioned on annexing to the town.

BEL MARIN KEYS — Approved the annexation of 8.6 acres at Bel Marin Keys, containing 30 dwelling units, to the Novato Sanitary District. Although the area was not in the sanitary district, it has been receiving service about four years. Commissioners recommended that the district collect back taxes for past service.

BOLINAS — Voted 3 to 1 to reject the annexation of 11 acres owned by Edward G. Letter at the northwest corner of Bolinas Lagoon to the Bolinas Public Utilities District. The majority turned down the annexation because the Letter property is being sought for purchase by the county as part of Bolinas Lagoon county park. Marchant cast the dissenting vote, explaining that pending county purchase has no bearing on the annexation.

Black Panthers Charge Dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Municipal Court judge has dismissed charges against six Black Panthers of using an illegal loudspeaker which precipitated a police raid on the group's Fillmore District headquarters last April.

Two of the Panthers must still stand trial on charges of inciting to riot, using obscene language and unlawful assembly, stemming from a series of violent incidents which followed the police raid.

Judge Albert Axelrod dismissed the loudspeaker charges against the six Panthers yesterday. He said a city ordinance requiring police permits for loudspeakers was "fatally defective" and "restrictive."

Teacher Finally Gets Her Freedom Medal

San Rafael teacher Virginia Franklin received the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge patriotism medal yesterday after a wait of eight years.

"I feel that it's my final vindication," she said today, "and I think it's a beautiful medal."

The once controversial Butte County teacher, who won a $16,500 slander suit against the American Legion Post 259 of Paradise, now teaches government at San Rafael High School.

Mrs. Franklin, 45, was charged by the Legionnaires with being a "Communist" and with "brainwashing" her students in 1962.

She was advised by the Freedoms Foundation, prior to suing the legion post in October 1962, that she was to receive the "Classroom Teacher Medal" for her patriotic contribution to youth leadership.

Asked why it took so long for her to get the medal, the attractive blonde teacher said, "When the Legion found out I received the award, they asked the foundation to withdraw it."

Then, she added, the Freedoms Foundation sent a letter saying anybody involved in a litigation would not receive an award until 30 days after the trial. "My trial was in 1967. Then I was told that it was just simply overlooked. The letter and medal arrived yesterday."

VIRGINIA FRANKLIN
Finally receives medal

The gold colored medal has a red, white and blue ribbon at the top. On the back is imprinted: "Virginia Franklin. 1961, Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge."

Mrs. Franklin said she was upset at first that she didn't get the medal because it had been sought, not by herself, but by friends. She also said that the precedent for not sending a medal pending litigation was on a criminal case and her case was a civil one.

State Agriculture Chief Plans To Curb DDT's Use

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Department of Agriculture proposes to ban use of DDT and the similary DDD in household bug-killers and agricultural dusts beginning next January. The department will make its final decision after July 11, the deadline for protests on the proposed ban, it was announced today.

Because DDT and DDD, a similar pesticide, "represent a hazard to man's natural environment," agriculture director Jerry W. Fiedler said yesterday their use may be sharply curtailed starting Jan. 1.

"There is considerable public and scientific concern about the effects of DDT and DDD. We know of no reliable evidence that these pesticides are directly harmful to man," Fielder said, but he noted they have been on the department's "injurious materials" list since 1963.

This means they could be used in agriculture only with a permit. The two pesticides have not been regulated in the area of house and garden use because it is impractical to do so, Fielder said.

He noted that "the University of California has agreed to research and advise us," on limiting them further.

A department spokesman said the Jan. 1 target date was set to permit an orderly transition but he predicted "a lot of people won't even know there's been a change.

"They'll still go into the store and say, 'Let me have something good that'll kill aphids,' and the store owner will sell it to them — except that, starting next year, it won't contain DDT or DDD," the spokesman said.

"There are many good substitutes," he said, "a wide range of other pesticides that could do as good a bug-killing job as DDT."

And he said the house-and-garden spray with DDT "probably isn't the major contributor" to some air and water pollution, "but it's a sizeable one."

The main difference between other pesticides and DDT or DDD is staying power.

DDT and DDD are chlorinated hydrocarbons. They don't break down and dissipate readily after use while other pesticides must be resprayed to retain their effectiveness.

It is DDT's persistence which has brought it much praise as an effective and long-lasting bug killer. But this same lingering has resulted in criticism from conservationists and others.

Police Break Up Noisy Teen Party

San Rafael police broke up a noisy party last night after several juveniles pelted a policeman and his patrol car with rocks, beer cans and other debris, police reported.

Police said they were called to a loud party at 8 p.m. at the John M. Pattaiocchi residence at 109 Trellis Drive, and an officer found 200 to 400 youths milling on the street, on lawns and in the house.

When some of the youths began throwing things at him, the officer called another police car and two sheriff's units and the party was dispersed.

California's Enchantment Fades A Bit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Most Californians still rate their state one of the best places to live, but dissatisfaction has grown in the past two years.

Mervin D. Field's California Poll said today residents of the San Diego area particularly were less enchanted.

Field reported results of a recent public opinion poll which questioned 1,011 randomly selected adults concerning their overall assessment of California as a place to live. He compared the answers with a similar poll two years ago.

The percentage rating the state as one of the best places dropped slightly—from 73 to 71—while those listing it as nice, but not outstanding, declined from 15 to 14 per cent. The about average rating increased from 9 to 10 and the rather poor percentage from 2 to 4. One per cent had no opinion.

But the breakdown by regions showed San Diegoans giving California a best rating dropped from 85 per cent to 68 per cent. A decrease from 79 to 72 per cent occurred in the San Francisco Bay Area and a drop from 71 to 66 per cent was recorded in the Central Valley area. In Los Angeles, however, the percentage increased slightly, from 69 to 72.

Field said the state's climate was still listed as its top feature, although the number mentioning it declined. Job opportunities also was listed less, while good recreation and scenery moved up to become the second most popular virtue.

California's most often mentioned vice was high taxes, followed by overcrowding and air pollution. There were also many more mentions of campus riots, crime and violence, racial unrest and hippies.

Rights Commission Told Of Job Finding

Nine girls who completed secretarial and grooming classes at San Domenico High School in Sleepy Hollow have been placed in jobs, mostly with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., executive director Austin J. Thompson reported last night to the Marin Human Rights Commission.

Most of the job placements came through the efforts of Troy Lewis, chairman of the commission's employment committee, Thompson announced.

Commissioners voted a resolution of thanks to the Marin Education Corps and businessmen in the community for supporting the secretarial and grooming class. They also voted a letter of appreciation to the San Francisco Foundation for a $57,000 allocation for the Marin County police-community relations training program.

Thompson introduced two summer work-study interns from San Francisco State College, who have joined the human rights department staff. They are Walter Juchert and Stephen Thomas.

Richard Harding of Mill Valley presided last night in the absence of chairman James Quiett and vice chairman Bella Aaron, who were ill.

World Due For New Recession?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A world-wide recession may be just around the corner, a University of Southern California monetary authority said yesterday.

"I don't think we can avoid it," Dr. Michael Heilperin, of the USC Graduate School of Business Administration in a statement. "We have had the longest run of uninterrupted prosperity in history.

"It's like driving your car without ever taking your foot off the accelerator. You must put on the brakes sometime."

However he said he feels the recession would not be as bad as the 1929 depression.

"Already a big spender, the government could become a bigger one to try to cure the recession, and I don't think we are faced with mass unemployment this time," he said.

Still No Talks Set In Ferryboat Strike

Ferryboats from Tiburon to Angel Island and San Francisco were idled for the tenth day today as the marine engineers union continued its strike against Harbor Tours Inc.

Negotiations between the ferry and sightseeing firm and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association have not begun and probably will not until the union settles strikes against other Bay Area boat firms.

Sausalito Council May Ask A Salary

Sausalito city councilmen indicated last night they would put themselves on the city payroll before the current budget sessions are completed.

The council — meeting in special session on the budget — agreed to discuss the matter at a future budget session, probably next Thursday night.

The councilmen now receive no salary, but under law can authorize themselves $150 per month. If the council wants a salary, but wants less than the $150 per month, it must then go before the city voters, asking for a specific, lesser amount.

Councilman George C. Hoffman proposed a council salary at the end of last night's budget session, noting that he " . . . had been studying it for a long time." He said, "I bring it up tonight only so when we discuss it in the future, people won't claim we brought it up out of the blue sky."

City Mgr. George M. Patterson told the council that presently Fairfax, Novato, Corte Madera, San Rafael and San Anselmo councils are drawing pay.

"I think you will find that a majority of the councils in the state are now being paid," Patterson told them.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy said that while he favored a salary, he didn't feel that the full $150 a month should be received. Hoffman agreed and councilmen Robin Sweeny and Alexander R. Imlay also said they favored a salary. Councilman Jan Paul Dyks was absent.

If the councilmen did adopt $150 salaries, the cost to the city for a full year would be $9,000.

Sausalito Firemen Ask For Subsistence Pay

Requests for a midyear salary increase and subsistence pay for Sausalito firemen were taken under study last night by city councilmen.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten asked the council to consider granting a 2.5 per cent raise to firemen in Jaunary in addition to the 7.5 per cent raise they will get July 1 and also asked for subsistence pay since firemen are required to live within seven miles of the city limits.

The council deferred decision until next Thursday's budget session because Councilman Jan Paul Dyk, of the city's two-member finance committee at a meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Masten is seeking $35 per month subsistance for five firemen who live within two miles of the city and $25 per month for 13 within the seven-mile limit.

"I think it's only fair that we pay these men something extra since the city does require them to live in a higher cost-of-living area," Masten said.

Total cost to the city would be about $5,550 a year if the subsistence plan was adopted, Masten said.

The council also will study a request from Masten to hire two additional firemen to staff the city-operated ambulance.

Masten said that with the number of men he now has, an ambulance call frequently leaves the firefighting staff shorthanded. Two of the seven firefighters on duty answer ambulance calls, one driving and the other as an aide, Masten said.

The council rejected a request from Masten that the salary of Asst. Fire Chief Frank Christ be raised 7.5 per cent rather than 5 per cent July 1.

"I would be willing to give up my increase this year to see that the money is available for Frank's raise," Masten told the council. Masten received a $100 a month raise although he did not request one this year.

The rest of the city's firefighting staff received 7.5 per cent raises effective July 1, but City Mgr. George M. Patterson recommended only a 5 per cent hike for Christ to keep the spread between chief and assistant chief the same.

Hub Council Eyes Hiring Of Firemen, Police Clerk

The San Anselmo City Council last night considered the proposed hiring of two added firemen and a police clerk-dispatcher in discussion of the 1969-70 budget but continued action until next Thursday.

The two added firemen would cost $15,840 per year and the clerk-dispatcher $5,770. Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa told the council that a request for $10,790 in overtime would be reduced to $4,384 if the two fireman were provided.

No recommendations were made by the council on the fire department's request for a new $54,000 fire engine, admininstrator-controller Alfred D. Kaeppel reported.

Kaeppel told councilmen that a request for a car for the assistant fire chief would be $1,623 instead of $2,665 as previously requested.

The council asked Kaeppel to survey what othr cities are paying police prior to making a decision on San Anselmo police salaries. Police are asking for a 10 per cent increase.

Total proposed police budget is $173,027 which compares with the current $167,721. Total 1969-70 fire budget is $183,980 comparing with the current $181,299.

The council agreed to consider changes in city insurance policies at its 8 p.m. meeting June 19. It will meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall to discuss public works, design review and planning budgets.

Air West Granted Ban On Slowdown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge has issued a restraining order prohibiting the airline employees union from engaging in a threatened slowdown against Air West.

U.S. Dist. Judge George B. Harris issued the order yesterday after the airline complained the union threatened to disrupt the company's operations and to discourage passengers with a slowdown beginning today.

Kennedy Urges Aid To Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urging revision of the Hill-Burton Act for hospital construction aid, Sen. Edward Kennedy says the crucial demand is for development of new and improved health facilities and programs for big cities.

"The crisis in our great city hospitals is as clear as today's headlines," the Massachusetts Democrat added in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

The committee was told the 23-year-old law's original objective, helping rural areas overcome hospital shortages, has been achieved.

COMPROMISE ABM PLAN IMPRESSES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator whose uncommitted stance on the Safeguard controversy makes him a key figure in the fate of the program, says he is impressed with a compromise proposal to delay ABM deployment while allowing work to continue on other parts of the missile defense project.

Sen. Howard M. Cannon, D-Nev., said in an interview that "When I make up my mind, this could be something I would lean to."

"I am impressed by it," he added about the plan aimed at heading off what now appears to be a near deadlock over President Richard M. Nixon's proposal to build missile defense sites in Montana and North Dakota.

Cannon is one of a half-dozen senators, who according to the latest Associated Press poll, haven't made up their minds on the Safeguard project.

PG&E Is Facing A Racial Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was charged with racial discrimination yesterday in a suit filed with the state Supreme Court by the California Rural Assistance, Inc.

The CRLA sought to reverse aruling by the Public Utilities Commission on May 27 that alleged widespread racial discrimination by PG&E is irrelevant to a $37 million rate increase.

The CRLA, joined by seven minority group organizations, asked the supreme court to order PG&E to disclose its employment records prior to securing the rate increase.

Special Senate Vote Needed For Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted yesterday to pay members and employees next week—action required because a supplemental money bill containing funds is not expected to be approved by then. The House recently took similar action.

The annual pay of senators and representatives recently was boosted from $30,000 to $42,500.

Bomber Man To Become A.F. Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's first appointment to the Joint Chiefs of Staff is Air Force Gen. John D. Ryan, a strong advocate of an advanced bomber force in a time when nuclear missiles are considered the nation's main strategic weapon system.

Nixon announced the appointment yesterday of the 53-year-old Ryan, former head of the Strategic Air Command, to succeed retiring Gen. John Paul McConnell on the Joint Chiefs. Barring unexpected resistance in the Senate, Ryan should become Air Force chief sometime in August.

A World War II bomber pilot with 58 missions over Europe, Ryan will be the first new face on the Joint Chiefs of Staff since Nixon took office.

The President yesterday also:

Went through with a previously-announced decision to extend Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler for a record sixth year as chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

Nominated Adm. Thomas H. Moorer for another two years as chief of Naval Operations, bringing his term in line with a recent law specifying standard four-year tours for members of the JCS.

Since becoming vice chief of staff last August, Ryan has shunned publicity because, as one associate put it: "The chief of staff does the speaking while the vice chief stays home and runs the store."

BOMBER ADVOCATE

Officers close to Ryan say he is a firm believer in maintaining a mixed force of bombers and missiles as the backbone of the nation's deterrent striking power, and that he strongly supports a proposal to build an entirely new Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft for the Air Force of the 1970s and beyond.

The third straight Air Force chief with a SAC background, Ryan is known as "Three Finger Jack" because of a World War II wound. He has made no effort to build a public image—a quality which fits in with the general tone of present-day military chiefs, who are known mostly as managers.

As Air Force chief of staff, he will head 868,000 men spread around the world.

Lean and athletic looking, Ryan stays in shape playing handball. At West Point, he was an outstanding football player.

Sausalito Council May Ask A Salary

Sausalito city councilmen indicated last night they would put themselves on the city payroll before the current budget sessions are completed.

The council — meeting in special session on the budget — agreed to discuss the matter at a future budget session, probably next Thursday night.

The councilmen now receive no salary, but under law can authorize themselves $150 per month. If the council wants a salary, but wants less than the $150 per month, it must then go before the city voters, asking for a specific, lesser amount.

Councilman George C. Hoffman proposed a council salary at the end of last night's budget session, noting that he " . . . had been studying it for a long time." He said, "I bring it up tonight only so when we discuss it in the future, people won't claim we brought it up out of the blue sky."

City Mgr. George M. Patterson told the council that presently Fairfax, Novato, Corte Madera, San Rafael and San Anselmo councils are drawing pay.

"I think you will find that a majority of the councils in the state are now being paid," Patterson told them.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy said that while he favored a salary, he didn't feel that the full $150 a month should be received. Hoffman agreed and councilmen Robin Sweeny and Alexander R. Imlay also said they favored a salary. Councilman Jan Paul Dyks was absent.

If the councilmen did adopt $150 salaries, the cost to the city for a full year would be $9,000.

Sausalito Firemen Ask For Subsistence Pay

Requests for a midyear salary increase and subsistence pay for Sausalito firemen were taken under study last night by city councilmen.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten asked the council to consider granting a 2.5 per cent raise to firemen in Jaunary in addition to the 7.5 per cent raise they will get July 1 and also asked for subsistence pay since firemen are required to live within seven miles of the city limits.

The council deferred decision until next Thursday's budget session because Councilman Jan Paul Dyk, of the city's two-member finance committee at a meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Masten is seeking $35 per month subsistance for five firemen who live within two miles of the city and $25 per month for 13 within the seven-mile limit.

"I think it's only fair that we pay these men something extra since the city does require them to live in a higher cost-of-living area," Masten said.

Total cost to the city would be about $5,550 a year if the subsistence plan was adopted, Masten said.

The council also will study a request from Masten to hire two additional firemen to staff the city-operated ambulance.

Masten said that with the number of men he now has, an ambulance call frequently leaves the firefighting staff shorthanded. Two of the seven firefighters on duty answer ambulance calls, one driving and the other as an aide, Masten said.

The council rejected a request from Masten that the salary of Asst. Fire Chief Frank Christ be raised 7.5 per cent rather than 5 per cent July 1.

"I would be willing to give up my increase this year to see that the money is available for Frank's raise," Masten told the council. Masten received a $100 a month raise although he did not request one this year.

The rest of the city's firefighting staff received 7.5 per cent raises effective July 1, but City Mgr. George M. Patterson recommended only a 5 per cent hike for Christ to keep the spread between chief and assistant chief the same.

Hub Council Eyes Hiring Of Firemen, Police Clerk

The San Anselmo City Council last night considered the proposed hiring of two added firemen and a police clerk-dispatcher in discussion of the 1969-70 budget but continued action until next Thursday.

The two added firemen would cost $15,840 per year and the clerk-dispatcher $5,770. Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa told the council that a request for $10,790 in overtime would be reduced to $4,384 if the two fireman were provided.

No recommendations were made by the council on the fire department's request for a new $54,000 fire engine, admininstrator-controller Alfred D. Kaeppel reported.

Kaeppel told councilmen that a request for a car for the assistant fire chief would be $1,623 instead of $2,665 as previously requested.

The council asked Kaeppel to survey what othr cities are paying police prior to making a decision on San Anselmo police salaries. Police are asking for a 10 per cent increase.

Total proposed police budget is $173,027 which compares with the current $167,721. Total 1969-70 fire budget is $183,980 comparing with the current $181,299.

The council agreed to consider changes in city insurance policies at its 8 p.m. meeting June 19. It will meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall to discuss public works, design review and planning budgets.

QUIXOTE TURNS HIM ON — Robert Stommel, 20, a graduating senior at Terra Linda High School doesn't like television but says Don Quixote turns him on. A cerebral palsey victim, Stommel writes through a tutor.

SPUNKY PALSY VICTIM

'Risk' Philosopher Up For Graduation

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One of the 484 students to be granted from Terra Linda High School today is a 20-year-old Point Reyes Station lad who can neither read nor write.

He is Robert Stommel, a spirited student who though born with cerebral palsy manages to get As in psychology and philosophy and, according to his tutor, is "very adept with numbers."

Stommel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Stommel, can see but he can't read because of lack of focus. He can't write because of lack of coordination.

How does he manage to study?

"I do it by training myself to remember," he said. "I'm like a blind person. I have to have everything read to me."

He has been in special schools since he was 6 except for one year at Tomales High School and that didn't pan out, he says, because he didn't get enough help.

For three years he has divided his time between Terra Linda High and Marindale School, a county school for the orthopedically handicapped.

Staying as a paying guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Deibler of 676 Cedarberry Lane, San Rafael, Stommel gets picked up for school by the county school bus.

His first class at Terra Linda is English. ("That's a tussle," he says). Then he has geometry, philosophy ("I'm great in philosophy") and psychology. At 2 p.m. he goes to Marindale where for an hour he is tutored by a fellow Terra Linda student, Cordy White, in geometry.

Cordy puts a problem on a blackboard and tells Stommel what she has written. He tells her how to work it and she works it. Then, if it is correct, Cordy writes the finished problem on notebook paper for Stommel.

"He can real the letters like angle ABC," Cordy said. "He'll tell me, 'Well, that's how you do it. You use this theorem and this assumption or corollary."

Stommel relaxes at home. "I really groove music, especially Simon and Garfunkel." He also likes talking books and says that one of the books he has liked best is "Don Quixote."

"It really turned me on — not because of the violence but the philosophy behind it was something terrific."

Stommel despises television "because it doesn't have anything intellectual," he said.

He has been "going, going, going" lately, having attended the senior ball and been involved with the Terra Linda youth group and a group leader in the recent youth-adult dialect at Miller Creek Junior High School.

In addition, the youth said he is always trying to aid people in their search for growth. "Taking risks with people will make you grow," he claims.

His "risk" philosophy is tied in with his idea of wanting to let people grow in their own way. "I want to help people to help themselves," he said.

What does he tell people to make them take a risk? Stommel replied, "I take a risk whenever I tell somebody what they are not willing to hear but they know is true about them."

The student last week received permission to be graduated, although he has yet to do his government course this summer.

Tiburon Councilman's Opinion Misquoted

Anne L. Ellinwood, representing the Tiburon City Council to the Association of Bay Area Governments, voted against the ABAG regional government proposal Wednesday night because she "fundamentally can't buy" a governing board without some representatives being elected.

An error in yesterday's Independent-Journal changed the meaning of Mrs. Ellinwood's reason by saying "with" rather than "without."

Marin Woman Given Tax Offense Probation

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 63-year-old Corte Madera woman was placed on five years' probation in U. S. Disirict Court yesterday after pleading guilty to four counts of willfully assisting in the preparation of false income tax returns.

Florence Moraghan, 63, who used the name Florence Morehead during her time in Corte Madera, was also directed by Judge Oliver J. Carter not to prepare any income tax returns except her own.

Mrs. Moraghan was indicted by a Los Angeles grand jury in 1957 on 11 counts of helping prepare false returns. But after being informed by the Internal Revenue Service that it was contemplating criminal action against her, she dropped out of sight.

IRS special agents only recently discovered her, in Corte Madera where she lived at 18 Council Crest Drive and until two years ago, had operated a business assisting in the preparation of income tax returns. Federal officials declined to say whether any Marinites were assisted in preparing false returns.

When she was tracked down by special agents, the grandmotherly businesswoman had been on the IRS "12 most wanted" list longer than all but a few tax violators in IRS files, revenue service officials said.

In Los Angeles, she operated a business called Riteway Business Service which IRS agents said helped clients prepare phony returns which got them an average of $145 in refud an average of $145 in refunds.

Novato Police Invite More Patrol Car Evening Riders

With the summer vacation taking teen-agers out of school and the community, the Novato Police Department's ridealong program will be more available to adults, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

This program is open to all teen-agers and adults, whether Novatans or not he said. People from the east bay and San Francisco have ridden with the officers on patrol, he said.

In the program, guests ride in the front of the patrol car with the officers while they are on actual duty. The passangers are urged to ask any question of the officers.

The summer schedule is 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays and also from 1 to 4 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays, Di Grazia said.

The program apparently has the approval of a majority of Novato High School students. In a survey by three University of California students, 63.4 per cent of Novato High responses said the students were interested in such a ride-along program.

Teachers' Pay Hikes Due Study

The three committees of the Marin County Board of Education will consider at their Monday meetings a 5 per cent across-the-board teachers' salary request for 1969-70.

The administrative services and educational services committees will meet at 7:30 p.m., while the special services committee meets at 8:30 p.m. All sessions are at the county schools office.

The special services committee also will consider the operation of an educationally handicapped program for junior high students.

Such a program is now conducted for kindergarten through sixth grade students.

The educational services committee will hear a report on the current year's outdoor education program which ended last Friday.

Stolen Keys Used

Harry Cohen of Spring Avenue, Lagunitas told the sheriff's department that apparently someone had taken keys to his home during one of five previous burglaries and had used them Monday to enter the house and steal food, including chicken and salami.

QUIXOTE TURNS HIM ON — Robert Stommel, 20, a graduating senior at Terra Linda High School doesn't like television but says Don Quixote turns him on. A cerebral palsey victim, Stommel writes through a tutor.

SPUNKY PALSY VICTIM

'Risk' Philosopher Up For Graduation

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One of the 484 students to be granted from Terra Linda High School today is a 20-year-old Point Reyes Station lad who can neither read nor write.

He is Robert Stommel, a spirited student who though born with cerebral palsy manages to get As in psychology and philosophy and, according to his tutor, is "very adept with numbers."

Stommel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Stommel, can see but he can't read because of lack of focus. He can't write because of lack of coordination.

How does he manage to study?

"I do it by training myself to remember," he said. "I'm like a blind person. I have to have everything read to me."

He has been in special schools since he was 6 except for one year at Tomales High School and that didn't pan out, he says, because he didn't get enough help.

For three years he has divided his time between Terra Linda High and Marindale School, a county school for the orthopedically handicapped.

Staying as a paying guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Deibler of 676 Cedarberry Lane, San Rafael, Stommel gets picked up for school by the county school bus.

His first class at Terra Linda is English. ("That's a tussle," he says). Then he has geometry, philosophy ("I'm great in philosophy") and psychology. At 2 p.m. he goes to Marindale where for an hour he is tutored by a fellow Terra Linda student, Cordy White, in geometry.

Cordy puts a problem on a blackboard and tells Stommel what she has written. He tells her how to work it and she works it. Then, if it is correct, Cordy writes the finished problem on notebook paper for Stommel.

"He can real the letters like angle ABC," Cordy said. "He'll tell me, 'Well, that's how you do it. You use this theorem and this assumption or corollary."

Stommel relaxes at home. "I really groove music, especially Simon and Garfunkel." He also likes talking books and says that one of the books he has liked best is "Don Quixote."

"It really turned me on — not because of the violence but the philosophy behind it was something terrific."

Stommel despises television "because it doesn't have anything intellectual," he said.

He has been "going, going, going" lately, having attended the senior ball and been involved with the Terra Linda youth group and a group leader in the recent youth-adult dialect at Miller Creek Junior High School.

In addition, the youth said he is always trying to aid people in their search for growth. "Taking risks with people will make you grow," he claims.

His "risk" philosophy is tied in with his idea of wanting to let people grow in their own way. "I want to help people to help themselves," he said.

What does he tell people to make them take a risk? Stommel replied, "I take a risk whenever I tell somebody what they are not willing to hear but they know is true about them."

The student last week received permission to be graduated, although he has yet to do his government course this summer.

Tiburon Councilman's Opinion Misquoted

Anne L. Ellinwood, representing the Tiburon City Council to the Association of Bay Area Governments, voted against the ABAG regional government proposal Wednesday night because she "fundamentally can't buy" a governing board without some representatives being elected.

An error in yesterday's Independent-Journal changed the meaning of Mrs. Ellinwood's reason by saying "with" rather than "without."

OVERPASS IN MAKING — A workman nears completion of one of seven wood molds placed inside forms for abutments for the 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 to link Lincoln Avenue and Coleman School in San Rafael. Concrete, poured into form and against ribs, will be chipped off for a lace-like pattern when the project is completed. The tubular girder bridge is seen as a prototype for larger jobs.

A New Design In Overpasses

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Highway engineers, using a pioneering new design, are pushing toward completion of a 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 that will link Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.

The $140,000 concrete and steel bridge, scheduled for completion in the second week of July, is to be the first tubular girder bridge anywhere in the U.S., the state Division of Highways reported.

Two welded steel tubes, 92 feet and 106 feet long, and each 48 inches in diameter, have been topped by lightweight concrete and stood last week on the west side of the freeway, waiting to be hoisted into place.

The west side abutment has been poured and workmen last week began clearing the area where the east abutment will stand. Each of the abutments has been designed with "fractured rib texture" arches, which will give a laced effect when completed. The effect is obtained by chipping concrete poured into a ribbed wood mold.

The bridge is to be supported from the highway's center divider by a tapered steel column.

Two 100-ton cranes will be used to lift the 67-ton girder sections into place when the two abutments are completed. The hoisting will be scheduled during the night, when traffic is lighter, reported engineer Robert Sitzman.

The Division of Highways designed the tubular girder bridge as a prototype for development of techniques in larger jobs in the future.

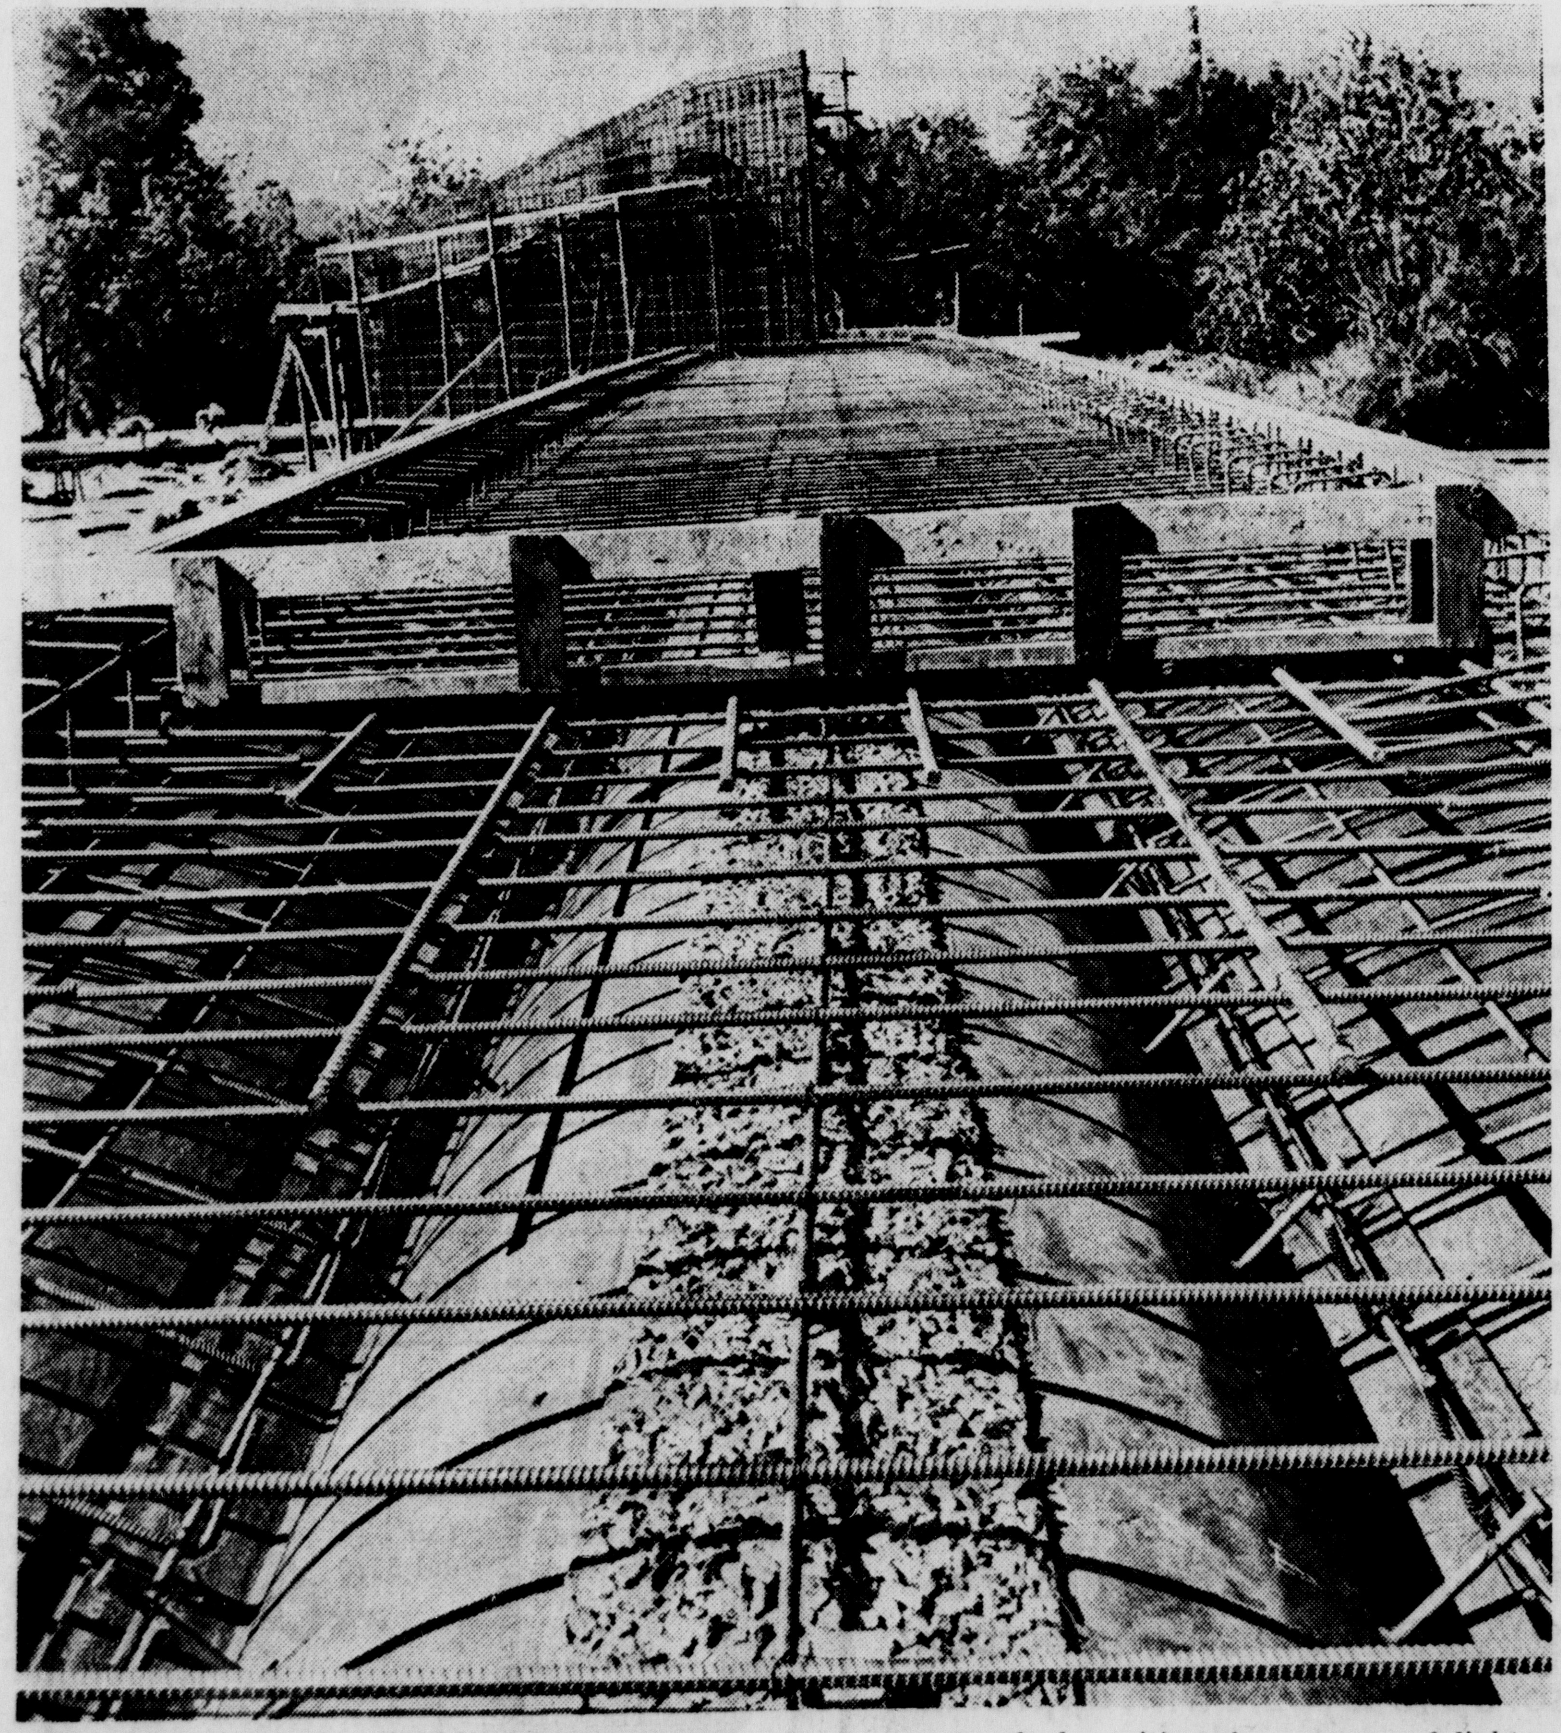
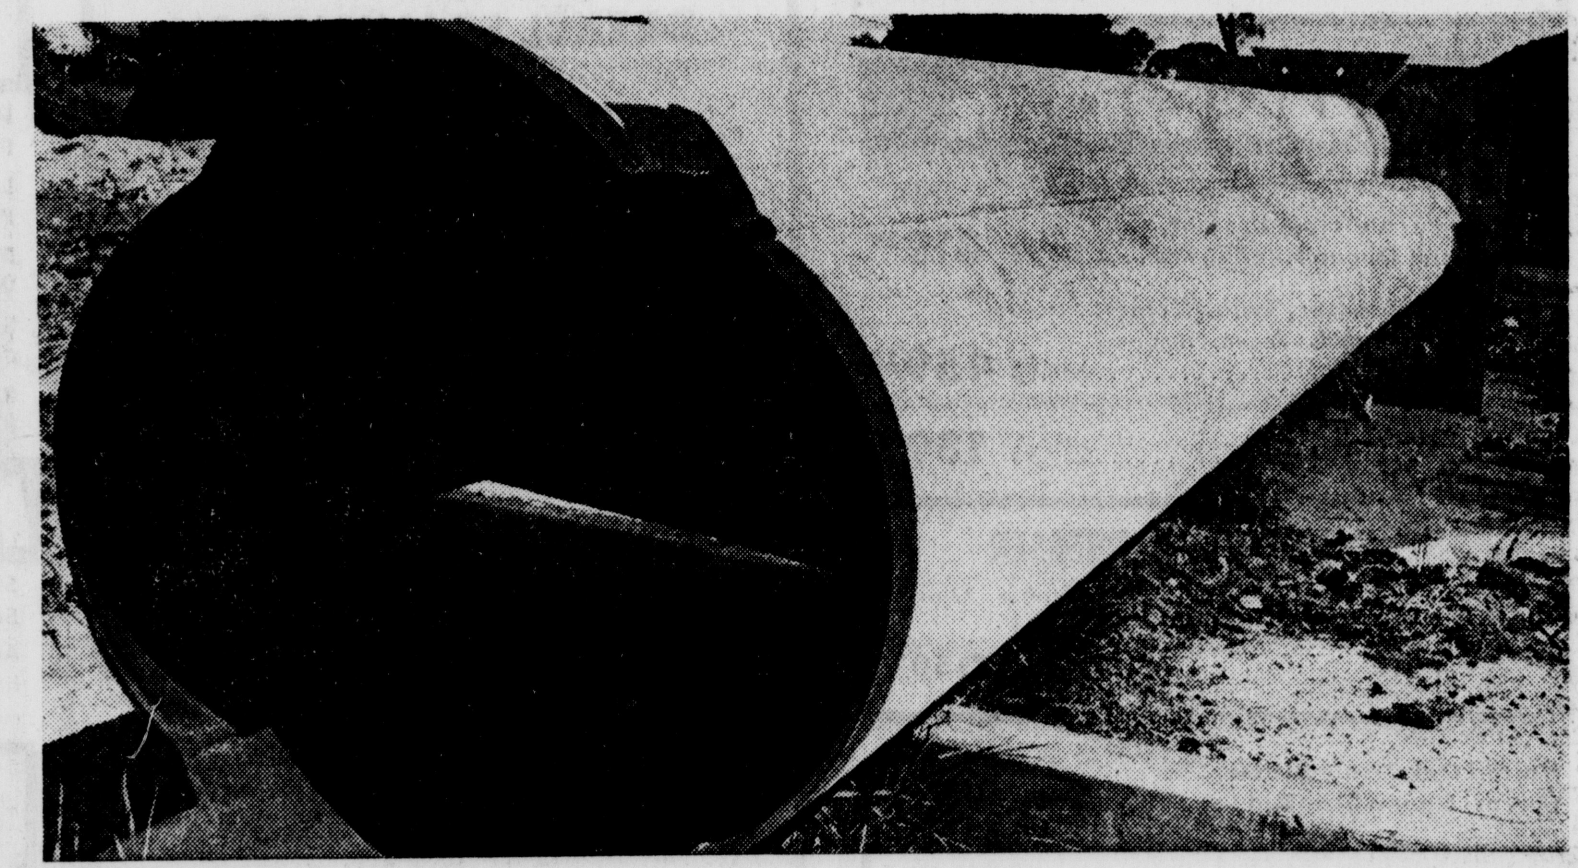
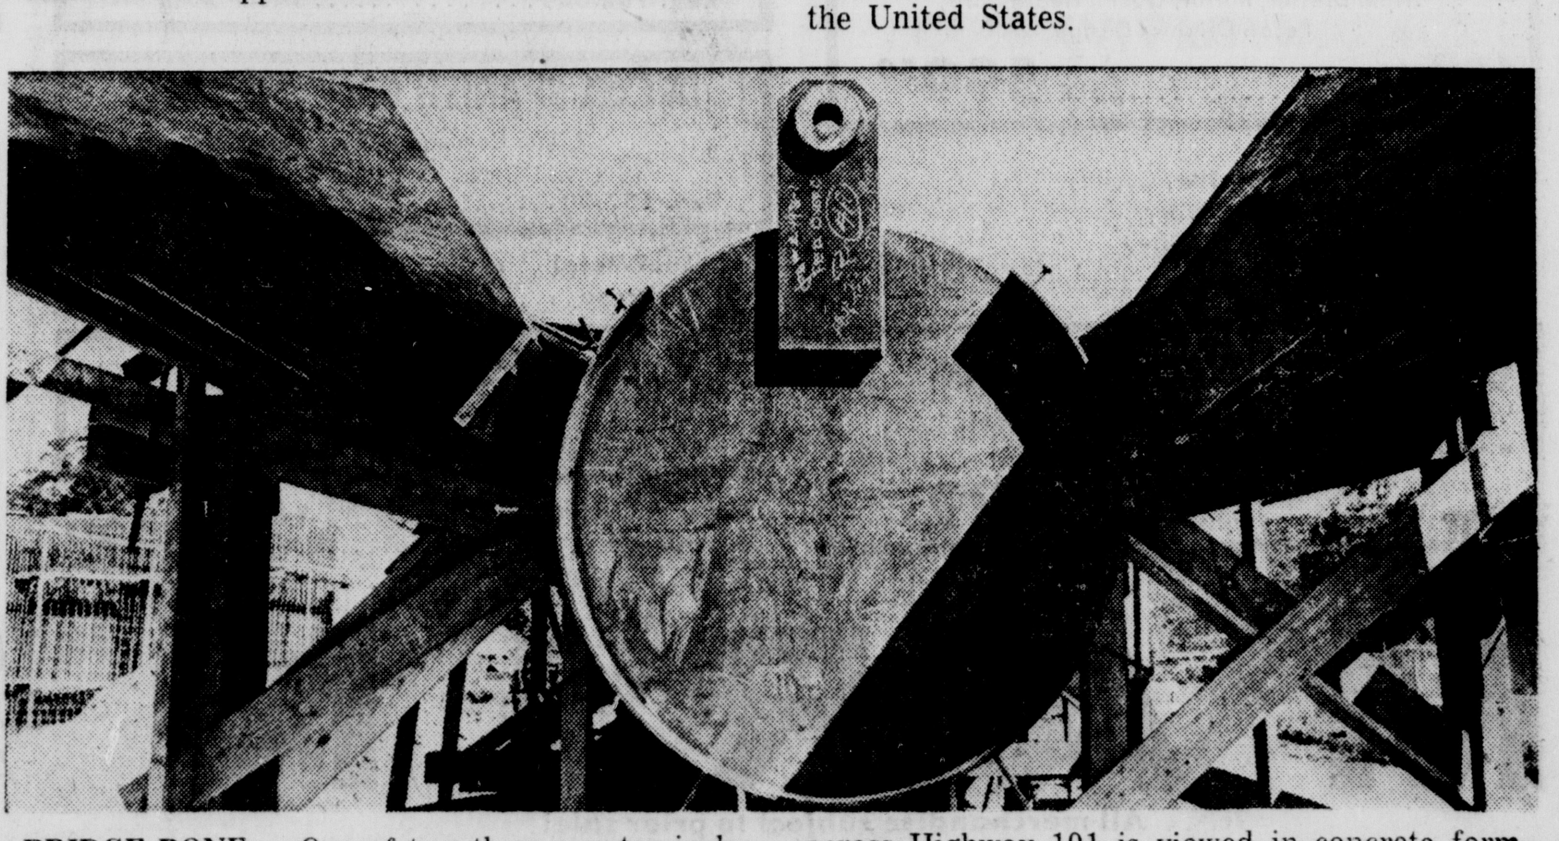
PROTOTYPE — Workmen prepare steel reinforcing on tubular girder under construction on west side of Highway 101 opposite Coleman School. Bonded aggregate spread across the top of the girder prior to pouring concrete aids adherence of concrete to the steel.



STEEL SKELETON — The innards of one of two tubular girder sections that will span Highway 101 stood naked awaiting the pouring of lightweight concrete for the walkway linking Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.



CLOVERLEAF — In cross-section this steel column has the appearance of a hollow cloverleaf. It will be placed on the center divider to support first tubular girder bridge ever constructed in the United States.



BRIDGE BONE — One of two three-quarter inch thick tubular steel girders that will be stretched across Highway 101 is viewed in concrete form from one end. The tube is hollow.

ONCE UPON A TIME—Old Central School, as it appeared at the turn of the century, when Hartland D. Goldthwaite was a boy, occupied the site of the present school.

He Recalls Sausalito's Early Days

By ALAN JONES

At the turn of the century, the streets of sleepy Sausalito weren't paved — instead, they were watered down with salt watetr from a horse-drawn tank wagon.

The brine hardened the dirt into a solid surface and kept down the dust according to a now-retired Southern Californian who grew up in Sausalito.

The town had about 3,000 people then, Hartland D. Goldthwaite recalled, and served among other things as a gambling mecca for San Franciscans.

"They used to come to Sausalito to bet on the races," Goldthwaite said, as the town was run with a loose tether.

Goldthwaite, now of Santa Ana, is a retired Salvation Army brigadier who was commissioned 46 years ago — his anniversary was Tuesday. He spend most of his career in San Francisco, in the training center for Salvation Army officers.

He was born in Alameda but crossed the San Francisco Bay to Sausalito in 1897 when he was eight years old. His father was chief engineer for the Sausalito Electric Light Co., he said, and wired most of the houses in town.

Goldthwaite graduated from Old Central School (on the same site as today's building), and attended Tamalpais High School for two years soon after it opened.

After school, he worked as a printer's devil on the old Sausalito News—for $3 a week.

Later, he commuted by ferry to San Francisco, where he was a clerk for a steamship line. He moved to San Francisco in 1912, and after an Army hitch during World War I got the call to join the Salvation Army.

Goldthwaite this week brought some old photographs to the Independent-Journal office, including one from about 1900 showing the Norwegian ship Ajoa, which had sailed through the long-sought Northwest Passage to the Pacific. "I remember seeing her tied up at Sausalito," he said.

Sausalito had several ferry landings, and also served as winter anchorage for Coast Guard cutters which plied Alaskan waters — the Bear, the Manning and the McCullough.

The McCullough, he said, was the dispatch boat in Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila, and steamed to China after the battle of Manila Bay to cable news to the states of Dewey's victory over the Spanish.

Goldthwaite said he also rode the Sausalito-Mill Valley rail line, and the Mount Tamalpais Railway which was a great tourist attraction.

A brother-in-law named Ross Makin, Goldthwaite said, was a railroad engineer on the old North Shore Railroad, and drove the first train into El Portal station at Yosemite when the park was opened to rails. The Makin family was from the Ross-San Anselmo area and Makin Grade in Ross may be named for the family.

Goldthwaite, who appeared in robust health despite his 80 years, said he has kept an interest in newspapers since his early days as a printer's devil. In retirement, he is now editor of the Leaguer, a monthly journal for the Salvation Army retired officers organization.

He said he still considers Sausalito a second home and one of the most beautiful places in the world — even more so than in his youth, he said, because the trees that cover the hills have grown so much since 60 years ago.

Second Bomb Call Empties School

Students at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito stood out in the fog yesterday for 45 minutes while Sausalito police and firemen searched the school for a bomb in the second such scare in less than a month.

Sausalito police said a school secretary reported a young boy had called at 11:10 saying a bomb was due to explode at 11 a.m. No bomb was discovered during the search.

Since the search continued into the lunch hour, students did not return to class until 1 p.m.

The first bomb hoax was May 24.

Carrier's Skipper Recites How Fatal Crash Happened

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — The commander of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne testified today that the collision between his ship and the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans might have been avoided but the Evans turned into the Melbourne after the carrier changed course.

Capt. J. P. Stevenson said that if the Evans had stayed on a steady course, the Melbourne might have only brushed her.

Instead the Evans was sliced in two and 74 of her crewmen were lost.

Stevenson, 47, told the joint U.S.-Australian board investigating the disaster he was watching the Evans, from his bridge before dawn on June 3 and saw her come to a collision course.

"I swore at him," Stevenson said, then dispatched a warning to the Evans that they were on a collision course.

The captain said he observed no change in the Evans' course as it neared to about 2,500 yards —"Things happened very quickly."

He said the ships continued on the crash course and the chances of a safe passing seemed "very faint. No chance in the world." He said the destroyer's lights were not on, and "the only chance" was the carrier to swing one way or the other. He swung his ship left, and signaled the Evans.

"If Evans had stayed on a steady course my aerials might have clipped her," he testified. But he said the Evans spun very quickly right and his ship rammed the destroyer.

Earlier in his testimony, Stevenson said he had cautioned the destroyer commanders verbally and in writing before the fleet sailed from Manila.

OVERPASS IN MAKING — A workman nears completion of one of seven wood molds placed inside forms for abutments for the 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 to link Lincoln Avenue and Coleman School in San Rafael. Concrete, poured into form and against ribs, will be chipped off for a lace-like pattern when the project is completed. The tubular girder bridge is seen as a prototype for larger jobs.

A New Design In Overpasses

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Highway engineers, using a pioneering new design, are pushing toward completion of a 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 that will link Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.

The $140,000 concrete and steel bridge, scheduled for completion in the second week of July, is to be the first tubular girder bridge anywhere in the U.S., the state Division of Highways reported.

Two welded steel tubes, 92 feet and 106 feet long, and each 48 inches in diameter, have been topped by lightweight concrete and stood last week on the west side of the freeway, waiting to be hoisted into place.

The west side abutment has been poured and workmen last week began clearing the area where the east abutment will stand. Each of the abutments has been designed with "fractured rib texture" arches, which will give a laced effect when completed. The effect is obtained by chipping concrete poured into a ribbed wood mold.

The bridge is to be supported from the highway's center divider by a tapered steel column.

Two 100-ton cranes will be used to lift the 67-ton girder sections into place when the two abutments are completed. The hoisting will be scheduled during the night, when traffic is lighter, reported engineer Robert Sitzman.

The Division of Highways designed the tubular girder bridge as a prototype for development of techniques in larger jobs in the future.

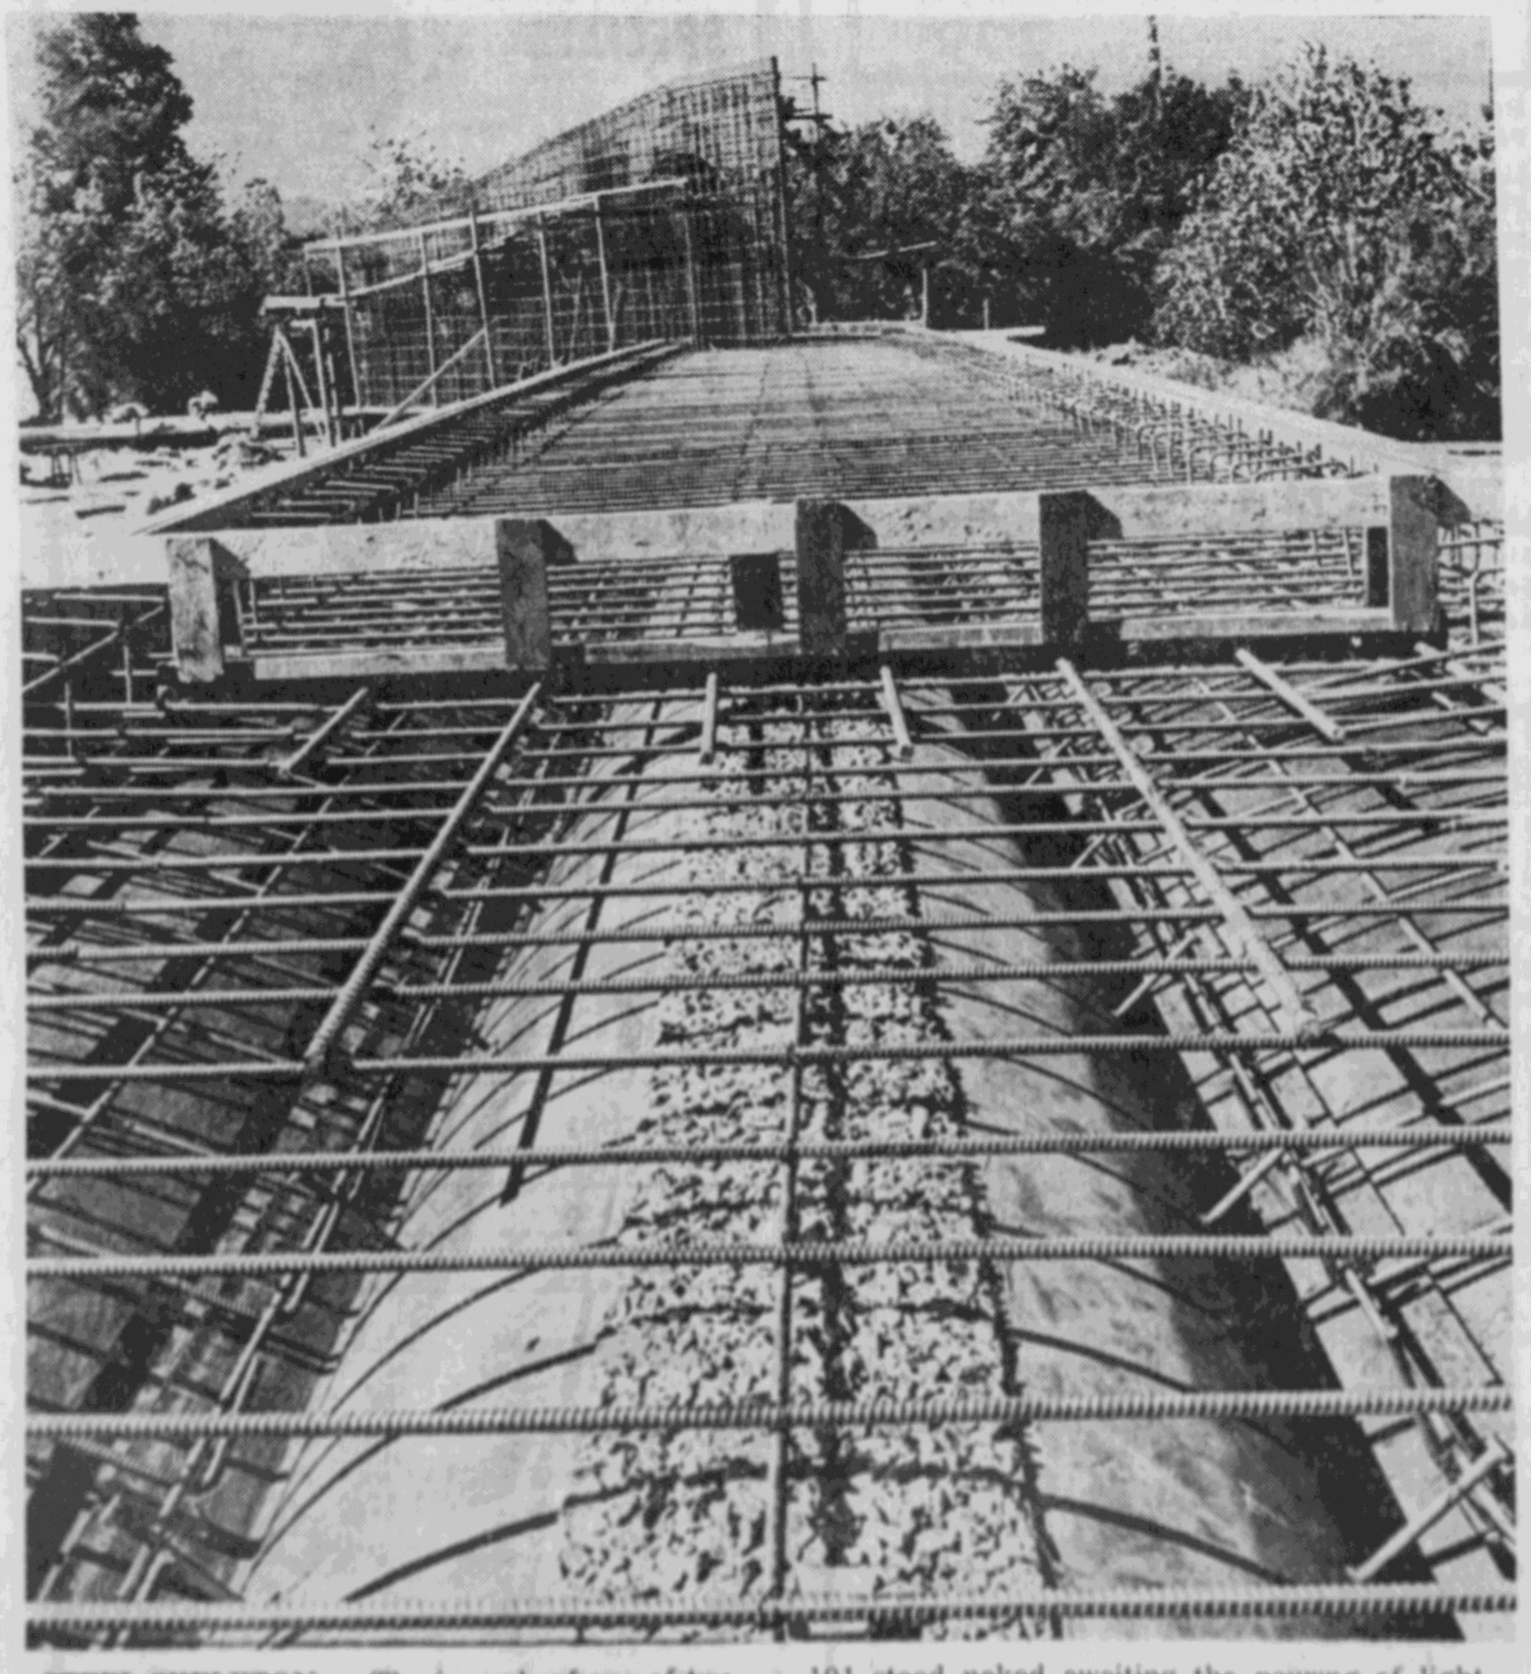
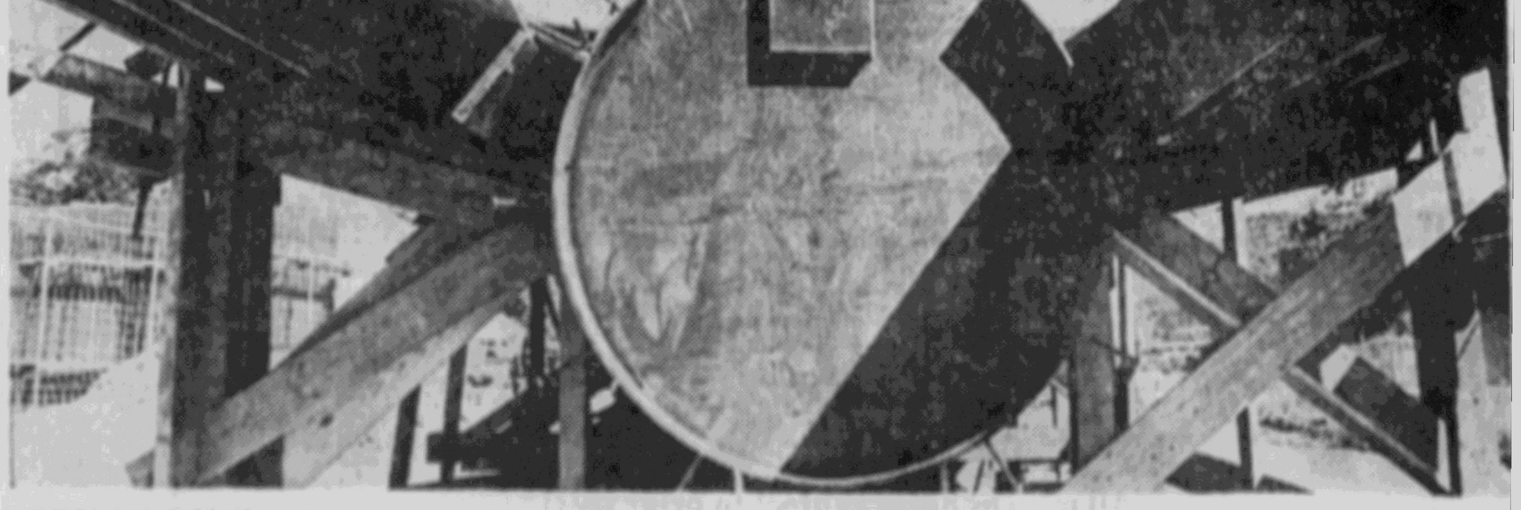
PROTOTYPE — Workmen prepare steel reinforcing on tubular girder under construction on west side of Highway 101 opposite Coleman School. Bonded aggregate spread across the top of the girder prior to pouring concrete aids adherence of concrete to the steel.



STEEL SKELETON — The innards of one of two tubular girder sections that will span Highway 101 stood naked awaiting the pouring of lightweight concrete for the walkway linking Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.

CLOVERLEAF — In cross-section this steel column has the appearance of a hollow cloverleaf. It will be placed on the center divider to support first tubular girder bridge ever constructed in the United States.



BRIDGE BONE — One of two three-quarter inch thick tubular steel girders that will be stretched across Highway 101 is viewed in concrete form from one end. The tube is hollow.

Sausalito Soon Will Boast Another Dinning Place On Restaurant Row

Sausalito soon will have a new restaurant.

The Deck House is due to open about July 4. It represents an accomplishment of real estate developer Peter Wells in finally getting plans acceptable to the City of Sausalito for the remodeling and occupany of the old Purity building on the Bridgeway across from Princess Street. There will be shops on the ground floor.

The Deck House will occupy the upstairs portion of the building and will be operated by Robert C. Cranston of Sausalito. It has a fine view of the city, will seat about 70 and will have a cocktail lounge. Cranston has been in the restaurant and bar business on the San Francisco peninsula.

It will be primarily a steak and lobster house, with a salad bar. Lunches will be served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. (with fizz brunches those hours on Saturdays and Sundays) and dinners from 6 to 10 p.m. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, service will be extended to 11.

FURTHER ALONG the Bridgeway, I find that the Trident has reopened. Although all the remodeling has not yet been completed, the new look is something to behold, making much use of rustic and handworked wood.

Presently closed on Mondays (this may change next month) the Trident serves lunches and dinners the rest of the week and is open continuously from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. The menu has been expanded and gives extra emphasis to natural and organic foods in casseroles, soups, salads and health drinks.

Business here, I understand, has just about doubled, even though at this point entertainment has not yet been resumed. A grand opening is planned for next month.

ANOTHER CHANGE in Sausalito food spots involves the sale of Lucky Porky delicatessen at 707 Bridgeway by Maury and Sonja Singer to the World Wurst Sandwhich Shops headquartered in San Francisco. Myron Kaplan of Langsam Realty handled the transaction.

IT IS SO EASY to take for granted the little things in life without crediting them with their true measure — the laugh of a child, sunlight through the trees, the song of a bird, the warm smile of a friend.

I feel I must add to the long list of little things a dish that has no particular romance in its name, served at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa — chicken in the pot. Alongside steak and lobster, fettucini Alfredo, rack of lamb or roasted capon flambe on the West End menu, it is probably the most unglamorous sounding entree of all, but you are missing something indeed if you pass it by.

Some diners-out naturally avoid chicken of any kind in a resturant because it's usually a true test of proper knife and fork manipulation and not relaxing to eat in public. But chicken in the pot as prepared by West End chef Camille Bamatter will give you no trouble at all and is a delight to consume. Try it.

Bill and Adolph's is a favorite lunch spot of many San Rafael businessmen, and it's not unusual to spot many of them hiking down Fourth Street or Fifth Avenue from the central business section to Second and G. This, of course, has a salubrious effect to a person's well being, not to mention what it does to one's appetite.

Young Ron Bisson (Bill's son) who is an accomplished waiter at West End as well as the one responsible for most of the decorative touches here, now has his own business in San Francisco and apparently is making a go of it. It's called the Bizarre Bazaar at 3423 Balboa Street. Mainly it's a floral shop, but Ron also handles gifts and candles. His floral pieces are much in demand.

FATHER'S DAY doesn't get the big play at the restaurants of Mother's Day in May.

But there is some observance, after all Dad usually foots the dining out bill for the rest of the year. Franchini's Chateau which generally makes the most of these special days, expects increased attendance this Sunday, and suggests reservations in advance. Regular breakfast and dinner menu will be served Sunday.

JEAN DOBSON at Jean's Kitchen in Ross is giving Father's Day special treatment. She is offering the same prime rib dinner with homemade pie she turned out on Mother's Day at $6.50 for two, along with a cigar for Dad. Dinners start at 3 p.m.

LA PETITE AUBERGE co-owner Pierre Grigaut is back from France. He no sooner returned than his partner took off in the same direction.

But Paul Devaux and his wife Renee seem to have encountered the same problem as other vactioners in France — poor weather. Remember, if it continues cloudy here it's raining there.

ANJO'S at 535 Fourth Street, San Rafael is now offering two specials, changed daily, for both lunches and dinners.

Lunch items will vary in price but nightly specials are designed for a price of $3.50 for complete family dinner, including a small bottle of house wine. Tonight's specials are roast beef and chicken cacciatora.

WHO SAID there are no Italian restaurants left in Marin?

Many of them have gone modern, but at such places and Anjo's, Fabbri's, La Casa and Romulus in San Rafael; La Ginestra in Mill Valley; Deer Park Villa and Enrico's in Fairfax; and Galli's and Camilio's in Northern Marin you can still find most of those Italian dishes you like so well.

And if you haven't noticed, Franchini's Chateau, Bill and Adolph's West End Villa San Rafael Joe's, Marin Joe's, Rancho Nicasio and Spiros' Red Vest give varying degrees of Italian representation on their menus.

LOOK FOR MORE H. Salt Fish and Chips shops to be established in this area. Five new corporations have been formed for outlets in Petaluma, Davis, San Anselmo, Novato and Rancho Cordova. It wouldn't do for Haddon Salt to keep introducing them all over the world and neglect the territory he started in.

ALSO IT APPEARS there may be another Denny's Restaurant for Marin — this one on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. Plans have been prepared for the Corte Madera Planning Commission.

IT'S POSSIBLE a franchised Jumpin' Bean Restaurant may also turn up in Marin. The regional franchise office of the chain will soon move to 35 Mitchell Boulevard at Northgate Industrial Park, where manager Jim Egide has leased space through William W. Hoey and Co. This is a removal of the office from Richmond. Egide is a resident of Lucas Valley.

CONGRATULATIONS to Don Banks — operating under difficulties he has completed his first year at Houndstooth Inn at 10 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

Carrier's Skipper Recites How Fatal Crash Happened

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — The commander of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne testified today that the collision between his ship and the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans might have been avoided but the Evans turned into the Melbourne after the carrier changed course.

Capt. J. P. Stevenson said that if the Evans had stayed on a steady course, the Melbourne might have only brushed her.

Instead the Evans was sliced in two and 74 of her crewmen were lost.

Stevenson, 47, told the joint U.S.-Australian board investigating the disaster he was watching the Evans, from his bridge before dawn on June 3 and saw her come to a collision course.

"I swore at him," Stevenson said, then dispatched a warning to the Evans that they were on a collision course.

The captain said he observed no change in the Evans' course as it neared to about 2,500 yards —"Things happened very quickly."

He said the ships continued on the crash course and the chances of a safe passing seemed "very faint. No chance in the world." He said the destroyer's lights were not on, and "the only chance" was the carrier to swing one way or the other. He swung his ship left, and signaled the Evans.

"If Evans had stayed on a steady course my aerials might have clipped her," he testified. But he said the Evans spun very quickly right and his ship rammed the destroyer.

Earlier in his testimony, Stevenson said he had cautioned the destroyer commanders verbally and in writing before the fleet sailed from Manila.

He Recalls Sausalito's Early Days

By ALAN JONES

At the turn of the century, the streets of sleepy Sausalito weren't paved — instead, they were watered down with salt watetr from a horse-drawn tank wagon.

The brine hardened the dirt into a solid surface and kept down the dust according to a now-retired Southern Californian who grew up in Sausalito.

The town had about 3,000 people then, Hartland D. Goldthwaite recalled, and served among other things as a gambling mecca for San Franciscans.

"They used to come to Sausalito to bet on the races," Goldthwaite said, as the town was run with a loose tether.

Goldthwaite, now of Santa Ana, is a retired Salvation Army brigadier who was commissioned 46 years ago — his anniversary was Tuesday. He spend most of his career in San Francisco, in the training center for Salvation Army officers.

He was born in Alameda but crossed the San Francisco Bay to Sausalito in 1897 when he was eight years old. His father was chief engineer for the Sausalito Electric Light Co., he said, and wired most of the houses in town.

Goldthwaite graduated from Old Central School (on the same site as today's building), and attended Tamalpais High School for two years soon after it opened.

After school, he worked as a printer's devil on the old Sausalito News—for $3 a week.

Later, he commuted by ferry to San Francisco, where he was a clerk for a steamship line. He moved to San Francisco in 1912, and after an Army hitch during World War I got the call to join the Salvation Army.

Goldthwaite this week brought some old photographs to the Independent-Journal office, including one from about 1900 showing the Norwegian ship Ajoa, which had sailed through the long-sought Northwest Passage to the Pacific. "I remember seeing her tied up at Sausalito," he said.

Sausalito had several ferry landings, and also served as winter anchorage for Coast Guard cutters which plied Alaskan waters — the Bear, the Manning and the McCullough.

The McCullough, he said, was the dispatch boat in Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila, and steamed to China after the battle of Manila Bay to cable news to the states of Dewey's victory over the Spanish.

Goldthwaite said he also rode the Sausalito-Mill Valley rail line, and the Mount Tamalpais Railway which was a great tourist attraction.

A brother-in-law named Ross Makin, Goldthwaite said, was a railroad engineer on the old North Shore Railroad, and drove the first train into El Portal station at Yosemite when the park was opened to rails. The Makin family was from the Ross-San Anselmo area and Makin Grade in Ross may be named for the family.

Goldthwaite, who appeared in robust health despite his 80 years, said he has kept an interest in newspapers since his early days as a printer's devil. In retirement, he is now editor of the Leaguer, a monthly journal for the Salvation Army retired officers organization.

He said he still considers Sausalito a second home and one of the most beautiful places in the world — even more so than in his youth, he said, because the trees that cover the hills have grown so much since 60 years ago.

Second Bomb Call Empties School

Students at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito stood out in the fog yesterday for 45 minutes while Sausalito police and firemen searched the school for a bomb in the second such scare in less than a month.

Sausalito police said a school secretary reported a young boy had called at 11:10 saying a bomb was due to explode at 11 a.m. No bomb was discovered during the search.

Since the search continued into the lunch hour, students did not return to class until 1 p.m.

The first bomb hoax was May 24.

La Brea Bones Push Back Age Of Californians

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Saw cuts made with a primitive stone tool on animal bones 15,000 years old may prove to be the oldest evidence of man yet found in the Western Hemisphere.

Marks on them were analyzed as saw cuts in a study over the past three years by George Miller, paleontologist of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History.

Miller said in an interview yesterday microscopic examination proved the cuts were made in bones of animals that had died only shortly before. He said the cuts were as old as the bones themselves and were not made by men who came to this area later. The age of the bones was established earlier by carbon radioactivity tests.

APPOINTED—Roger R. Olmsted of Kentfield has been appointed curator of the history division of the new Oakland Museum. Olmsted, a former editor of The American West, has written two books and many articles in historical and maritime publications.

U. S. church membership is 123 million.

Woodacre Sets Swim Training

Swimming classes will start at the Woodacre Improvement Club pool Monday and continue for two weeks.

Classes for those at least six years of age will be from 9 a.m. to noon, a housewives' class will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. and a life saving course will be conducted from 7 to 9 p.m.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Donald Pederson, Oak Grove Avenue and Garden Way, Woodacre.

Switchboard To Cut Hours Temporarily

Switchboard of Marin, a 24-hour telephone information service, will close at midnight today until the third week in July to reorganize and expand its services for the summer, director Guy Bacheli has announced.

College students will be trained to direct long-range fund raising and reference programs in an effort to improve services to Marin County.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Sausalito Soon Will Boast Another Dinning Place On Restaurant Row

Sausalito soon will have a new restaurant.

The Deck House is due to open about July 4. It represents an accomplishment of real estate developer Peter Wells in finally getting plans acceptable to the City of Sausalito for the remodeling and occupany of the old Purity building on the Bridgeway across from Princess Street. There will be shops on the ground floor.

The Deck House will occupy the upstairs portion of the building and will be operated by Robert C. Cranston of Sausalito. It has a fine view of the city, will seat about 70 and will have a cocktail lounge. Cranston has been in the restaurant and bar business on the San Francisco peninsula.

It will be primarily a steak and lobster house, with a salad bar. Lunches will be served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. (with fizz brunches those hours on Saturdays and Sundays) and dinners from 6 to 10 p.m. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, service will be extended to 11.

FURTHER ALONG the Bridgeway, I find that the Trident has reopened. Although all the remodeling has not yet been completed, the new look is something to behold, making much use of rustic and handworked wood.

Presently closed on Mondays (this may change next month) the Trident serves lunches and dinners the rest of the week and is open continuously from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. The menu has been expanded and gives extra emphasis to natural and organic foods in casseroles, soups, salads and health drinks.

Business here, I understand, has just about doubled, even though at this point entertainment has not yet been resumed. A grand opening is planned for next month.

ANOTHER CHANGE in Sausalito food spots involves the sale of Lucky Porky delicatessen at 707 Bridgeway by Maury and Sonja Singer to the World Wurst Sandwhich Shops headquartered in San Francisco. Myron Kaplan of Langsam Realty handled the transaction.

IT IS SO EASY to take for granted the little things in life without crediting them with their true measure — the laugh of a child, sunlight through the trees, the song of a bird, the warm smile of a friend.

I feel I must add to the long list of little things a dish that has no particular romance in its name, served at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa — chicken in the pot. Alongside steak and lobster, fettucini Alfredo, rack of lamb or roasted capon flambe on the West End menu, it is probably the most unglamorous sounding entree of all, but you are missing something indeed if you pass it by.

Some diners-out naturally avoid chicken of any kind in a resturant because it's usually a true test of proper knife and fork manipulation and not relaxing to eat in public. But chicken in the pot as prepared by West End chef Camille Bamatter will give you no trouble at all and is a delight to consume. Try it.

Bill and Adolph's is a favorite lunch spot of many San Rafael businessmen, and it's not unusual to spot many of them hiking down Fourth Street or Fifth Avenue from the central business section to Second and G. This, of course, has a salubrious effect to a person's well being, not to mention what it does to one's appetite.

Young Ron Bisson (Bill's son) who is an accomplished waiter at West End as well as the one responsible for most of the decorative touches here, now has his own business in San Francisco and apparently is making a go of it. It's called the Bizarre Bazaar at 3423 Balboa Street. Mainly it's a floral shop, but Ron also handles gifts and candles. His floral pieces are much in demand.

FATHER'S DAY doesn't get the big play at the restaurants of Mother's Day in May.

But there is some observance, after all Dad usually foots the dining out bill for the rest of the year. Franchini's Chateau which generally makes the most of these special days, expects increased attendance this Sunday, and suggests reservations in advance. Regular breakfast and dinner menu will be served Sunday.

JEAN DOBSON at Jean's Kitchen in Ross is giving Father's Day special treatment. She is offering the same prime rib dinner with homemade pie she turned out on Mother's Day at $6.50 for two, along with a cigar for Dad. Dinners start at 3 p.m.

LA PETITE AUBERGE co-owner Pierre Grigaut is back from France. He no sooner returned than his partner took off in the same direction.

But Paul Devaux and his wife Renee seem to have encountered the same problem as other vactioners in France — poor weather. Remember, if it continues cloudy here it's raining there.

ANJO'S at 535 Fourth Street, San Rafael is now offering two specials, changed daily, for both lunches and dinners.

Lunch items will vary in price but nightly specials are designed for a price of $3.50 for complete family dinner, including a small bottle of house wine. Tonight's specials are roast beef and chicken cacciatora.

WHO SAID there are no Italian restaurants left in Marin?

Many of them have gone modern, but at such places and Anjo's, Fabbri's, La Casa and Romulus in San Rafael; La Ginestra in Mill Valley; Deer Park Villa and Enrico's in Fairfax; and Galli's and Camilio's in Northern Marin you can still find most of those Italian dishes you like so well.

And if you haven't noticed, Franchini's Chateau, Bill and Adolph's West End Villa San Rafael Joe's, Marin Joe's, Rancho Nicasio and Spiros' Red Vest give varying degrees of Italian representation on their menus.

LOOK FOR MORE H. Salt Fish and Chips shops to be established in this area. Five new corporations have been formed for outlets in Petaluma, Davis, San Anselmo, Novato and Rancho Cordova. It wouldn't do for Haddon Salt to keep introducing them all over the world and neglect the territory he started in.

ALSO IT APPEARS there may be another Denny's Restaurant for Marin — this one on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. Plans have been prepared for the Corte Madera Planning Commission.

IT'S POSSIBLE a franchised Jumpin' Bean Restaurant may also turn up in Marin. The regional franchise office of the chain will soon move to 35 Mitchell Boulevard at Northgate Industrial Park, where manager Jim Egide has leased space through William W. Hoey and Co. This is a removal of the office from Richmond. Egide is a resident of Lucas Valley.

CONGRATULATIONS to Don Banks — operating under difficulties he has completed his first year at Houndstooth Inn at 10 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

$42,578 Worth Of Contracts Are Awarded

Contracts totaling $42,578 were awarded yesterday by the base procurement office at Hamilton Air Force Base.

R-E Corp. of Santa Rosa was given a $22,435 contract for alterations on the base operations building; Tuiton's Charter Service of Berkeley a $12,342 contract for bus transportation from Hamilton to Travis Air Force Base, and Schneider Brothers of San Francisco a $1,403 contract for inspection and service of government-owned food service equipment, all at Hamilton.

School Finance Turndowns —Another Look At Why

Three school finance measures have been turned down at the polls in Marin County this month.

Latest rejection was of a $2,100,000 San Rafael Elementary School District bond issue, voted down for the second time within four months. A week earlier, voters in Fairfax and Mill Valley Elementary School Districts voted down tax ceiling increases.

The story is not limited to Marin. If a school tax or bond issue has passed anywhere in California this spring, we have missed the report. They have gone down with monotonous and depressing regularity.

THERE ARE A COUPLE of pat explanations: (1) The people are fed up to the ears with high taxes; (2) the people are equally fed up with campus disorders, and take out on all schools their resentment of what has happened at University of California, San Francisco State College, etc.

Doubtless both explanations are true, but it is doubtful that they tell the whole story.

Some non-school bond issues have been passing. In Petaluma on the same day the San Rafael school bonds were rejected, a little issue for expanding police facilities squeaked by, and a larger one for a new firehouse fell only .9 of one per cent short.

Apparently, then, mere resistance to rising taxes does not account for all the school finance turndowns.

HOW ABOUT campus disorders? That they play their part is undeniable. Many people blame the public schools for turning out the violent anarchists who are wrecking the colleges.

These people, of course, overlook the vast majority of graduates of the public schools who are not anarchists, not criminals, not advocates of violence, but instead are working hard to get their education.

But there are circumstances which tend to confirm the belief that the school system is falling down on its share of the job of turning out good citizens.

Litter on campus tends to confirm it. Lack of discipline, lack of respect for authority tend to confirm it. And when school administrators glibly dismiss these matters as "beyond our control," the confirmation becomes rather complete.

OTHER THINGS, too, add to the resistance.

When teachers demand pay increases far beyond the rise in the cost of living, and reinforce their demands with threats to strike or to "impose sanctions" on the school district, they produce more "no" votes on school bonds and taxes.

When "confrontations," "happenings" and "sensitivity sessions" are substituted for instruction in the prescribed disciplines, they produce more "no" votes.

Taxes for police stations and firehouses hurt just as much as taxes for schools. But it would appear that the people have more confidence that the firemen and those much-damned "pigs," the police, are doing their job than that the schools are doing theirs.

Too Much Of A Good Thing

Everyone who was in Marin last winter to experience the exceptionally heavy rains seems to agree it is possible to get too much of a good thing.

Now, as a direct result of these rains, Marinites may well be faced with yet another example of too much of a good thing. We mean grass. Grass is really great stuff. It binds the soil to hillsides, preventing erosion. Its roots thrust deep into the earth and help loosen the ground and create new topsoil. Green grass on hillsides and meadows is very pretty to look at.

But this year's rains have made grass jungles of some Marin hillsides. Last week in Inverness we found a stalk of grass almost eight feet tall. As dry summer advances, followed by dry autumn, this grass will become veritable tinder waiting for a careless match, a cigarette, or firecracker to start a holocaust.

The sensible thing would be to cut and get rid of the grass before it becomes a fire hazard.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

What Are Duties Of Citizen? Senators Find Them Arguable

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Efforts of Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach (who is also a candidate for state attorney general) to instill in the minds of the citizenry a recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship ran into a snag on the Sanate floor early this week.

"The Duke's" bill, SB 1377, would require that a "statement of responsibilities" for citizens be included in every publication of the state and federal constitutions. The state prints such a volume each time either document is changed.

THE STATEMENT appeared innocuous enough until some of the senators started picking it to pieces. Then it engendered more than a half hour of debate in the middle of a heavy calendar containing 242 items for action. At one point. Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, arose to inquire what was the necessity for the bill anyhow.

Members of both parties jumped on Deukmejian for some of the wording in the statement of responsibilities.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said the wording was "offensive," in that he believed a citizen whould learn what his duties are "someplace other than at the knee of state government."

Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, then got into the act. He said one of the duties outlined, "to pursue, to the fullest extent possible, all educational opportunities available to him, and support efforts to extend educational opportunities," would possibly require citizens to vote for every school bond issue placed on any ballot. The implications are limitless, Schmitz said.

Another "duty" questioned by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, was "to expose, and seek to eliminate by peaceful, persistent means, all prejudice and discrimination."

Bradley said this would add fuel to the fires of dissent, rather than help eliminate it.

The bill never came to a vote.

Former Resident Acclaims 'No' Votes

Please congratulate the voters of your county on behalf of a former resident, for their no vote on an increase in school tax rates! Since school tax rates are based on the assessment of all property in the area, and the value increases annually due to new buildings and normal development in the real estate field, there is no legitimate reason to ask for more sacrifices on the part of property owners.

Marin schools, I regret to learn, have endorsed the new fad of "sensitivity training" and nudist retreats for teachers at "Eselen." This is supposed to be better for students than God.

Recently I handed the Eselen catalogue to two competent doctors, one a noted pediatrician, the other director of research at a famous medical school. The first said, "unscientific gobbledygook"; the other said, "a cruel hoax perpetrated on naive people." Have you ever examined this catalogue yourself? One of the courses offered is the "Death of God" philosophy, discredited several years ago, yet typical of the "opportunities" available to patrons.

Pledge Repetition Value Doubted

Bouquets to Richmond Young and the other Drake High students for their refreshing proposal to stustitute patriotic quotations for the Pledge of Allegiance as a "daily patriotic exercise." And brickbats to those members of the San Rafael Lions Club who were so horrified at the very idea! Rhinoceroses were never so hidebound. I would think there surely must have been some wiser responses than those quoted in the I-J. (June 5), which make the kids and the school administrator appear Socratic by comparison. . . .

In these turbulent times the good Lions are guarding the precious status quo, since there is, or has been, the best of all possible worlds. (For some.) In clinging to the security of tradition, even a self-defeating ritual must be maintained by them. . . .

The question to be answered is whether constant repetitions of something like a patriotic phrase leads to an increase in patriotic fervor . . . To resolve this question I would suggest that Mr. (Clifford S.) Lund and other like-minded Lions assemble their families before every meal and at bedtime and recite together the Pledge of Allegiance. (If once a day is good, then four times should be better). In 12 (school) years we will expect a report as to whether these families are four times more patriotic.

View Of Picnic Valley Dispute

As a Marin County resident and taxpayer for the last 17 years, and also as an investor at times in Marin County projects, I have been fascinated by the controversy between the city council, the petitioners of Picnic Valley, and a sincere and honest group of investors attempting to improve an area of undeveloped San Rafael.

In regards to the petitioners, they have every right to state their views before the city council, and in turn the city council has every right to grant a petition.

But in this case, where were the petitioners back in 1959, 1962, 1964, 1965, 1967, and 1968?

These petitioners, now so deeply concerned, were advised on the above dates that multi-building projects had been approved by the Planning Commission of San Rafael; why were they not cnocerned then? . . .

A better term could not have been used. It is the proper terminology that can be applied to the entire county government for the past 20 years. There has been too much listening to the "whims" of small groups within the County of Marin, resulting in the separation of the county from the rest of the Bay Area Counties in the overall growth of the region. The desire to preserve the quaint woodsy effect of 19th century living in Marin County by certain groups, has divorced the county from enlightened progres. . . .

Theater Practices Annoy Mother

I'm wondering how many others besides myself are disgusted with the lack of consideration our Marin County movie theaters have for the residents of Marin. How many of your readers are angered at such practices as these?

1. Showing a movie rated G with a movie rated M or R, as happened recently at the Rafael Theater with the movie "African Safari." (I wonder what the reaction from the management would be if we demanded half of our money back when the second picture appeared on the screen with an M or R rating.)

2. Allowing such a movie as "African Safari" to remain only a week, giving young people only one week end to see it. (How many of you have waited for months for a worthwhile movie to take your kids to?)

3. Running 10 and 15-year-old short subjects and cartoons while film festival winners pass us by. . . .

And finally the exclusion of the needs of our young people in the poor selecting of films to be shown in a given period of time at all the theaters.

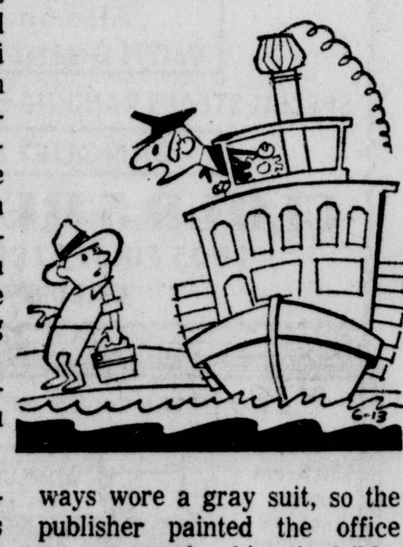
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

NAVIGATING a river with so many shoals, shallows, and mudbanks as the Mississippi presents problems with which most skippers need not contend. In the days of paddlewheelers, for instance, one captain, picking his way from Cincinnati to Natchez, was attempting to scrape over a treacherous sand bar when he saw a man on the bank filling a pail with water.

"Hey, you scoundrel," shouted the alarmed captain. "You put that water back!"



TODAY WHEN a big magazine goes out of business, it's front page news, but in the depression days so many periodicals folded that their passing often went unnoticed entirely — except by the creditors. A contributor insists that one of these fly-by-night operations employed a treasurer who always wore a gray suit, so the publisher painted the office gray to make him invisible. Creditors lined up in the reception room would see a red spot moving rapidly along the wall, and by the time they realized it was the treasurer's ruddy face, he was ten blocks away.

Congress Takes Wrong Approach In Attempt To Regain Power

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Congress had good reason to set out to recover the initiative and power it has lost to activist presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Lyndon Johnson.

But it's going about it in the wrong way.

Congress can't recapture power by passing resolutions to try to reduce the President's power. It can recapture it only by exercising more efficiently and more effectively the authority it possesses.

SEN. J. W. FULBRIGHT'S resolution is a vivid example of how not to do it. It comes at the very moment when Congress has so many opportunities to do it right.

Let's look briefly at how not to do it and then at one way in which in a single stroke Congress could reclaim leadership and power where it is most needed.

The Fulbright resolution is designed to dilute the President's constitutional powers in foreign affairs and to prevent him from using them without prior consent by Congress, even when instant initiative is needed.

Wrong in purpose, wrong in method, harmful in effect.

The Fulbright resolution can't amend the Constitution, but the effect would be to cast doubt, in the minds of enemy and ally alike, about the President's authority to speak and act for the United States in foreign relations.

BUT THINK of what Congress could do positively in the whole range of defense spending and domestic priorities if it would organize itself to use the vast and decisive powers it does possess — and this without trying to hamstring the President.

Congress is now picking at the defense budget instead of appraising it as a whole.

It is now taking hold of the small end of the stick — in the ABM dispute — instead of examining the whole of defense spending to see where or whether Safeguard fits in.

Thus far, Congress has only been talking about the symptoms of the military budget, but at no point has it fully examined the causes to see what can and should be done.

THE REASON Congress is nearly impotent to do this is that it has not given itself the means — in organization, staff and resources — to do the job.

A total review of the interrelationship of foreign policy, security commitments and defense spending is imperative.

But Congress has simply never equipped itself for this kind of review.

More than 20 years ago Congress gave the executive branch the mechanism to relate continuously total foreign policy to total domestic policy. It created the National Security Council which enables the President to examine not just the pieces but the whole mosaic of foreign and domestic policy as it bears on security.

Congress has no comparable instrument, and this is why Congress loses so much initiative to the President. It fails to discharge its own responsibilities adequately.

Instead of picking at particular weapons expenditures (that can come later), Congress should be making its own independent and coordinated review of (1) all foreign commitments, (2) contingenciers which can develop from our commitments, (3) U.S. forces needed to meet the contingencies, and (4) the kind and amount of weapons meeded for these forces.

When it does this, Congress will be exercising its power to perform its duty instead of trying to trim the President's power to do his.

German Border Question Getting New Attention

By PHIL NEWSOM

In March, 1968, West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt broke a 19-year-old political taboo by telling Germans they must recognize the Oder-Neisse line as Germany's eastern border with Poland.

It was the first time a member of the West German government had acknowledged the line which was drawn up by the allies fighting Hitler and gave large areas of eastern Germany to Poland.

On May 17 of this year, Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka offered to sign a treaty with West Germany recognizing the border.

Since that time, Polish leaders even have been finding some good things to say about West Germany, thus raising limited hopes for a thaw in Warsaw-Bonn relations which currently are about the worst in Europe.

In making his carefully hedged-about offer, Gomulka had three motives—geographic, political and economic.

Geographically, the Poles fear the rising strength of the West German republic and fear also that an eventually reunited Germany will emerge as the dominating economic and political force of western Europe. Therefore, they want the border question settled as quickly as possible.

The Poles definitely prefer Willy Brandt's Socialists to Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and the Germans have general elections coming up in September.

THE WARSAW newspaper Slowo Powezechne made this interest clear.

Gomulka made his offer, according to the newspaper, because "we think that the recognition of the Oder Neisse frontier represents a fundamental point of departure for appeasement of the German factor in Europe.

"We thus wish to make it easier for West Germany to join in the peace in Eruope, beginning with the most obvious realities (A word also used by Brandt) of modern times."

Since the Christian Democrats have been lukewarm at best in their approach to the Oder Neisse question, the remark seemed an obvious plug for the Socialists in the coming elections.

BOTH SIDES hedge their offers with conditions. Gomulka said agreement must include recognition of East Germany and German signature to the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons treaty.

Germany declares any final agreement must rest upon reunification.

Exerting more immediate pressure on the Poles is the state of their economy. Exports are falling and the Polish press and leaders complain openly of shoddy goods, obsolete machinery and an increasing deficit in hard currency.

The West Germans could supply both know-how and money.

Among the western allies, only France recognizes the Oder-Neisse line as permanent. A settlement of the dispute could go a long way toward defusing the European time bomb.

La Brea Bones Push Back Age Of Californians

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Saw cuts made with a primitive stone tool on animal bones 15,000 years old may prove to be the oldest evidence of man yet found in the Western Hemisphere.

Marks on them were analyzed as saw cuts in a study over the past three years by George Miller, paleontologist of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History.

Miller said in an interview yesterday microscopic examination proved the cuts were made in bones of animals that had died only shortly before. He said the cuts were as old as the bones themselves and were not made by men who came to this area later. The age of the bones was established earlier by carbon radioactivity tests.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By ALAN JONES

Priority Assignments May Get Strange At Budget Time

No one envies the Marin County supervisors, or any other elected body, the brain-bending they must undergo at budget time. Once the finite purse is linked to the infinite spending possibilities, the supervisors must make an endless series of decisions about priorities.

But from the point of view of some in Southern Marin, the board has shown a very strange sense of what is and is not urgent.

The board knocked out a $43,000 appropriation to the Sausalito School District, which was sought to make up for taxes not received from public housing in Marin City. The county created the public housing, but the Sausalito schools have the burden of educating the children there.

The board also rejected addition of $15,000 to the Economic Opportunity Council budget for administrative costs of a proposed program offering free pediatric care in Marin City. In so doing, they negated an offer by five pediatricians to donate time estimated at $200,000 to improve children's health.

And the board authorized $25,000 for a bicycle trail from Golden Gate Bridge to Sausalito.

Bicycle trails are a good thing, no doubt. Even though many who have produced such a well-orchestrated outcry for them may never get around to actually using them.

But does anyone believe, or even pretend, that a bicycle trail is more important than children's health or education?

ONE OF MILL Valley's oldest and most famous dogs, Bingo, is looking for a home. Bingo, whom someone named the Bernard Baruch of Mill Valley dogdom, is 13, and he has been without a boss since his mistress, Lila Heffner, died last month.

Mrs. Norman Millar of 65 Sunnyside Avenue reports that Bingo understands everything except politics, and foiled an automatic laundry burglary awhile back with his fearsome barking.

SUPERVISOR Michael Wornum said in Tamalpais Valley not long ago that the county fire department is oriented toward fighting grass fires, not house fires.

If that's the case, why not start some sort of county-aided, community-sponsored volunteer fire department in Marin City? The Marin City fire station had one lone man on duty last month when a school fire broke out. Some skilled help from local people might have paid for itself in that incident alone.

If, as some believe, Marin City is going to incorporate eventually, the volunteers could form the nucleus of a municipal fire department. And for high school or college age youths, it sure beats hanging around on the corner.

WHILE MILL VALLEY is studying its Camino Alto-East Blithedale Avenue corner, it might consider one improvement that would cost about $10.95. Simply restripe Blithedale logically for traffic cominginto town from the freeway.

Right now, traffic going straight ahead or turning left toward Tamalpais High School must funnel into one lane as the cars race away from the Lomita Avenue corner. The right hand lane is marked for right turns only, putting the unwary motorist hellbent for Corte Madera over the hill.

Since 95 per cent of everybody uses the two left lanes, why not restripe them to eliminate the present rat-racing funnel system?

History Of Tamalpais Creek's Inclusion In Flood Control

Fusselman

One plus of having lived 50 years of adult life in one community is the opportunity of seeing and taking part in things as they happen. You can know about all six sides of the cube — six pictures, if you will.

Except for one huge barbecue held on the shore of Lake Washington at Seattle, when I was a 5-year-old, this style of cook-out had never caught on in the Pacific Northwest while I lived there. However, the first big outdoor barbecue in California that I had the pleasure of, left a vivid memory. It was here in Marin some 45 years ago at the Kent Estate, now Kent Woodlands.

It was a benefit affair held somewhere in the area of what is now Woodland Avenue and toward Murray Park. Army chow cups and plates had been borrowed from Fort Baker. Delicious lamb was served with the usual chili beans and so on. It was my first visit to the estate. The fields, sloping up to the wonderful hills studded with live oak and other trees, made a picture of unspoiled beauty. As I remember, the only buildings were the family home, the barns and other necessary structures needed to maintain such a spread. It was wide open space, uncluttered and serene.

LITTLE DID I imagine that, as the years went by, I would be a county supervisor, with this as a part of the district I would represent.

During the seven years prior to 1942, when I was first elected, I served as secretary-manager of Marvelous Marin and was called upon to help in any way possible by the man who managed the first subdivision there.

Then as supervisor, for 22 years, I was intimately concerned with the applications and plans submitted for subdivisions (about 19 now) showing the excavations for home sites and roads together with retaining walls to support the downhill sides of the cuts that were made, also the method and plans for drainage — culverts and such.

In some cases, the natural course of the drainage was changed so that building area could be developed.

ONE SUCH was the area westerly from Kent Avenue and northerly from Woodland and Goodhill Road. It was a swamp of fairly large size, covered with picturesque cattails — a nice rural picture, always a pleasure to see.

This was undoubtedly fed by what is now known as Tamalpais Creek. Some years ago it was filled by damning up the lower end and allowing the silt coming down from the hills, incident to the grading operations, to fill up the swamp. Later, heavy stabilizing material was added, and then the topsoil.

I WAS IMPORTUNED year after year to give the people some relief and I assured them that the Army Engineers had included Tamalpais Creek in their plans for handling the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, as they were doing with all other similar feeder creeks throughout Ross Valley. This inclusion I know to be true.

By-the-way: Regarding Bill Gnoss's remark that the county had to pay damages for the one week stoppage during construction of the administration building at the Civic Center — Bill had better do some more home work. That didn't cost the taxpayers a dime.

$33 Million Is Asked To Expand Airport System

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The manager of San Francisco International Airport has called for an additional $33 million expansion program which would include a rapid transit rail station.

The proposal by manager Geogre F. Hansen to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday would increase presently approved projects of $108.4 million to $141.1 million. He said the expanded program would be financed from the airport's earnings.

The revised program would call for establishment of a non-profit corporation for completion of a larger parking garage, Hansen said. The original cost of garage expansion was $15.9 million, but under the revised recommendations it would be $23 million.

Contract Reports

Reports on current contract jobs and on rights-of-way and property agreements will be given at the Marin Municipal Water District board meeting Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the district office at 220 Nellen Avenue in Corte Madera.

Improvers Favor Scout's Project

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association board has approved a proposed project of Boy Scout John Nichols Jr. to refurbish the San Clemente School tiny tot playground as his community project toward his Eagle scoutship, board president William Ridyard said today.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols of 13 Morning Star Course, must next present his plans to city officials.

The board, which met Wednesday night, also made final plans for the presentation of a $25 savings bond, the association achievement award, presented yesterday to Heidi Bigall, a sixth grader at San Celmente School.

School Finance Turndowns —Another Look At Why

Three school finance measures have been turned down at the polls in Marin County this month.

Latest rejection was of a $2,100,000 San Rafael Elementary School District bond issue, voted down for the second time within four months. A week earlier, voters in Fairfax and Mill Valley Elementary School Districts voted down tax ceiling increases.

The story is not limited to Marin. If a school tax or bond issue has passed anywhere in California this spring, we have missed the report. They have gone down with monotonous and depressing regularity.

THERE ARE A COUPLE of pat explanations: (1) The people are fed up to the ears with high taxes; (2) the people are equally fed up with campus disorders, and take out on all schools their resentment of what has happened at University of California, San Francisco State College, etc.

Doubtless both explanations are true, but it is doubtful that they tell the whole story.

Some non-school bond issues have been passing. In Petaluma on the same day the San Rafael school bonds were rejected, a little issue for expanding police facilities squeaked by, and a larger one for a new firehouse fell only .9 of one per cent short.

Apparently, then, mere resistance to rising taxes does not account for all the school finance turndowns.

HOW ABOUT campus disorders?

That they play their part is undeniable. Many people blame the public schools for turning out the violent anarchists who are wrecking the colleges.

These people, of course, overlook the vast majority of graduates of the public schools who are not anarchists, not criminals, not advocates of violence, but instead are working hard to get their education.

But there are circumstances which tend to confirm the belief that the school system is falling down on its share of the job of turning out good citizens.

Litter on campus tends to confirm it. Lack of discipline, lack of respect for authority tend to confirm it. And when school administrators glibly dismiss these matters as "beyond our control," the confirmation becomes rather complete.

OTHER THINGS, too, add to the resistance.

When teachers demand pay increases far beyond the rise in the cost of living, and reinforce their demands with threats to strike or to "impose sanctions" on the school district, they produce more "no" votes on school bonds and taxes.

When "confrontations," "happenings" and "sensitivity sessions" are substituted for instruction in the prescribed disciplines, they produce more "no" votes.

Taxes for police stations and firehouses hurt just as much as taxes for schools. But it would appear that the people have more confidence that the firemen and those much-damned "pigs," the police, are doing their job than that the schools are doing theirs.

Too Much Of A Good Thing

Everyone who was in Marin last winter to experience the exceptionally heavy rains seems to agree it is possible to get too much of a good thing.

Now, as a direct result of these rains, Marinites may well be faced with yet another example of too much of a good thing. We mean grass. Grass is really great stuff. It binds the soil to hillsides, preventing erosion. Its roots thrust deep into the earth and help loosen the ground and create new topsoil. Green grass on hillsides and meadows is very pretty to look at.

But this year's rains have made grass jungles of some Marin hillsides. Last week in Inverness we found a stalk of grass almost eight feet tall. As dry summer advances, followed by dry autumn, this grass will become veritable tinder waiting for a careless match, a cigarette, or firecracker to start a holocaust.

The sensible thing would be to cut and get rid of the grass before it becomes a fire hazard.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

What Are Duties Of Citizen? Senators Find Them Arguable

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Efforts of Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach (who is also a candidate for state attorney general) to instill in the minds of the citizenry a recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship ran into a snag on the Sanate floor early this week.

"The Duke's" bill, SB 1377, would require that a "statement of responsibilities" for citizens be included in every publication of the state and federal constitutions. The state prints such a volume each time either document is changed.

THE STATEMENT appeared innocuous enough until some of the senators started picking it to pieces. Then it engendered more than a half hour of debate in the middle of a heavy calendar containing 242 items for action. At one point. Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, arose to inquire what was the necessity for the bill anyhow.

Members of both parties jumped on Deukmejian for some of the wording in the statement of responsibilities.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said the wording was "offensive," in that he believed a citizen whould learn what his duties are "someplace other than at the knee of state government."

Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, then got into the act. He said one of the duties outlined, "to pursue, to the fullest extent possible, all educational opportunities available to him, and support efforts to extend educational opportunities," would possibly require citizens to vote for every school bond issue placed on any ballot. The implications are limitless, Schmitz said.

Another "duty" questioned by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, was "to expose, and seek to eliminate by peaceful, persistent means, all prejudice and discrimination."

Bradley said this would add fuel to the fires of dissent, rather than help eliminate it.

The bill never came to a vote.

Former Resident Acclaims 'No' Votes

Please congratulate the voters of your county on behalf of a former resident, for their no vote on an increase in school tax rates! Since school tax rates are based on the assessment of all property in the area, and the value increases annually due to new buildings and normal development in the real estate field, there is no legitimate reason to ask for more sacrifices on the part of property owners.

Marin schools, I regret to learn, have endorsed the new fad of "sensitivity training" and nudist retreats for teachers at "Eselen." This is supposed to be better for students than God.

Recently I handed the Eselen catalogue to two competent doctors, one a noted pediatrician, the other director of research at a famous medical school. The first said, "unscientific gobbledygook"; the other said, "a cruel hoax perpetrated on naive people." Have you ever examined this catalogue yourself? One of the courses offered is the "Death of God" philosophy, discredited several years ago, yet typical of the "opportunities" available to patrons.

Pledge Repetition Value Doubted

Bouquets to Richmond Young and the other Drake High students for their refreshing proposal to stustitute patriotic quotations for the Pledge of Allegiance as a "daily patriotic exercise." And brickbats to those members of the San Rafael Lions Club who were so horrified at the very idea! Rhinoceroses were never so hidebound. I would think there surely must have been some wiser responses than those quoted in the I-J. (June 5), which make the kids and the school administrator appear Socratic by comparison. . . .

In these turbulent times the good Lions are guarding the precious status quo, since there is, or has been, the best of all possible worlds. (For some.) In clinging to the security of tradition, even a self-defeating ritual must be maintained by them. . . .

The question to be answered is whether constant repetitions of something like a patriotic phrase leads to an increase in patriotic fervor . . . To resolve this question I would suggest that Mr. (Clifford S.) Lund and other like-minded Lions assemble their families before every meal and at bedtime and recite together the Pledge of Allegiance. (If once a day is good, then four times should be better). In 12 (school) years we will expect a report as to whether these families are four times more patriotic.

View Of Picnic Valley Dispute

As a Marin County resident and taxpayer for the last 17 years, and also as an investor at times in Marin County projects, I have been fascinated by the controversy between the city council, the petitioners of Picnic Valley, and a sincere and honest group of investors attempting to improve an area of undeveloped San Rafael.

In regards to the petitioners, they have every right to state their views before the city council, and in turn the city council has every right to grant a petition.

But in this case, where were the petitioners back in 1959, 1962, 1964, 1965, 1967, and 1968?

These petitioners, now so deeply concerned, were advised on the above dates that multi-building projects had been approved by the Planning Commission of San Rafael; why were they not cnocerned then? . . .

A better term could not have been used. It is the proper terminology that can be applied to the entire county government for the past 20 years. There has been too much listening to the "whims" of small groups within the County of Marin, resulting in the separation of the county from the rest of the Bay Area Counties in the overall growth of the region. The desire to preserve the quaint woodsy effect of 19th century living in Marin County by certain groups, has divorced the county from enlightened progres. . . .

Theater Practices Annoy Mother

I'm wondering how many others besides myself are disgusted with the lack of consideration our Marin County movie theaters have for the residents of Marin. How many of your readers are angered at such practices as these?

1. Showing a movie rated G with a movie rated M or R, as happened recently at the Rafael Theater with the movie "African Safari." (I wonder what the reaction from the management would be if we demanded half of our money back when the second picture appeared on the screen with an M or R rating.)

2. Allowing such a movie as "African Safari" to remain only a week, giving young people only one week end to see it. (How many of you have waited for months for a worthwhile movie to take your kids to?)

3. Running 10 and 15-year-old short subjects and cartoons while film festival winners pass us by. . . .

And finally the exclusion of the needs of our young people in the poor selecting of films to be shown in a given period of time at all the theaters.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

NAVIGATING a river with so many shoals, shallows, and mudbanks as the Mississippi presents problems with which most skippers need not contend. In the days of paddle-wheelers, for instance, one captain, picking his way from Cincinnati to Natchez, was attempting to scrape over a treacherous sand bar when he saw a man on the bank filling a pail with water.

"Hey, you scoundrel," shouted the alarmed captain. "You put that water back!"

TODAY WHEN a big magazine goes out of business, it's front page news, but in the depression days so many periodicals folded that their passing often went unnoticed entirely — except by the creditors. A contributor insists that one of these fly-by-night operations employed a treasurer who always wore a gray suit, so the publisher painted the office gray to make him invisible. Creditors lined up in the reception room would see a red spot moving rapidly along the wall, and by the time they realized it was the treasurer's ruddy face, he was ten blocks away.

THE DRUMMONDS

Congress Takes Wrong Approach In Attempt To Regain Power

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Congress had good reason to set out to recover the initiative and power it has lost to activist presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Lyndon Johnson.

But it's going about it in the wrong way.

Congress can't recapture power by passing resolutions to try to reduce the President's power. It can recapture it only by exercising more efficiently and more effectively the authority it possesses.

SEN. J. W. FULBRIGHT'S resolution is a vivid example of how not to do it. It comes at the very moment when Congress has so many opportunities to do it right.

Let's look briefly at how not to do it and then at one way in which in a single stroke Congress could reclaim leadership and power where it is most needed.

The Fulbright resolution is designed to dilute the President's constitutional powers in foreign affairs and to prevent him from using them without prior consent by Congress, even when instant initiative is needed.

Wrong in purpose, wrong in method, harmful in effect.

The Fulbright resolution can't amend the Constitution, but the effect would be to cast doubt, in the minds of enemy and ally alike, about the President's authority to speak and act for the United States in foreign relations.

BUT THINK of what Congress could do positively in the whole range of defense spending and domestic priorities if it would organize itself to use the vast and decisive powers it does possess — and this without trying to hamstring the President.

Congress is now picking at the defense budget instead of appraising it as a whole.

It is now taking hold of the small end of the stick — in the ABM dispute — instead of examining the whole of defense spending to see where or whether Safeguard fits in.

Thus far, Congress has only been talking about the symptoms of the military budget, but at no point has it fully examined the causes to see what can and should be done.

THE REASON Congress is nearly impotent to do this is that it has not given itself the means — in organization, staff and resources — to do the job.

A total review of the interrelationship of foreign policy, security commitments and defense spending is imperative.

But Congress has simply never equipped itself for this kind of review.

More than 20 years ago Congress gave the executive branch the mechanism to relate continuously total foreign policy to total domestic policy. It created the National Security Council which enables the President to examine not just the pieces but the whole mosaic of foreign and domestic policy as it bears on security.

Congress has no comparable instrument, and this is why Congress loses so much initiative to the President. It fails to discharge its own responsibilities adequately.

Instead of picking at particular weapons expenditures (that can come later), Congress should be making its own independent and coordinated review of (1) all foreign commitments, (2) contingenciers which can develop from our commitments, (3) U.S. forces needed to meet the contingencies, and (4) the kind and amount of weapons meeded for these forces.

When it does this, Congress will be exercising its power to perform its duty instead of trying to trim the President's power to do his.

IN LANDS ABROAD

German Border Question Getting New Attention

By PHIL NEWSOM

In March, 1968, West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt broke a 19-year-old political taboo by telling Germans they must recognize the Oder-Neisse line as Germany's eastern border with Poland.

It was the first time a member of the West German government had acknowledged the line which was drawn up by the allies fighting Hitler and gave large areas of eastern Germany to Poland.

On May 17 of this year, Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka offered to sign a treaty with West Germany recognizing the border.

Since that time, Polish leaders even have been finding some good things to say about West Germany, thus raising limited hopes for a thaw in Warsaw-Bonn relations which currently are about the worst in Europe.

In making his carefully hedged-about offer, Gomulka had three motives—geographic, political and economic.

Geographically, the Poles fear the rising strength of the West German republic and fear also that an eventually reunited Germany will emerge as the dominating economic and political force of western Europe. Therefore, they want the border question settled as quickly as possible.

The Poles definitely prefer Willy Brandt's Socialists to Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and the Germans have general elections coming up in September.

THE WARSAW newspaper Slowo Powezechne made this interest clear.

Gomulka made his offer, according to the newspaper, because "we think that the recognition of the Oder Neisse frontier represents a fundamental point of departure for appeasement of the German factor in Europe.

"We thus wish to make it easier for West Germany to join in the peace in Eruope, beginning with the most obvious realities (A word also used by Brandt) of modern times."

Since the Christian Democrats have been lukewarm at best in their approach to the Oder Neisse question, the remark seemed an obvious plug for the Socialists in the coming elections.

BOTH SIDES hedge their offers with conditions. Gomulka said agreement must include recognition of East Germany and German signature to the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons treaty.

Germany declares any final agreement must rest upon reunification.

Exerting more immediate pressure on the Poles is the state of their economy. Exports are falling and the Polish press and leaders complain openly of shoddy goods, obsolete machinery and an increasing deficit in hard currency.

The West Germans could supply both know-how and money.

Among the western allies, only France recognizes the Oder-Neisse line as permanent. A settlement of the dispute could go a long way toward defusing the European time bomb.

Deputies Nip Ruckus At Dance

Sheriff's deputies dispersed a group of youths disturbing an eighth grade dance at Marinwood Recreation Center Wednesday night and arrested a 17-year-old Marinwood youth for failure to obey.

Deputies said they were called to the dance for Miller Creek School eighth graders at 9:30 p.m. when a group of six to 10 boys, 16 to 18 years, outside the dance were creating a disturbance.

When a deputy arrived the youths became verbally abusive, shouting, "get the pigs out of here," and profanities, he said. A group of about 10 to 12 girls, older than eighth graders, called officers "mother -----" and said, "---- you," deputies said.

An unidentified youth broke a glass window at the northwest corner of the building, and all those not attending the dance were told to leave, deputies reported.

Then, deputies, said, they left to answer another call in the area, but upon return at 10:15, another group was forming near the center.

The 17-year-old boy failed to obey their order and was booked at Juvenile Hall, deputies said. Then, they closed the dance at 10:30 p.m.

Hitchhiking Ordinance Is Proposed

Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones proposed a countywide ordinance last night to close loopholes in state and local laws against hitchhiking.

Jones, speaking at a town council meeting, expressed concern over a rise in hitchhiking through Ross, but said that state and local laws forbidding the activity had no effect when youths remained on the sidewalk.

An ordinance Jones read to the council last night would enable police to arrest persons hitchhiking off the road. Jones, generally supported by the council, said he would submit the measure to the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

However, Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said to some applause from the audience that she was concerned about the plight of students who found it necessary to hitchhike to the College of Marin, adding that "public transportation leaves a lot to be desired."

Jones had complained particularly about the sight of numerous hippies hitchhiking through town.

Pipe Connects Defects Noted

Sewer line tests on a portion of Terra Linda show about 14 per cent of the homes have defects in the laterals (the pipe from the main line to homes), J. Warren Nute, district engineer reported last night to the Las Gallinas Sanitary District directors.

Nute said he used smoke bomb tests on 635 homes between Las Gallinas Avenue, Freitas Parkway, Las Ovejas and Las Colindas and found 90 laterals with leaks or sags.

Directors decided that letters will be sent to owners of the defective laterals, asking them to make repairs.

The directors also awarded a $49,309 contract to MGM Construction Co. of Concord to install sewer lines to serve the Quail Hill development, west of the Emporium. The district will pay 60 per cent of the cost and the developer 40 per cent.

Commute Strike Also Hits Tourist Buses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tourists faced another problem today as a sightseeing bus service joined Greyhound and sightseeing boats as strike victims.

The tourist bus service, Gray Line, Inc., suspended operations yesterday and charged it was a victim of a secondary boycott by mechanics striking at a Greyhound repair depot.

Gray Line, a subsidiary of Greyhound, halted its 60 buses — which carry about 1,000 tourists a day—when its drivers honored mechanics' pickets at a parking lot.

The strike was expected to have a strong effect on the tourist business in Marin County to which Gray Lines brings thousands of visitors daily.

Drivers of Greyhound buses have ignored picket lines at the request of their union, the Amalgamated Transit Union. But Gray Line drivers are members of the Teamster Union.

Like Greyhound, Gray Line had been having its buses serviced at locations away from the local Greyhound maintanance garage, struck by 350 mechanics of the International Association of Machinists and 150 Teamster garage employees.

Although Greyhound continued running buses on schedule since the strike began Monday, picketing spread to machinists' shops in Reno, Redding, Sacramento, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Los Angeles.

Federal mediator Roger Randall remained in contact with both sides but still had no immediate plans to call them together again.

Mechanics want an increase of $1.50 an hour over three years on their present wage of $5.09 an hour. Greyhound has offered an increase of 68.5 cents an hour over two years or $1.025 an hour over three.

Collier Denies Secrecy In Planning New Capitol

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said today he tried to get publicity more than a year for his proposed new state capitol "and they wouldn't give me any publicity."

And he claimed "the door is open" to meetings of his Joint Committee on Legislative Space Needs.

That is the committee that has been meeting without public notice weekly in the Capitol to discuss plans for the proposed twin tower legislative meeting and office building that would cost an estimated $65 million, The Associated Press reported this week.

Collier said he had models and drawings of the proposed building, nicknamed "Collier Towers" around the Capitol, on full display last year, when the estimated cost was $32 million.

"Evidently the young man from The AP had slipped and suddenly woke up to it and wanted to sit down and talk to me about it and I said no three times," Collier said during a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee, which he heads.

The AP carried extensive stories on the building and plans last year when Collier had the first model on display.

Collier said the committee had been meeting in Room 3198 in the Capitol and "the door is open."

Meetings are not announced in the Senate and Assembly files as are most legislative committee meetings.

Collier said he had been a committee chairman since 1939 and never had held an executive session.

"I've attended some, but I've never held any," he said.

Envoy Undaunted By Outbursts

BONN, Germany (AP) — Israeli Ambassador Asher Ben Nathan said today noisy student demonstrations during speeches he made this week in Frankfurt and Hamburg will not keep him from continuing to appear before young Germans.

The ambassador told a reporter: "If the German authorities would say they feel it best that I not talk to students any more, as a diplomat I would have to go along with them. But if it depends on me, I'll gladly continue."

Speeches by Ben Nathan were interrupted by Arab and leftwing German students at the Universities of Frankfurt and Hamburg this week.

In Frankfurt, he cut off his talk and left, calling the demonstrators "Fascists"! In Hamburg, he abandoned his speech and opened a discussion with noisy protesters.

Auto Stolen

A 1966 gray Ford sedan, license SFH 020, was stolen last night or today from Robert G. Breniff, 206 Ridgewood Drive, at that address, San Raafael police reported.

Bonn Expecting New U.S. Envoy

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government confirmed today Wahington reports that Kenneth Rush, president of Union Carbide Corp., will be appointed the next U.S. ambassador to Bonn.

Deputy government press spokesman Conrad Ahlers told a news conference: "The report is correct but we have had no official word as yet."

Photographer Denies Marijuana Possession

Andrew Dennis Chute, 23, A San Francisco photographer, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to having marijuana when he was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on May 28.

A preliminary hearing was set for July 3.

Ross Calls For Traffic Signal Bids

The Ross Town Council last night called for bids July 10 to install new traffic signals and make other improvements to the Lagunitas Road-Sir Francis Drake Boulevard-Laurel Grove Avenue intersection.

Town engineer Philip B. Lygren estimated the long-awaited work would cost $39,540, of which $18,300 would be borne by urban throughfare funds and the balance by town gas tax funds.

Lygren said it is hoped the project, to include auto turning lanes and improved pedestrian movement, will be completed in late September.

The council will summon two bids — one to cover signals and street improvements, projected to cost $33,540, and the other for equipment to countrol the signals, estimated at $6,000.

The council also voted to call for bids on an about $9,762 in repaving work on four streets — Redwood Drive, Madrona Avenue, Woodside Way and part of Upper Road. Lygren hoped it was the beginning of a planned 10-year program to improve town streets.

Henry W. Calvin, a Madrona Avenue resident, said to no avail that he did not want his street paved because it would attract more traffic and encourage speeding.

The council said it would get the repaving funds from $5,000 carried over from the street fund this year and $5,000 in capital expenditures.

The Ross Town Council also:

HOME — Adopted an amendment to the zoning ordinance redefining home occupation.

BUSINESS — Introduced an ordinance changing terms for issuance of business licenses, with adoption of the measure scheduled for July 10.

PISCHEL — Conditionally approved a tentative map for subdivision of the 15-acre Pischel property on Canyon Road into four parcels ranging from 1.4 acres to 6.7 acres. Councilman Roy Farrington Jones abstained, saying he had performed an appraisal of the property. However, he engaged vigorously in discussion on the merits of the application.

LAGUNITAS — Approved clarification of the boundary between the Lagunitas Country Club and Lagunitas Road to permit club improvements.

BARN — Directed City Atty. Robert W. Elliott to start abatement proceedings against the Goldstine barn on Upper Road.

GARAGE — Granted a variance to Tracy Cummings of 23 Oak Way, who seeks to reconstruct a concrete garage which has been condemned.

DENIAL — Unanimously denied a request by Charles W. Thissel of 2 Garden Road for a variance to relocate the kitchen to allow placement of the master bedroom and a bathroom on the first floor. The work would have lessened the required rear set back.

INSURANCE — Renewed the employees' hospitalization policy with West Coast Life insurance at a slight increase in rates.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Priority Assignments May Get Strange At Budget Time

No one envies the Marin County supervisors, or any other elected body, the brain-bending they must undergo at budget time. Once the finite purse is linked to the infinite spending possibilities, the supervisors must make an endless series of decisions about priorities.

But from the point of view of some in Southern Marin, the board has shown a very strange sense of what is and is not urgent.

The board knocked out a $43,000 appropriation to the Sausalito School District, which was sought to make up for taxes not received from public housing in Marin City. The county created the public housing, but the Sausalito schools have the burden of educating the children there.

The board also rejected addition of $15,000 to the Economic Opportunity Council budget for administrative costs of a proposed program offering free pediatric care in Marin City. In so doing, they negated an offer by five pediatricians to donate time estimated at $200,000 to improve children's health.

And the board authorized $25,000 for a bicycle trail from Golden Gate Bridge to Sausalito.

Bicycle trails are a good thing, no doubt. Even though many who have produced such a well-orchestrated outcry for them may never get around to actually using them.

But does anyone believe, or even pretend, that a bicycle trail is more important than children's health or education?

ONE OF MILL Valley's oldest and most famous dogs, Bingo, is looking for a home. Bingo, whom someone named the Bernard Baruch of Mill Valley dogdom, is 13, and he has been without a boss since his mistress, Lila Heffner, died last month.

Mrs. Norman Millar of 65 Sunnyside Avenue reports that Bingo understands everything except politics, and foiled an automatic laundry burglary awhile back with his fearsome barking.

SUPERVISOR Michael Wornum said in Tamalpais Valley not long ago that the county fire department is oriented toward fighting grass fires, not house fires.

If that's the case, why not start some sort of county-aided, community-sponsored volunteer fire department in Marin City? The Marin City fire station had one lone man on duty last month when a school fire broke out. Some skilled help from local people might have paid for itself in that incident alone.

If, as some believe, Marin City is going to incorporate eventually, the volunteers could form the nucleus of a municipal fire department. And for high school or college age youths, it sure beats hanging around on the corner.

WHILE MILL VALLEY is studying its Camino Alto-East Blithedale Avenue corner, it might consider one improvement that would cost about $10.95. Simply restripe Blithedale logically for traffic cominginto town from the freeway.

Right now, traffic going straight ahead or turning left toward Tamalpais High School must funnel into one lane as the cars race away from the Lomita Avenue corner. The right hand lane is marked for right turns only, putting the unwary motorist hellbent for Corte Madera over the hill.

Since 95 per cent of everybody uses the two left lanes, why not restripe them to eliminate the present rat-racing funnel system?

History Of Tamalpais Creek's Inclusion In Flood Control

Fusselman

One plus of having lived 50 years of adult life in one community is the opportunity of seeing and taking part in things as they happen. You can know about all six sides of the cube — six pictures, if you will.

Except for one huge barbecue held on the shore of Lake Washington at Seattle, when I was a 5-year-old, this style of cook-out had never caught on in the Pacific Northwest while I lived there. However, the first big outdoor barbecue in California that I had the pleasure of, left a vivid memory. It was here in Marin some 45 years ago at the Kent Estate, now Kent Woodlands.

It was a benefit affair held somewhere in the area of what is now Woodland Avenue and toward Murray Park. Army chow cups and plates had been borrowed from Fort Baker. Delicious lamb was served with the usual chili beans and so on. It was my first visit to the estate. The fields, sloping up to the wonderful hills studded with live oak and other trees, made a picture of unspoiled beauty. As I remember, the only buildings were the family home, the barns and other necessary structures needed to maintain such a spread. It was wide open space, uncluttered and serene.

LITTLE DID I imagine that, as the years went by, I would be a county supervisor, with this as a part of the district I would represent.

During the seven years prior to 1942, when I was first elected, I served as secretary-manager of Marvelous Marin and was called upon to help in any way possible by the man who managed the first subdivision there.

Then as supervisor, for 22 years, I was intimately concerned with the applications and plans submitted for subdivisions (about 19 now) showing the excavations for home sites and roads together with retaining walls to support the downhill sides of the cuts that were made, also the method and plans for drainage — culverts and such.

In some cases, the natural course of the drainage was changed so that building area could be developed.

ONE SUCH was the area westerly from Kent Avenue and northerly from Woodland and Goodhill Road. It was a swamp of fairly large size, covered with picturesque cattails — a nice rural picture, always a pleasure to see.

This was undoubtedly fed by what is now known as Tamalpais Creek. Some years ago it was filled by damning up the lower end and allowing the silt coming down from the hills, incident to the grading operations, to fill up the swamp. Later, heavy stabilizing material was added, and then the topsoil.

I WAS IMPORTUNED year after year to give the people some relief and I assured them that the Army Engineers had included Tamalpais Creek in their plans for handling the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, as they were doing with all other similar feeder creeks throughout Ross Valley. This inclusion I know to be true.

By-the-way: Regarding Bill Gnoss's remark that the county had to pay damages for the one week stoppage during construction of the administration building at the Civic Center — Bill had better do some more home work. That didn't cost the taxpayers a dime.

$33 Million Is Asked To Expand Airport System

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The manager of San Francisco International Airport has called for an additional $33 million expansion program which would include a rapid transit rail station.

The proposal by manager Geogre F. Hansen to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday would increase presently approved projects of $108.4 million to $141.1 million. He said the expanded program would be financed from the airport's earnings.

The revised program would call for establishment of a non-profit corporation for completion of a larger parking garage, Hansen said. The original cost of garage expansion was $15.9 million, but under the revised recommendations it would be $23 million.

Contract Reports

Improvers Favor Scout's Project

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association board has approved a proposed project of Boy Scout John Nichols Jr. to refurbish the San Clemente School tiny tot playground as his community project toward his Eagle scoutship, board president William Ridyard said today.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols of 13 Morning Star Course, must next present his plans to city officials.

The board, which met Wednesday night, also made final plans for the presentation of a $25 savings bond, the association achievement award, presented yesterday to Heidi Bigall, a sixth grader at San Celmente School.

MRS. SEBASTIAN Tallitsch, who has volunteered more than 2,000 hours and been awarded an honorary active membership by the Novato Hospital volunteers, chats with a member of a patient's family in the main lobby of the hospital. Mrs. Jerry Evans, vice president in charge of orientation, and Mrs. Ray Monson, special services, show Sharon Eyford some of the items for sale at the hospital. When the new wing at the hospital is completed in July, an additional 50 volunteers will be needed as 22 new beds and an intensive care unit will be installed.

Novato Hospital Helpers Stay Busy

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Do you have a few hours a week to devote to volunteer work in Novato?

The hospital now has 50 volunteers but in July a new wing will be completed adding an additional 22 beds or doubling the capacity at the hospital and an additional 50 volunteers will be needed, president Mrs. Gerald Lombard said.

An orientation period of 25 hours on all three shifts with a volunteer is required before becoming a permanent volunteer working a four-hour shift. When the new wing is opened a volunteer will be at the front desk from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Older women will be able to fill this need, Mrs. Johnson said. Mrs. Jerry Evans is vice president in charge of orientation and Mrs. Harry Lyon is orientation chairman.

Mrs. Johnson interviews all those applying to do volunteer work.

The volunteers were organized on Nov. 2, 1960 and the hospital opened in January 1961.

Lennie Johnson, who was the first president of the volunteers, is the liaison between the volunteers and the hospital administration and she says "the first two years I nearly lived up there." (the hospital.)

It was pointed out at a recent meeting of the California Hospital Association meeting that California hospital volunteers are more than three years ahead of any state as they are so well organized, Mrs. Lombard said.

One of Novato's outstanding programs is the tour conducted for school children. In this way, the child is not terrified if he must go to the hospital for a tonsilectomy or is involved in an accident. The youngsters are given the tour of the hospital and also shown X-rays and various functions of the lab.

On special holidays, the patients are given favors on their food trays. This is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ray Monson. As an example of her interest in this program, at Easter she made individually decorated eggs for each tray.

A few years ago every group or organization in Novato had its own blood bank. In order to coordinate this, under the direction of Lennie and the volunteers, the Novato Community Blood Bank was formed and now the mobile unit comes to the Novato Community House every three months. The volunteers help in this program, providing juice and coffee and helping to fill out forms. Until December they also provided cookies, but now the Novato Hostess Club provides them.

Anyone in Novato may draw on the blood bank as well as a relative living anywhere in the country.

Novato General Hospital is a proprietory hospital which pays taxes rather than a community hospital which is tax exempt Lennie said. The volunteers, through the Patient Memorial Fund, purchase items for the hospital that the hospital would not normally purchase.

The volunteers have given such items as radios with ear plugs for eye patients, equipment to be used by heart patients with no charge to the patient and lounge chairs to be used by members of the family of a patient who might have a long wait at the hospital.

In order to raise money for their projects, they hold an annual harvest ball, a gift cart for patients and sell baby pictures to new mothers. The baby picture fund is used only for nursing scholarships, with two scholarships awarded each year.

The Hospital Volunteer Service has a memorial and patient service fund and any money they make or donations go into the fund. The board of directors, George Tocalino, Jack Sparrow and Irving Links, all of Novato, after suggestions from the volunteers, decide how the money is to be spent and if it is a worthwhile project.

Among the patient services provided by the volunteers are filling water pitchers, arranging flowers, assisting with trays, delivering newspapers, chatting with the patients, reading letters if the patient requests it and running errands.

Several Novatans have been honored by the volunteers and Mrs. Eleanore Snare, a member of the Senior Citizen's but not a member of the volunteers, with the assistance of Mrs. Pearl Schivers, has been making hand puppets for the volunteers for many years. These are given to hospitalized children. Her work has been recognized and she was awarded an American Hospital Association pin and Mrs. Schivers was awarded a certificate of appreciation.

Also being recognized for her outstanding work and for more than 2000 hours of volunteer work at the hospital was Mrs. Sebastian Tallitsch. She was awarded an active honorary membership as was Mrs. Matilda Freeman.

Milton Scott, administrator at the hospital, has very high priase for the volunteers and said, "They're terrific."

The volunteers, with Mrs. Johnson as chairman, will be hostesses when the new wing is opened.

Registration Is Open For Weight Control Classes

The Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley will be the setting for a summer weight control class offered by the Marin County Heart Association.

By popular demand, the eight-week series will begin June 24 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and will continue on subsequent Tuesday mornings for eight weeks.

Instruction focuses on food preparation around the whole meal pattern, selection of foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appealing meals, while holding to a low calorie count.

The 1200-calorie base used in the weight control series given by Mrs. Pamela Gilroy, dietitian, requires written physician approval. Emphasis will be placed on low calorie foods.

Classes are open to both men and women.

Members will weigh in and chart progress throughout the course. Based on past weight control classes, weight loss of 1½ pounds per week is anticipated.

Advance registrations can be made with the Marin County Heart Association, San Rafael.

During the Annual California Heart Association meeting in San Francisco last month, Marin County Heart Association was recipient of the state award for its year-round weight control and diet consultation program.

Deputies Nip Ruckus At Dance

Sheriff's deputies dispersed a group of youths disturbing an eighth grade dance at Marinwood Recreation Center Wednesday night and arrested a 17-year-old Marinwood youth for failure to obey.

Deputies said they were called to the dance for Miller Creek School eighth graders at 9:30 p.m. when a group of six to 10 boys, 16 to 18 years, outside the dance were creating a disturbance.

When a deputy arrived the youths became verbally abusive, shouting, "get the pigs out of here," and profanities, he said. A group of about 10 to 12 girls, older than eighth graders, called officers "mother - - - - -" and said, "- - - - you," deputies said.

An unidentified youth broke a glass window at the northwest corner of the building, and all those not attending the dance were told to leave, deputies reported.

Then, deputies, said, they left to answer another call in the area, but upon return at 10:15, another group was forming near the center.

The 17-year-old boy failed to obey their order and was booked at Juvenile Hall, deputies said. Then, they closed the dance at 10:30 p.m.

Hitchhiking Ordinance Is Proposed

Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones proposed a countywide ordinance last night to close loopholes in state and local laws against hitchhiking.

Jones, speaking at a town council meeting, expressed concern over a rise in hitchhiking through Ross, but said that state and local laws forbidding the activity had no effect when youths remained on the sidewalk.

An ordinance Jones read to the council last night would enable police to arrest persons hitchhiking off the road. Jones, generally supported by the council, said he would submit the measure to the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

However, Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said to some applause from the audience that she was concerned about the plight of students who found it necessary to hitchhike to the College of Marin, adding that "public transportation leaves a lot to be desired."

Jones had complained particularly about the sight of numerous hippies hitchhiking through town.

Pipe Connects Defects Noted

Sewer line tests on a portion of Terra Linda show about 14 per cent of the homes have defects in the laterals (the pipe from the main line to homes), J. Warren Nute, district engineer reported last night to the Las Gallinas Sanitary District directors.

Nute said he used smoke bomb tests on 635 homes between Las Gallinas Avenue, Freitas Parkway, Las Ovejas and Las Colindas and found 90 laterals with leaks or sags.

Directors decided that letters will be sent to owners of the defective laterals, asking them to make repairs.

The directors also awarded a $49,309 contract to MGM Construction Co. of Concord to install sewer lines to serve the Quail Hill development, west of the Emporium. The district will pay 60 per cent of the cost and the developer 40 per cent.

Commute Strike Also Hits Tourist Buses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tourists faced another problem today as a sightseeing bus service joined Greyhound and sightseeing boats as strike victims.

The tourist bus service, Gray Line, Inc., suspended operations yesterday and charged it was a victim of a secondary boycott by mechanics striking at a Greyhound repair depot.

Gray Line, a subsidiary of Greyhound, halted its 60 buses — which carry about 1,000 tourists a day—when its drivers honored mechanics' pickets at a parking lot.

The strike was expected to have a strong effect on the tourist business in Marin County to which Gray Lines brings thousands of visitors daily.

Drivers of Greyhound buses have ignored picket lines at the request of their union, the Amalgamated Transit Union. But Gray Line drivers are members of the Teamster Union.

Like Greyhound, Gray Line had been having its buses serviced at locations away from the local Greyhound maintanance garage, struck by 350 mechanics of the International Association of Machinists and 150 Teamster garage employees.

Although Greyhound continued running buses on schedule since the strike began Monday, picketing spread to machinists' shops in Reno, Redding, Sacramento, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Los Angeles.

Federal mediator Roger Randall remained in contact with both sides but still had no immediate plans to call them together again.

Mechanics want an increase of $1.50 an hour over three years on their present wage of $5.09 an hour. Greyhound has offered an increase of 68.5 cents an hour over two years or $1.025 an hour over three.

Collier Denies Secrecy In Planning New Capitol

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said today he tried to get publicity more than a year for his proposed new state capitol "and they wouldn't give me any publicity."

And he claimed "the door is open" to meetings of his Joint Committee on Legislative Space Needs.

That is the committee that has been meeting without public notice weekly in the Capitol to discuss plans for the proposed twin tower legislative meeting and office building that would cost an estimated $65 million, The Associated Press reported this week.

Collier said he had models and drawings of the proposed building, nicknamed "Collier Towers" around the Capitol, on full display last year, when the estimated cost was $32 million.

"Evidently the young man from The AP had slipped and suddenly woke up to it and wanted to sit down and talk to me about it and I said no three times," Collier said during a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee, which he heads.

The AP carried extensive stories on the building and plans last year when Collier had the first model on display.

Collier said the committee had been meeting in Room 3198 in the Capitol and "the door is open."

Meetings are not announced in the Senate and Assembly files as are most legislative committee meetings.

Collier said he had been a committee chairman since 1939 and never had held an executive session.

"I've attended some, but I've never held any," he said.

Envoy Undaunted By Outbursts

BONN, Germany (AP) — Israeli Ambassador Asher Ben Nathan said today noisy student demonstrations during speeches he made this week in Frankfurt and Hamburg will not keep him from continuing to appear before young Germans.

The ambassador told a reporter: "If the German authorities would say they feel it best that I not talk to students any more, as a diplomat I would have to go along with them. But if it depends on me, I'll gladly continue."

In Frankfurt, he cut off his talk and left, calling the demonstrators "Fascists"! In Hamburg, he abandoned his speech and opened a discussion with noisy protesters.

A 1966 gray Ford sedan, license SFH 020, was stolen last night or today from Robert G. Breniff, 206 Ridgewood Drive, at that address, San Raafael police reported.

Bonn Expecting New U.S. Envoy

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government confirmed today Wahington reports that Kenneth Rush, president of Union Carbide Corp., will be appointed the next U.S. ambassador to Bonn.

Deputy government press spokesman Conrad Ahlers told a news conference: "The report is correct but we have had no official word as yet."

Photographer Denies Marijuana Possession

Andrew Dennis Chute, 23, A San Francisco photographer, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to having marijuana when he was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on May 28.

A preliminary hearing was set for July 3.

Ross Calls For Traffic Signal Bids

The Ross Town Council last night called for bids July 10 to install new traffic signals and make other improvements to the Lagunitas Road-Sir Francis Drake Boulevard-Laurel Grove Avenue intersection.

Town engineer Philip B. Lygren estimated the long-awaited work would cost $39,540, of which $18,300 would be borne by urban throughfare funds and the balance by town gas tax funds.

Lygren said it is hoped the project, to include auto turning lanes and improved pedestrian movement, will be completed in late September.

The council will summon two bids — one to cover signals and street improvements, projected to cost $33,540, and the other for equipment to countrol the signals, estimated at $6,000.

The council also voted to call for bids on an about $9,762 in repaving work on four streets — Redwood Drive, Madrona Avenue, Woodside Way and part of Upper Road. Lygren hoped it was the beginning of a planned 10-year program to improve town streets.

Henry W. Calvin, a Madrona Avenue resident, said to no avail that he did not want his street paved because it would attract more traffic and encourage speeding.

The council said it would get the repaving funds from $5,000 carried over from the street fund this year and $5,000 in capital expenditures.

The Ross Town Council also:

HOME — Adopted an amendment to the zoning ordinance redefining home occupation.

BUSINESS — Introduced an ordinance changing terms for issuance of business licenses, with adoption of the measure scheduled for July 10.

PISCHEL — Conditionally approved a tentative map for subdivision of the 15-acre Pischel property on Canyon Road into four parcels ranging from 1.4 acres to 6.7 acres. Councilman Roy Farrington Jones abstained, saying he had performed an appraisal of the property. However, he engaged vigorously in discussion on the merits of the application.

LAGUNITAS — Approved clarification of the boundary between the Lagunitas Country Club and Lagunitas Road to permit club improvements.

GARAGE — Granted a variance to Tracy Cummings of 23 Oak Way, who seeks to reconstruct a concrete garage which has been condemned.

DENIAL — Unanimously denied a request by Charles W. Thissel of 2 Garden Road for a variance to relocate the kitchen to allow placement of the master bedroom and a bathroom on the first floor. The work would have lessened the required rear set back.

INSURANCE — Renewed the employees' hospitalization policy with West Coast Life insurance at a slight increase in rates.

HELEN HELP US!

New Philosophy In Marriage To Blame For Divorce Rate

DEAR HELEN:

I've spent my Army tour in Vietnam and am now stationed in Europe. What disturbs me is the high divorce rate among servicemen. Hundreds of men come through my office, broken up because their wives have found somebody else over in the states.

Can't women be faithful any more? Or didn't they love their husbands in the first place? What is it that causes supposedly decent women to become tramps, hopping in and out of bed with anyone who catches their eyes? If they can only be true when they have a husband around every minute to watch them, they'd better forget marriage and take up the profession they're suited for—the oldest.

—DANNY

DEAR DANNY:

Low fidelity works both ways: I've heard from many wives whose husbands have sent "Dear Jane" letters. In fact, this war's "out of sight, out shopping" syndrome has produced the greatest per centage of breakup in military history.

Why? Some blame it on an "unpopular" war, but I'd say it's mainly because of the growing attitudes that marriage doesn't cancel the right to change your mind. Pity.

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a widow of three years, middle-aged, active — and lonely. No. I'm not looking for a man, just to be included in social life. I am excluded from almost all the little dinner parties and other gatherings planned by my married friends. My husband and I were once leaders in this group.

I wouldn't expect to be in everything, but I do miss contact with those people we associated with for so long. Just because I have no escort I'm considered excess baggage, good only for all-female parties.

I have no designs on anyone's husband, am not ugly, and can pay my own way. What hurts is the hushed planning, the pretense that nothing is going on, when I know better. I have too much pride to intrude where not wanted.

Is my problem common, and what do other widows do about it?

—SOMETIMES LONELY

DEAR LONELY:

Your problem is common only to those who won't exchange old patterns for new.

Join one of those swinging singles clubs (you can get names and addresses from your local library or newspaper), enroll in interesting classes, do volunteer work—mix with other single people who will welcome your company.

Don't expect your married friends to "carry" you after the first year of widowhood. From here on out, you're on your own!

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Once a week my husband goes next door to talk, drink and play cards with our neighbor. The problem is, she's an attractive divorcee. As Dick has a small drinking problem, I don't like other people serving liquor —which I refuse to keep in our house. And I'm not exactly fond of his staying until midnight even though I'm sure, so far, they're only playing cards and talking.

She is a likeable woman and I don't want to seem jealous for no reason, but should I put a stop to this?

— CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED:

You won't cure Dick's "small drinking problem" by refusing him liquor at home. As you see, he goes elsewhere for it, and perhaps for other comforts too. Why not introduce this likeable divorcee to an eligible man and make it a card playing foursome?

—H.

County Offers Course To Day Care Mothers

To give newly licensed day care mothers guidelines on understanding the development of children in their care, the Licensing Unit of Marin County Dept. of Public Social Services and Marin County Community Mental Health children's services are sponsoring a series of workshop discussions.

The first of three two-hour sessions will be held Wednesday from 1:15 to 3:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley Methodist Church. Speaker will be a nursery school director who is a former day care mother. She will describe some of the nursery school activities that might be used by day care mothers.

MRS. SEBASTIAN Tallitsch, who has volunteered more than 2,000 hours and been awarded an honorary active membership by the Novato Hospital volunteers, chats with a member of a patient's family in the main lobby of the hospital. Mrs. Jerry Evans, vice president in charge of orientation, and Mrs. Ray Monson, special services, show Sharon Eyford some of the items for sale at the hospital. When the new wing at the hospital is completed in July, an additional 50 volunteers will be needed as 22 new beds and an intensive care unit will be installed.

Novato Hospital Helpers Stay Busy

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Do you have a few hours a week to devote to volunteer work in Novato?

The hospital now has 50 volunteers but in July a new wing will be completed adding an additional 22 beds or doubling the capacity at the hospital and an additional 50 volunteers will be needed, president Mrs. Gerald Lombard said.

An orientation period of 25 hours on all three shifts with a volunteer is required before becoming a permanent volunteer working a four-hour shift. When the new wing is opened a volunteer will be at the front desk from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Older women will be able to fill this need, Mrs. Johnson said. Mrs. Jerry Evans is vice president in charge of orientation and Mrs. Harry Lyon is orientation chairman.

Mrs. Johnson interviews all those applying to do volunteer work.

The volunteers were organized on Nov. 2, 1960 and the hospital opened in January 1961.

Lennie Johnson, who was the first president of the volunteers, is the liaison between the volunteers and the hospital administration and she says "the first two years I nearly lived up there." (the hospital.)

It was pointed out at a recent meeting of the California Hospital Association meeting that California hospital volunteers are more than three years ahead of any state as they are so well organized, Mrs. Lombard said.

One of Novato's outstanding programs is the tour conducted for school children. In this way, the child is not terrified if he must go to the hospital for a tonsilectomy or is involved in an accident. The youngsters are given the tour of the hospital and also shown X-rays and various functions of the lab.

On special holidays, the patients are given favors on their food trays. This is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ray Monson. As an example of her interest in this program, at Easter she made individually decorated eggs for each tray.

A few years ago every group or organization in Novato had its own blood bank. In order to coordinate this, under the direction of Lennie and the volunteers, the Novato Community Blood Bank was formed and now the mobile unit comes to the Novato Community House every three months. The volunteers help in this program, providing juice and coffee and helping to fill out forms. Until December they also provided cookies, but now the Novato Hostess Club provides them.

Anyone in Novato may draw on the blood bank as well as a relative living anywhere in the country.

Novato General Hospital is a proprietory hospital which pays taxes rather than a community hospital which is tax exempt Lennie said. The volunteers, through the Patient Memorial Fund, purchase items for the hospital that the hospital would not normally purchase.

The volunteers have given such items as radios with ear plugs for eye patients, equipment to be used by heart patients with no charge to the patient and lounge chairs to be used by members of the family of a patient who might have a long wait at the hospital.

In order to raise money for their projects, they hold an annual harvest ball, a gift cart for patients and sell baby pictures to new mothers. The baby picture fund is used only for nursing scholarships, with two scholarships awarded each year.

The Hospital Volunteer Service has a memorial and patient service fund and any money they make or donations go into the fund. The board of directors, George Tocalino, Jack Sparrow and Irving Links, all of Novato, after suggestions from the volunteers, decide how the money is to be spent and if it is a worthwhile project.

Among the patient services provided by the volunteers are filling water pitchers, arranging flowers, assisting with trays, delivering newspapers, chatting with the patients, reading letters if the patient requests it and running errands.

Several Novatans have been honored by the volunteers and Mrs. Eleanore Snare, a member of the Senior Citizen's but not a member of the volunteers, with the assistance of Mrs. Pearl Schivers, has been making hand puppets for the volunteers for many years. These are given to hospitalized children. Her work has been recognized and she was awarded an American Hospital Association pin and Mrs. Schivers was awarded a certificate of appreciation.

Also being recognized for her outstanding work and for more than 2000 hours of volunteer work at the hospital was Mrs. Sebastian Tallitsch. She was awarded an active honorary membership as was Mrs. Matilda Freeman.

Milton Scott, administrator at the hospital, has very high priase for the volunteers and said, "They're terrific."

The volunteers, with Mrs. Johnson as chairman, will be hostesses when the new wing is opened.

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER prevailed for Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wise of Novato on their trip north to the Arctic Circle. They drove as far as Seattle and visited with their daughter Elizabeth and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen, for a few days.

Their daughter then drove them to Vancouver where they went by ship on the inland passage making stops at Ketchikan, Juneau and Skagway. At Skagway, they took the Narrow Gauge Railroad to Whitehorse, where they spent a few days.

They continued the trip by bus to Fairbanks and then flew to Nome and Kotzebue. Mrs. Wise said that at Kotzebue they viewed the beautiful sunset to sunrise within two hours and also saw the Eskimos and their homes with meat and fish hanging outside to dry.

They returned to Seattle, first stopping at Anchorage and Mt. McKinley National Park, spending three weeks on their tour. While in Anchorage Lee also took side trips to Natanuska Valley and the Alyeska Ski Resort.

Registration Is Open For Weight Control Classes

The Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley will be the setting for a summer weight control class offered by the Marin County Heart Association.

By popular demand, the eight-week series will begin June 24 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and will continue on subsequent Tuesday mornings for eight weeks.

Instruction focuses on food preparation around the whole meal pattern, selection of foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appealing meals, while holding to a low calorie count.

The 1200-calorie base used in the weight control series given by Mrs. Pamela Gilroy, dietitian, requires written physician approval. Emphasis will be placed on low calorie foods.

Classes are open to both men and women.

Members will weigh in and chart progress throughout the course. Based on past weight control classes, weight loss of 1½ pounds per week is anticipated.

Advance registrations can be made with the Marin County Heart Association, San Rafael.

During the Annual California Heart Association meeting in San Francisco last month, Marin County Heart Association was recipient of the state award for its year-round weight control and diet consultation program.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Writer Gil Pearson continues his series of special stories for the I-J's Marin Magazine tomorrow with an illustrated feature about a Marinite with a most unusual and interesting hobby. His subject is Joseph J. Bernstein of Mill Valley and his collection of authentic ship models. Some Joe Bernstein has built himself, and some he has acquired from others. But they are all little nautical gems, and you will want to read about them and see Gil Pearson's photos of them.

The neighbor who owns a dog can be the worst possible neighbor. But he need not be. Marin's many dog-oriented organizations plan to prove that Sunday with demonstrations at a day-long "Marin Goes to the Dogs" Day observance at the armory in Santa Venetia. Jeff Greer has written about one of those groups, the Marin City Canine Training Club, for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, telling how proper instruction can turn dog-owners and their pets into good neighbors.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

New Philosophy In Marriage To Blame For Divorce Rate

DEAR HELEN:

I've spent my Army tour in Vietnam and am now stationed in Europe. What disturbs me is the high divorce rate among servicemen. Hundreds of men come through my office, broken up because their wives have found somebody else over in the states.

Can't women be faithful any more? Or didn't they love their husbands in the first place? What is it that causes supposedly decent women to become tramps, hopping in and out of bed with anyone who catches their eyes? If they can only be true when they have a husband around every minute to watch them, they'd better forget marriage and take up the profession they're suited for—the oldest.

—DANNY

DEAR DANNY:

Low fidelity works both ways: I've heard from many wives whose husbands have sent "Dear Jane" letters. In fact, this war's "out of sight, out shopping" syndrome has produced the greatest per centage of breakup in military history.

Why? Some blame it on an "unpopular" war, but I'd say it's mainly because of the growing attitudes that marriage doesn't cancel the right to change your mind. Pity.

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a widow of three years, middle-aged, active — and lonely. No. I'm not looking for a man, just to be included in social life. I am excluded from almost all the little dinner parties and other gatherings planned by my married friends. My husband and I were once leaders in this group.

I wouldn't expect to be in everything, but I do miss contact with those people we associated with for so long. Just because I have no escort I'm considered excess baggage, good only for all-female parties.

I have no designs on anyone's husband, am not ugly, and can pay my own way. What hurts is the hushed planning, the pretense that nothing is going on, when I know better. I have too much pride to intrude where not wanted.

Is my problem common, and what do other widows do about it?

—SOMETIMES LONELY

DEAR LONELY:

Your problem is common only to those who won't exchange old patterns for new.

Join one of those swinging singles clubs (you can get names and addresses from your local library or newspaper), enroll in interesting classes, do volunteer work—mix with other single people who will welcome your company.

Don't expect your married friends to "carry" you after the first year of widowhood. From here on out, you're on your own!

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Once a week my husband goes next door to talk, drink and play cards with our neighbor. The problem is, she's an attractive divorcee. As Dick has a small drinking problem, I don't like other people serving liquor —which I refuse to keep in our house. And I'm not exactly fond of his staying until midnight even though I'm sure, so far, they're only playing cards and talking.

She is a likeable woman and I don't want to seem jealous for no reason, but should I put a stop to this?

— CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED:

You won't cure Dick's "small drinking problem" by refusing him liquor at home. As you see, he goes elsewhere for it, and perhaps for other comforts too. Why not introduce this likeable divorcee to an eligible man and make it a card playing foursome?

—H.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, June 13, the 164th day of 1969 with 201 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1877 the Russo-Turkish War began.

In 1944 Germany began using its "Buzz Bomb" secret weapon on England during World War II.

In 1967 Ohio National Guardsmen were called out to quell a racial uprising in Cincinnati.

A thought for the day: William Butler Yeats born on this day in 1865 said, "The years like great black oxen tread the world, and God, the herdsman, goads them on behind."

Triple Pensions Keep Him Going

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charles Johnson is a pension collector.

He gets one from the Veterans Administration, one from Social Security and pensions from the telephone company and an insurance agency.

In 1943, after 25 years with Southern Bell, Johnson retired and began selling insurance. In September, 1968, after 25 years on that job, he retired again.

Johnson, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, still drives his car, although he is 90 years of age.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Ruff Trick—A Handy Item When Needed To Win Contract

Ruffing a loser in the dummy is not a very complicated play. Don't lose sight of the fact that your ruffing trick enables you to lead from the dummy. If you execute your simple maneuver at precisely the right time, the lead from dummy may be just as important as the ruffing trick itself.

LEADS HEARTS

West leads the three of hearts, and your finesse loses to the king. East returns the jack of diamonds and you begin to worry about losing all three finesses.

You cautiously play a low diamond at the second trick, winning with dummy's ace. Now you try a finesse with the queen of spades and close your eyes. When you open your eyes, you discover that your finesse has succeeded.

You continue with the ace of spades, capturing the jack and ten. East's king remains out, but you wisely decide to ignore it. You need dummy's last trump to ruff your third heart.

POSTPONE RUFF

What about that ruff? Should you go after it at once, before it gets away from you? If you do, you will eventually lose two diamonds and a trump in addition to the heart trick already lost. There is no glory in playing for down one.

Your best chance is to set up the clubs, and you need all of dummy's entries for the purpose. After your two rounds of trumps you cash the top clubs and ruff a club. Return to dummy with the ace of hearts and ruff another club.

LAST CLUB GOOD

Now dummy's last club is good, and you can return to dummy by ruffing your last heart with dummy's last trump. The ruffing trick would have been welcome at any time but it is doubly welcome wien it puts you in the dummy to cash the last club. East gets his king of spades whenever he likes, but you discard a diamond on dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ K 10 4
♥ K 10 7
♦ J 10 9
♣ Q J 9 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no trump.

Most experts avoid this response on a really weak hand, since it is preferably to bid a four-card suit at the level of one or to raise clubs with a poor hand. The wasteful notrump response is used to show a balanced hand of eight to 10 points without a biddable major suit.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY
Writer Gil Pearson continues his series of special stories for the I-J's Marin Magazine tomorrow with an illustrated feature about a Marinite with a most unusual and interesting hobby. His subject is Joseph J. Bernstein of Mill Valley and his collection of authentic ship models. Some Joe Bernstein has built himself, and some he has acquired from others. But they are all little nautical gems, and you will want to read about them and see Gil Pearson's photos of them.
The neighbor who owns a dog can be the worst possible neighbor. But he need not be. Marin's many dog-oriented organizations plan to prove that Sunday with demonstrations at a day-long "Marin Goes to the Dogs" Day observance at the armory in Santa Venetia. Jeff Greer has written about one of those groups, the Marin City Canine Training Club, for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, telling how proper instruction can turn dog-owners and their pets into good neighbors.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Ballad of Josie" — An amusing western set in Wyoming at the time the State was a struggling territory and Doris Day struggles for woman's independence.

"Gone With The Wind" — Famous film classic now transposed to super screen with sterophonic sound remains one of the landmarks in American filmmaking.

"Longest Day" — Superb historical documentary drama which recreates pictorially D-Day invasion of Normandy Coast by the Allies. Magnificent spectacle.

"Shoes of the Fisherman" — Film retains author's concern with human integrity. Magnificent pageantry surrounding the Papacy and the grandeur of the Vatican.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle Beneath the Earth" — Science Fiction tale of investigation of network of tunnels constructed by Chinese terrorist group in U.S. complete with Atom bombs.

"Green Slime" — Produced in Japan with American cast, this science fiction tale is amateurish and trite.

"Romeo and Juliet" — The great tragedy is made vividly new and immediate in a superlative production.

"Winning" — Story of a race driver, his wife and stepson. It will appeal to those who enjoy car racing.

BODERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Goldfinger" — Ian Flemings' tale of mystery where violence, mayhem, sadistic brutality abound.

"How I Won the War" — Anti war message is clear and disturbing. War is utter lunacy; but the film offends by the mockery it makes of the tragedy of war.

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas" — Establishment and the hippies are spoofed to a fare-thee-well in this lively contemporary comedy.

ADULTS ONLY

"Big Bounce" — Nice scenery is wasted on this murder mystery. Dialogue and nudity are offensive.

"Dr. No" — This time James Bond is wading through a welter of blood, sweat and swamp water and takes sex and assassination in stride.

"Killing of Sister George" — Title taken from character which an actress portrays on TV. Film treats lesbianism with unprecedented explicitness with lewd scenes blatantly shown.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Ruff Trick—A Handy Item When Needed To Win Contract

Ruffing a loser in the dummy is not a very complicated play. Don't lose sight of the fact that your ruffing trick enables you to lead from the dummy. If you execute your simple maneuver at precisely the right time, the lead from dummy may be just as important as the ruffing trick itself.

LEADS HEARTS

West leads the three of hearts, and your finesse loses to the king. East returns the jack of diamonds and you begin to worry about losing all three finesses.

You cautiously play a low diamond at the second trick, winning with dummy's ace. Now you try a finesse with the queen of spades and close your eyes. When you open your eyes, you discover that your finesse has succeeded.

You continue with the ace of spades, capturing the jack and ten. East's king remains out, but you wisely decide to ignore it. You need dummy's last trump to ruff your third heart.

POSTPONE RUFF

What about that ruff? Should you go after it at once, before it gets away from you? If you do, you will eventually lose two diamonds and a trump in addition to the heart trick already lost. There is no glory in playing for down one.

Your best chance is to set up the clubs, and you need all of dummy's entries for the purpose. After your two rounds of trumps you cash the top clubs and ruff a club. Return to dummy with the ace of hearts and ruff another club.

LAST CLUB GOOD

Now dummy's last club is good, and you can return to dummy by ruffing your last heart with dummy's last trump. The ruffing trick would have been welcome at any time but it is doubly welcome wien it puts you in the dummy to cash the last club. East gets his king of spades whenever he likes, but you discard a diamond on dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ K 10 4
♥ K 10 7
♦ J 10 9
♣ Q J 9 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no trump.

Most experts avoid this response on a really weak hand, since it is preferably to bid a four-card suit at the level of one or to raise clubs with a poor hand. The wasteful notrump response is used to show a balanced hand of eight to 10 points without a biddable major suit.

Coin Club Topic

Foreign currency will be discussed at the Marin Coin Club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Mill Valley Methodist Church.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, June 13, the 164th day of 1969 with 201 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1877 the Russo-Turkish War began.

In 1944 Germany began using its "Buzz Bomb" secret weapon on England during World War II.

A thought for the day: William Butler Yeats born on this day in 1865 said, "The years like great black oxen tread the world, and God, the herdsman, goads them on behind."

Triple Pensions Keep Him Going

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charles Johnson is a pension collector.

He gets one from the Veterans Administration, one from Social Security and pensions from the telephone company and an insurance agency.

In 1943, after 25 years with Southern Bell, Johnson retired and began selling insurance. In September, 1968, after 25 years on that job, he retired again.

Johnson, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, still drives his car, although he is 90 years of age.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Ballad of Josie" — An amusing western set in Wyoming at the time the State was a struggling territory and Doris Day struggles for woman's independence.

"Gone With The Wind" — Famous film classic now transposed to super screen with sterophonic sound remains one of the landmarks in American filmmaking.

"Longest Day" — Superb historical documentary drama which recreates pictorially D-Day invasion of Normandy Coast by the Allies. Magnificent spectacle.

"Shoes of the Fisherman" — Film retains author's concern with human integrity. Magnificent pageantry surrounding the Papacy and the grandeur of the Vatican.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle Beneath the Earth" — Science Fiction tale of investigation of network of tunnels constructed by Chinese terrorist group in U.S. complete with Atom bombs.

"Green Slime" — Produced in Japan with American cast, this science fiction tale is amateurish and trite.

"Romeo and Juliet" — The great tragedy is made vividly new and immediate in a superlative production.

"Winning" — Story of a race driver, his wife and stepson. It will appeal to those who enjoy car racing.

BODERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Goldfinger" — Ian Flemings' tale of mystery where violence, mayhem, sadistic brutality abound.

"How I Won the War" — Anti war message is clear and disturbing. War is utter lunacy; but the film offends by the mockery it makes of the tragedy of war.

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas" — Establishment and the hippies are spoofed to a fare-thee-well in this lively contemporary comedy.

ADULTS ONLY

"Big Bounce" — Nice scenery is wasted on this murder mystery. Dialogue and nudity are offensive.

"Dr. No" — This time James Bond is wading through a welter of blood, sweat and swamp water and takes sex and assassination in stride.

"Killing of Sister George" — Title taken from character which an actress portrays on TV. Film treats lesbianism with unprecedented explicitness with lewd scenes blatantly shown.

SYMBOL AND CHOIR

brotherhood

Drug Charges Against Rock Group Trio Are Dropped

Drug charges against three members of a rock group called Bogy were dropped again yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office was not ready to proceed with a preliminary hearing.

Freed again were John Howard Barrett, 28; Barry Lowell Bastian, 25, and William Warren Leidenthal, 22 all of Fairfax.

The case was dismissed once before after the defendants claimed that their right to a speedy trial had been denied when many continuances were granted because a chemist was not available to testify.

The district attorney's office, however, refiled a new suit immediately, charging the same offenses, growing and possessing marijuana.

Driver Breaks Foot In Crash

A car driven by Martin David Barrios, 45, of 444 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, went over an embankment yesterday at 9:45 a.m. in Fairfax and landed on the right front fender of a parked car owned by Charles Jenks of 191 Cascade Drive, police reported.

Barrios said a small vehicle forced him to swerve to another lane.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for minor head injuries and a broken foot. No charges were filed and damage to the two cars has not been estimated.

College Now Seeks A Superintendent

Marin Junior College District trustees met in closed session last night to discuss the hiring of a permanent president for College of Marin, then reconvening in open session, announced they will look not for a president but a superintendent.

The board directed that the six-member presidential screening committee meet again to consider a search for a superintendent, trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy reported.

Mrs. Deedy said that the action does not mean that the three candidates for the office of president were, in effect, turned down.

She said that, if the board decides to hire a superintendent or a superintendent-president, and if the three men qualify, they may be considered for the post.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman told the board that the college needs to appoint a chief administrative officer for the 1969-70 academic year. This position requires a general administrative credential.

Mrs. Deedy also said she believed a superintendent should be someone who could make major studies which would allow the college to develop its Novato campus as Marin's population grows.

She said the board is trying to name a new college head by June 30, the end of the school year. Louis H. Herkenhoff is now acting president.

Reed Pupils' Reading Test Off Slightly

Reading levels of Reed School District pupils on Stanford achievement tests last year fell below those of the previous year except in the second grade.

Results of the tests given in May of last year were reported to the Reed School District board 12 months later. They show Reed District pupils in first grade reading at 1.8 in May, 1968, compared to 2.1 for the first graders of a year earlier. (National norm for first graders tested in May is 1.9.)

In the second grade, the average raises from 2.9 in May, 1967, to 3.1 a year later — .2 above the national norm.

In third grade, it dropped from 4.1 in 1967 to 3.8 last year, or .1 below the norm.

Results of sixth grade tests given in October were announced at the same time. These showed last October's sixth graders reading at average grade level of 6.2 — exactly on the national norm but down from 6.6 for the sixth grade a year earlier.

Comparative 1968 scores for a leading San Francisco school, Madison Elementary School, as reported in January were: Second grade, 3.9; third grade, 5.2, and sixth grade, 9.3.

City Battling Sewage Leaks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Emergency repairs have been ordered for leaks that have dumped about 10 million gallons of raw San Francisco sewage into the bay since last Friday.

Raw sewage started flowing out of manhole covers near Islais Creek June 6, forcing a shutdown of the Southeast Sewage Treatment Plant, which handles 18 per cent of city sewage. The flow is 18 million gallons a day.

"This happened," said City Engineer Robert Levy, "because sewage coming from the plant was diverted to empty several hundred feet farther out into the bay."

Levy said sewage began backing up into the treatment plant forcing its shutdown. The task now, he said, is to excavate around several manhole covers and pour cement collars to seal them.

Driver Hurt In Minicycle Crash

Pamela Thomas, 17, of 86 Convent Court, San Rafael, was treated for broken ribs and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after she rode a homemade minicycle down an embankment, San Rafael police reported.

Police said Miss Taylor borrowed the machine from its builder, Ronald E. Palmer of 8 Blossom Drive, and rode it down a hill to the end of Blossom Court, where the brakeless cycle hit the curb and threw her some 20 feet.

Palmer told police the machine, powered by a lawnmower engine, was not finished. An ineffective friction plate was its only brake, police said.

To Superior Court

James Wade of 105 Shaver Street, San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on six charges of signing another person's name to a credit card. He is to appear in court June 23 for arraignment.

Span Board Increases Salaries

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board, overriding protests by Supervisors Michael Wornum and other Marin directors, today increased the salaries of four of its top five adminstrative officers by 8.7 to 23.4 per cent.

At the same time, the board approved a general salary increase of 5 per cent for most other employees.

Dist. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring's salary, the only increase which did not draw objections, was raised from $24,000 to $27,500 a year, a 14.6 per cent boost.

Dist. Auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren received the biggest increase — 23.4 per cent — from $20,256 to $25,000. Engineer Robert E. Shields's salary was hiked from $23,000 to $25,000, which at 8.7 per cent was the lowest increase. A raise of 15 per cent from $17,376 to $20,000 was given to Dist. Secty. Helen Jack.

Action on the salary of the other top administrative officer, the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, was postponed. White now receives $14,760 a year.

Minesweeper Is Bumped By Sub

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — A British Royal Navy submarine bumped a U.S. Navy minesweeper while docking at this American naval base today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The submarine, the Rorqual, was not damaged and no members of its crew were injured.

The spokesman said the minesweeper, the USS Endurance, had a hole about three feet in diameter punched in her wooden hull. There were no injuries aboard.

General Lockup At Quentin

Conditions at San Quentin were reported "very quiet" today as a general lockup for more than 3,000 prisoners remained in effect after the outbreak of racial violence Wednesday which left one convict dead and six wounded.

Warden Louis S. Nelson warned the inmates on the prison radio to "cool it" or risk the prison being operated "along the rigid rules of Alcatraz."

Warden Nelson blamed a "Klu Klux mentality" on both sides for the Negro-Caucasian flareup Wednesday.

Questioning of 13 Negro suspects, including another added today, is being conducted in special detention cells.

Associate Warden James Park said he is not able to predict when the general lockup will end and classes, job assignments and recreational activities can resume. He said, however, the restriction will not be lifted before Monday while officials are "feeling out the climate."

Park said the vast majority of the prisoners "want no part of the violence and are unhappy about being locked up." Only those needed for hospital, kitchen and laundry duties are not locked up.

The assailants in the stabbings used a scissor's blade and toilet plunger rods sharpened into knives. Park said officials are tightening up, present tool control procedures as the general shakedown of the prison continues.

The six men injured Wednesday were reported in good condition today at the prison hospital and are expected to recover, according to Parks.

Numbers Sprayed On School's Walls

Juveniles got away intth darkness last night after spray-painting the number 69 on walls and doors at San Rafael High School and attempting to cut down the school flagpole with a chain saw, San Rafael police reported.

The juveniles were chased away by a maintenance man and the flag pole was only scratched, police said.

Sabella Defendant Ill; Trial Halted

By MARY LEYDECKER

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella was continued today until Monday when one of the defendants was too ill to come to court.

A county doctor told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court that he thought Daniel Thomas Stathos, who is in jail would be well enough for the trial to resume on Monday. He remained in a cell where a nurse was to check him.

Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal are on trial for the Sabella crime last November, and Stathos is also charged with the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

A third man, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Larkspur, has pleaded guilty to his part in both offenses and is serving a term at San Quentin. He has testified in the trial that Stathos and Harnal were crime partners.

Yesterday, Stathos, who has been acting as his own attorney, called witnesses to testify that Hoefler was prejudiced against him because of an alleged affair with Hoefler's wife, Darlene.

Another San Quentin inmate, Ednumd A. Chatham of San Francisco, a friend of Hoefler and Stathos, testified that Hoefler has told him that he "would get even" with Stathos.

Under cross-examination, Chatham admitted that he had once lived with Stathos in Pacifica for a short time before being convicted of a San Francisco armed robbery and that Stathos collected bail money for him last year.

An 18-yearpold girl who was with Stathos at the time of an arrest in San Francisco last fall told the jury that Hoefler's wife was fearful of being arrested herself after her husband was jailed on armed robbery counts.

Charlyce Brant of Brisbane also said that she had never known Stathos to carry a gun, contradicting testimony by Mr. and Mrs. Hoefler. Last witness to be called by Stathos was his wife, Sharon, who said Mrs. Hoefler had called her last summer to say that Stathos and Mrs. Hoefler were having an affair.

No defense witnesses were called by Jerome C. Durham, public defender, who is representing Harnal.

Twin Sisters, 19, Booked As Weed Growing Suspects

Nineteen-year-old twin sisters, granddaughters of the chairman of the board of a large publishing firm, were arrested yesterday in Kentfield on suspicion of cultivating marijuana.

Booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $1,250 were Deborah Wadsworth Prentice Ettinger and Pamela Prentice Ettinger, who were arrested at a house they had been renting at 53 Redwood Drive.

Marin Drug Abuse Bureau agents said there had been reports of a great deal of nighttime traffic to the house as well as rumors of marijuana growing.

An agent spotted about 50 plants in pots and planters at the home through binoculars and then went to the house, where the sisters told him that the plants were indeed marijuana, the agent said.

He added that the "girls were dressed in hippie clothes and the house was a filthy mess."

One of the twins, Deborah, today told a jail matron today that "jail is just like boarding school but the girls are nicer."

Their grandfather is Richard Prentice Ettinger Sr. of New York, co-founder of Prentice-Hall Inc., and their father, who lives in Atherton, is also associated with the publishing firm.

The girls remained in jail today in lieu of bail and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m.

SYMBOL AND CHOIR

Drug Charges Against Rock Group Trio Are Dropped

Drug charges against three members of a rock group called Bogy were dropped again yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office was not ready to proceed with a preliminary hearing.

Freed again were John Howard Barrett, 28; Barry Lowell Bastian, 25, and William Warren Leidenthal, 22 all of Fairfax.

The case was dismissed once before after the defendants claimed that their right to a speedy trial had been denied when many continuances were granted because a chemist was not available to testify.

The district attorney's office, however, refiled a new suit immediately, charging the same offenses, growing and possessing marijuana.

Driver Breaks Foot In Crash

A car driven by Martin David Barrios, 45, of 444 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, went over an embankment yesterday at 9:45 a.m. in Fairfax and landed on the right front fender of a parked car owned by Charles Jenks of 191 Cascade Drive, police reported.

Barrios said a small vehicle forced him to swerve to another lane.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for minor head injuries and a broken foot. No charges were filed and damage to the two cars has not been estimated.

Driver Hurt In Minicycle Crash

Pamela Thomas, 17, of 86 Convent Court, San Rafael, was treated for broken ribs and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after she rode a homemade minicycle down an embankment, San Rafael police reported.

Police said Miss Taylor borrowed the machine from its builder, Ronald E. Palmer of 8 Blossom Drive, and rode it down a hill to the end of Blossom Court, where the brakeless cycle hit the curb and threw her some 20 feet.

Palmer told police the machine, powered by a lawnmower engine, was not finished. An ineffective friction plate was its only brake, police said.

College Now Seeks A Superintendent

Marin Junior College District trustees met in closed session last night to discuss the hiring of a permanent president for College of Marin, then reconvening in open session, announced they will look not for a president but a superintendent.

The board directed that the six-member presidential screening committee meet again to consider a search for a superintendent, trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy reported.

Mrs. Deedy said that the action does not mean that the three candidates for the office of president were, in effect, turned down.

She said that, if the board decides to hire a superintendent or a superintendent-president, and if the three men qualify, they may be considered for the post.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman told the board that the college needs to appoint a chief administrative officer for the 1969-70 academic year. This position requires a general administrative credential.

Mrs. Deedy also said she believed a superintendent should be someone who could make major studies which would allow the college to develop its Novato campus as Marin's population grows.

She said the board is trying to name a new college head by June 30, the end of the school year. Louis H. Herkenhoff is now acting president.

Reed Pupils' Reading Test Off Slightly

Reading levels of Reed School District pupils on Stanford achievement tests last year fell below those of the previous year except in the second grade.

Results of the tests given in May of last year were reported to the Reed School District board 12 months later. They show Reed District pupils in first grade reading at 1.8 in May, 1968, compared to 2.1 for the first graders of a year earlier. (National norm for first graders tested in May is 1.9.)

In the second grade, the average raises from 2.9 in May, 1967, to 3.1 a year later — .2 above the national norm.

In third grade, it dropped from 4.1 in 1967 to 3.8 last year, or .1 below the norm.

Results of sixth grade tests given in October were announced at the same time. These showed last October's sixth graders reading at average grade level of 6.2 — exactly on the national norm but down from 6.6 for the sixth grade a year earlier.

Comparative 1968 scores for a leading San Francisco school, Madison Elementary School, as reported in January were: Second grade, 3.9: third grade, 5.2, and sixth grade, 9.3.

City Battling Sewage Leaks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Emergency repairs have been ordered for leaks that have dumped about 10 million gallons of raw San Francisco sewage into the bay since last Friday.

Raw sewage started flowing out of manhole covers near Islais Creek June 6, forcing a shutdown of the Southeast Sewage Treatment Plant, which handles 18 per cent of city sewage. The flow is 18 million gallons a day.

"This happened," said City Engineer Robert Levy, "because sewage coming from the plant was diverted to empty several hundred feet farther out into the bay."

Levy said sewage began backing up into the treatment plant forcing its shutdown. The task now, he said, is to excavate around several manhole covers and pour cement collars to seal them.

To Superior Court

James Wade of 105 Shaver Street, San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on six charges of signing another person's name to a credit card. He is to appear in court June 23 for arraignment.

Span Board Increases Salaries

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board, overriding protests by Supervisors Michael Wornum and other Marin directors, today increased the salaries of four of its top five adminstrative officers by 8.7 to 23.4 per cent.

At the same time, the board approved a general salary increase of 5 per cent for most other employees.

Dist. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring's salary, the only increase which did not draw objections, was raised from $24,000 to $27,500 a year, a 14.6 per cent boost.

Dist. Auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren received the biggest increase — 23.4 per cent — from $20,256 to $25,000. Engineer Robert E. Shields's salary was hiked from $23,000 to $25,000, which at 8.7 per cent was the lowest increase. A raise of 15 per cent from $17,376 to $20,000 was given to Dist. Secty. Helen Jack.

Action on the salary of the other top administrative officer, the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, was postponed. White now receives $14,760 a year.

Minesweeper Is Bumped By Sub

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — A British Royal Navy submarine bumped a U.S. Navy minesweeper while docking at this American naval base today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The submarine, the Rorqual, was not damaged and no members of its crew were injured.

The spokesman said the minesweeper, the USS Endurance, had a hole about three feet in diameter punched in her wooden hull. There were no injuries aboard.

General Lockup At Quentin

Conditions at San Quentin were reported "very quiet" today as a general lockup for more than 3,000 prisoners remained in effect after the outbreak of racial violence Wednesday which left one convict dead and six wounded.

Warden Louis S. Nelson warned the inmates on the prison radio to "cool it" or risk the prison being operated "along the rigid rules of Alcatraz."

Warden Nelson blamed a "Klu Klux mentality" on both sides for the Negro-Caucasian flareup Wednesday.

Questioning of 13 Negro suspects, including another added today, is being conducted in special detention cells.

Associate Warden James Park said he is not able to predict when the general lockup will end and classes, job assignments and recreational activities can resume. He said, however, the restriction will not be lifted before Monday while officials are "feeling out the climate."

Park said the vast majority of the prisoners "want no part of the violence and are unhappy about being locked up." Only those needed for hospital, kitchen and laundry duties are not locked up.

The assailants in the stabbings used a scissor's blade and toilet plunger rods sharpened into knives. Park said officials are tightening up, present tool control procedures as the general shakedown of the prison continues.

The six men injured Wednesday were reported in good condition today at the prison hospital and are expected to recover, according to Parks.

Numbers Sprayed On School's Walls

Juveniles got away intth darkness last night after spray-painting the number 69 on walls and doors at San Rafael High School and attempting to cut down the school flagpole with a chain saw, San Rafael police reported.

The juveniles were chased away by a maintenance man and the flag pole was only scratched, police said.

Sabella Defendant Ill; Trial Halted

By MARY LEYDECKER

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella was continued today until Monday when one of the defendants was too ill to come to court.

A county doctor told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court that he thought Daniel Thomas Stathos, who is in jail would be well enough for the trial tc resume on Monday. He remained in a cell where a nurse was to check him.

Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal are on trial for the Sabella crime last November, and Stathos is also charged with the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

A third man, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Larkspur, has pleaded guilty to his part in both offenses and is serving a term at San Quentin. He has testified in the trial that Stathos and Harnal were crime partners.

Yesterday, Stathos, who has been acting as his own attorney, called witnesses to testify that Hoefler was prejudiced against him because of an alleged affair with Hoefler's wife, Darlene.

Another San Quentin inmate, Ednumd A. Chatham of San Francisco, a friend of Hoefler and Stathos, testified that Hoefler has told him that he "would get even" with Stathos.

Under cross-examination, Chatham admitted that he had once lived with Stathos in Pacifica for a short time before being convicted of a San Francisco armed robbery and that Stathos collected bail money for him last year.

An 18-yearpold girl who was with Stathos at the time of an arrest in San Francisco last fall told the jury that Hoefler's wife was fearful of being arrested herself after her husband was jailed on armed robbery counts.

Charlyce Brant of Brisbane also said that she had never known Stathos to carry a gun, contradicting testimony by Mr. and Mrs. Hoefler. Last witness to be called by Stathos was his wife, Sharon, who said Mrs. Hoefler had called her last summer to say that Stathos and Mrs. Hoefler were having an affair.

No defense witnesses were called by Jerome C. Durham, public defender, who is representing Harnal.

Twin Sisters, 19, Booked As Weed Growing Suspects

Nineteen-year-old twin sisters, granddaughters of the chairman of the board of a large publishing firm, were arrested yesterday in Kentfield on suspicion of cultivating marijuana.

Booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $1,250 were Deborah Wadsworth Prentice Ettinger and Pamela Prentice Ettinger, who were arrested at a house they had been renting at 53 Redwood Drive.

Marin Drug Abuse Bureau agents said there had been reports of a great deal of nighttime traffic to the house as well as rumors of marijuana growing.

An agent spotted about 50 plants in pots and planters at the home through binoculars and then went to the house, where the sisters told him that the plants were indeed marijuana, the agent said.

He added that the "girls were dressed in hippie clothes and the house was a filthy mess."

One of the twins, Deborah, today told a jail matron today that "jail is just like boarding school but the girls are nicer."

Their grandfather is Richard Prentice Ettinger Sr. of New York, co-founder of Prentice-Hall Inc., and their father, who lives in Atherton, is also associated with the publishing firm.

The girls remained in jail today in lieu of bail and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m.

Task Force Will Probe Student Acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has ordered the creation of a task force system to gather intelligence and prepare for prosecution of the central figures in campus rebellions.

The avenue: a year-old civil rights law.

The Appropriations Committee advised the Senate today that Mitchell had ordered development of "a strong program looking toward the vigorous prosecution of dissidents on college campuses whose actions interfere with a federally conducted civil rights of nondissident students or faculty members."

PLAN DESCRIBED

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard described the plan in May 13 testimony before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

The civil rights division, which Leonard heads, would get funds for 30 new employees under the bill before the Senate.

The Appropriations Committee, in recommending the new positions, said it expected the civil rights law authority "will be utilized to the fullest extent" against campus revolts.

The testimony and the committee's recommendations were made public as both Senate and House committees prepared to look into the troubles afflicting college campuses.

HEARINGS SLATED

The Senate permanent investigations subcommittee opens hearings Monday on militant organizations involved, and Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said testimony about the groups would be heard from police officials in New York, Los Angeles, Oakland, Detroit, Chicago and other ares.

The House Education and Labor Committee, also on Monday, will hear from administration officials and the heads of eight colleges their opinions on a bill dealing with campus unrest.

OPPONENTS REQUEST

Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said the one-day hearing was scheduled at request of opponents of the bill, which the committee will consider on Tuesday.

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations subcommitte, Leonard said the chances of convicting campus militants under federal conspiracy law would be remote.

The civil rights law ban on interference with people benefiting from federally financed programs offers a better avenue for action, he said.

Pistol, Cash Stolen

A .22-caliber carbon dioxide pistol and $53 in cash were stolen Wednesday night or yesterday in a burglary of the Country Club Barber Shop, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael police reported.

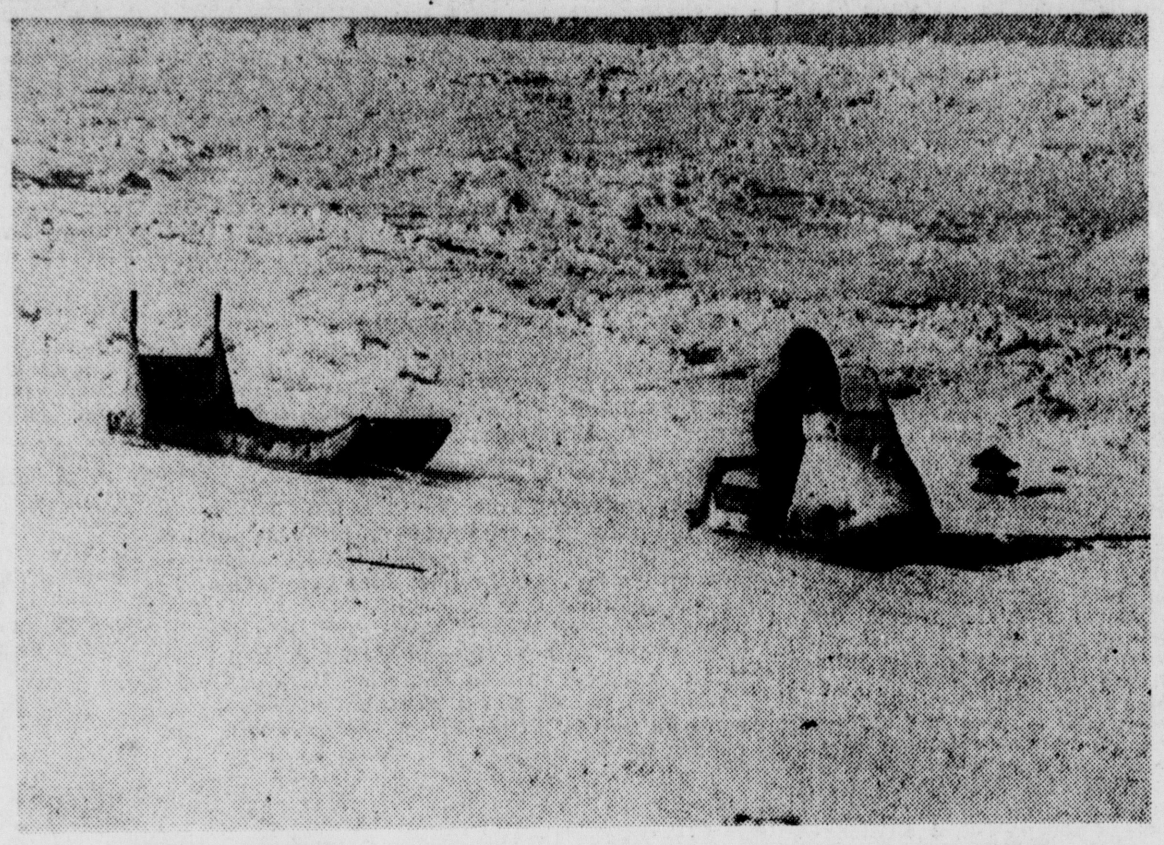
Alaskan Sled Dogs Join Horse, Buggy



NO MORE 'MUSH' — Instead of knowing how to crack the whip on a team of sled dogs, an Eskimo at Barrow, Alaska, now must know how to operate a snowmobile, but he still uses the traditional sled for carrying his cargo across the arctic wastes. (UPI Telephoto)

BARROW, Alaska (UPI)—Count among the romantic casualties of our age, the sled dog. He is disappearing from the Arctic with scarcely a whimper.

His replacement is the ubiquitous snowmobile—faster, more economical, but pitifully unromantic.

A few short years ago, virtually every Eskimo or Indian family had at least one team of seven or eight dogs staked out in front of the house. Now it is far more common to find a loudly painted snowmachine parked there.

FEW TEAMS REMAIN

At Barrow, the world's largest Eskimo village, about 2,200 people comprise 400-odd families. Just 10 years ago the village boasted uncounted scores of dog teams. Today, only 11 teams are left.

The situation is similar at other Alaska Eskimo villages and in the Canadian Arctic, where the Mounties recently ran the last of their fabled sled dog patrols.

Traditionalists bemoan the disappearance of the sled dog. They recall the countless legends—many of them, unfortunately, untrue—about devoted dogs saving their masters' lives during Arctic crises, and the standard fiction-writer's portrait of the husky as more noble than nature and bigger than life.

But the Eskimos are not a sentimental people and for them the adoption of the snowmobile has been just economic common sense.

DOGS EAT FISH

A working sled dog will eat five pounds of meat or fish a day. Thus, an average team can consume 35-40 pounds of food daily and in theory could devour six tons a year—though it is highly unlikely that any Eskimo dog team has ever had such extraordinary good fortune.

This is food out of the Eskimo's mouth, since his traditional diet is much the same as his dogs'. And as the development of the Arctic continues, game becomes scarcer.

INEVITABLE REPLACEMENT

So it was inevitable that the snowmobile would replace the dog, just as the rifle has replaced the bow and arrow and harpoon.

The sled dog's life has never been much of a bargain anyway.

The typical dog is usually smaller than one would imagine. He is gaunt and his ribs show, for in the Arctic the sled dog competes for survival, like everything else.

Here, the dog is not man's friend and companion as he is elsewhere. He is the common beast of burden, a tool to be used like any other.

As such, the dog leads a frequently miserable life, chained to a stake and receiving little food when he is not needed, curled in the snow in the howling, sub-zero nights.

And he is always expendable. When there is enough food for man and beast, he eats; when there is not, he goes without. And in a true emergency—still not unheard of in this wild land—he may become food himself, for his master or the other dogs.

Swim Classes At Terra Linda

The summer swimming program at Terra Linda High School has been postponed for two weeks because of pool maintenance and repairs, the San Rafael Recreation Department announced today.

Public swimming will begin July 1 instead of Tuesday and the Learn to Swim programs and Tiny Tot swimming lessons will start July 8 instead of June 24.

The Water Safety Aid program will be conducted as scheduled, Tuesday through Saturday, but will be switched to the San Rafael High School, reported Andrew J. Snyder Jr. parks and recreation director.

The San Rafael High School pool schedule will remain unchanged.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Persons Lacking Inner Stability May Be In Perpetual Anxiety

VAN DELLEN

Some individuals are in a perpetual state of anxiety and discomfort; they face one crisis after another; many of these problems are of their own making. Many are not so bad off as it would seem, because, by ordinary standards, their problems are minor.

These men and women never acquired the emotional stability in childhood to help them overcome the everyday ups and down of adulthood.

THEY NEED TO learn the habits and attitudes necessary for emotional security. If their work loads seem unbearable they ought to do the most urgent tasks first. The remaining chores can be tackled later.

Many persons expect too much of themselves. They full and fume when their achievements fall below expectations. These people should do the best they can without shirking and be satisfied with their productivity.

HELP SHOULD BE sought when ever life's tribulations seem overwhelming. Confide in a level-headed friend, counselor, clergyman, or physician.

Rulnning away from trouble is not good policy but there are times when it is the thing to do. During the interval, the person has an opportunity to regain balance and see the problem in its true light.

The emotionally mature individual has learned to give and take. He yields a little even though the challenger might be wrong.

IT IS WISE TO let off steam by working in the garden or cleaning outth e garage or basement. This is better than retaliating via a nasty phone call or poison pen letter. It is surprising what counting to 10 will do to maintain the respect of others.

It is well known that the cheerful person can better cope with problems. Skulking through life with a chip on the shoulder never solves any problem, be it small or large.

CARDIAC ASTHMA

G. G. writes: Is there such a thing as an asthmatic heart?

REPLY

Yes, unless you refer to cardiac asthma, in which symptoms mimic asthma. This form of heart failure involves the left ventricle. The victim awakens at night, gasping for breath. This disorder is not on an allergic basis and should not be confused with bronchial asthma. On the other hand, the right side of the heart may be strained by the scar tissue on the lungs brought about after years of asthma and chronic bronchitis.

20 CARROTS A DAY

A reader writes: I'm always bloated and my skin is yellow. One of my neighbors told me the 15-20 raw carrots I eat daily could be responsible. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes, provided the whites of your eyes remain clear. In jaundice, the whites of the eyes as well as the skin become discolored. A blood test will answer your question.

FLU AND THE KIDNEYS

A reader writes: Can an attack of flu cause infection of the kidneys and bladder?

REPLY

Yes, particularly if the individual has had this experience before. These are the people who say, "Every time I catch cold it goes to my bladder and kidneys."

RELAXATION AIDS ULCER

A reader writes: How does a tranquilizer help the victim of a duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

By encouraging relaxation. When the sufferer is calm, so is the stomach; and tranquility reduces the activity of the acid-producing glands.

SURGERY IN DEAFNESS

L. P. C. writes: Is surgery beneficial in any hearing defect other than otosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Lymphoid tissue that covers the openings of the eustachian tubes can be removed surgically to improve hearing. Some types of developmental defects or chronic infections can also be corrected surgically. I know of no operation that will help nerve deafness.

DIABETIES IN CHILDREN

T. T. writes: Is diabetes more serious in children than in adults?

REPLY

Yes. Older individuals usually develop the disease in its mild form.

MANY RED CORPUSCLES

L. Y. writes: An analysis of my son's blood showed too many red corpuscles. Is there any treatment besides bloodletting?

REPLY

Polycythemia vera is treated with radioactive phosphorus or regular bleeding. Irradiation of the bone marrow and nitrogen mustard are less frequently used treatments. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on polycythemia vera.

BOWEL RESECTION

A reader writes: What is a bowel resection?

REPLY

In this operation a segment of the intestine is cut out and the open ends are sewn together. The procedure is done when the structure contains a tumor, ulcer, or an inflammatory mass. It is just as if a segment of garden hose were cut out and the two ends were fastened together. The hose is shorter but works just as well as before.

ENURETIC TRADITION

A reader writes: Is bedwetting inherited? My 7-year-old son still does it and recently my husband told me he was bothered as a child.

REPLY

I doubt it, even though some studies have shown that the condition is two to three times more prevalent in families where one parent had been a bedwetter. The enuretic tradition may be a family affair or a matter of emotionally disturbed parents having emotionally immature offspring.

Task Force Will Probe Student Acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has ordered the creation of a task force system to gather intelligence and prepare for prosecution of the central figures in campus rebellions.

The avenue: a year-old civil rights law.

The Appropriations Committee advised the Senate today that Mitchell had ordered development of "a strong program looking toward the vigorous prosecution of dissidents on college campuses whose actions interfere with a federally conducted civil rights of nondissident students or faculty members."

PLAN DESCRIBED

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard described the plan in May 13 testimony before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

The civil rights division, which Leonard heads, would get funds for 30 new employees under the bill before the Senate.

The Appropriations Committee, in recommending the new positions, said it expected the civil rights law authority "will be utilized to the fullest extent" against campus revolts.

The testimony and the committee's recommendations were made public as both Senate and House committees prepared to look into the troubles afflicting college campuses.

HEARINGS SLATED

The Senate permanent investigations subcommittee opens hearings Monday on militant organizations involved, and Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said testimony about the groups would be heard from police officials in New York, Los Angeles, Oakland, Detroit, Chicago and other ares.

The House Education and Labor Committee, also on Monday, will hear from administration officials and the heads of eight colleges their opinions on a bill dealing with campus unrest.

OPPONENTS REQUEST

Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said the one-day hearing was scheduled at request of opponents of the bill, which the committee will consider on Tuesday.

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations subcommitte, Leonard said the chances of convicting campus militants under federal conspiracy law would be remote.

The civil rights law ban on interference with people benefiting from federally financed programs offers a better avenue for action, he said.

Pistol, Cash Stolen

A .22-caliber carbon dioxide pistol and $53 in cash were stolen Wednesday night or yesterday in a burglary of the Country Club Barber Shop, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael police reported.

Span Shows Vehicle Hike During May

Traffic and revenue for Golden Gate Bridge were both up during May, with revenue increasing by $18,000 over a year ago, Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, said today.

In his report to the directors, Luehring said traffic during May increased 3.99 per cent over last year. The number of vehicles crossing the span was 2,726,142, compared to 2,621,437 in 1968.

Revenue was up 4 per cent to $570,407, compared to $548,489 last year.

The highest single day was May 18, a Sunday, when the number of vehicles crossing the bridge was 101,246.

Luehring said Greyhound commuter bus traffic was down significantly during May with a figure of 11,576 busses crossing, compared to 12,157 during the previous May. This is a decrease of 4.78 per cent. U.S. government passes decreased 8.18 per cent to 55,972 crossings.

Luehring told the directors there are now 46 bridge officers, 18 less than the 64 authorized under two-way toll collection. The current number of toll-takers, he said, appears to be as low as he can go with the one-way tolls and is saving $196,706 annually.

Teachers Workshop

Caleb Gattegno of New York, director of Schools for the Future, will conduct a four-day workshop for teachers on mathematics starting tomorrow (Saturday) at Bahia Vista School in San Rafael.

Policeman Kills Ex-Mayor's Son

BURBANK (UPI) — The son of a former Burbank mayor was killed by a shotgun blast fired by a policeman investigating a burglary.

Frank Brandon, 23, whose father, Dr. Robert Brandon, served two terms as mayor, was shot by officer Robert H. Jacobs, a 13-year veteran of the force.

Jacobs said he was investigating a report yesterday of a burglary in progress at a cafe. He shouted to man inside, "Come out with your hands up."

The man ignored the warning and ran to the rear of the building. The officer warned him a second time and the suspect ran toward a plate-glass window in the front of the cafe.

Jacobs fired a single blast from his 12-gauge shotgun, fatally wounding Brandon in the chest. Brandon had a police record of misdemeanor arrests on burglary and narcotics charges.

Collier Asks Meeting On Shrimp Crisis

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, has warned the California shrimp industry may be faced with a "critical" shortage and has called for a "meeting of the minds" between commercial fisherman and the state fish and game department.

Collier pointed to the loss of the sardine and bay shrimp industries this week as being warnings of what can happen to the California shrimp industry.

He said the fish and game department has also warned the situation could become critical unless action is taken immediately to demand that quotas be strictly adhered to.

Collier said that in 1952 the California shrimp yield was 206,107 pounds. In 1968, the state harvest rose to 2.3 million pounds.

However, Collier said, warnings of shrimp depletion off the coast was made evident when the known shrimp beds at Bodega Bay and Fort Bragg did not provide a yield as they have done in the past. In fact, he said, they have been abandoned as a profitable commercial venture.

He called for commerical fishermen to protect the industry, "as is required of the timber, mining and agriculture interests."

The senator also warned that the Pacific crab, and with the advent of scuba diving, the abalone, may be faced with the same fate.

Blaze Destroys Abandoned Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A three-alarm fire destroyed the abandoned three-story Sequoia Hotel last night.

The building, at Third and Howard streets, was scheduled to be torn down within the next two years as part of the Yerba Buena redevelopment project.

More than 140 firemen had the blaze under control 45 minutes after it started.

Marin City Council Postpones Session

The Marin City Council canceled its scheduled meeting last night for lack of a quorum, and Chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. said a special session would be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Manzanita Center.

Banks said the council, which recently received a federal planning grant, will have to plan staffing, three full-time employees including a community coordinator, and the opening of an office. The federal grant of $50,000 is slated to be matched by $25,000 in Marin County services.

TV REVIEW

Prejudiced Questions Tossed Out

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Prejudiced questions about television:

Will somebody please tell me how the CBS-TV situation comedy, "The Queen and I," ever got on the air? I mean, if "Turn-On" was canceled after one performance, could anyone justify giving "The Queen and I" more than 15 minutes?

Isn't Raymond Burr, of NBC-TV's "Ironside," the most underrated major star on the home screen? The man is as solid an anchor for a television series as there is around.

Shouldn't somebody advise ABC-TV's Tom Jones, a potent singing performer, that he would be twice as effective all-around if he only took some lessons on how to deliver lines?

Isn't it nice that Edward Mulhare and Hope Lange of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," canceled by NBC-TV, will be around against next season on ABC-TV?—because aren't they far and away the most attractive mature couple in all the regular video series?

Will someone please explain to me what has been so funny about "Get Smart" for the past couple of years?

Isn't Robert Conrad, of CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West," the most inconspicuous star on television?

And isn't it also obvious to everyone that CBS-TV's Glen Campbell will be on video for every bit as long as he wants to be, and that he is a tremendous television star in the making?

Weren't you surprised—along with the video industry—when NBC-TV's "Julia" series, the most talked-about and successful new show of this past season, was overlooked in last weekend's Emmy awards presentations?

Isn't Robert Wagner, of ABC-TV's "It Takes a Thief," the Cary Grant of television?

And could you find a better all-purpose series star than Darren McGavin of NBC-TV's "The Outsider"?

How in the world did anyone decide that Jonathan Winters would be able to carry a weekly one-hour CBS-TV show?

And how can anyone fail to see that Goldie Hawn, of NBC-TV's "Laugh-In," and Susan Saint James, of the same network's "The Name of the Game," have surefire movie careers in the offing?

And aren't those enough questions for one day?

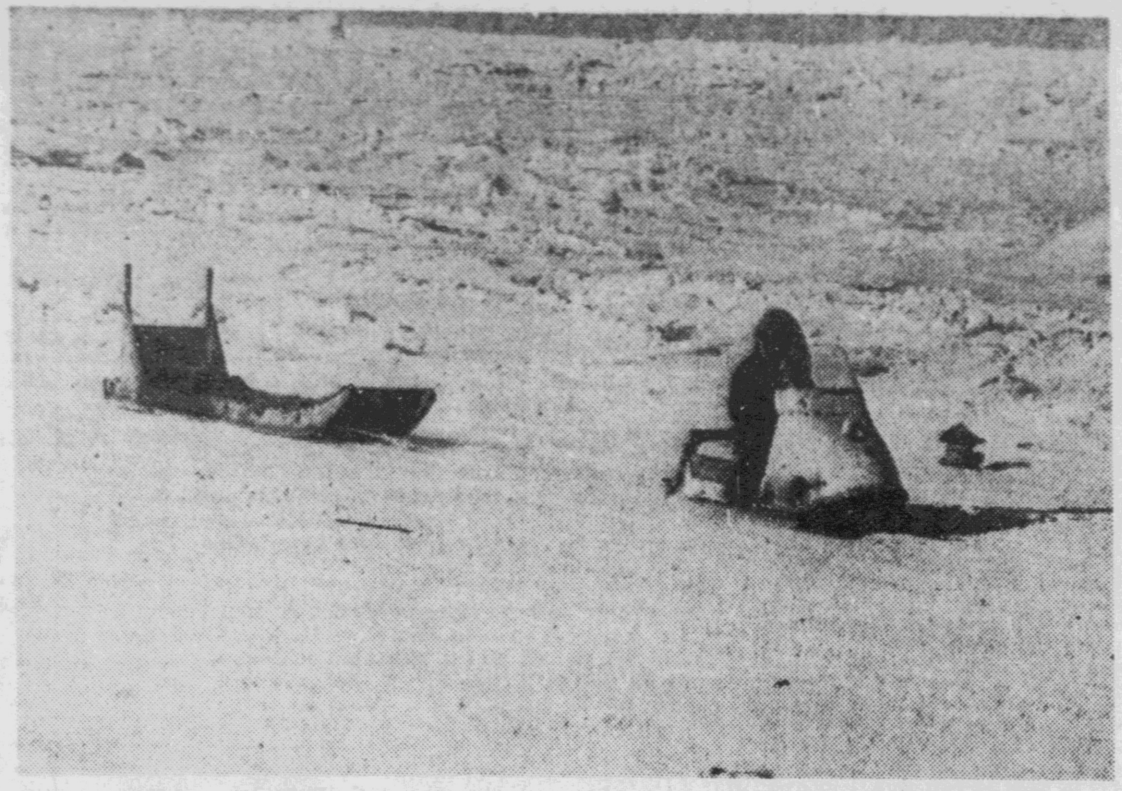
Alaskan Sled Dogs Join Horse, Buggy



NO MORE 'MUSH' — Instead of knowing how to crack the whip on a team of sled dogs, an Eskimo at Barrow, Alaska, now must know how to operate a snowmobile, but he still uses the traditional sled for carrying his cargo across the arctic wastes. (UPI Telephoto)

BARROW, Alaska (UPI)—Count among the romantic casualties of our age, the sled dog. He is disappearing from the Arctic with scarcely a whimper.

His replacement is the ubiquitous snowmobile—faster, more economical, but pitifully unromantic.

A few short years ago, virtually every Eskimo or Indian family had at least one team of seven or eight dogs staked out in front of the house. Now it is far more common to find a loudly painted snowmachine parked there.

FEW TEAMS REMAIN

At Barrow, the world's largest Eskimo village, about 2,200 people comprise 400-odd families. Just 10 years ago the village boasted uncounted scores of dog teams. Today, only 11 teams are left.

The situation is similar at other Alaska Eskimo villages and in the Canadian Arctic, where the Mounties recently ran the last of their fabled sled dog patrols.

Traditionalists bemoan the disappearance of the sled dog. They recall the countless legends—many of them, unfortunately, untrue—about devoted dogs saving their masters' lives during Arctic crises, and the standard fiction-writer's portrait of the husky as more noble than nature and bigger than life.

But the Eskimos are not a sentimental people and for them the adoption of the snowmobile has been just economic common sense.

DOGS EAT FISH

A working sled dog will eat five pounds of meat or fish a day. Thus, an average team can consume 35-40 pounds of food daily and in theory could devour six tons a year—though it is highly unlikely that any Eskimo dog team has ever had such extraordinary good fortune.

This is food out of the Eskimo's mouth, since his traditional diet is much the same as his dogs'. And as the development of the Arctic continues, game becomes scarcer.

INEVITABLE REPLACEMENT

So it was inevitable that the snowmobile would replace the dog, just as the rifle has replaced the bow and arrow and harpoon.

The sled dog's life has never been much of a bargain anyway.

The typical dog is usually smaller than one would imagine. He is gaunt and his ribs show, for in the Arctic the sled dog competes for survival, like everything else.

Here, the dog is not man's friend and companion as he is elsewhere. He is the common beast of burden, a tool to be used like any other.

As such, the dog leads a frequently miserable life, chained to a stake and receiving little food when he is not needed, curled in the snow in the howling, sub-zero nights.

And he is always expendable. When there is enough food for man and beast, he eats; when there is not, he goes without. And in a true emergency—still not unheard of in this wild land—he may become food himself, for his master or the other dogs.

Swim Classes At Terra Linda

The summer swimming program at Terra Linda High School has been postponed for two weeks because of pool maintenance and repairs, the San Rafael Recreation Department announced today.

Public swimming will begin July 1 instead of Tuesday and the Learn to Swim programs and Tiny Tot swimming lessons will start July 8 instead of June 24.

The Water Safety Aid program will be conducted as scheduled, Tuesday through Saturday, but will be switched to the San Rafael High School, reported Andrew J. Snyder Jr. parks and recreation director.

The San Rafael High School pool schedule will remain unchanged.

The number had increased due to births on board the ship.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Persons Lacking Inner Stability May Be In Perpetual Anxiety

VAN DELLEN

Some individuals are in a perpetual state of anxiety and discomfort; they face one crisis after another; many of these problems are of their own making. Many are not so bad off as it would seem, because, by ordinary standards, their problems are minor.

These men and women never acquired the emotional stability in childhood to help them overcome the everyday ups and down of adulthood.

THEY NEED TO learn the habits and attitudes necessary for emotional security. If their work loads seem unbearable they ought to do the most urgent tasks first. The remaining chores can be tackled later.

Many persons expect too much of themselves. They full and fume when their achievements fall below expectations. These people should do the best they can without shirking and be satisfied with their productivity.

HELP SHOULD BE sought when ever life's tribulations seem overwhelming. Confide in a level-headed friend, counselor, clergyman, or physician.

Rulnning away from trouble is not good policy but there are times when it is the thing to do. During the interval, the person has an opportunity to regain balance and see the problem in its true light.

The emotionally mature individual has learned to give and take. He yields a little even though the challenger might be wrong.

IT IS WISE TO let off steam by working in the garden or cleaning outth e garage or basement. This is better than retaliating via a nasty phone call or poison pen letter. It is surprising what counting to 10 will do to maintain the respect of others.

It is well known that the cheerful person can better cope with problems. Skulking through life with a chip on the shoulder never solves any problem, be it small or large.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J)

CARDIAC ASTHMA

G. G. writes: Is there such a thing as an asthmatic heart?

REPLY

Yes, unless you refer to cardiac asthma, in which symptoms mimic asthma. This form of heart failure involves the left ventricle. The victim awakens at night, gasping for breath. This disorder is not on an allergic basis and should not be confused with bronchial asthma. On the other hand, the right side of the heart may be strained by the scar tissue on the lungs brought about after years of asthma and chronic bronchitis.

20 CARROTS A DAY

A reader writes: I'm always bloated and my skin is yellow. One of my neighbors told me the 15-20 raw carrots I eat daily could be responsible. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes, provided the whites of your eyes remain clear. In jaundice, the whites of the eyes as well as the skin become discolored. A blood test will answer your question.

FLU AND THE KIDNEYS

A reader writes: Can an attack of flu cause infection of the kidneys and bladder?

REPLY

Yes, particularly if the individual has had this experience before. These are the people who say, "Every time I catch cold it goes to my bladder and kidneys."

RELAXATION AIDS ULCER

A reader writes: How does a tranquilizer help the victim of a duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

By encouraging relaxation. When the sufferer is calm, so is the stomach; and tranquility reduces the activity of the acid-producing glands.

SURGERY IN DEAFNESS

L. P. C. writes: Is surgery beneficial in any hearing defect other than otosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Lymphoid tissue that covers the openings of the eustachian tubes can be removed surgically to improve hearing. Some types of developmental defects or chronic infections can also be corrected surgically. I know of no operation that will help nerve deafness.

DIABETIES IN CHILDREN

T. T. writes: Is diabetes more serious in children than in adults?

REPLY

Yes. Older individuals usually develop the disease in its mild form.

MANY RED CORPUSCLES

L. Y. writes: An analysis of my son's blood showed too many red corpuscles. Is there any treatment besides bloodletting?

REPLY

Polycythemia vera is treated with radioactive phosphorus or regular bleeding. Irradiation of the bone marrow and nitrogen mustard are less frequently used treatments. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on polycythemia vera.

BOWEL RESECTION

A reader writes: What is a bowel resection?

REPLY

In this operation a segment of the intestine is cut out and the open ends are sewn together. The procedure is done when the structure contains a tumor, ulcer, or an inflammatory mass. It is just as if a segment of garden hose were cut out and the two ends were fastened together. The hose is shorter but works just as well as before.

ENURETIC TRADITION

A reader writes: Is bedwetting inherited? My 7-year-old son still does it and recently my husband told me he was bothered as a child.

REPLY

I doubt it, even though some studies have shown that the condition is two to three times more prevalent in families where one parent had been a bedwetter. The enuretic tradition may be a family affair or a matter of emotionally disturbed parents having emotionally immature offspring.

Today's Health Hint — Follow instructions carefully when using toxic garden sprays and lawn fertilizers.

Span Shows Vehicle Hike During May

Traffic and revenue for Golden Gate Bridge were both up during May, with revenue increasing by $18,000 over a year ago, Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, said today.

In his report to the directors, Luehring said traffic during May increased 3.99 per cent over last year. The number of vehicles crossing the span was 2,726,142, compared to 2,621,437 in 1968.

Revenue was up 4 per cent to $570,407, compared to $548,489 last year.

The highest single day was May 18, a Sunday, when the number of vehicles crossing the bridge was 101,246.

Luehring said Greyhound commuter bus traffic was down significantly during May with a figure of 11,576 busses crossing, compared to 12,157 during the previous May. This is a decrease of 4.78 per cent. U.S. government passes decreased 8.18 per cent to 55,972 crossings.

Luehring told the directors there are now 46 bridge officers, 18 less than the 64 authorized under two-way toll collection. The current number of toll-takers, he said, appears to be as low as he can go with the one-way tolls and is saving $196,706 annually.

Policeman Kills Ex-Mayor's Son

BURBANK (UPI) — The son of a former Burbank mayor was killed by a shotgun blast fired by a policeman investigating a burglary.

Frank Brandon, 23, whose father, Dr. Robert Brandon, served two terms as mayor, was shot by officer Robert H. Jacobs, a 13-year veteran of the force.

Jacobs said he was investigating a report yesterday of a burglary in progress at a cafe. He shouted to man inside, "Come out with your hands up."

The man ignored the warning and ran to the rear of the building. The officer warned him a second time and the suspect ran toward a plate-glass window in the front of the cafe.

Jacobs fired a single blast from his 12-gauge shotgun, fatally wounding Brandon in the chest. Brandon had a police record of misdemeanor arrests on burglary and narcotics charges.

Collier Asks Meeting On Shrimp Crisis

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, has warned the California shrimp industry may be faced with a "critical" shortage and has called for a "meeting of the minds" between commercial fisherman and the state fish and game department.

Collier pointed to the loss of the sardine and bay shrimp indistries this week as being warnings of what can happen to the California shrimp industry.

He said the fish and game department has also warned the situation could become critical unless action is taken immediately to demand that quotas be strictly adhered to.

Collier said that in 1952 the California shrimp yield was 206,107 pounds. In 1968, the state harvest rose to 2.3 million pounds.

However, Collier said, warnings of shrimp depletion off the coast was made evident when the known shrimp beds at Bodega Bay and Fort Bragg did not provide a yield as they have done in the past. In fact, he said, they have been abandoned as a profitable commercial venture.

He called for commerical fishermen to protect the industry, "as is required of the timber, mining and agriculture interests."

The senator also warned that the Pacific crab, and with the advent of scuba diving, the abalone, may be faced with the same fate.

Blaze Destroys Abandoned Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A three-alarm fire destroyed the abandoned three-story Sequoia Hotel last night.

The building, at Third and Howard streets, was scheduled to be torn down within the next two years as part of the Yerba Buena redevelopment project.

More than 140 firemen had the blaze under control 45 minutes after it started.

Marin City Council Postpones Session

The Marin City Council canceled its scheduled meeting last night for lack of a quorum, and Chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. said a special session would be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Manzanita Center.

Banks said the council, which recently received a federal planning grant, will have to plan staffing, three full-time employees including a community coordinator, and the opening of an office. The federal grant of $50,000 is slated to be matched by $25,000 in Marin County services.

TV REVIEW

Prejudiced Questions Tossed Out

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Prejudiced questions about television:

Will somebody please tell me how the CBS-TV situation comedy, "The Queen and I," ever got on the air? I mean, if "Turn-On" was canceled after one performance, could anyone justify giving "The Queen and I" more than 15 minutes?

Isn't Raymond Burr, of NBC-TV's "Ironside," the most underrated major star on the home screen? The man is as solid an anchor for a television series as there is around.

Shouldn't somebody advise ABC-TV's Tom Jones, a potent singing performer, that he would be twice as effective all-around if he only took some lessons on how to deliver lines?

Isn't it nice that Edward Mulhare and Hope Lange of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," canceled by NBC-TV, will be around against next season on ABC-TV?—because aren't they far and away the most attractive mature couple in all the regular video series?

Will someone please explain to me what has been so funny about "Get Smart" for the past couple of years?

Isn't Robert Conrad, of CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West," the most inconspicuous star on television?

And isn't it also obvious to everyone that CBS-TV's Glen Campbell will be on video for every bit as long as he wants to be, and that he is a tremendous television star in the making?

Weren't you surprised—along with the video industry—when NBC-TV's "Julia" series, the most talked-about and successful new show of this past season, was overlooked in last weekend's Emmy awards presentations?

Isn't Robert Wagner, of ABC-TV's "It Takes a Thief," the Cary Grant of television?

And could you find a better all-purpose series star than Darren McGavin of NBC-TV's "The Outsider"?

How in the world did anyone decide that Jonathan Winters would be able to carry a weekly one-hour CBS-TV show?

And how can anyone fail to see that Goldie Hawn, of NBC-TV's "Laugh-In," and Susan Saint James, of the same network's "The Name of the Game," have surefire movie careers in the offing?

And aren't those enough questions for one day?

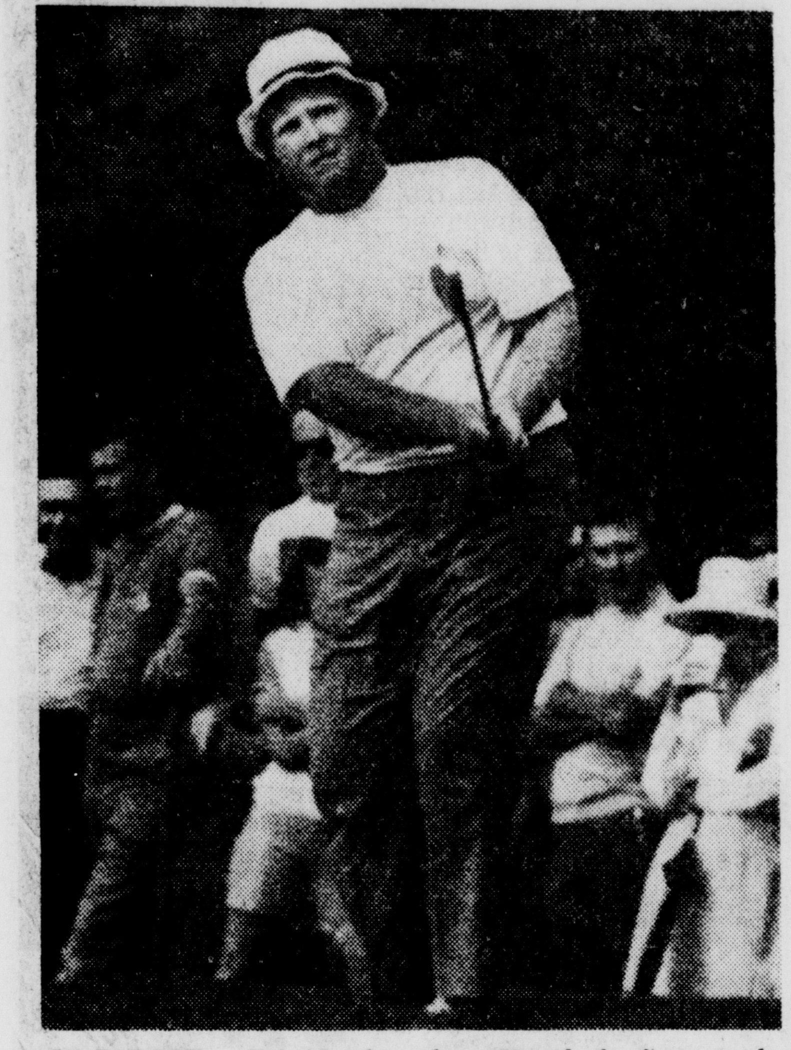
Murphy Paces U.S. Open Field



ON TARGET — Bob Murphy, whose 66 took the first round lead in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament in Houston yesterday, was on target with this shot from the edge of the 16th green. (AP Wirephoto)

Roly-Poly Golfer Fires 66

HOUSTON (AP)—Roly-poly Bob Murphy held the lead going into today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship because there's a big blonde mystery man walking around in Jack Nicklaus' spikes.

"I was driving the ball exceptionally well," Nicklaus said. "I didn't miss a fairway—something I've never done before in the U.S. Open. From where I drove the ball, Jack Nicklaus could have shot a 65. But I haven't seen that character around for a while."

The slump-ridden Nicklaus, who said "my irons deserted me," finished with a 74, four over par for the 6,967-yard Cypress Creek layout at Champions Golf Club.

IN A TIE

That put him in a tie with a couple of pretourney choices, defending champion Lee Trevino and Billy Casper, well back in the pack and in some danger of missing the cut when the field of 150 is trimmed today to the low 60 finishers and ties for the final two rounds.

And since Nicklaus himself said Nicklaus wasn't there, and the 65 didn't materialize, the sparkling 66 posted by Murphy, a 214-pound Florida redhead, topped the field.

Tour regular Miller Barber, a balding paunchy guy from Sherman, Tex., was alone in second at 67, with stringbean Al Geiberger, who said he was competing against doctors orders, and former Amateur champion Deane Beman locked at 68.

Here's Wonderful Gift For That Favorite Dad

Okay, no peeking, you guys. This is for women and children only. All men are banished from this corner for the rest of the day. Amscray, ya' heah? Go read Jack Hanley on page 40 or Al Giddings on page 41. You might even give Molly Marin a whirl.

Okay, girls, now that we're rid of them, let's get on with today's subject. I've just been dying to tell you about an ideal Father's Day gift for the family bread winner.

It's a handy little paperback Bantam Book titled "Guinness Book of World Records." Every man should have one. So should every saloon and sports department because this little gem of wisdom can settle more arguments than a proboscis full of knuckles.

You know how men can argue over the longest this, the fastest that, the firstest with the mostest, the strongest and weakest, etc. Their lives are one big statistic. Well, the British twins Norris and Ross McWhirter, underwritten by the Guinness brewery outfit have compiled the dangedest list of records imaginable.

A Conversation Starter

The book is invaluable. Especially at cocktail parties. For example if a dirty old man wants to strike up a conversation with some blonde cupcake he can sidle up to her and begin: "Say, little flower, did you know that Craig Breedlove's car skidded six miles — a world skid mark record — while attempting to set a world land speed record in 1964 at Bonneville Salt Flats. What? You didn't? Well, come into my parlor while I tell you all about it."

Yes, for those who dote on trivia, this is a bible.

Women golfers, my favorite outdoor athletes, even have a chapter titled: "Most shots for one hole." A lady, according to Guinness, used 166 strokes on the 130-yard 16th hole at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa. in 1912. Marin County's fairway flowers have been known to challenge it.

Then there's a local angle noting that the world record for voluntarily staying under water is 13 minutes, 42.5 seconds by Robert Foster, 32, then an electronics technician of Richmond, who stayed under 10 feet of water in the swimming pool of the Bermuda Palms at San Rafael on March 15, 1959. He hyperventilated with oxygen for 30 minutes before his descent.

Some other gems gleaned at random from Guinness:

Greatest distance achieved in the U.S. Spitting Championships at Raleigh, Miss. is 21 feet, 3 inches by George Craft in October, 1966. (Distance is dependant on the quality of salivation, absence of cross wind and the coordination of the quick hip and the neck snap.)

Greatest handshaker in public life was Teddy Roosevelt when, as president of the U.S., he shook hands with 8,513 people at a New Year's Day White House reception on Jan. 1, 1907. In non-public life, the record is 37,500 hands by George Borkowski in London on Feb. 22, 1967.

No Stranger To Marriage

Greatest number of wives accumulated by a man in the monogamous world is 18 by Glynn de Moss Wolff, who married his 18th at Las Vegas, Nev., on June 4, 1967. After the ceremonies the parties drove off in opposite directions.

Fastest talker in public life was President John F. Kennedy who delivered at a rate of 327-words-per-minute in a 1961 speech.

Most prolific dog in the world was a pedigreed Dalmation of England who fathered 637 puppies between 1957 and October 1965.

Bowsie WOWsie. Happy Father's Day.

WEIGHTY LIFT — Kevin Robinson of Mill Valley, victim of cerebral palsy, lifts weights three times a week and also does some long distance running. His handicap hasn't kept him down and out. (Independent-Journal photo)

YOUNG MAN WITH DESIRE

The Courageous Weightlifter

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Robinson lifts weights three times a week, and when he's not weight-lifting, he's running. Kevin is 5-foot-8, 140 pounds. And he has cerebral palsy.

A junior at the Mill Valley high school, Kevin lives with his mother, Mrs. Anita Jean Robinson at 387 Vista Linda Drive, Mill Valley. They plan to move to Santa Rosa in the near future.

He's been lifting weights for two years, but his long-distance running is a new bag. His first competitive event was the recent Bay-To-Breakers race in San Francisco, a race which covers 7.8 miles. He won a "Most Courageous Runner" trophy in that race, and you just know he's proud of that prize.

"I trained for about a month before the race," Kevin said in his slow, deliberate, speech. "I did a lot of running, mostly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays . . . about five to seven miles a day."

He would have done some running on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, too, but those are his weight-lifting days at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

"He has more desire than any kid I have ever come in contact with," said John Garber, recreation supervisor for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department.

"He can bench press 225 pounds and get up 350 pounds in dead lift," said Garber. "When he started lifting weights he couldn't even bench press 90 pounds." (In bench press lifting, the person lies on his back, is handed the barbell, lowers it to his chest and then pushes it up again, where they are taken by another person.)

"Kevin is really a good example of what can be done if a person with a handicap tries to better himself," said Garber.

Would it be possible for Robinson to run in the famed Dipsea race from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach later this year?

"There's a slight chance," he cautiously said. "It all depends how much better I get."

"I definitely would not let him run in that race alone," said Garber. "It would be much too dangerous a course. If someone ran with him it might be all right."

Would Garber run with him? "Yes, if he wanted me to," he answered.

"Kevin has always been interested in sports," said his mother, who also has two daughters, Buffie, 13, and Jennifer, 11. Their father, attorney Rodric L. Robinson, lives at 133 Sunnyside Avenue, Mill Valley.

A's To Face Red Sox' Jim Lonborg

BOSTON (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics make their first Fenway Park appearance of the season tonight and right off the bat, they have to face one of the few undefeated pitchers in the American League.

Lanky Jim Lonborg, who appears to have recovered from a skiing accident which required knee surgery two years ago, gets the call for the Boston Red Sox. He has a 6-0 record.

The probable Oakland starter is Chuck Dobson, who has split 10 decisions.

The A's closed out their Washington series last night by dropping a 4-1 decision to the Senators. Hank Allen's first homer of the season and two run-scoring singles by Del Unser turned the trick for the

Bill Russell Quitting Pro Basketball

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell is quitting basketball in favor of a Hollywood career according to a Boston paper, but his old mentor Red Auerbach says as far as he knows there's been no definite decision yet.

Russell, one of pro basketball's all-time greats, was reported resigning his job as player—coach of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics.

The copyrighted story was written by Sports Editor Cliff Sundberg for this morning's editions of the Boston Herald Traveler.

The story said the 6-foot-9 center, who has sparked the Celtics to 11 NBA championships in 13 years, was giving up his estimated $150,000-a-year post to pursue movie and television work plus other ventures on the West Coast.

The paper said the 35-year-old Russell informed Auerbach of his decision Monday night and then confided to friends Wednesday that he had to make the move "in order to find new sources of income for the future."

It said Russell is currently in Hollywood and staying at the apartment of former Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, another great athlete who made the jump to a film and television career.

It added that imediate plans call for Russell to make two movies, including one with Brown, who is a close friend.

Auerbach, however, said early today in Boston that he hadn't been informed of any such definite decision.

"We had a little conversation Monday, and it was my understanding he was postponing any decision for about six weeks,' the former Celtics coach and current general manager said.

Russell led the University of San Francisco to 59 straight college victories and two national championships, paced the United States team to victory in the 1956 Olympics, then turned pro.

St. Louis drafted him, but Auerbach pulled the master stroke which launched the Celtics' NBA dynasty, trading Cliff Hagan and Ed Macauley for the big man.

He was finally signed for a big bonus, passing up a reported $30,000 bid by the Harlem Globetrotters.

Dominating the league from the beginning with his great defensive play, Russell has been voted the Most Valuable Player five times and is the only man in NBA history to pull down 20,000 rebounds.

Russell's supporting cast in the Boston line-up kept changing through the years, and a succession of great stars like Bob Cousey, Bill Sharman, Tommy Heinsohn, and Frank Ramsey retired, but with the big center as the key the team just replaced them with new faces and kept winning.

The only playoff losses in his 13 years as a player came in 1957-58, when he sat out part of the finals with an ankle injury, and in 1966-67, when arch-rival Wilt Chamberlain finally got the upper hand as Philadelphia eliminated the Celtics in the Eastern finals.

When Auerbach relinquished the coaching duties in 1966 Russell was named in his place—the first Negro to coach a major professional team in this country.

The Celtics lost out to Philadelphia in that first season, but came back to regain their title in 1967-68 and then win it again last season.

Will Giles Support Umps On Greaseball Rulings?

Nine months ago Warren Giles said he would issue a statement in "four or five days" about the grease ball, successor to baseball's banned spitball. The other day the National League president finally issued the statement.

Giles told the league's umpires that if they were convinced a foreign substance had been applied to a ball by a pitcher then the pitcher should be immediately ejected from the game.

GILES FURTHER told the umpires that if they suspected a pitcher of getting grease or illegal sticky stuff from the back of his neck, the inside of his wrist or any place else, they were empowered to make him stop it under penalty of ejection.

Now, it remains to be seen whether umpires believe they will get backing from Giles if they crack down on pitchers who use a little dab to get the job done. Impires have ignored the grease ball ever since last August when Chris Pelekoudas was left looking like a conscientious umpire without backing from his boss.

IN THE seventh inning of a game between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds at Wrigley Field, Phil Regan took the mound. Pelekoudas on several occasions accused Regan of throwing illegal pitches.

Pelekoudas later said he found no evidence on the ball but detected the illegal pitches by the flight of the ball. He declared: "A sinker spins when it breaks down. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin."

REGAN PETITIONED for a hearing before Giles. Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs and the Cubs' vice president John Holland accompanied Regan to Giles' office.

"Mr. Holland asked me to hear Phil Regan's version of the incident," said Giles in a statement following the meeting. "I know Phil and have respect for him and felt a gentleman like he should be shown consideration and courtesy of hearing him.

"PHIL TOLD me he did not have any lubricant on his sweatband in this incident and I believe him."

Pelekoudas and his fellow umpires weren't accorded the "consideration and courtesy" of a hearing. Naturally, they weren't happy over Giles' failure to back up Pelekoudas who certainly has had enough practical experience to tell when a ball is doing funny things.

SO THOSE pitchers suspected of doctoring balls became more brazen in their actions on the mound. Managers and batters complained from time to time but, believing the grease ball was here to stay, stopped complaining.

However, Gil Hodges, manager of the Mets, stopped a game between the Giants and Mets for five minutes a couple of weeks ago in New York. Hodges didn't rant or rave. He didn't wave his arms. But he quietly and forcefully told Frank Secory, plate umpire in the game, that he didn't like what Gaylord Perry was doing.

HODGES LATER told New York reporters he sympathized with the umpires who couldn't stop something "illegal" because league headquarters wouldn't back them up.

Whether Giles read the New York papers is a matter of conjecture but within a fortnight he issued his statement spelling out the power of umpires in dealing with the grease ball. Furthermore, he todl them that whatever decisions they made concerning illegal pitches could not be appealed because they were "judgment rulings."

The Las Gallinas club also announced that Mrs. John Siebler scored a hole-in-one this week.

Mesdames John Weitzel and Paul Sather netted 125 strokes to win the 36-hole best ball twosome tournament played by the women's golf section of the Meadow Club Wednesday and yesterday and yesterday at the Fairfax course.

Other Class A leaders were Mmes. Norman Green-Hugh Marchant, 134, and Josh Billings-J. F. Greene, 140.

first time in a decade, remained in contention after a par 70. Sam Snead, 57, and still chasing this big one, Gary Player and Julius Boros were in a group at 71, with Frank Beard and Gene Littler at 72.

HARD WORK

Murphy, 26, a former amateur champion and 1968 PGA Rookie of the Year, credited hard work with the driver and adjustment to his new daughter, Kimberly, for the improvement in his game.

"I'm usually a pretty good driver," he said. "Not long, but straight. But in the last five or six weeks I hadn't been driving well at all. I guess I hadn't been driving since the National Airlines (in March).

"But sometimes some hard work pays off. I must have hit 1,000 drives in practice the last few weeks. That's all you can do, just go out and swing."

And about the daughter, a six-month-old?

"She came on the tour with me when she was just a few weeks old," Murphy said. "My wife, Gail, was used to the noises she makes at night, all those snorts and snuffles and she'd sleep right through it. But I couldn't.

"I wasn't getting but about three hours sleep at night. Now I'm getting used to it."

Canadians To Invade Candlestick Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey, who is surprising even himself with the way he is swinging the bat these days, tries to extend his hitting streak to 17 games tonight when the San Francisco Giants take on the Montreal Expos.

The big Giants' first baseman is hitting .355 and has 20 home runs, 11 coming since he began his hitting streak May 23.

Though the pressure doesn't bother McCovey, who professes to be more interested in driving in runs than in base hits, it is getting harder and harder for him to keep the streak alive.

In the last two games against the New York Mets, McCovey came to bat 10 times and was walked six times.

McCovey blasted a home run in the ninth inning of the 15th game of the streak and got two hits in the late innings of the 16th. All those walks—not official at-bats—have contributed to the rise in his batting average.

Juan Marichal, 62 goes to the mound for the Giants tonight, hoping to repeat the masterful three-hit performance he threw his last time out against the Philadelphia Phillies. Don Shaw, 1-3, will pitch for the Expos.

The game will be marked by a double National Anthem singing with Canadian opera star Alan Monk expected to sing "O Canada" following the Star Spangled Banner.

The fourth Washington run was chased in by Paul Casanova.

George Lauzerique, who had picked up two straight victories since his recall from Des Moines, took the loss while National League reject Jim Shellenback evened his record at 1-1.

After a three-game weekend series here, the A's go to Kansas City for three more games before returning home to host Minnesota next Friday.

Phils Again Blank Dodgers; Pirates, Reds Triumph

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

After nine straight defeats, the Philadelphia Phillies needed something...and it turned out to be nothing.

That's exactly what Philly pitchers have given the Los Angeles Dodgers the last two nights—nothing. The results has been a modest, but welcome two-game winning streak.

Rookie Billy Champion broke the losing string Wednesday night with a five-hit shutout and Grant Jackson made it two in a row last night by scattering seven hits as the Phillies nipped the Dodgers and hard-luck Bill Singer 1-0.

RIGHT PLACE

Philadelphia pitchers had only three shutouts—one by Jackson—all year entering this series, but they came to the right place. The Dodgers now have been blanked nine times and Singer has had only five runs scored for him in his six defeats.

It was the only shutout of the night on a limited schedule as Montreal beat San Diego 4-1, Cincinnati downed St. Louis 4-3 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh slipped by Houston 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs outhit Atlanta 12-6 in the National League. Washington defeated Oakland 4-1 in the only American League game.

FOUR RUNS

Jackson, 5-6, who has allowed only four runs in his five complete-game victories, avenged a 7-6 loss to Singer two weeks ago. Johnny Briggs gave him a game-opening homer, his first of the season, on Singer's second pitch and Jackson made it last.

He struck out 11, including two when the Dodgers had runners on first and third with one out in the sixth. And in the second outfielder Larry Hisle threw out Andy Kosco at the plate on the last of three singles in the inning.

While the Dodgers were being whitewashed for the second night in a row, one of their former big hitters was helping Montreal win its third game in four starts after a 20-game losing spin. Ron Fairly, acquired Wednesday from the Dodgers for Maury Wills, singled in the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning.

PINCH HIT

Gary Sutherland opened the ninth with a double off loser Tommie Sisk, 0-4, and Fairly, pinch hitting in his first appearance for the Expos, laced a pitch by reliever Billy McCool for a 2-1 lead. Mack Jones tripled another run home and scored on a ground out.

Rusty Staub's seventh inning homer for Montreal had broken a scoreless duel between San Diego's Joe Niekro, who gave only one other hit in seven innings, and Jerry Robertson, who had broken the 20-game spin last Sunday.

Robertson had a four-hitter entering the eighth, but Bobby Wine's error led the way to Ed Spiezio's tying two-out single.

Lee May, who hit his 16th homer earlier, slammed a game-winning single with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th inning for Cincinnati.

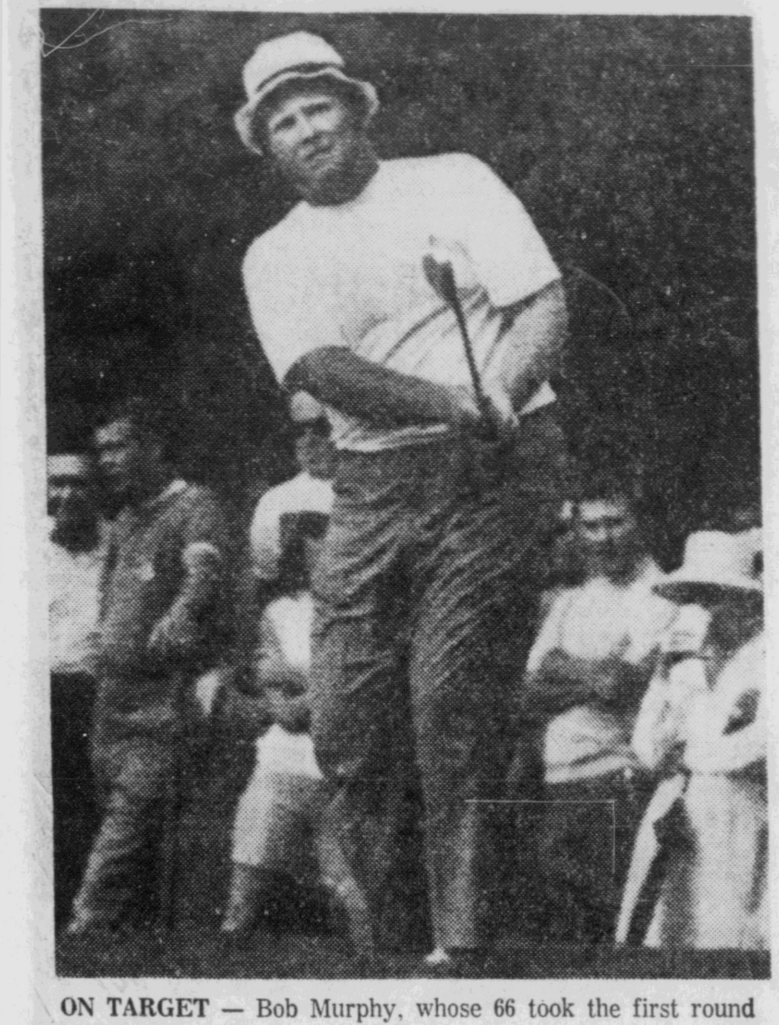
Murphy Paces U.S. Open Field



ON TARGET — Bob Murphy, whose 66 took the first round lead in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament in Houston yesterday, was on target with this shot from the edge of the 16th green. (AP Wirephoto)

Roly-Poly Golfer Fires 66

HOUSTON (AP)—Roly-poly Bob Murphy held the lead going into today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship because there's a big blonde mystery man walking around in Jack Nicklaus' spikes.

"I was driving the ball exceptionally well," Nicklaus said. "I didn't miss a fairway—something I've never done before in the U.S. Open. From where I drove the ball, Jack Nicklaus could have shot a 65. But I haven't seen that character around for a while."

The slump-ridden Nicklaus, who said "my irons deserted me," finished with a 74, four over par for the 6,967-yard Cypress Creek layout at Champions Golf Club.

IN A TIE

That put him in a tie with a couple of pretourney choices, defending champion Lee Trevino and Billy Casper, well back in the pack and in some danger of missing the cut when the field of 150 is trimmed today to the low 60 finishers and ties for the final two rounds.

And since Nicklaus himself said Nicklaus wasn't there, and the 65 didn't materialize, the sparkling 66 posted by Murphy, a 214-pound Florida redhead, topped the field.

Tour regular Miller Barber, a balding paunchy guy from Sherman, Tex., was alone in second at 67, with stringbean Al Geiberger, who said he was competing against doctors orders, and former Amateur champion Deane Beman locked at 68.

Here's Wonderful Gift For That Favorite Dad

Okay, no peeking, you guys. This is for women and children only. All men are banished from this corner for the rest of the day. Amscray, ya' heah? Go read Jack Hanley on page 40 or Al Giddings on page 41. You might even give Molly Marin a whirl.

Okay, girls, now that we're rid of them, let's get on with today's subject. I've just been dying to tell you about an ideal Father's Day gift for the family bread winner.

It's a handy little paperback Bantam Book titled "Guinness Book of World Records." Every man should have one. So should every saloon and sports department because this little gem of wisdom can settle more arguments than a proboscis full of knuckles.

You know how men can argue over the longest this, the fastest that, the firstest with the mostest, the strongest and weakest, etc. Their lives are one big statistic. Well, the British twins Norris and Ross McWhirter, underwritten by the Guinness brewery outfit have compiled the dangedest list of records imaginable.

A Conversation Starter

The book is invaluable. Especially at cocktail parties. For example if a dirty old man wants to strike up a conversation with some blonde cupcake he can sidle up to her and begin: "Say, little flower, did you know that Craig Breedlove's car skidded six miles — a world skid mark record — while attempting to set a world land speed record in 1964 at Bonneville Salt Flats. What? You didn't? Well, come into my parlor while I tell you all about it."

Yes, for those who dote on trivia, this is a bible.

Women golfers, my favorite outdoor athletes, even have a chapter titled: "Most shots for one hole." A lady, according to Guinness, used 166 strokes on the 130-yard 16th hole at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa. in 1912. Marin County's fairway flowers have been known to challenge it.

Then there's a local angle noting that the world record for voluntarily staying under water is 13 minutes, 42.5 seconds by Robert Foster, 32, then an electronics technician of Richmond, who stayed under 10 feet of water in the swimming pool of the Bermuda Palms at San Rafael on March 15, 1959. He hyperventilated with oxygen for 30 minutes before his descent.

Some other gems gleaned at random from Guinness:

Greatest distance achieved in the U.S. Spitting Championships at Raleigh, Miss. is 21 feet, 3 inches by George Craft in October, 1966. (Distance is dependant on the quality of salivation, absence of cross wind and the coordination of the quick hip and the neck snap.)

Greatest handshaker in public life was Teddy Roosevelt when, as president of the U.S., he shook hands with 8,513 people at a New Year's Day White House reception on Jan. 1, 1907. In non-public life, the record is 37,500 hands by George Borkowski in London on Feb. 22, 1967.

No Stranger To Marriage

Greatest number of wives accumulated by a man in the monogamous world is 18 by Glynn de Moss Wolff, who married his 18th at Las Vegas, Nev., on June 4, 1967. After the ceremonies the parties drove off in opposite directions.

Fastest talker in public life was President John F. Kennedy who delivered at a rate of 327-words-per-minute in a 1961 speech.

Most prolific dog in the world was a pedigreed Dalmation of England who fathered 637 puppies between 1957 and October 1965.

Bowsie WOWsie. Happy Father's Day.

WEIGHTY LIFT — Kevin Robinson of Mill Valley, victim of cerebral palsy, lifts weights three times a week and also does some long distance running. His handicap hasn't kept him down and out. (Independent-Journal photo)

YOUNG MAN WITH DESIRE

The Courageous Weightlifter

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Robinson lifts weights three times a week, and when he's not weight-lifting, he's running. Kevin is 5-foot-8, 140 pounds. And he has cerebral palsy.

A junior at the Mill Valley high school, Kevin lives with his mother, Mrs. Anita Jean Robinson at 387 Vista Linda Drive, Mill Valley. They plan to move to Santa Rosa in the near future.

He's been lifting weights for two years, but his long-distance running is a new bag. His first competitive event was the recent Bay-To-Breakers race in San Francisco, a race which covers 7.8 miles. He won a "Most Courageous Runner" trophy in that race, and you just know he's proud of that prize.

"I trained for about a month before the race," Kevin said in his slow, deliberate, speech. "I did a lot of running, mostly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays . . . about five to seven miles a day."

He would have done some running on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, too, but those are his weight-lifting days at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

"He has more desire than any kid I have ever come in contact with," said John Garber, recreation supervisor for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department.

"He can bench press 225 pounds and get up 350 pounds in dead lift," said Garber. "When he started lifting weights he couldn't even bench press 90 pounds." (In bench press lifting, the person lies on his back, is handed the barbell, lowers it to his chest and then pushes it up again, where they are taken by another person.)

"Kevin is really a good example of what can be done if a person with a handicap tries to better himself," said Garber.

Would it be possible for Robinson to run in the famed Dipsea race from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach later this year?

"There's a slight chance," he cautiously said. "It all depends how much better I get."

"I definitely would not let him run in that race alone," said Garber. "It would be much too dangerous a course. If someone ran with him it might be all right."

Would Garber run with him? "Yes, if he wanted me to," he answered.

"Kevin has always been interested in sports," said his mother, who also has two daughters, Buffie, 13, and Jennifer, 11. Their father, attorney Rodric L. Robinson, lives at 133 Sunnyside Avenue, Mill Valley.

A's To Face Red Sox' Jim Lonborg

BOSTON (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics make their first Fenway Park appearance of the season tonight and right off the bat, they have to face one of the few undefeated pitchers in the American League.

Lanky Jim Lonborg, who appears to have recovered from a skiing accident which required knee surgery two years ago, gets the call for the Boston Red Sox. He has a 6-0 record.

The probable Oakland starter is Chuck Dobson, who has split 10 decisions.

The A's closed out their Washington series last night by dropping a 4-1 decision to the Senators. Hank Allen's first homer of the season and two run-scoring singles by Del Unser turned the trick for the

TO BEGIN CAREER IN MOVIES

Bill Russell Quitting Pro Basketball

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell is quitting basketball in favor of a Hollywood career according to a Boston paper, but his old mentor Red Auerbach says as far as he knows there's been no definite decision yet.

Russell, one of pro basketball's all-time greats, was reported resigning his job as player—coach of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics.

The copyrighted story was written by Sports Editor Cliff Sundberg for this morning's editions of the Boston Herald Traveler.

The story said the 6-foot-9 center, who has sparked the Celtics to 11 NBA championships in 13 years, was giving up his estimated $150,000-a-year post to pursue movie and television work plus other ventures on the West Coast.

The paper said the 35-year-old Russell informed Auerbach of his decision Monday night and then confided to friends Wednesday that he had to make the move "in order to find new sources of income for the future."

It said Russell is currently in Hollywood and staying at the apartment of former Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, another great athlete who made the jump to a film and television career.

It added that imediate plans call for Russell to make two movies, including one with Brown, who is a close friend.

Auerbach, however, said early today in Boston that he hadn't been informed of any such definite decision.

"We had a little conversation Monday, and it was my understanding he was postponing any decision for about six weeks,' the former Celtics coach and current general manager said.

Russell led the University of San Francisco to 59 straight college victories and two national championships, paced the United States team to victory in the 1956 Olympics, then turned pro.

St. Louis drafted him, but Auerbach pulled the master stroke which launched the Celtics' NBA dynasty, trading Cliff Hagan and Ed Macauley for the big man.

He was finally signed for a big bonus, passing up a reported $30,000 bid by the Harlem Globetrotters.

Dominating the league from the beginning with his great defensive play, Russell has been voted the Most Valuable Player five times and is the only man in NBA history to pull down 20,000 rebounds.

Russell's supporting cast in the Boston line-up kept changing through the years, and a succession of great stars like Bob Cousey, Bill Sharman, Tommy Heinsohn, and Frank Ramsey retired, but with the big center as the key the team just replaced them with new faces and kept winning.

The only playoff losses in his 13 years as a player came in 1957-58, when he sat out part of the finals with an ankle injury, and in 1966-67, when arch-rival Wilt Chamberlain finally got the upper hand as Philadelphia eliminated the Celtics in the Eastern finals.

When Auerbach relinquished the coaching duties in 1966 Russell was named in his place—the first Negro to coach a major professional team in this country.

The Celtics lost out to Philadelphia in that first season, but came back to regain their title in 1967-68 and then win it again last season.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Minus Tides Mean Action For Clam And Abalone Fans

First we have minus .9 tides at 6:24 a.m. tomorrow and at 7 a.m. Sunday which will give the clam diggers and abalone pickers another try at their favorite bivales or mollusks. This tide is also good for rockfishing and eeling. The winds made the seas rough at the last series of low tides, so there are good numbers of abalones left.

In Sonoma County, game wardens issued 41 citations during those tides. Four of these were for possession of abalones out of the shell, 16 were for undersized abalones, and 21 for overlimits of abalones.

Wardens in Marin issued 13 citations for similar violations.

I CALLED Vince Catania at Antioch today for the latest bass dope. Vince is the Fish and Game Department's net man who captures the bass and sturgeon for the tagging crews in the Antioch area. As of Wednesday, the crew had tagged 16,000 bass. Monday, they tagged 62 but only 32 on Tuesday. Vince feels the bass are rapidly leaving the delta, and he says this weekend's minus tides will put the fish in our backyard. The biggest fish tagged by the crew was 50 inches long which was estimated to weigh possibly 60 pounds.

Now listen to this! I asked about tagging sturgeon and Vince said, "We tagged 3,000 sturgeon in three weeks at the San Pablo Bay pump house area during October and November." I asked him how big the largest sturgeon was and his answer floored me! He said, "It weighed about 500 pounds." (I have just put my fly rod away, that's for sure!) It's fantastic; that would be like hooking a submarine from Mare Island.

TROUT FISHING spots in the Sierra are opening up with the warm temperatures. And added to the Rainbow and Mackinaw fishing at Lake Tahoe is the news that the Kokanee salmon fishery has started with good catches already this year. A group of outdoor writers fished the lake May 24 and 25 and caught 104 Kokanee averaging 16 inches, 52 Mackanaws averaging 22 inches and 4 rainbows averaging 15 inches. Some five fish limits were caught in an hour. The Kokanee were taken near the surface in Emerald Bay using 10 pound test monofiliament, a big two blade flasher followed by 18 inches of 6 pound test leader, with a Kokanee spoon or a trailer of worms. About 100 feet of line behind the boat does the trick.

A QUESTION came up: Can I catch a limit of trout everyday, get them smoked and bring them all home?

The take and possession limit on trout is 10. (Some lakes have special lower limits.) A person then can only take 10 trout per day, and never can have over 10 in his possession whether smoked, salted, frozen or otherwise. It is possible for a family of four to bring 40 trout home even though only the husband did the fishing. He could only catch 10 per day, but he could give his first day's limit to his wife, his second and third days limits to the kids and keep his fourth day's limit for a total of 40, even though the wife did not have a license. (It is legal, of course, to give fish to someone without a license.) A fisherman cannot catch 10, give them to his wife and then catch another 10 all in the same day. To quote old timer Walter Sellmer, Marin's fish and game warden in the 1930's, "Be careful, the game warden may be watching you now." could aptly apply here.

RODEO LAGOON will be stocked this week in Marin County for those who want to fish close to home.

SALMON FISHING continues to be good out of Sausalito, and the rockfish party boats are getting limits, with some big lingcods as the bonus fish these days.

Will Giles Support Umps On Greaseball Rulings?

Nine months ago Warren Giles said he would issue a statement in "four or five days" about the grease ball, successor to baseball's banned spitball. The other day the National League president finally issued the statement.

Giles told the league's umpires that if they were convinced a foreign substance had been applied to a ball by a pitcher then the pitcher should be immediately ejected from the game.

GILES FURTHER told the umpires that if they suspected a pitcher of getting grease or illegal sticky stuff from the back of his neck, the inside of his wrist or any place else, they were empowered to make him stop it under penalty of ejection.

Now, it remains to be seen whether umpires believe they will get backing from Giles if they crack down on pitchers who use a little dab to get the job done. Impires have ignored the grease ball ever since last August when Chris Pelekoudas was left looking like a conscientious umpire without backing from his boss.

IN THE seventh inning of a game between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds at Wrigley Field, Phil Regan took the mound. Pelekoudas on several occasions accused Regan of throwing illegal pitches.

Pelekoudas later said he found no evidence on the ball but detected the illegal pitches by the flight of the ball. He declared: "A sinker spins when it breaks down. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin."

REGAN PETITIONED for a hearing before Giles. Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs and the Cubs' vice president John Holland accompanied Regan to Giles' office.

"Mr. Holland asked me to hear Phil Regan's version of the incident," said Giles in a statement following the meeting. "I know Phil and have respect for him and felt a gentleman like he should be shown consideration and courtesy of hearing him.

"PHIL TOLD me he did not have any lubricant on his sweatband in this incident and I believe him."

Pelekoudas and his fellow umpires weren't accorded the "consideration and courtesy" of a hearing. Naturally, they weren't happy over Giles' failure to back up Pelekoudas who certainly has had enough practical experience to tell when a ball is doing funny things.

SO THOSE pitchers suspected of doctoring balls became more brazen in their actions on the mound. Managers and batters complained from time to time but, believing the grease ball was here to stay, stopped complaining.

However, Gil Hodges, manager of the Mets, stopped a game between the Giants and Mets for five minutes a couple of weeks ago in New York. Hodges didn't rant or rave. He didn't wave his arms. But he quietly and forcefully told Frank Secory, plate umpire in the game, that he didn't like what Gaylord Perry was doing.

HODGES LATER told New York reporters he sympathized with the umpires who couldn't stop something "illegal" because league headquarters wouldn't back them up.

Whether Giles read the New York papers is a matter of conjecture but within a fortnight he issued his statement spelling out the power of umpires in dealing with the grease ball. Furthermore, he todl them that whatever decisions they made concerning illegal pitches could not be appealed because they were "judgment rulings."

first time in a decade, remained in contention after a par 70. Sam Snead, 57, and still chasing this big one, Gary Player and Julius Boros were in a group at 71, with Frank Beard and Gene Littler at 72.

HARD WORK

Murphy, 26, a former amateur champion and 1968 PGA Rookie of the Year, credited hard work with the driver and adjustment to his new daughter, Kimberly, for the improvement in his game.

"I'm usually a pretty good driver," he said. "Not long, but straight. But in the last five or six weeks I hadn't been driving well at all. I guess I hadn't been driving since the National Airlines (in March).

"But sometimes some hard work pays off. I must have hit 1,000 drives in practice the last few weeks. That's all you can do, just go out and swing."

And about the daughter, a six-month-old?

"She came on the tour with me when she was just a few weeks old," Murphy said. "My wife, Gail, was used to the noises she makes at night, all those snorts and snuffles and she'd sleep right through it. But I couldn't.

"I wasn't getting but about three hours sleep at night. Now I'm getting used to it."

Canadians To Invade Candlestick Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey, who is surprising even himself with the way he is swinging the bat these days, tries to extend his hitting streak to 17 games tonight when the San Francisco Giants take on the Montreal Expos.

The big Giants' first baseman is hitting .355 and has 20 home runs, 11 coming since he began his hitting streak May 23.

Though the pressure doesn't bother McCovey, who professes to be more interested in driving in runs than in base hits, it is getting harder and harder for him to keep the streak alive.

In the last two games against the New York Mets, McCovey came to bat 10 times and was walked six times.

McCovey blasted a home run in the ninth inning of the 15th game of the streak and got two hits in the late innings of the 16th. All those walks—not official at-bats—have contributed to the rise in his batting average.

Juan Marichal, 62 goes to the mound for the Giants tonight, hoping to repeat the masterful three-hit performance he threw his last time out against the Philadelphia Phillies. Don Shaw, 1-3, will pitch for the Expos.

The game will be marked by a double National Anthem singing with Canadian opera star Alan Monk expected to sing "O Canada" following the Star Spangled Banner.

George Lauzerique, who had picked up two straight victories since his recall from Des Moines, took the loss while National League reject Jim Shellenback evened his record at 1-1.

After a three-game weekend series here, the A's go to Kansas City for three more games before returning home to host Minnesota next Friday.

Phils Again Blank Dodgers; Pirates, Reds Triumph

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

After nine straight defeats, the Philadelphia Phillies needed something...and it turned out to be nothing.

That's exactly what Philly pitchers have given the Los Angeles Dodgers the last two nights—nothing. The results has been a modest, but welcome two-game winning streak.

Rookie Billy Champion broke the losing string Wednesday night with a five-hit shutout and Grant Jackson made it two in a row last night by scattering seven hits as the Phillies nipped the Dodgers and hard-luck Bill Singer 1-0.

RIGHT PLACE

Philadelphia pitchers had only three shutouts—one by Jackson—all year entering this series, but they came to the right place. The Dodgers now have been blanked nine times and Singer has had only five runs scored for him in his six defeats.

It was the only shutout of the night on a limited schedule as Montreal beat San Diego 4-1, Cincinnati downed St. Louis 4-3 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh slipped by Houston 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs outhit Atlanta 12-6 in the National League. Washington defeated Oakland 4-1 in the only American League game.

FOUR RUNS

Jackson, 5-6, who has allowed only four runs in his five complete-game victories, avenged a 7-6 loss to Singer two weeks ago. Johnny Briggs gave him a game-opening homer, his first of the season, on Singer's second pitch and Jackson made it last.

He struck out 11, including two when the Dodgers had runners on first and third with one out in the sixth. And in the second outfielder Larry Hisle threw out Andy Kosco at the plate on the last of three singles in the inning.

While the Dodgers were being whitewashed for the second night in a row, one of their former big hitters was helping Montreal win its third game in four starts after a 20-game losing spin. Ron Fairly, acquired Wednesday from the Dodgers for Maury Wills, singled in the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning.

PINCH HIT

Gary Sutherland opened the ninth with a double off loser Tommie Sisk, 0-4, and Fairly, pinch hitting in his first appearance for the Expos, laced a pitch by reliever Billy McCool for a 2-1 lead. Mack Jones tripled another run home and scored on a ground out.

Rusty Staub's seventh inning homer for Montreal had broken a scoreless duel between San Diego's Joe Niekro, who gave only one other hit in seven innings, and Jerry Robertson, who had broken the 20-game spin last Sunday.

Robertson had a four-hitter entering the eighth, but Bobby Wine's error led the way to Ed Spiezio's tying two-out single.

Lee May, who hit his 16th homer earlier, slammed a game-winning single with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th inning for Cincinnati.

Simpson Heads All-Star Grid Team

As of the moment, the Jets are without their Super Bowl hero Joe Namath, who announced retirement rather than sell his interest in his New York bistro.

Without Namath, the impressive collection of All-Stars might be given a good chance to beat the pro champions for the first time in five years.

Otto Graham, returning as All-Star coach after three years at the Washington Redskins helm, handpicked the collegians to face the first American Football League team to play in the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. classic.

Marty Domres, Columbia quarterback, and halfback Calvin Hill of Yale are the only players of 26 first-round draft choices this year to be missing from the squad.

Leroy Keyes of Purdue, voted most valuable in the Big Ten last season, is listed as a defensive back. The versatile Keyes was No. 3 pick in the draft and is still haggling with the Philadelphia Eagles over salary.

The All-Stars, whose main hopes of upsetting the pros usually rest with a strong passing attack, will have some standout receivers. They include Jim Seymour, Hanratty's record-breaking battery mate at Notre Dame.

Seals Draft Seven Junior Loop Players

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals' management headed home from Montreal today expressing satisfaction with the players they picked up in the National Hockey League draft there.

In a busy final day of drafting yesterday the Seals gained seven players from junior teams and lost one minor league player they had just picked from their own American Hockey League farm team at Providence.

He was Jerry LaFond, a 24-year-old defenseman, who was snapped up in the reverse draft by the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League. The Totems paid $15,000 for him.

In the junior draft, the Seals got two players they were interested in—Tony Featherstone from the Peterborough, Ont., Juniors, a right wing — and Ron Stackhouse, a defenseman from Peterborough.

Seals General Manager Frank Selke said the club didn't expect them both to last as far as the second round and added, "we were delighted that we were able to get them both. We think they are excellent prospects."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Minus Tides Mean Action For Clam And Abalone Fans

First we have minus .9 tides at 6:24 a.m. tomorrow and at 7 a.m. Sunday which will give the clam diggers and abalone pickers another try at their favorite bivales or mollusks. This tide is also good for rockfishing and eeling. The winds made the seas rough at the last series of low tides, so there are good numbers of abalones left.

In Sonoma County, game wardens issued 41 citations during those tides. Four of these were for possession of abalones out of the shell, 16 were for undersized abalones, and 21 for overlimits of abalones.

Wardens in Marin issued 13 citations for similar violations.

I CALLED Vince Catania at Antioch today for the latest bass dope. Vince is the Fish and Game Department's net man who captures the bass and sturgeon for the tagging crews in the Antioch area. As of Wednesday, the crew had tagged 16,000 bass. Monday, they tagged 62 but only 32 on Tuesday. Vince feels the bass are rapidly leaving the delta, and he says this weekend's minus tides will put the fish in our backyard. The biggest fish tagged by the crew was 50 inches long which was estimated to weigh possibly 60 pounds.

Now listen to this! I asked about tagging sturgeon and Vince said, "We tagged 3,000 sturgeon in three weeks at the San Pablo Bay pump house area during October and November." I asked him how big the largest sturgeon was and his answer floored me! He said, "It weighed about 500 pounds." (I have just put my fly rod away, that's for sure!) It's fantastic; that would be like hooking a submarine from Mare Island.

TROUT FISHING spots in the Sierra are opening up with the warm temperatures. And added to the Rainbow and Mackinaw fishing at Lake Tahoe is the news that the Kokanee salmon fishery has started with good catches already this year. A group of outdoor writers fished the lake May 24 and 25 and caught 104 Kokanee averaging 16 inches, 52 Mackanaws averaging 22 inches and 4 rainbows averaging 15 inches. Some five fish limits were caught in an hour. The Kokanee were taken near the surface in Emerald Bay using 10 pound test monofiliament, a big two blade flasher followed by 18 inches of 6 pound test leader, with a Kokanee spoon or a trailer of worms. About 100 feet of line behind the boat does the trick.

A QUESTION came up: Can I catch a limit of trout everyday, get them smoked and bring them all home?

The take and possession limit on trout is 10. (Some lakes have special lower limits.) A person then can only take 10 trout per day, and never can have over 10 in his possession whether smoked, salted, frozen or otherwise. It is possible for a family of four to bring 40 trout home even though only the husband did the fishing. He could only catch 10 per day, but he could give his first day's limit to his wife, his second and third days limits to the kids and keep his fourth day's limit for a total of 40, even though the wife did not have a license. (It is legal, of course, to give fish to someone without a license.) A fisherman cannot catch 10, give them to his wife and then catch another 10 all in the same day. To quote old timer Walter Sellmer, Marin's fish and game warden in the 1930's, "Be careful, the game warden may be watching you now." could aptly apply here.

RODEO LAGOON will be stocked this week in Marin County for those who want to fish close to home.

SALMON FISHING continues to be good out of Sausalito, and the rockfish party boats are getting limits, with some big lingcods as the bonus fish these days.

Oil-Gas Rights

RAWALPINDI (UPI) — The Pakistani government has granted a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) an oil and gas exploration concession covering 20,000 square miles in Central Pakistan. Under the contract, the Pakistani government will put up 5 per cent of the risk capital and will have an option to buy an additional 25 per cent of the venture on payment of a proportional share of discovery costs.

Brokerage Account Easy To Establish For Child

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you advise me how I may establish a brokerage account for a junior nephew? He saves $5 a week from his earnings as a newsboy. I have pointed out to him that an early purchase of IBM would now be of significant value due to the growth over the years. Would you recommend a company with similar prospects for him. — I.D.

A. Opening an account for your nephew is a very simple procedure, somewhat the same as opening a department store charge account. In your area there are several branch offices of New York Stock Exchange member firms, any one of which would be satisfactory for your purpose. The account would be in your name as custodian for your nephew under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act.

Your second question is not nearly as easy to answer. In the last decade shares of International Business Machine appreciated over 400 per cent while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average grew about 60 per cent.

Finding a company or an emerging industry with IBM potential is a quest that keeps several thousand financial analysts employed. Some of the areas that look promising for the '70s include: nonwoven fibers, oceanography, 3-D photography, leasers, the health industry, security and protection devices, containerized shipping, psychopharmacology and automation.

International Paper not only has a position in the health industry but has entered the nonwoven fiber field. A more aggressive, younger management effected a turnaround in earnings last year, reflecting greater efficiency and a large-scale modernization program. A 30 per cent gain in first-quarter net was generated by a 12 per cent increase in sales. Company ownership of about 8 million acres of timberland is supplemented by rights to an additional 15 million acres.

While International Paper is the world's largest papermaker, it is also an important factor in building materials. Development of some of the company's land for real estate is another recent innovation and will be handled by recently acquired American Central Corp. Shares, now trading at 17x estimated 1969 earnings of $2.55, have good long-range possibilities.

Lincoln Bank Gets New Name Monday

A new sign changing the name of Lincoln National Bank to Commonwealth National Bank will be installed at the bank's San Rafael office at 888 Fourth Street on Monday.

Don Fazackerly, vice chairman of the board of Commonwealth, said a "changing of the sign" ceremony will be held at 10 a.m. followed by an open house until 3 p.m.

He said the mandatory 30-day waiting period following approval from the comptroller of the currency for Lincoln's merger into Commonwealth will expire tomorrow. At that time the name will be changed at Lincoln's headquarters in Santa Rosa.

Merger discussions between the two banks were initiated last December. Lincoln National stockholders voted their approval in April and permission was received from the comptroller of the currency last month.

Fazackerly said the San Rafael staff headed by assistant vice president and manager Don F. Mailander will continue unchanged.

Lincoln National was established in Santa Rosa in 1964 and the san Rafael office was opened in May 1966. It reported resources of $7,776,383 at the end of 1968. San Rafael is its only branch office, but approval has been received for an additional branch in the Terra Linda-Northgate area.

Commonwealth National, with resources of $63,622,000 reported at the end of last year, has four offices in San Francisco and one in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County. Its outstanding shares are 98 per cent owned by the Morlan Pacific Corp., San Francisco.

Market In Decline At End Of Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market see-sawed today with the downswing not quite so pronounced as the upswing. Turnover was brisk.

Prices opened lower, were buoyed by a buying spree and then began drifting back down late in the last hour. Declines held a narrow edge over advances.

The initial strength, according to brokers, was technical, a normal occurrence following the recent steep decline. The basic jitters about the nation's economy apparently took on greater significance near the end.

Steels were firm. U. S. Steel showed little reaction to news the Justice Department had filed an antitrust suit against the industry kingpin. The issue was off fractionally for most of the session on fairly light volume.

Simpson Heads All-Star Grid Team

As of the moment, the Jets are without their Super Bowl hero Joe Namath, who announced retirement rather than sell his interest in his New York bistro.

Without Namath, the impressive collection of All-Stars might be given a good chance to beat the pro champions for the first time in five years.

Otto Graham, returning as All-Star coach after three years at the Washington Redskins helm, handpicked the collegians to face the first American Football League team to play in the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. classic.

Marty Domres, Columbia quarterback, and halfback Calvin Hill of Yale are the only players of 26 first-round draft choices this year to be missing from the squad.

Leroy Keyes of Purdue, voted most valuable in the Big Ten last season, is listed as a defensive back. The versatile Keyes was No. 3 pick in the draft and is still haggling with the Philadelphia Eagles over salary.

The All-Stars, whose main hopes of upsetting the pros usually rest with a strong passing attack, will have some standout receivers. They include Jim Seymour, Hanratty's record-breaking battery mate at Notre Dame.

Seals Draft Seven Junior Loop Players

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals' management headed home from Montreal today expressing satisfaction with the players they picked up in the National Hockey League draft there.

In a busy final day of drafting yesterday the Seals gained seven players from junior teams and lost one minor league player they had just picked from their own American Hockey League farm team at Providence.

He was Jerry LaFond, a 24-year-old defenseman, who was snapped up in the reverse draft by the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League. The Totems paid $15,000 for him.

In the junior draft, the Seals got two players they were interested in—Tony Featherstone from the Peterborough, Ont., Juniors, a right wing — and Ron Stackhouse, a defenseman from Peterborough.

Seals General Manager Frank Selke said the club didn't expect them both to last as far as the second round and added, "we were delighted that we were able to get them both. We think they are excellent prospects."

Oil-Gas Rights

RAWALPINDI (UPI) — The Pakistani government has granted a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) an oil and gas exploration concession covering 20,000 square miles in Central Pakistan. Brokerage Account Easy To Establish For Child

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you advise me how I may establish a brokerage account for a junior nephew? He saves $5 a week from his earnings as a newsboy. I have pointed out to him that an early purchase of IBM would now be of significant value due to the growth over the years. Would you recommend a company with similar prospects for him. — I.D.

A. Opening an account for your nephew is a very simple procedure, somewhat the same as opening a department store charge account. In your area there are several branch offices of New York Stock Exchange member firms, any one of which would be satisfactory for your purpose. The account would be in your name as custodian for your nephew under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act.

Your second question is not nearly as easy to answer. In the last decade shares of International Business Machine appreciated over 400 per cent while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average grew about 60 per cent.

Finding a company or an emerging industry with IBM potential is a quest that keeps several thousand financial analysts employed. Some of the areas that look promising for the '70s include: nonwoven fibers, oceanography, 3-D photography, leasers, the health industry, security and protection devices, containerized shipping, psychopharmacology and automation.

International Paper not only has a position in the health industry but has entered the nonwoven fiber field. A more aggressive, younger management effected a turnaround in earnings last year, reflecting greater efficiency and a large-scale modernization program. A 30 per cent gain in first-quarter net was generated by a 12 per cent increase in sales. Company ownership of about 8 million acres of timberland is supplemented by rights to an additional 15 million acres.

While International Paper is the world's largest papermaker, it is also an important factor in building materials. Development of some of the company's land for real estate is another recent innovation and will be handled by recently acquired American Central Corp. Shares, now trading at 17x estimated 1969 earnings of $2.55, have good long-range possibilities.

Lincoln Bank Gets New Name Monday

A new sign changing the name of Lincoln National Bank to Commonwealth National Bank will be installed at the bank's San Rafael office at 888 Fourth Street on Monday.

Don Fazackerly, vice chairman of the board of Commonwealth, said a "changing of the sign" ceremony will be held at 10 a.m. followed by an open house until 3 p.m.

He said the mandatory 30-day waiting period following approval from the comptroller of the currency for Lincoln's merger into Commonwealth will expire tomorrow. At that time the name will be changed at Lincoln's headquarters in Santa Rosa.

Merger discussions between the two banks were initiated last December. Lincoln National stockholders voted their approval in April and permission was received from the comptroller of the currency last month.

Fazackerly said the San Rafael staff headed by assistant vice president and manager Don F. Mailander will continue unchanged.

Lincoln National was established in Santa Rosa in 1964 and the san Rafael office was opened in May 1966. It reported resources of $7,776,383 at the end of 1968. San Rafael is its only branch office, but approval has been received for an additional branch in the Terra Linda-Northgate area.

Commonwealth National, with resources of $63,622,000 reported at the end of last year, has four offices in San Francisco and one in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County. Its outstanding shares are 98 per cent owned by the Morlan Pacific Corp., San Francisco.

Market In Decline At End Of Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market see-sawed today with the downswing not quite so pronounced as the upswing. Turnover was brisk.

Prices opened lower, were buoyed by a buying spree and then began drifting back down late in the last hour. Declines held a narrow edge over advances.

The initial strength, according to brokers, was technical, a normal occurrence following the recent steep decline. The basic jitters about the nation's economy apparently took on greater significance near the end.

Steels were firm. U. S. Steel showed little reaction to news the Justice Department had filed an antitrust suit against the industry kingpin. The issue was off fractionally for most of the session on fairly light volume.

Drug Crimes Darkening Marin Police Blotters

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

SACRAMENTO — Major crimes in Marin County soared 39.2 per cent in 1968 over the year before with crimes involving drugs accounting for a big chunk of the increase, according to the state Bureau of Criminal Statistics.

The huge increase in crime was one of the highest in the state and arrests of both adults and juveniles made big jumps, figures given to the Independent-Journal indicated.

Misdemeanor arrests showed a smaller increase, climbing by 13.3 per cent from 1967 to 1968.

While pointing to the steady climb of drug-releated crimes in Marin County, Ronald H. Beattie, chief of the bureau, at the same time predicted that such crimes would level off, in Marin and elsewhere in California.

The upward curve of drug crimes has, in fact, flattened off in the first quarter of this year, Beattie said, but figures are not yet available for the second quarter. "It seems to me we have got so high, it shouldn't go much higher."

Other than the surge in drug crimes, he added, there is not really a "soaring crime rate" in the state despite what politicians and others have said.

"Drugs obviously have distorted our crime picture," Beattie said. "Without drugs, there is a lot of change (in the crime rate) that is not there. What we've got is a soaring rate of crime reporting (of arrests) but when you take drugs out of it, there is no soaring crime rate when you look at convictions and sentences."

Adding to the illusion of "soaring" crime, he said, is that a lot of crimes — like hubcap stealing, petty vandalism and the like — are being reported now where formerly they were not.

Despite Beattie's comments, which referred to the whole state picture, crime in Marin County is indeed soaring in most major crime categories.

The total number of crimes increased from 2,450 in 1967 to 3,422 in 1968, a jump of 39.2 per cent. Of the state's six biggest counties, according to figures released last month, the biggest increase occurred in Alameda County which showed a gain of 37.8 per cent. San Francisco's crime rate was up 23.3 per cent and Santa Clara 22.

All arrests climbed from 7,242 to 8,643, an increase of 19 per cent. The statewide increase was 5.2 per cent.

Marin County adult felony arrests were up by 57.8 per cent last year, compared to 33.1 per cent for Alameda, 14.4 for San Francisco and 15.1 for Santa Clara.

Marin's felony drug arrests involving adults jumped 129 per cent — from 160 to 366 — compared to an average of 45.7 per cent for the big counties.

Juvenile felony drug arrests in Marin were up 121.5 per cent, from 186 to 412, while the bigger counties showed a 112.6 per cent increase.

Misdemeanor arrests for both adults and juveniles dropped 1.6 per cent statewide but drug law violations went up 158.7 per cent. Misdemeanor drug arrests in Marin were up 67.1 per cent

Reagan Fears Mob Rule On Campuses

Major Talk On Strife At Berkeley

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today those in power must "establish contact" with "an entire college generation" before it "falls to the mob by default."

"At this moment in California," Reagan said, "the danger of this happening is very real."

Reagan presented his side of the Berkeley People's Park confrontation during a luncheon address to the Commonwealth Club. The governor said he wanted to put the episode "into perspective."

"Many questions remain unanswered," the governor said in remarks prepared for delivery.

ONE QUESTION

A "basic" one, he said, is: "Was this just another episode in the nationwide wave of violence swirling about our campuses? And, if so, do we just continue reacting, restoring law and order after the fires start and the rocks begin to fly?"

"Is the nationwide campus ferment a single thing, a widespread youthful dissatisfaction with things as they are which occasionally trigger some of the more emotional into violence; or are there two separate and distinct groups each with its own cause?

"Is there a silent majority, nonviolent but with legitimate separate rebellious minority promotion a real revolutionary cause, a group that seeks by deception to enlist on occasion the aid of that majority group?"

SEEKS ANSWERS

Reagan attempted to answer these and other questions throughout his long speech, and concluded with another self-query.

"Is there a revolutionary movement involving a tiny minority of faculty and students finding concealment and shelter in the disappointment and resentment of an entire college generation that finds itself being fed into a knowledge factory with no regard to their individuality, aspirations or their dreams?

"The answer is an obvious yes. And the challenge to us is to establish contact with these frustrated young people and join in finding answers before

BUNNIES GONE BERSERK

Well, now it's out of hand. When thousands of foam plastic bunnies appeared yesterday in the outdoor theater at Terra Linda High School, no one really minded—except perhaps the janitors who had to clean up the mess. That was the end of it, written off as a senior class prank, or so everyone thought. But Vali Benningson, 13, came out of her home today at 8 Rubicon Court, Lucas Valley, and whooops! About 30 of the bunnies had been stuck to the home. Where are the little devils coming from? Who knows. They were last seen being trucked away from a Terra Linda warehouse about two months ago. Withdrawal Of Fighting Units Set

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today two brigades of the U.S. Ninth Infantry Division and a regimental landing team of the Third U.S. Marine Division will be withdrawn from South Vietnam by the end of August and replaced by South Vietnamese soldiers.

The command said a special task force working out details of the redeployment in Hawaii "reports that the first combat unit to be replaced will be a battalion oft he Ninth Infantry Division."

"It is anticipated that this battalion, composed of approximately 900 men, will be airlifted before mid-July to the continental United States for inactivation." (See war story, page 2.)

In Washington, the Pentagon estimated there will be 16,000 men involved in the first withdrawal.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced the withdrawals were the initial recommendation of a special task force now meeting in Hawaii to plan President Richard M. Nix-

Ross Town Councilmen Approve Study Of Alternate Creek Plan

By DAVID DIETZ

The Ross Town Council last night voted approval of a feasibility study of an alternate plan for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project through the community after debate — sometimes hostile — which opened and closed the council's monthly meeting. (Other Ross Council stories, page 16.)

The unanimous vote was a preliminary victory for the so-called Ross Citizens Committee, which has opposed the Army Corps of Engineers plan to construct a concrete flood channel within the creek. The committee wants an underground culvert that would carry off storm water along the former Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way adjoining the stream.

Under the terms of its vote, the council, holding veto power over final plans for the project through Ross, will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which administers the entire Corte Madera Creek project through Ross Valley, to request that the Army engineers undertake preliminary studies to determine the cost of the alternate plan.

The request to the supervisors will be made at 4 p.m. June 24 when the board conducts a public hearing in the Civic Center on plans for the third phase, including the Ross segment of the estimated $8 million creek project.

Meanwhile, it was announced last night by Charles E. Murphy of the Marin County Public Works Department that the corps has begun rough studies of the alternate plan and should have figures and other preliminary data ready at the June 24 hearing.

William C. Bricca, chairman of the committee that is boosting the culvert proposal, first asked the council to support the feasibility study during a special 30-minute period the council reserved for flood control discussion before the regular start of the council meeting at 8 p.m.

But Mayor Frederick S. Allen rejected the plea, saying that the session was informal and that the council could vote only during the regular session. He told Bricca to raise his plea at the end of the meeting.

Also during the informal session, Robert L. Shearn of 153 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, chairman of a group called Residents for Flood Control, said he favored study of the alternate plan as long as it caused no delay of the project. This was in contrast to his stand as reported by Bricca Wednesday in the San Francisco office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Bricca had said that Shearn, whom Bricca erroneously identified at the San Francisco meeting as being a resident of the Granton Park area of Kentfield, would object only to an "unreasonably delay" in the flood control project.

At the conclusion of scheduled business before the council, the issue of the alternate plan was again raised, with Bricca saying that the committee wanted "to get out of the realm of speculation and into the basis of dollars and cents" by obtaining a cost study.

The corps has issued a rough estimate of the cost of the underground culvert at between $4 million and $4.5 million, while projecting the cost of a concrete channel in the creek at between $2 million and $2.5 million.

The committee, based on the opinions of its own engineers, believes its alternate plan would cost about the same as the corps' present proposal because the values of the right-of-way, ostensibly to be donated for the alternate

Compromise Antismut Bill Passes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly approved today a compromise version of Gov. Ronald Reagan's major antiobscenity bill 44-1.

Final passage will come when the Senate approves a Senate-Assembly conference committee report.

The bill broadens the definition of obscene material sold to children. The measure makes distributing or exhibiting "harmful matter" to a child under 18 subject to a misdemeanor penalty.

Final Senate action, which would send the bill to Reagan's desk, was postponed until next week.

The only no vote was cast by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai. Two companion bills are awaiting final legislative action.

Reagan tried unsuccessfully in 1967 and 1968 to win passage for similar legislation.

Peking Silent On New Government

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's official broadcasts continued today to be silent on establishment of a revolutionary government of South Vietnam.

About a dozen Communist countries, including the Soviet Union, have announced their recognition of the Hanoi-oriented revolutionary government.

U.S. Steel Slapped With Federal Antitrust Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government brought a civil antitrust suit against U.S. Steel Corp. today, charging the huge firm with utilizing reciprocal purchase arrangements in an attempt to monopolize sales of steel and steel products.

At the same time, the Justice Department filed a proposed consent judgment that would prohibit U.S. Steel for 10 years from engaging in any reciprocal dealing arrangements.

In a statement issued in Pittsburgh, U.S. Steel said it would not contest the charges in court and would accept the judgment. It said, however, that it did not admit to any violation of the law.

U.S. Steel said it interpreted the judgment as designed to prevent the use of reciprocity to force in one way or another suppliers or potential suppliers to become or remain customers.

The big steelmaker said the use of reciprocal purchasing agreements is widespread and accepted practice in both commerce and industry. "In and of itself," the company said, "United States Steel does not believe this can be considered contrary to law."

Both actions were filed in U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh, headquarters of U.S. Steel—the nation's 10th biggest corporation and its largest steel firm.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, in announcing the action, said the government's complaint accuses U.S. Steel of entering into agreements with various suppliers to restrain trade by reci-

Bagley Thinks Public Expects Tax Reform

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee says he is convinced Californians are now expecting the legislature to pass some sort of tax reform program this year.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, made the comment yesterday at an informal hearing of his committee which discussed the bipartisan compromise tax revision program he is pushing.

He said that, while the public may not have paid much attention to earlier months of argufeels "we have the attention of the public on the subject. The atmosphere . . . has changed."

However, Bagley also said it is likely to be the week after next before his committee could vote on the compromise package. It will be drafted into legislative form over the weekend.

Democrats fenced with the author of Reagan's tax revision plan on whether the governor really is firmly supporting his own program.

The author, Republican Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle of Riverside, replied that Reagan "wants a tax reform proposal. He doesn't care what bill it is in," but he does prefer his own approach.

Biddle said that if the committee doesn't include the major provisions advocated by Reagan in the package it eventually approves, he will demand a hearing on the parts not included.

Bagley, who has his own differences with Reagan on the matter, said what he thought the Democrats really were saying is they want Reagan's bills on the floor "so they can be killed."

He added that it would be "irresponsible" for Democrats to hold up action on the state budget until a tax reform package is agreed on which they can support.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Short Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —The first pilot's strike in the 43-year history of Northwest Airlines ended about 6 a.m. today, only six hours after it began.

Representatives of the Air Line Pilots Association and Northwest reached agreement in "an intensive, all-night" mediated session after Northwest's 1,500 pilots had walked off the job one minute after midnight.

"We won an improvement in the monthly working hours," said a negotiator for the pilots who declined to discuss the agreement further.

Not So Unlucky

He didn't recall off hand how many times over the past century his birthday had fallen on Friday the 13th.

Criticizes Judges

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top policeman today blamed American judges for the riots between police and students on U.S. campuses.

Sir Eric St. Johnston, chief inspector of constabulary, has just returned from a U.S. lecture tour to three universities, including the University of California at Berkeley.

He was highly critical of American police methods on the campuses including the use of shotguns and tear gas, but he said:

"The real trouble is that the police are not backed by the judges. The courts are far too ready to listen to defense lawyers and let people out on bail."

Historic Bill

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's omnibus crime bill legalizing abortion when the mother's health is in danger and homosexual acts between consenting adults cleared Parliament last night. It now needs only the formality of the governor general's signature.

Conservative legislators tried without success to prevent Senate passage of the bill that was first introduced in 1967 by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau while he was justice minister.

"Only the God-fearing can prevent the perpetration of such infamy on humanity," said Sen. Joseph Sullivan as he tried to have the bill referred back to committee. "Abortion will be followed by euthanasia, mercy killing and artificial insemination." The bill was approved by voice vote.

Eddie Fisher Single Again

SANTA MONICA (AP) — The two-year marriage of singers Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens has ended in divorce, and they disclosed in court, for the first time, where and when they were married.

Miss Stevens

Miss Stevens, who won an uncontested decree on grounds of cruelty, said she and Fisher were wed on Feb. 9, 1967 in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Their marriage was secret until their first baby was born. Then they refused to reveal wedding details.

"My husband expressed disinterest in the institution of marriage many times," the petite blonde Miss Stevens testified, almost in a whisper. Had they argued?" "Yes." Did it make her nervous? "Yes, it did."

Fisher

Fisher did not testify.

Under an agreement, Miss Stevens receives custody of daughters Joely, 1, and Trisha, 5 months, plus $1,000 a month child support. She waived alimony.

15-Year-Old Marine Killed

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Dan Bullock, the youngest American serviceman killed in the Vietnam war, died only three weeks after arriving in the war zone, U.S. Marine officers said today.

Bullock

Bullock was killed in action last Saturday at the age of 15, while helping defend a Marine combat base against a North Vietnamese attack. Bullock enlisted Sept. 18, three months from his 15th birthday in his home town in Brooklyn, N.Y. He lied about his age. He then was only 14.

He arrived in Vietnam May 18 and was assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment.

Bullock was hit by enemy fire several times. He was one of five Marines killed.

Police Mistake Costs A Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "My son doesn't own a gun and he never carried a gun," said the mother of a man police say they fatally shot by mistake while checking a report of a highway sniper.

Oughton

Mrs. Dick C. Rania, her eyes red from tears, told newsmen yesterday that Donald Lee Oughton, 29, must have been reaching in his pocket for a card with his name and address to show two police officers. He had a speech defect.

Oughton was killed Wednesday night. One officer fired a shot when he said the man reached into his pocket, as if for a gun. The bullet hit another officer in the hand. Authorities said the wounded policeman, thinking Oughton fired, shot him.

Mrs. Rania said her son had been visiting friends and was hurrying home to watch wrestling matches on television with two next-door neighbors.

Women Grads

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — The U. S. Army War College will graduate women for the first time in its 60-year history Monday.

Frances V. Chaffin and Shirley R. Heinze, both lieutenant colonels in the Women's Army Corps, will be among the graduating class of 224 students, it was announced yesterday.

The class includes 183 Army officers, 16 from the Air Force, 8 each from the Navy and Marine Corps and 9 civilians.

Former Army Secretary Stephen Ailes will be the keynote speaker.

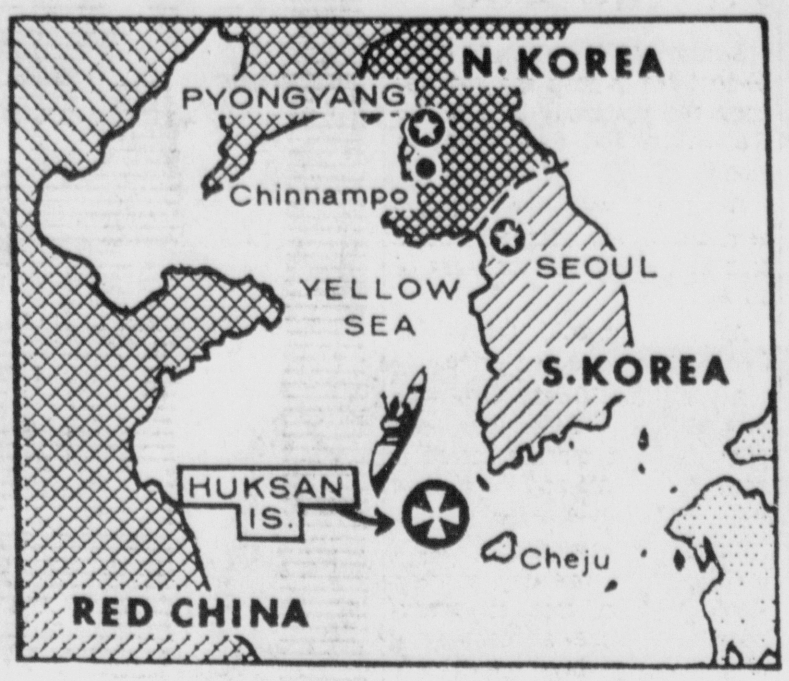
South Korea Springs Trap, Sinks Northern Spy Boat



TRAP AREA — This map spots the area where South Korean forces set a trap, sinking a Northern Korean patrol vessel. All 15 persons aboard the heavily-armed boat were killed. (UPI Telephoto)

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean forces sprang a trap on a North Korean spy boat this morning, sank the boat and killed all 15 men aboard, South Korea's Central Intelligence Agency announced.

The agency said the high-speed patrol boat had been dispatched to pick a North Korean agent on Huksan Island, off the southwest coast. But the agent, Kim Yong-ki, had been captured by the South Koreans May 30, and a trap was set around the island, the intelligence agency said.

SET TRAP

When the enemy patrol boat approached the island in the guise of a cargo-fishing vessel a combined army, navy and air task force was ready for it.

Forcing Kim to maintain radio contact with the craft, the South Korean force waited until the Communists were about to put a three-man team aboard a rubber raft to pick up Kim on the island. Then the air force lit the area with flares, and the south Koreans opened fire.

The intelligence agency said the enemy tried for six hours to fight their way out of the ambush, but all 15 were killed and the boat was sunk. Two bodies were reported recovered, and efforts were under way to raise the spy boat.

There were no South Korean casualties, the agency said.

An earlier report said the 75-foot, four-engine boat had been captured. But the agency said later the South Koreans were forced to abandon the sinking craft after counting about a dozen bodies on board and recovering some North Korean equipment.

MANY WEAPONS

The vessel, which had a maximum speed of 35 knots, reportedly was armed with an 82mm recoilless gun, four 40mm guns, two 14.5 antiaircraft guns, three heavy machine guns and two light machine guns. The South Koreans said they also found eight automatic rifles, five pistols and two antitank grenades aboard.

The agency said Kim 38, of Haeju, North Korea, was in the liaison division of the Communist party and was on an espionage mission in South Korea when he was captured. It did not say how long he had been in the country.

7,000 Allied Troops Pound Red Fortress

SAIGON (AP) — Seven thousand allied troops are sweeping through the coastal plains of central Vietnam in a drive to smash an enemy fortress only 10 miles south of Da Nang, the U.S. Command announced today.

In the three weeks since Operation Pipestone Canyon was launched, 332 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed, 51 taken prisoner and 152 weapons captured, military spokesmen said.

The allied force includes 4,000 U.S. Marines, 2,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen and rangers and 1,000 South Korean marines. The operation began May 25 but announcement of it was withheld until today for security reasons, the U.S. Command said.

On the allied side, U.S. Marine losses were put at 31 killed and 240 wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and 17 wounded. South Korean losses were two killed and 13 wounded.

U.S. Marines of the First and Fifth Regiments have done most of the fighting and reported killing more than 200 of the enemy.

A Marine spokesman said the 25-square-mile area of operations—called "Dodge City" by the Marines because they've had to dodge so much enemy fire there—includes extensive bunkers and fortifications that house combat and support elements of several major enemy units.

Dodge City is at the center of a triangle of rich rice lands, a lowlands basin of more than 200 square miles with a population of approximately one million.

Spokesmen said the Dodge City area has been a no man's land for years, with much heavy fighting there during the past year. More than 2,000 enemy troops have been killed in the area in two major operations since May 1968, Marine spokesmen said.

The U.S. Command also announced that American forces have killed 318 North Vietnamese soldiers in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam since the United States halted the bombing of the North last Nov. 1.

Although most of these enemy casualties resulted from U.S. air, artillery or naval fire, the announcement was made in the wake of the report yesterday that a U.S. Marine patrol had clashed with a North Vietnamese force during what was called a routine reconnaissance patrol in the southern half of the DMZ.

Nurses Picket Five Bay Area Hospitals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nurses in gleaming white uniforms picketed five of the Bay Area's major private hospitals tday in a strike a greater voice in setting standards of patient care.

About 500 nurses went on strike yesterday forcing two San Francisco hospitals and three East Bay hospitals to restrict admissions and limit operations. The nurses agreed to provide a limited staff for emergencies and care for the critically ill. Nurses remained on duty at four other hospitals also involved in the contract

At French Hospital in San Francisco, patients were regrouped to cut down the number of nursing stations and all elective surgery was postponed. Only emergency operations were conducted.

Although the striking California Nurses Association provided a staff for the intensive care, coronary and burn units at St. Francis Hospital, a spokesman said doctors wives and volunteers staffed other wards. The spokesman said that a key staffing problem was that only registered nurses can dispense medication.

Similar emergency measures were taken by the three affected East Bay hospitals—Alameda, Herrick and Children's.

Slain Policeman's Widow Wants Death For Slayers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The widow of a slain police officer wants her husband's killers to go to the gas chamber.

Mrs. Jessie Brodnik made her emotional but tough plea yesterday at a Mission District tree-planting ceremony after a memorial mass at a nearby Catholic Church for officer Joseph Brodnik.

Some 500 persons attended the ceremonies, including many police officers and most of the city's top officials.

After Mayor Joseph Alioto spoke on the need to end the ghetto conditions which breed crime, Mrs. Brodnik, an attractive brunette, said in a quavering voice that "capital punishment has to be done."

"You are policemen," she said to the uniformed men in the front row before her. "I hope this never happens to your wives and your children. But I hope to God that all of you stick together and make capital punishment for these killers of my husband."

Officer Brodnik, regarded as one of the city's top officers, was gunned down on May 1 while questioning some burglary suspects. Six young men were arrested a few days later and are being held for trial on murder charges.

Novato Studies Budget Again

The Novato City Council began a second look last night at the preliminary $1.7 million budget proposed for 1969-70 by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, but left it virtually untouched.

Brown said the council, which began budget review last week, spent about 90 minutes discussing sections of the police and planning portions of his spending program. The only change, he said, was to place funds normally drawn by individual members of the police department as uniform allowance into a pool to be dispensed by police officials as uniforms are needed.

The council also discussed whether the second of two additional planners was needed under Planning Director Brian W. Mattson, but deferred action until a public hearing on the full budget, according to Brown.

Nixon Selects Canadian Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today he will nominate Adolph William Schmidt, an investment management executive from Pittsburgh, as ambassador to Canada.

At the same time, Nixon disclosed his intention to nominate career diplomat Ridgeway B. Knight as ambassador to Portugal and Melvin Evans, a 51-year-old Negro physician, as governor of the Virgin Islands.

Schmidt, 64, will succeed Harold F. Linder as envoy to Ottawa. Linder is joining the board of trustees of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton, N.J.

Admission Fee Revived At The Zoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 50-cent fee to visit the zoo was approved yesterday by the city Recreation and Park Commission.

By a 4-1 vote, the commission decided to charge 50 cents to persons between the ages of 16 and 64.

All others would get in for free or for a reduced price.

A similar 50-cent fee was proposed last September, but public protest quickly scaled it down to 25 cents and the charge was never implemented.

Under the new plan, to begin in December, one day a week would remain free to everybody, and once a month one of those free days must be a Saturday.

Commissioners also decided that youth organizations or large groups of children should not be charged.

The extra money, estimated at $510,000 annually, would be used to hire a full-time veterinarian and two full-time curators.

Painting Gear Stolen

Burglars Wednesday night or yesterday stole a paint sprayer, tank, a spray gun and 50 feet of hose from Drake/Ad Sign Company, 730 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police said. The loss was estimated at $320.

Tomales High Work Delayed

Delays in construction have pushed the projected completion date of the new Tomales High School back to July 1-to-15, Supt. Anthony Matulich told the Tomales Joint Union High School District Board last night at the board's final meeting.

The district will become part of the Shoreline Unified School District June 30.

The board was told the Tomales High School Boosters Club has donated an electric basketball scoreboard for the new school, Matulich reported.

The board wound up its official existence with a final payment of warrants and minor fund transfers within the 1968-69 budget, Matulich said.

on's 25,000-man replacement program.

The United States now has 538,500 military personnel in South Vietnam.

Pentagon officials said the 900-man battalion being withdrawn is part of two brigades of the Ninth Infantry Division which has been operating extensively in South Vietnam's swampy delta region.

The Marine outfit has been headquartered at Dong Hai, in the northernmost I Corps below the demilitarized zone.

All three of the Ninth's brigades are serving in Vietnam but the Pentagon did not identify which two would be removed.

Precise numbers were hard to come by in Washington despite the Pentagon announcement.

Officials said the Ninth's two brigades normally would have 5,000 men each, but the 10,000-man total includes a number of support detachments which would be left in Vietnam.

Cable TV, School Problems Cited

The North Marin Federation last night asked the Federal Communications Commission to give top priority to cable television problems and voted support of a bill to give additional state aid to the Novato Unified School District.

Mrs. June Ownes, recording secretary of the group, said the group seeks prompt action giving cable television companies the use of utility company cables and endorsed AB 409, which would provide additional state money to low-wealth school districts and "for the first time give the Novato district funds equal to that given the average unified school district in California."

The federation is an alliance of homeowners' groups.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

Three men have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Curtis Lionel Cory, 54, of 2005 Knight Street, Petaluma, who was arrested March 17 on Highway One, was placed on one year probation and fined $201.

John Joseph Gallagher, 57, of San Francisco, who was arrested June 6 on Highway 101, was placed on one year probation and fined $240.

Hans Hermann Finzen, 45, of 16 Eugene Street, Mill Valley, was placed on one year probation and fined $240. He was arrested Feb. 21 in Sausalito.

proposal, would offset greater construction costs.

Bricca, asked whether any right-of-way donations were firm, replied that there were "lots of considerations before we get to that one." On earlier occasions, Bricca has indicated large scale cooperation by property owners.

One resident who appeared firmly opposed to donating his property was Eugene A. Ostaggi of Sylvan Lane. Although he did not speak to the council about it, he addressed himself firmly to Bricca in the audience at least twice, demanding to know why Bricca had been saying property owners were willing to help.

Later, questioning Bricca's interest, Ostaggi cried, "Where do you live? Where do you live?"

Bricca at first declined to respond but later said, "Lagunitas Road (away from the creek.)"

Lester Bricca, a distant relative and co-chairman of the citizens committee, shouted that he lived on the creek as did Ostaggi. Pleas for harmony followed from the audience.

Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said she disliked the "tone that the meeting is assuming. If we allow ourselves to get emotionally in a stew . . . it is very regretful." Councilman Ralph Walker supported her.

Earlier, the council wanted to know who was on Bricca's committee and Bricca replied that as far as he knew most or all of the councilmen had attended the organizational meeting last month and were aware of the members' identities. Several councilmen said they had not been invited or were invited too late to the meeting Monday at which the alternate plan was unveiled.

Bricca coupled his plea for support of the feasibility study with presentation of a petition signed by nearly 300 persons in favor of the alternate plan.

Joining Bricca in his request to the council were the board of the Ross Property Owners Association and Town Engineer Philip B. Lygren, who said that the "apparent desirability of the alternative plan certainly merits exploration and Col. Frank C. Boerger (chief engineer of the Army engineers in San Francisco) has indicated that his staff will study the request if received from the County of Marin."

Teen Club Urged For Terra Linda

Terra Linda should have a teen club organized with more control over membership and attendance, recreation director Larry Husband reported last night at a meeting of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors.

Husband said he had met with various groups in the community and found that more activities are needed for all age groups. The board of directors, headed by chairman John A. Colistra, backed Husband's proposals and gave him the go-ahead.

On the Fourth of July, a full day of games and races will be held at the recreation center, with a barbecue steak dinner about 4 p.m., secretary Evelyn Johnson reported. Day camps for children 6 to 12 years of age will start next Monday and will run five days a week.

Talks Set On Master Plan

Tamalpais Community Services District directors last night agreed to meet at 7 p.m., July 8 at the district offices, 305 Bell Lane, to take action on the roposed district master plan, Gale E. Bishel, director, reported.

Directors held a public hearing on the plan last night but took no action, Bishel said.

The plan outlines long range parks and recreation needs for the district and suggests ways needs might be met, Bishel said.

Apparent Impasse On Teacher Pay In Tam District

The Tamalpais High School District teachers and board of trustees appeared to have reached an impasse in salary negotiations for 1969-70 with the teachers voting yesterday to reject the board's latest offer.

The teachers agreed to stand fast to their request for a 7 per cent salary hike, 2 per cent more than offered by the board.

"We are not certain we are at an impasse," negotiating council chairman William B. Wilkinson said today. The teachers passed a resolution saying that, if there is an impasse, they plan to start fact-finding procedures under impassed proceedings of the California Teachers Association.

The teachers will ask today for another meeting with the board, Wilkinson reported.

Reason Behind No Vote Tallies

Redwood High School stopped releasing vote tallies in student body elections following the 1968 spring semester student body election when one presidential candidate received only seven votes, student activities dean William D. Wilkinson said today.

The action was taken by the student body executive council which was concerned over student embarrassment, the dean said. Wilkinson added that he doesn't agree with the decision.

Redwood in May 1963 became the first high school in Marin County to release vote totals when Lawrence Herst was elected to president.

Vote totals were not released in the May 15 and 16 election of new student officers for the fall semester.

Fitness Panel Names Officers

Dr. Kenneth Flynn, a member of the physical education department faculty at Sonoma State College, has been elected president of the North Bay unit of the California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Flynn succeeds Dr. Robert Sorani, also of Sonoma State. One of the largest units of the association, the area covers from Marin County to Ukiah.

Other Sonoma State faculty members elected are Lloyd Helgeson vice president for men's and boys' athletics; Martha Yates, vice president for women's and girls' athletics, and Mrs. Mary Covington, treasurer and membership chairman.

Collision Hurts Canadian Visitor

A Canadian visitor received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision in Sleepy Hollow, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Herbert Feddes, 77, of Vancouver, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises on the knee and forehead.

The patrol said he was injured at 4 p.m. when a car driven by his daughter, Margaret H. Nelson, 41, of 432 Calle Arbolita, Novato, hit the rear of a car driven by Agott Tenden, 48, of 710 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, when Mrs. Tenden stopped on Butterfield Road to let passengers out.

Oakland Firm Low On Freeway Viaduct

Low bidder for construction of the new Highway 101 viaduct in San Rafael is Murphy-Pacific Enterprises of Oakland at $2,699,904, the state Division of Highways announced today.

The viaduct will be built for southbound traffic west of the existing viaduct, which will be converted to northbound traffic only. Seven bids were received on the project.

REAGAN

they fall to the mob by default."

That danger is "very real," he said, "and why not?"

While Chancellor Roger Heyns of the University of California at Berkeley was meeting with law enforcement officers and joining them in requesting police and National Guard during the People's Park turmoil last month, Reagan said, "other chancellors in our system were endorsing protests and hunger strikes. Faculty groups were passing resolutions deploring police tactics..."

Reagan's office billed it as a "major address." Aides worked long hours on the text with the governor.

Reagan told the businessmen's organization that in discussing People's Park two facets will have to be avoided."

One, he said, is the death of James Rector, a nonstudent fatally wounded by buck shot fired from a law enforcement officer's shotgun. "The precise circumstances regarding his death have yet to be established officially," Reagan said.

The second, he said, "has to do with the numerous charges of nondemonstrators suffering injuries and arrest, and the allegations of mistreatment in the detention facilities at Santa Rita (prison farm)."

"Certainly, the possibility of all this must be recognized," Reagan said. "There is no question but that part of the mob on that first day of violence intended only to be vocal and were caught in the crossfire as they tried to escape."

Reagan related these details of what was happening just before shotguns were used for the first time:

"Out on the fringe of the battlefield, a police car was overturned and set on fire. Those who did it discovered a Berkeley police reserve officer, a member of this volunteer group for 20 years, who has been assigned to traffic duty. They surrounded him, throwing rocks at close range.

"Backed against a building, he went down and was literally being stoned to death in the ancient biblical manner. Lying on the ground, he drew his revolver. He did not fire it. At the sight of the weapon the mob fell back momentarily and persons inside the locked building opened the door enough to drag him inside.

"The field commander of the Alameda County sheriff's office made the decision the riot was out of control. Deputies armed with shotguns were ordered into action. When they arrived, they literally had to step over the bodies of injured officers..."

There were 791 law enforcement officers on hand by the end of the day on May 15, Reagan said. But local officials decided "this force was insufficient to guarantee the safety of Berkeley." So the National Guard was called up.

Here's how Reagan explained the use of a gas-spraying Repeated warnings failed to move them. The guardsmen were being assaulted from the upper floors of one of the buildings. Chairs were being thrown down on their heads. The balcony of the Associated Student building was stockpiled with rocks and chunks of broken concrete.

"All the warnings failed. And there was every indication that a direct assault was imminent.

"The field commander made a battlefield decision and called for a helicopter to make a teargas drop. The mob was told this had been done. Some left, but most remained.

"There is no question that innocent people suffered the distress that goes with tear gas. But there is also no question that horrendous tales exaggerated this episode beyond any resemblance to the true facts."

The Suez Canal is 103 miles long.

Dr. Butler Is New President Of Heart Group

Dr. Wendell Butler of San Rafael has been elected 1969 president and Dr. James Dahl president-elect for 1970 at the 16th annual meeting of the Marin County Heart Association.

Other officers elected were Arthur Lebow, chairman of the board; Arthur Fiedler, vice president; Richard Meese, treasurer, and Helen Davis, secretary.

New members of the board of directors are Dr. Paul Ogden of San Rafael, Dr. Filmore Rodich of San Rafael, Yvonne Harris of Marin City, Dr. James Sheppard of Mill Valley and John Walker of San Rafael. Reelected to the board were Drs. Chad Calland, Wendell Butler, David Costanza and E.A. McCrum and Arthur Lebow, Ida Nagel, Norma Wall and Clifford Lund.

The reciprocity agreements—a practice whereby a company favors its customers with purchases—had been used by U.S. Steel since 1955, the government charged.

In addition to attempting to use reciprocity to promote sales of steel and steel products, the complaint alleged, U.S. Steel also entered into arrangements to boost the market for its cement, chemicals and other products.

The suit contended the alleged reciprocity foreclosed competitors of Big Steel from selling substantial quantities of goods and services to the firm's customers and prevented suppliers from selling goods and services to U.S. Steel.

Stereos Stolen From Three Cars

Thieves have stolen stereo equipment from three cars, San Rafael police reported today.

A stereo player and tapes valued at a total of $180 were stolen yesterday from the car of Gregory J. DeChambeaux, 49 Coleman Drive, while it was in the San Rafael High School parking lot, police said.

A stereo player, 24, tapes, a camera and two lenses, valued at $369 in all, were stolen yesterday from the car of Donald E. Neu, 282 Linden Lane, while it was in his driveway.

Wednesday or yesterday, a stereo and tapes valued at $228 were taken from the car of Jimmy P. Caldwell, 155 Canal Street, Apt. 8, while it was at that address.

Chemistry Teacher Is Awarded Grant

Dr. Gene Schaumberg, chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and associate professor of chemistry at Sonoma State College, has received a grant from the Research Corp. of America for a program entitled "Aromatic Boron Heterocycles."

The research is in the preparation of new organic compounds containing boron that might be used in drugs to combat brain tumors. The grant will finance equipment and chemicals and includes an $800 stipend for Steven Donovan of Cotati, a senior chemistry major, who will assist in the project.

College Is Awarded Grant Of $12,094

The College of Marin has received a $12,094 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Congressman William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District has announced.

The money will be used for purchase of instructional equipment, according to a college official.

CRIME

in 1968 but have increased by 229 per cent since 1966.

Drunk driving arrests were up 133.2 per cent in Marin compared to a statewide average of 56.4 per cent.

Of the major crimes, Marin County showed a drop in only one category — forcible rape, which dropped 13 per cent from 23 to 20 reported cases.

There was a 41 per cent increase in burglaries with 2,068 burglaries reported. Grand theft was up 15 per cent and auto theft by 51 per cent.

Murder increased from five to six cases, robbery jumped 33 per cent to 104 reported cases and aggravated assault increased 31.3 per cent to 105 cases.

Adult arrests for felony sex offenses were down from 14 to 11 in 1968 but most other arrest categories showed increases. Figures for 1968 (with 1967 figures in parentheses) included: willful homicide, 13 (1); robbery, 17 (25); aggravated assault, 44 (36); forcible rape, 12 (7; burglary, 117 (90); grand theft, 63 (40); auto theft, 86 (39); forgery, 72 (88).

Total juvenile arrests for major crimes in Marin County increased 75.5 per cent in 1968, from 508 to 912, the state bureau's figures showed.

Aside from drugs, burglary and theft led juvenile arrests, making a 66 per cent jump from 210 to 349 arrests. Auto theft increased from 95 to 130, a 36.8 per cent jump, and robberies increased from seven to 11.

In juvenile arrests, 20.5 per cent were for major crime, 17.9 per cent for minor crime and 61.6 per cent for "delinquency tendencies" such as truancy.

Another significant trend revealed by the current crime statistics, Beattie said, is that the median age of persons convicted of major crime is falling.

The percentage of persons under 25 convicted rose in drug cases alone from 47 per cent in 1966 to 68 per cent last year, he said. Convictions of persons under 25 for other crimes for the same period increased only from 43 per cent to 46 per cent, he said.

Another reason drug arrests may level off is the inability or failure of courts to get convictions. "Arrests have gone up but what've we done?" Beattie asked. "Not much. I think law enforcement officers may get to feel 'I've done my duty, but what's the use?' "

Famed Isotope Developer Dies

RED BANK, N.J. (UPI)—Physicist Nathaniel B. Wales Jr., 54, who developed the first nuclear ion accelerator and made the production of isotopes possible, died yesterday at Riverside Hospital after a long illness.

In World War II he developed the super-bazooka and the primachord tripline, both of which contributed to the Allies' defense capabilities.

He is survived by his widow, the former Anne L. Peacock.

Boy's Leg Broken; Struck By Vehicle

Six-year-old Anthony John Russo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Russo of 110 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax, suffered a broken left leg yesterday in Fairfax when he was hit, according to Fairfax police, by a car driven by Mrs. William J. Milliken of 175 Crescent Road, San Anselmo.

The accident occurred about 1:57 p.m. at 85 Bolinas Road, police said, when the boy ran out in front of the car which was traveling about 20 mph. He was treated and released at Kaiser Foundation Hospital. No charges were filed.

LITTLE TEACHERS — Robin Patterson, 9, instructs Tina Thorne, 6, during a reading session at Pacoima Elementary School in Los Angeles. Experimenting through a Ford Foundation Grant in a program administered by Systems Development Corp., school officials say the little pupils are learning faster than normal, and the older ones are becoming sharper witted.

PUPIL TEACHERS

Los Angeles School Experiment Lauded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When you set children to teaching younger children, the young ones learn faster and the older ones become sharper witted.

The teachers gain time to spend with pupils who need them most.

The principal solves his teacher shortage.

These conclusions emerged yesterday at a news conference summarizing the first year of an experiment in education at Pacoima Elementary School in north-central Los Angeles.

This year, fifth and sixth graders have tutored kindergarten and first grade pupils. Next year, all grades will be involved.

"Most of what kids learn comes from other kids anyway," said Dr. Ralph J. Melaragne, one of the project directors. "We're capitalizing on this.

"One of the great needs in education is for more individual instruction. This is the best and least expensive way we've found of providing it.

"Instead of one teacher for 30 children, we now have one for every five or six. The tutors are warm and close to the younger children, but they make them work."

The student tutors receive several weeks of instruction before they are assigned to duty.

"For example," said Melaragne, "we don't let them say to the little ones, 'You're wrong.' When mistakes are made, the tutors simply tell them what the correct answer is."

Judy Walsh, a teacher, said:

"I was worried at first that I would not know what the younger children were doing, but the older ones do a good job of keeping me posted on progress.

"As for discipline, it couldn't be better."

What do the children think of it?

"It's fun," said Kate Suda, 10, who takes an hour a day from her fifth grade studies to tutor in kindergarten.

Looking down at 5-year-old Jeffrey Harris, she said, "He's doing so much better."

Said Jeffrey: "I like Kate. She's nice."

Many of Pacoima's 1,600 students—45 per cent Negro, 40 per cent Mexican-American, 15 per cent white—come from poor homes. Many have emotional and mental problems.

"But the program is not designed for poor areas alone," said Principal Bill Lyle.

Lyle said selection as a tutor "changes the whole attitude of the one chosen. He's important, he finds a place in the sun."

The younger ones benefit, too, he said. "There's an understanding between children that is difficult for a teacher to achieve, especially with 30 or more children in the room."

Teen-Age Driver Hurt In Crash

Harry I. Thorgersen Jr., 18, of 50 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a head injury, multiple scrapes and a cut ear suffered in an accident on San Pedro Road near Beach Drive yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said.

Thorgersen reportedly told the patrol he swerved to miss an oncoming car which had crossed the center line. His car hit an embankment and then a third car, driven by Joseph G. Johnston Jr., 35, of 35 Fernwood Drive, San Rafael.

San Francisco Judge Nominated By Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A judge who favors a strict interpretation of the Constitution has been nominated by President Richard M. Nixon to the U.S. District Court here.

"I believe the courts should interpret the Constitution rather than try to invade prerogatives of the legislatures," Gerald S. Levin, a San Francisco Superior Court judge for 12 years, said after his appointment yesterday.

Although current court decisions have upheld application of the Bill of Rights to state courts Levin said in an interview that "perhaps that wasn't the original idea — it was expressed otherwise when I went to school. I would be inclined to interpret the Constitution in the manner in which it was intended."

"I think it's very unfortunate that turmoil exists, in the cities and in the universities," Levin said, but he added that courts exist only to enforce the law as it stands, not change society.

"I'm concerned about maintenance of law and order throughout the United States."

"It's my opinion that judges should serve society in general," said Levin. He has been a director of the local branch of the American Cancer Society and a local and national chairman of the National Council on Alcoholism.

"I work 12 hours a day," he said. "When I have work to do, I do it."

Levin is enthusiastic about assuming a seat on the federal bench, but "there'll be a lot of reading before I try cases," he said. In spite of the work, he doesn't think the change from Superior Court to District Court will be a difficult task.

He was first recommended to former President Lyndon Johnson by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., but Johnson passed Levin over in favor of U.S. Atty. Cecil F. Poole, a Negro.

Johnson renominated Poole after the Senate Judiciary Committee failed to act on Poole's nomination. When incoming President Nixon withdrew all of Johnson's nominations, the way was clear for Levin.

Rat-Polluted Coffee Seized

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Food and Drug Administration moved yesterday to make sure 34,230 pounds of coffee would never go to pot.

The federal agency seized the coffee at a Pier 37 warehouse because it had been infested by rats.

Grace Lines was holding the coffee for sale to a firm which would rebag it. The cargo arrived here with a number of bags broken and a routine inspection showed rats had moved into the broken bags.

New Moral Guidelines Not Official

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The President of the State Board of Education emphasizes that a controversial, proposed set of moral guidelines for California public school teaching may, or may not, be used.

President Howard of Long said yesterday the guidelines on "moral instruction" were only received, not approved, by the board last month.

The guidelines, recommended by a nine-member committee, questioned the United Nations, sex education, humanism as a basis for morality and anthropologist Margaret Mead.

"There has been some misinterpretation about the action we took last month on the moral guidelines," Day said. He reported that some persons may believe "we are now implementing it. We are not."

—The Rev. Donn Moomaw of Los Angeles, a board member, announced the names of a new committee to study the report on moral guidelines. Day said the new committee has a "free hand" to make its own recommendations.

Two Convicts Found Guilty In Lakeport Deputy Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Larry Taylor and John Lynn, two escapees from a San Quentin Prison camp, were found guilty of second degree murder yesterday for the fatal shooting of a deputy sheriff during an escape attempt at the Lake County courthouse in Lakeport.

The two defendants, both 24, had been charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Deputy William D. Hoyt on Oct. 11, 1967.

The jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict.

The two defendants cannot be given the death penalty.

The jury also found both men guilty of attempted escape on the day Hoyt was slain, and Lynn was found guilty of an escape attempt on Oct. 5, 1967.

Lynn also was found innocent on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Taylor was not charged with assault.

The defense had contended Hoyt was killed during an escape attempt by Raymond Pettis, who was captured with the two defendants after the three men fled the San Quentin work camp. Pettis committed suicide in San Quentin 12 days after the Lakeport shooting.

Larkspur Annexation East To Prison Gains Approval

Larkspur's expansion east of Hutchinson Quarry at Greenbrae won unanimous approval of the Martin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night.

Commissioners voted 4 to 0, with J. Wayne Womack absent, to permit Larkspur to annex about 85 acres from east of the quarry to San Quentin Prison property owned by the state. The annexation includes Wood Island just east of Greenbrae Wye.

Last January, the commission approved the annexation of the 75-acre Hutchinson quarry property to Larkspur.

Commissioners deadlocked last night on a request by the City of San Rafael to annex two lots on either side of San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen's home at 185 Oak Drive, Bayside Acres.

The Miskimen annexation barely squeaked by last month on a 3-to-2 vote, with Jan Paul Dyk and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. objecting that this was spot annexation since Miskimen's property would be connected to San Rafael only over water.

The same split arose last night over the annexation of lots on both sides of Miskimen's, with Dyk and Arrigoni opposed, and Hugh G. Marchant and Michael Wornum in favor. The commissioners put the matter over until next month so that Womack can break the deadlock.

The Local Agency Formation Panel Also:

LUCKY DRIVE — Adopted a hands-off policy on the request by 15 homeowners along Lucky Drive at Greenbrae to annex to Corte Madera Sanitary District. Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks said the commission has no jurisdiction until the town of Corte Madera decides whether it will go ahead with the annexation. Lucky Drive residents, headed by David H. Jordan of 22 Lucky Drive, protested that annexation to the sanitary district should not be conditioned on annexing to the town.

BEL MARIN KEYS — Approved the annexation of 8.6 acres at Bel Marin Keys, containing 30 dwelling units, to the Novato Sanitary District. Although the area was not in the sanitary district, it has been receiving service about four years. Commissioners recommended that the district collect back taxes for past service.

BOLINAS — Voted 3 to 1 to reject the annexation of 11 acres owned by Edward G. Letter at the northwest corner of Bolinas Lagoon to the Bolinas Public Utilities District. The majority turned down the annexation because the Letter property is being sought for purchase by the county as part of Bolinas Lagoon county park. Marchant cast the dissenting vote, explaining that pending county purchase has no bearing on the annexation.

Black Panthers Charge Dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Municipal Court judge has dismissed charges against six Black Panthers of using an illegal loudspeaker which precipitated a police raid on the group's Fillmore District headquarters last April.

Two of the Panthers must still stand trial on charges of inciting to riot, using obscene language and unlawful assembly, stemming from a series of violent incidents which followed the police raid.

Judge Albert Axelrod dismissed the loudspeaker charges against the six Panthers yesterday. He said a city ordinance requiring police permits for loudspeakers was "fatally defective" and "restrictive."

Teacher Finally Gets Her Freedom Medal

San Rafael teacher Virginia Franklin received the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge patriotism medal yesterday after a wait of eight years.

"I feel that it's my final vindication," she said today, "and I think it's a beautiful medal."

The once controversial Butte County teacher, who won a $16,500 slander suit against the American Legion Post 259 of Paradise, now teaches government at San Rafael High School.

Mrs. Franklin, 45, was charged by the Legionnaires with being a "Communist" and with "brainwashing" her students in 1962.

She was advised by the Freedoms Foundation, prior to suing the legion post in October 1962, that she was to receive the "Classroom Teacher Medal" for her patriotic contribution to youth leadership.

Asked why it took so long for her to get the medal, the attractive blonde teacher said, "When the Legion found out I received the award, they asked the foundation to withdraw it."

Then, she added, the Freedoms Foundation sent a letter saying anybody involved in a litigation would not receive an award until 30 days after the trial. "My trial was in 1967. Then I was told that it was just simply overlooked. The letter and medal arrived yesterday."

VIRGINIA FRANKLIN
Finally receives medal

The gold colored medal has a red, white and blue ribbon at the top. On the back is imprinted: "Virginia Franklin. 1961, Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge."

Mrs. Franklin said she was upset at first that she didn't get the medal because it had been sought, not by herself, but by friends. She also said that the precedent for not sending a medal pending litigation was on a criminal case and her case was a civil one.

State Agriculture Chief Plans To Curb DDT's Use

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Department of Agriculture proposes to ban use of DDT and the similary DDD in household bug-killers and agricultural dusts beginning next January. The department will make its final decision after July 11, the deadline for protests on the proposed ban, it was announced today.

Because DDT and DDD, a similar pesticide, "represent a hazard to man's natural environment," agriculture director Jerry W. Fiedler said yesterday their use may be sharply curtailed starting Jan. 1.

"There is considerable public and scientific concern about the effects of DDT and DDD. We know of no reliable evidence that these pesticides are directly harmful to man," Fielder said, but he noted they have been on the department's "injurious materials" list since 1963.

This means they could be used in agriculture only with a permit. The two pesticides have not been regulated in the area of house and garden use because it is impractical to do so, Fielder said.

He noted that "the University of California has agreed to research and advise us," on limiting them further.

A department spokesman said the Jan. 1 target date was set to permit an orderly transition but he predicted "a lot of people won't even know there's been a change.

"They'll still go into the store and say, 'Let me have something good that'll kill aphids,' and the store owner will sell it to them — except that, starting next year, it won't contain DDT or DDD," the spokesman said.

"There are many good substitutes," he said, "a wide range of other pesticides that could do as good a bug-killing job as DDT."

And he said the house-and-garden spray with DDT "probably isn't the major contributor" to some air and water pollution, "but it's a sizeable one."

The main difference between other pesticides and DDT or DDD is staying power.

DDT and DDD are chlorinated hydrocarbons. They don't break down and dissipate readily after use while other pesticides must be resprayed to retain their effectiveness.

It is DDT's persistence which has brought it much praise as an effective and long-lasting bug killer. But this same lingering has resulted in criticism from conservationists and others.

Police Break Up Noisy Teen Party

San Rafael police broke up a noisy party last night after several juveniles pelted a policeman and his patrol car with rocks, beer cans and other debris, police reported.

Police said they were called to a loud party at 8 p.m. at the John M. Pattaiocchi residence at 109 Trellis Drive, and an officer found 200 to 400 youths milling on the street, on lawns and in the house.

When some of the youths began throwing things at him, the officer called another police car and two sheriff's units and the party was dispersed.

California's Enchantment Fades A Bit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Most Californians still rate their state one of the best places to live, but dissatisfaction has grown in the past two years.

Mervin D. Field's California Poll said today residents of the San Diego area particularly were less enchanted.

Field reported results of a recent public opinion poll which questioned 1,011 randomly selected adults concerning their overall assessment of California as a place to live. He compared the answers with a similar poll two years ago.

The percentage rating the state as one of the best places dropped slightly—from 73 to 71—while those listing it as nice, but not outstanding, declined from 15 to 14 per cent. The about average rating increased from 9 to 10 and the rather poor percentage from 2 to 4. One per cent had no opinion.

But the breakdown by regions showed San Diegoans giving California a best rating dropped from 85 per cent to 68 per cent. A decrease from 79 to 72 per cent occurred in the San Francisco Bay Area and a drop from 71 to 66 per cent was recorded in the Central Valley area. In Los Angeles, however, the percentage increased slightly, from 69 to 72.

Field said the state's climate was still listed as its top feature, although the number mentioning it declined. Job opportunities also was listed less, while good recreation and scenery moved up to become the second most popular virtue.

California's most often mentioned vice was high taxes, followed by overcrowding and air pollution. There were also many more mentions of campus riots, crime and violence, racial unrest and hippies.

The banjo originated among Negroes in America.

Rights Commission Told Of Job Finding

Nine girls who completed secretarial and grooming classes at San Domenico High School in Sleepy Hollow have been placed in jobs, mostily with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., executive director Austin J. Thompson reported last night to the Marin Human Rights Commission.

Most of the job placements came through the efforts of Troy Lewis, chairman of the commission's employment committee, Thompson announced.

Commissioners voted a resolution of thanks to the Marin Education Corps and businessmen in the community for supporting the secretarial and grooming class. They also voted a letter of appreciation to the San Francisco Foundation for a $57,000 allocation for the Marin County police-community relations training program.

Thompson introduced two summer work-study interns from San Francisco State College, who have joined the human rights department staff. They are Walter Juchert and Stephen Thomas.

Richard Harding of Mill Valley presided last night in the absence of chairman James Quiett and vice chairman Bella Aaron, who were ill.

World Due For New Recession?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A world-wide recession may be just around the corner, a University of Southern California monetary authority said yesterday.

"I don't think we can avoid it," Dr. Michael Heilperin, of the USC Graduate School of Business Administration in a statement. "We have had the longest run of uninterrupted prosperity in history.

"It's like driving your car without ever taking your foot off the accelerator. You must put on the brakes sometime."

However he said he feels the recession would not be as bad as the 1929 depression.

"Already a big spender, the government could become a bigger one to try to cure the recession, and I don't think we are faced with mass unemployment this time," he said.

Still No Talks Set In Ferryboat Strike

Ferryboats from Tiburon to Angel Island and San Francisco were idled for the tenth day today as the marine engineers union continued its strike against Harbor Tours Inc.

Negotiations between the ferry and sightseeing firm and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association have not begun and probably will not until the union settles strikes against other Bay Area boat firms.

Sausalito Council May Ask A Salary

Sausalito city councilmen indicated last night they would put themselves on the city payroll before the current budget sessions are completed.

The council — meeting in special session on the budget — agreed to discuss the matter at a future budget session, probably next Thursday night.

The councilmen now receive no salary, but under law can authorize themselves $150 per month. If the council wants a salary, but wants less than the $150 per month, it must then go before the city voters, asking for a specific, lesser amount.

Councilman George C. Hoffman proposed a council salary at the end of last night's budget session, noting that he "... had been studying it for a long time." He said, "I bring it up tonight only so when we discuss it in the future, people won't claim we brought it up out of the blue sky."

City Mgr. George M. Patterson told the council that presently Fairfax, Novato, Corte Madera, San Rafael and San Anselmo councils are drawing pay.

"I think you will find that a majority of the councils in the state are now being paid," Patterson told them.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy said that while he favored a salary, he didn't feel that the full $150 a month should be received. Hoffman agreed and councilmen Robin Sweeny and Alexander R. Imlay also said they favored a salary. Councilman Jan Paul Dyks was absent.

If the councilmen did adopt $150 salaries, the cost to the city for a full year would be $9,000.

Sausalito Firemen Ask For Subsistence Pay

Requests for a midyear salary increase and subsistence pay for Sausalito firemen were taken under study last night by city councilmen.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten asked the council to consider granting a 2.5 per cent raise to firemen in Jaunary in addition to the 7.5 per cent raise they will get July 1 and also asked for subsistence pay since firemen are required to live within seven miles of the city limits.

The council deferred decision until next Thursday's budget session because Councilman Jan Paul Dyk, of the city's two-member finance committee at a meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Masten is seeking $35 per month subsistance for five firemen who live within two miles of the city and $25 per month for 13 within the seven-mile limit.

"I think it's only fair that we pay these men something extra since the city does require them to live in a higher cost-of-living area," Masten said.

Total cost to the city would be about $5,550 a year if the subsistence plan was adopted, Masten said.

The council also will study a request from Masten to hire two additional firemen to staff the city-operated ambulance.

Masten said that with the number of men he now has, an ambulance call frequently leaves the firefighting staff shorthanded. Two of the seven firefighters on duty answer ambulance calls, one driving and the other as an aide, Masten said.

The council rejected a request from Masten that the salary of Asst. Fire Chief Frank Christ be raised 7.5 per cent rather than 5 per cent July 1.

"I would be willing to give up my increase this year to see that the money is available for Frank's raise," Masten told the council. Masten received a $100 a month raise although he did not request one this year.

The rest of the city's firefighting staff received 7.5 per cent raises effective July 1, but City Mgr. George M. Patterson recommended only a 5 per cent hike for Christ to keep the spread between chief and assistant chief the same.

Hub Council Eyes Hiring Of Firemen, Police Clerk

The San Anselmo City Council last night considered the proposed hiring of two added firemen and a police clerk-dispatcher in discussion of the 1969-70 budget but continued action until next Thursday.

The two added firemen would cost $15,840 per year and the clerk-dispatcher $5,770. Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa told the council that a request for $10,790 in overtime would be reduced to $4,384 if the two fireman were provided.

No recommendations were made by the council on the fire department's request for a new $54,000 fire engine, admininstrator-controller Alfred D. Kaeppel reported.

Kaeppel told councilmen that a request for a car for the assistant fire chief would be $1,623 instead of $2,665 as previously requested.

The council asked Kaeppel to survey what othr cities are paying police prior to making a decision on San Anselmo police salaries. Police are asking for a 10 per cent increase.

Total proposed police budget is $173,027 which compares with the current $167,721. Total 1969-70 fire budget is $183,980 comparing with the current $181,299.

The council agreed to consider changes in city insurance policies at its 8 p.m. meeting June 19. It will meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in city hall to discuss public works, design review and planning budgets.

Air West Granted Ban On Slowdown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge has issued a restraining order prohibiting the airline employees union from engaging in a threatened slowdown against Air West.

U.S. Dist. Judge George B. Harris issued the order yesterday after the airline complained the union threatened to disrupt the company's operations and to discourage passengers with a slowdown beginning today.

Kennedy Urges Aid To Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urging revision of the Hill-Burton Act for hospital construction aid, Sen. Edward Kennedy says the crucial demand is for development of new and improved health facilities and programs for big cities.

"The crisis in our great city hospitals is as clear as today's headlines," the Massachusetts Democrat added in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

The committee was told the 23-year-old law's original objective, helping rural areas overcome hospital shortages, has been achieved.

COMPROMISE ABM PLAN IMPRESSES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator whose uncommitted stance on the Safeguard controversy makes him a key figure in the fate of the program, says he is impressed with a compromise proposal to delay ABM deployment while allowing work to continue on other parts of the missile defense project.

Sen. Howard M. Cannon, D-Nev., said in an interview that "When I make up my mind, this could be something I would lean to."

"I am impressed by it," he added about the plan aimed at heading off what now appears to be a near deadlock over President Richard M. Nixon's proposal to build missile defense sites in Montana and North Dakota.

Cannon is one of a half-dozen senators, who according to the latest Associated Press poll, haven't made up their minds on the Safeguard project.

PG&E Is Facing A Racial Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was charged with racial discrimination yesterday in a suit filed with the state Supreme Court by the California Rural Assistance, Inc.

The CRLA sought to reverse aruling by the Public Utilities Commission on May 27 that alleged widespread racial discrimination by PG&E is irrelevant to a $37 million rate increase.

The CRLA, joined by seven minority group organizations, asked the supreme court to order PG&E to disclose its employment records prior to securing the rate increase.

Special Senate Vote Needed For Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted yesterday to pay members and employees next week—action required because a supplemental money bill containing funds is not expected to be approved by then. The House recently took similar action.

The annual pay of senators and representatives recently was boosted from $30,000 to $42,500.

Bomber Man To Become A.F. Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's first appointment to the Joint Chiefs of Staff is Air Force Gen. John D. Ryan, a strong advocate of an advanced bomber force in a time when nuclear missiles are considered the nation's main strategic weapon system.

Nixon announced the appointment yesterday of the 53-year-old Ryan, former head of the Strategic Air Command, to succeed retiring Gen. John Paul McConnell on the Joint Chiefs. Barring unexpected resistance in the Senate, Ryan should become Air Force chief sometime in August.

A World War II bomber pilot with 58 missions over Europe, Ryan will be the first new face on the Joint Chiefs of Staff since Nixon took office.

The President yesterday also:

Went through with a previously-announced decision to extend Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler for a record sixth year as chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

Nominated Adm. Thomas H. Moorer for another two years as chief of Naval Operations, bringing his term in line with a recent law specifying standard four-year tours for members of the JCS.

Since becoming vice chief of staff last August, Ryan has shunned publicity because, as one associate put it: "The chief of staff does the speaking while the vice chief stays home and runs the store."

BOMBER ADVOCATE

Officers close to Ryan say he is a firm believer in maintaining a mixed force of bombers and missiles as the backbone of the nation's deterrent striking power, and that he strongly supports a proposal to build an entirely new Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft for the Air Force of the 1970s and beyond.

The third straight Air Force chief with a SAC background, Ryan is known as "Three Finger Jack" because of a World War II wound. He has made no effort to build a public image—a quality which fits in with the general tone of present-day military chiefs, who are known mostly as managers.

As Air Force chief of staff, he will head 868,000 men spread around the world.

Lean and athletic looking, Ryan stays in shape playing handball. At West Point, he was an outstanding football player.

SPUNKY PALSY VICTIM

'Risk' Philosopher Up For Graduation

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One of the 484 students to be granted from Terra Linda High School today is a 20-year-old Point Reyes Station lad who can neither read nor write.

He is Robert Stommel, a spirited student who though born with cerebral palsy manages to get As in psychology and philosophy and, according to his tutor, is "very adept with numbers."

Stommel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Stommel, can see but he can't read because of lack of focus. He can't write because of lack of coordination.

How does he manage to study?

"I do it by training myself to remember," he said. "I'm like a blind person. I have to have everything read to me."

He has been in special schools since he was 6 except for one year at Tomales High School and that didn't pan out, he says, because he didn't get enough help.

For three years he has divided his time between Terra Linda High and Marindale School, a county school for the orthopedically handicapped.

Staying as a paying guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Deibler of 676 Cedarberry Lane, San Rafael, Stommel gets picked up for school by the county school bus.

His first class at Terra Linda is English. ("That's a tussle," he says). Then he has geometry, philosophy ("I'm great in philosophy") and psychology. At 2 p.m. he goes to Marindale where for an hour he is tutored by a fellow Terra Linda student, Cordy White, in geometry.

Cordy puts a problem on a blackboard and tells Stommel what she has written. He tells her how to work it and she works it. Then, if it is correct, Cordy writes the finished problem on notebook paper for Stommel.

"He can real the letters like angle ABC," Cordy said. "He'll tell me, 'Well, that's how you do it. You use this theorem and this assumption or corollary."

Stommel relaxes at home. "I really groove music, especially Simon and Garfunkel." He also likes talking books and says that one of the books he has liked best is "Don Quixote."

"It really turned me on — not because of the violence but the philosophy behind it was something terrific."

Stommel despises television "because it doesn't have anything intellectual," he said.

He has been "going, going, going" lately, having attended the senior ball and been involved with the Terra Linda youth group and a group leader in the recent youth-adult dialect at Miller Creek Junior High School.

In addition, the youth said he is always trying to aid people in their search for growth. "Taking risks with people will make you grow," he claims.

His "risk" philosophy is tied in with his idea of wanting to let people grow in their own way. "I want to help people to help themselves," he said.

What does he tell people to make them take a risk? Stommel replied, "I take a risk whenever I tell somebody what they are not willing to hear but they know is true about them."

The student last week received permission to be graduated, although he has yet to do his government course this summer.

In September, Stommel will begin studying psychology at Chico State College — with a tutor.

Tiburon Councilman's Opinion Misquoted

Anne L. Ellinwood, representing the Tiburon City Council to the Association of Bay Area Governments, voted against the ABAG regional government proposal Wednesday night because she "fundamentally can't buy" a governing board without some representatives being elected.

An error in yesterday's Independent-Journal changed the meaning of Mrs. Ellinwood's reason by saying "with" rather than "without."

Marin Woman Given Tax Offense Probation

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 63-year-old Corte Madera woman was placed on five years' probation in U. S. Disirict Court yesterday after pleading guilty to four counts of willfully assisting in the preparation of false income tax returns.

Florence Moraghan, 63, who used the name Florence Morehead during her time in Corte Madera, was also directed by Judge Oliver J. Carter not to prepare any income tax returns except her own.

Mrs. Moraghan was indicted by a Los Angeles grand jury in 1957 on 11 counts of helping prepare false returns. But after being informed by the Internal Revenue Service that it was contemplating criminal action against her, she dropped out of sight.

IRS special agents only recently discovered her, in Corte Madera where she lived at 18 Council Crest Drive and until two years ago, had operated a business assisting in the preparation of income tax returns. Federal officials declined to say whether any Marinites were assisted in preparing false returns.

When she was tracked down by special agents, the grandmotherly businesswoman had been on the IRS "12 most wanted" list longer than all but a few tax violators in IRS files, revenue service officials said.

In Los Angeles, she operated a business called Riteway Business Service which IRS agents said helped clients prepare phony returns which got them an average of $145 in refud an average of $145 in refunds.

Novato Police Invite More Patrol Car Evening Riders

With the summer vacation taking teen-agers out of school and the community, the Novato Police Department's ridealong program will be more available to adults, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia.

This program is open to all teen-agers and adults, whether Novatans or not he said. People from the east bay and San Francisco have ridden with the officers on patrol, he said.

In the program, guests ride in the front of the patrol car with the officers while they are on actual duty. The passangers are urged to ask any question of the officers.

The summer schedule is 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays and also from 1 to 4 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays, Di Grazia said.

The program apparently has the approval of a majority of Novato High School students. In a survey by three University of California students, 63.4 per cent of Novato High responses said the students were interested in such a ride-along program.

Teachers' Pay Hikes Due Study

The three committees of the Marin County Board of Education will consider at their Monday meetings a 5 per cent across-the-board teachers' salary request for 1969-70.

The administrative services and educational services committees will meet at 7:30 p.m., while the special services committee meets at 8:30 p.m. All sessions are at the county schools office.

The special services committee also will consider the operation of an educationally handicapped program for junior high students.

Such a program is now conducted for kindergarten through sixth grade students.

The educational services committee will hear a report on the current year's outdoor education program which ended last Friday.

Stolen Keys Used

Harry Cohen of Spring Avenue, Lagunitas told the sheriff's department that apparently someone had taken keys to his home during one of five previous burglaries and had used them Monday to enter the house and steal food, including chicken and salami.

OVERPASS IN MAKING — A workman nears completion of one of seven wood molds placed inside forms for abutments for the 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 to link Lincoln Avenue and Coleman School in San Rafael. Concrete, poured into form and against ribs, will be chipped off for a lace-like pattern when the project is completed. The tubular girder bridge is seen as a prototype for larger jobs.

A New Design In Overpasses

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Highway engineers, using a pioneering new design, are pushing toward completion of a 198-foot pedestrian overpass across Highway 101 that will link Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.

The $140,000 concrete and steel bridge, scheduled for completion in the second week of July, is to be the first tubular girder bridge anywhere in the U.S., the state Division of Highways reported.

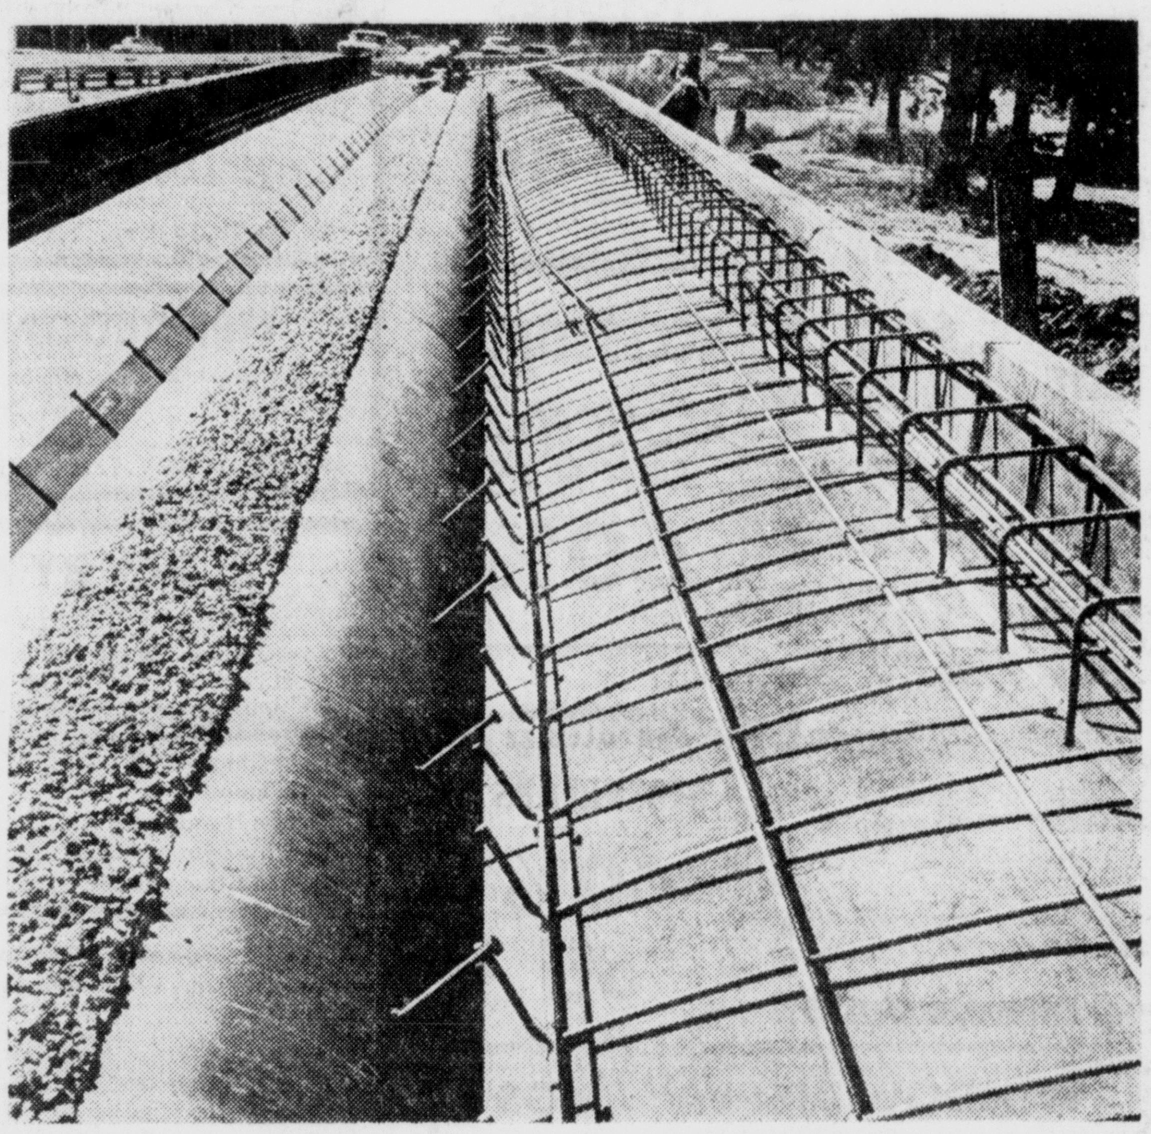
Two welded steel tubes, 92 feet and 106 feet long, and each 48 inches in diameter, have been topped by lightweight concrete and stood last week on the west side of the freeway, waiting to be hoisted into place.

The west side abutment has been poured and workmen last week began clearing the area where the east abutment will stand. Each of the abutments has been designed with "fractured rib texture" arches, which will give a laced effect when completed. The effect is obtained by chipping concrete poured into a ribbed wood mold.

The bridge is to be supported from the highway's center divider by a tapered steel column.

Two 100-ton cranes will be used to lift the 67-ton girder sections into place when the two abutments are completed. The hoisting will be scheduled during the night, when traffic is lighter, reported engineer Robert Sitzman.

The Division of Highways designed the tubular girder bridge as a prototype for development of techniques in larger jobs in the future.



PROTOTYPE — Workmen prepare steel reinforcing on tubular girder under construction on west side of Highway 101 opposite Coleman School. Bonded aggregate spread across the top of the girder prior to pouring concrete aids adherence of concrete to the steel.

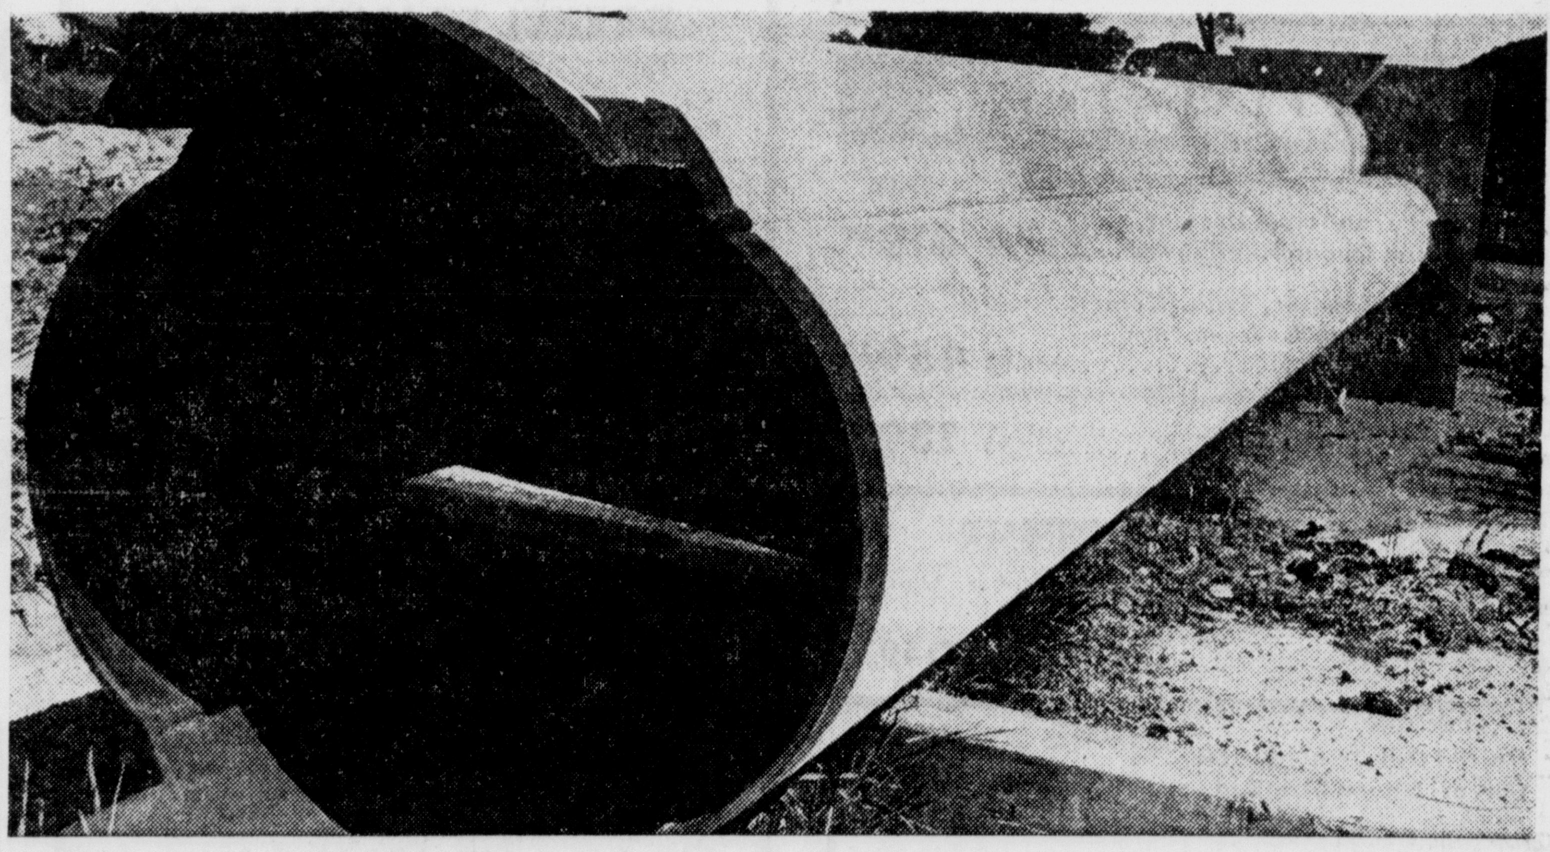
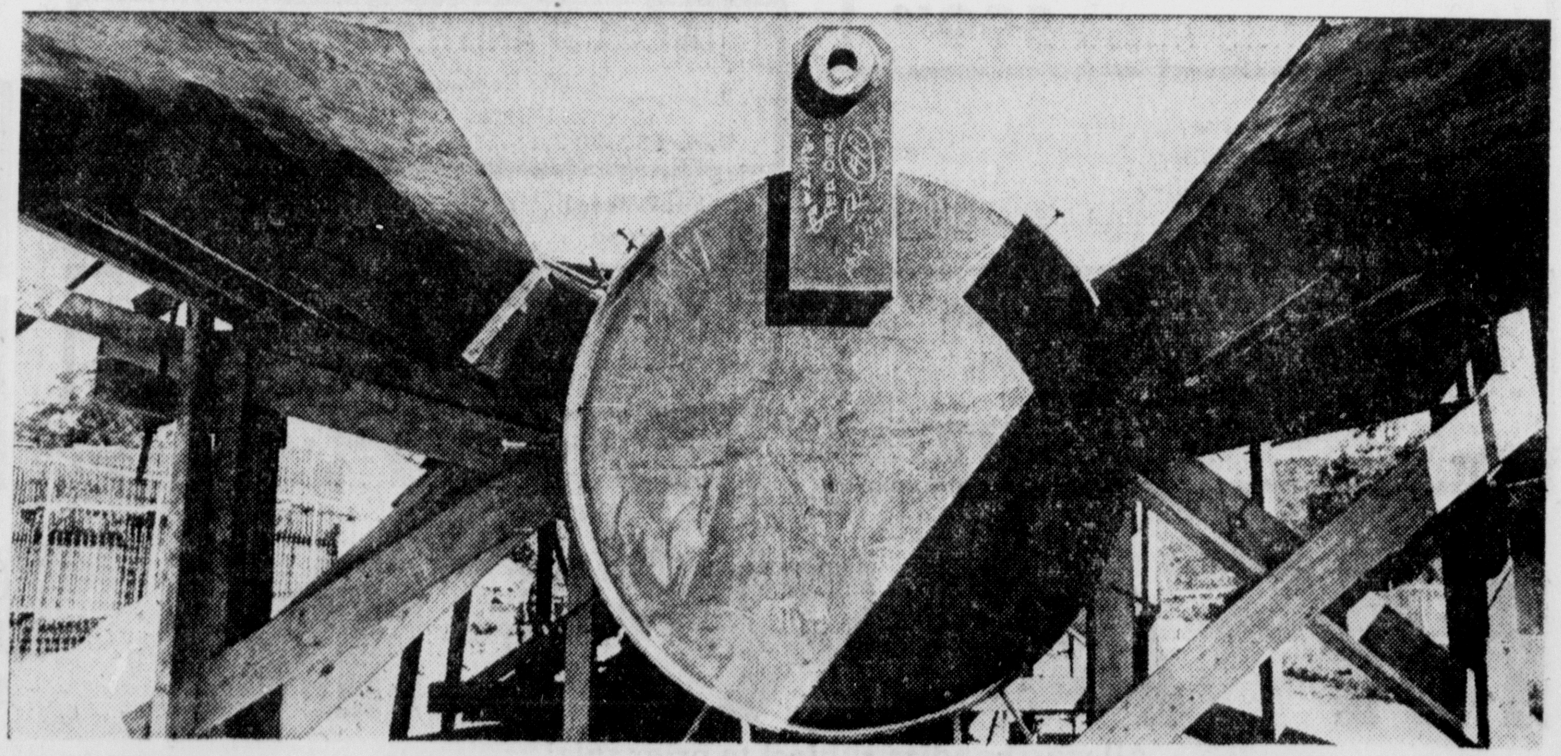
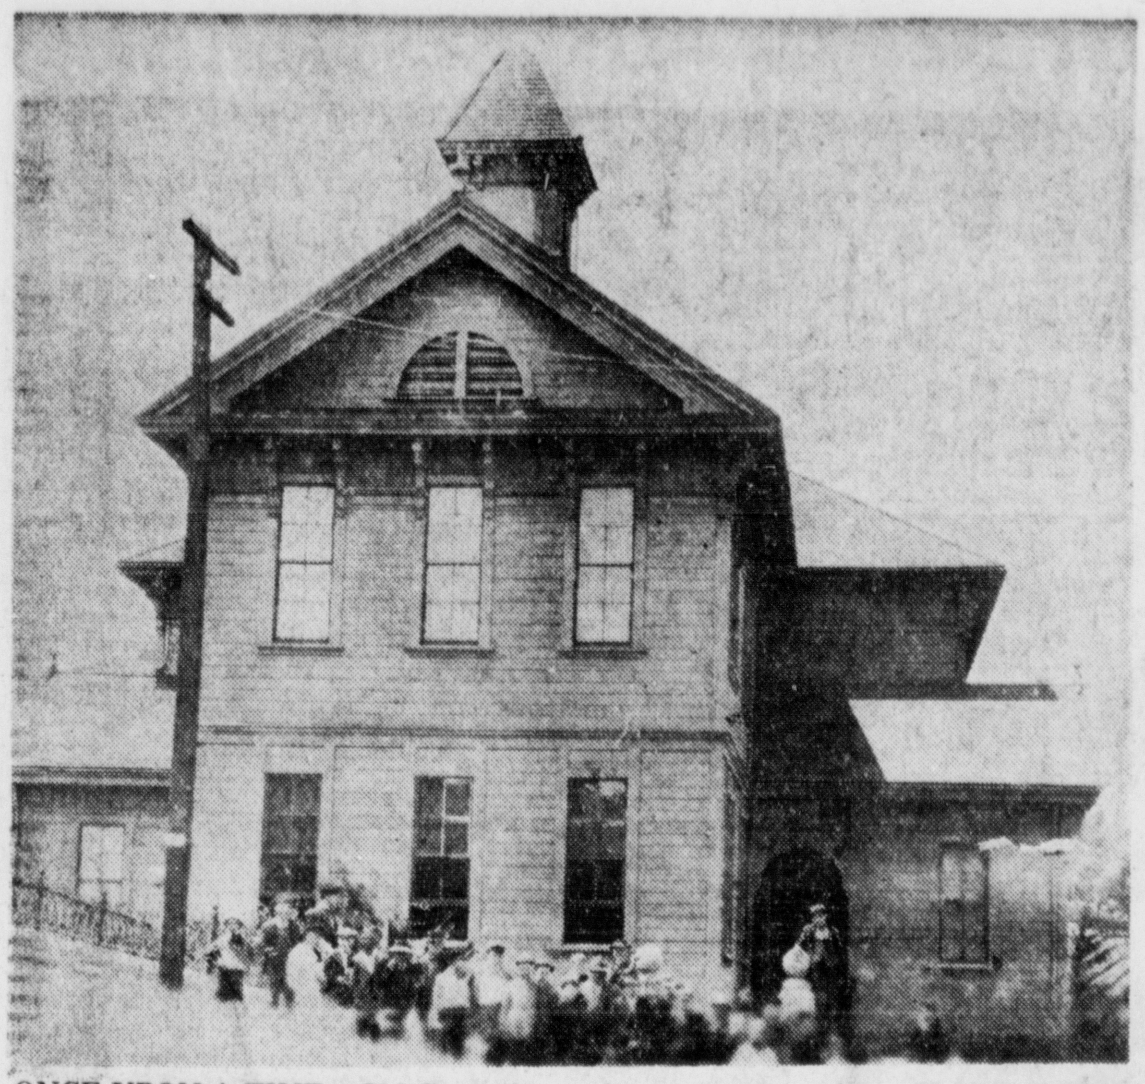
STEEL SKELETON — The innards of one of two tubular girder sections that will span Highway 101 stood naked awaiting the pouring of lightweight concrete for the walkway linking Coleman School and Lincoln Avenue.



CLOVERLEAF — In cross-section this steel column has the appearance of a hollow cloverleaf. It will be placed on the center divider to support first tubular girder bridge ever constructed in the United States.



BRIDGE BONE — One of two three-quarter inch thick tubular steel girders that will be stretched across Highway 101 is viewed in concrete form from one end. The tube is hollow.



ONCE UPON A TIME—Old Central School, as it appeared at the turn of the century, when Hartland D. Goldthwaite was a boy, occupied the site of the present school.

Carrier's Skipper Recites How Fatal Crash Happened

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — The commander of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne testified today that the collision between his ship and the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans might have been avoided but the Evans turned into the Melbourne after the carrier changed course.

Capt. J. P. Stevenson said that if the Evans had stayed on a steady course, the Melbourne might have only brushed her.

Instead the Evans was sliced in two and 74 of her crewmen were lost.

Stevenson, 47, told the joint U.S.-Australian board investigating the disaster he was watching the Evans, from his bridge before dawn on June 3 and saw her come to a collision course.

"I swore at him," Stevenson said, then dispatched a warning to the Evans that they were on a collision course.

The captain said he observed no change in the Evans' course as it neared to about 2,500 yards —"Things happened very quickly."

He said the ships continued on the crash course and the chances of a safe passing seemed "very faint. No chance in the world." He said the destroyer's lights were not on, and "the only chance" was the carrier to swing one way or the other. He swung his ship left, and signaled the Evans.

"If Evans had stayed on a steady course my aerials might have clipped her," he testified. But he said the Evans spun very quickly right and his ship rammed the destroyer.

Earlier in his testimony, Stevenson said he had cautioned the destroyer commanders verbally and in writing before the fleet sailed from Manila.

He Recalls Sausalito's Early Days

By ALAN JONES

At the turn of the century, the streets of sleepy Sausalito weren't paved — instead, they were watered down with salt watetr from a horse-drawn tank wagon.

The brine hardened the dirt into a solid surface and kept down the dust according to a now-retired Southern Californian who grew up in Sausalito.

The town had about 3,000 people then, Hartland D. Goldthwaite recalled, and served among other things as a gambling mecca for San Franciscans.

"They used to come to Sausalito to bet on the races," Goldthwaite said, as the town was run with a loose tether.

Goldthwaite, now of Santa Ana, is a retired Salvation Army brigadier who was commissioned 46 years ago — his anniversary was Tuesday. He spend most of his career in San Francisco, in the training center for Salvation Army officers.

He was born in Alameda but crossed the San Francisco Bay to Sausalito in 1897 when he was eight years old. His father was chief engineer for the Sausalito Electric Light Co., he said, and wired most of the houses in town.

Goldthwaite graduated from Old Central School (on the same site as today's building), and attended Tamalpais High School for two years soon after it opened.

After school, he worked as a printer's devil on the old Sausalito News—for $3 a week.

Later, he commuted by ferry to San Francisco, where he was a clerk for a steamship line. He moved to San Francisco in 1912, and after an Army hitch during World War I got the call to join the Salvation Army.

Goldthwaite this week brought some old photographs to the Independent-Journal office, including one from about 1900 showing the Norwegian ship Ajoa, which had sailed through the long-sought Northwest Passage to the Pacific. "I remember seeing her tied up at Sausalito," he said.

Sausalito had several ferry landings, and also served as winter anchorage for Coast Guard cutters which plied Alaskan waters — the Bear, the Manning and the McCullough.

The McCullough, he said, was the dispatch boat in Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila, and steamed to China after the battle of Manila Bay to cable news to the states of Dewey's victory over the Spanish.

Goldthwaite said he also rode the Sausalito-Mill Valley rail line, and the Mount Tamalpais Railway which was a great tourist attraction.

A brother-in-law named Ross Makin, Goldthwaite said, was a railroad engineer on the old North Shore Railroad, and drove the first train into El Portal station at Yosemite when the park was opened to rails. The Makin family was from the Ross-San Anselmo area and Makin Grade in Ross may be named for the family.

Goldthwaite, who appeared in robust health despite his 80 years, said he has kept an interest in newspapers since his early days as a printer's devil. In retirement, he is now editor of the Leaguer, a monthly journal for the Salvation Army retired officers organization.

He said he still considers Sausalito a second home and one of the most beautiful places in the world — even more so than in his youth, he said, because the trees that cover the hills have grown so much since 60 years ago.

Second Bomb Call Empties School

Students at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito stood out in the fog yesterday for 45 minutes while Sausalito police and firemen searched the school for a bomb in the second such scare in less than a month.

Sausalito police said a school secretary reported a young boy had called at 11:10 saying a bomb was due to explode at 11 a.m. No bomb was discovered during the search.

Since the search continued into the lunch hour, students did not return to class until 1 p.m.

The first bomb hoax was May 24.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Sausalito Soon Will Boast Another Dinning Place On Restaurant Row

Sausalito soon will have a new restaurant.

The Deck House is due to open about July 4. It represents an accomplishment of real estate developer Peter Wells in finally getting plans acceptable to the City of Sausalito for the remodeling and occupany of the old Purity building on the Bridgeway across from Princess Street. There will be shops on the ground floor.

The Deck House will occupy the upstairs portion of the building and will be operated by Robert C. Cranston of Sausalito. It has a fine view of the city, will seat about 70 and will have a cocktail lounge. Cranston has been in the restaurant and bar business on the San Francisco peninsula.

It will be primarily a steak and lobster house, with a salad bar. Lunches will be served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. (with fizz brunches those hours on Saturdays and Sundays) and dinners from 6 to 10 p.m. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, service will be extended to 11.

FURTHER ALONG the Bridgeway, I find that the Trident has reopened. Although all the remodeling has not yet been completed, the new look is something to behold, making much use of rustic and hand-worked wood.

Presently closed on Mondays (this may change next month) the Trident serves lunches and dinners the rest of the week and is open continuously from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. The menu has been expanded and gives extra emphasis to natural and organic foods in casseroles, soups, salads and health drinks.

Business here, I understand, has just about doubled, even though at this point entertainment has not yet been resumed. A grand opening is planned for next month.

ANOTHER CHANGE in Sausalito food spots involves the sale of Lucky Porky delicatessen at 707 Bridgeway by Maury and Sonja Singer to the World Wurst Sandwhich Shops headquartered in San Francisco. Myron Kaplan of Langsam Realty handled the transaction.

IT IS SO EASY to take for granted the little things in life without crediting them with their true measure — the laugh of a child, sunlight through the trees, the song of a bird, the warm smile of a friend.

I feel I must add to the long list of little things a dish that has no particular romance in its name, served at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa — chicken in the pot. Alongside steak and lobster, fettucini Alfredo, rack of lamb or roasted capon flambe on the West End menu, it is probably the most unglamorous sounding entree of all, but you are missing something indeed if you pass it by.

Some diners-out naturally avoid chicken of any kind in a resturant because it's usually a true test of proper knife and fork manipulation and not relaxing to eat in public. But chicken in the pot as prepared by West End chef Camille Bamatter will give you no trouble at all and is a delight to consume. Try it.

Bill and Adolph's is a favorite lunch spot of many San Rafael businessmen, and it's not unusual to spot many of them hiking down Fourth Street or Fifth Avenue from the central business section to Second and G. This, of course, has a salubrious effect to a person's well being, not to mention what it does to one's appetite.

Young Ron Bisson (Bill's son) who is an accomplished waiter at West End as well as the one responsible for most of the decorative touches here, now has his own business in San Francisco and apparently is making a go of it. It's called the Bizarre Bazaar at 3423 Balboa Street. Mainly it's a floral shop, but Ron also handles gifts and candles. His floral pieces are much in demand.

FATHER'S DAY doesn't get the big play at the restaurants of Mother's Day in May.

But there is some observance, after all Dad usually foots the dining out bill for the rest of the year. Franchini's Chateau which generally makes the most of these special days, expects increased attendance this Sunday, and suggests reservations in advance. Regular breakfast and dinner menu will be served Sunday.

JEAN DOBSON at Jean's Kitchen in Ross is giving Father's Day special treatment. She is offering the same prime rib dinner with homemade pie she turned out on Mother's Day at $6.50 for two, along with a cigar for Dad. Dinners start at 3 p.m.

LA PETITE AUBERGE co-owner Pierre Grigaut is back from France. He no sooner returned than his partner took off in the same direction.

But Paul Devaux and his wife Renee seem to have encountered the same problem as other vactioners in France — poor weather. Remember, if it continues cloudy here it's raining there.

ANJO'S at 535 Fourth Street, San Rafael is now offering two specials, changed daily, for both lunches and dinners.

Lunch items will vary in price but nightly specials are designed for a price of $3.50 for complete family dinner, including a small bottle of house wine. Tonight's specials are roast beef and chicken cacciatora.

WHO SAID there are no Italian restaurants left in Marin?

Many of them have gone modern, but at such places and Anjo's, Fabbri's, La Casa and Romulus in San Rafael; La Ginestra in Mill Valley; Deer Park Villa and Enrico's in Fairfax; and Galli's and Camilio's in Northern Marin you can still find most of those Italian dishes you like so well.

And if you haven't noticed, Franchini's Chateau, Bill and Adolph's West End Villa San Rafael Joe's, Marin Joe's, Rancho Nicasio and Spiros' Red Vest give varying degrees of Italian representation on their menus.

LOOK FOR MORE H. Salt Fish and Chips shops to be established in this area. Five new corporations have been formed for outlets in Petaluma, Davis, San Anselmo, Novato and Rancho Cordova. It wouldn't do for Haddon Salt to keep introducing them all over the world and neglect the territory he started in.

ALSO IT APPEARS there may be another Denny's Restaurant for Marin — this one on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. Plans have been prepared for the Corte Madera Planning Commission.

IT'S POSSIBLE a franchised Jumpin' Bean Restaurant may also turn up in Marin. The regional franchise office of the chain will soon move to 35 Mitchell Boulevard at Northgate Industrial Park, where manager Jim Egide has leased space through William W. Hoey and Co. This is a removal of the office from Richmond. Egide is a resident of Lucas Valley.

CONGRATULATIONS to Don Banks — operating under difficulties he has completed his first year at Houndstooth Inn at 10 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

La Brea Bones Push Back Age Of Californians

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Saw cuts made with a primitive stone tool on animal bones 15,000 years old may prove to be the oldest evidence of man yet found in the Western Hemisphere.

Marks on them were analyzed as saw cuts in a study over the past three years by George Miller, paleontologist of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History.

Miller said in an interview yesterday microscopic examination proved the cuts were made in bones of animals that had died only shortly before. He said the cuts were as old as the bones themselves and were not made by men who came to this area later. The age of the bones was established earlier by carbon radioactivity tests.

APPOINTED—Roger R. Olmsted of Kentfield has been appointed curator of the history division of the new Oakland Museum. Olmsted, a former editor of The American West, has written two books and many articles in historical and maritime publications.

U. S. church membership is 123 million.

Woodacre Sets Swim Training

Swimming classes will start at the Woodacre Improvement Club pool Monday and continue for two weeks.

Switchboard To Cut Hours Temporarily

Switchboard of Marin, a 24-hour telephone information service, will close at midnight today until the third week in July to reorganize and expand its services for the summer, director Guy Bacheli has announced.

College students will be trained to direct long-range fund raising and reference programs in an effort to improve services to Marin County.

School Finance Turndowns —Another Look At Why

Three school finance measures have been turned down at the polls in Marin County this month.

Latest rejection was of a $2,100,000 San Rafael Elementary School District bond issue, voted down for the second time within four months. A week earlier, voters in Fairfax and Mill Valley Elementary School Districts voted down tax ceiling increases.

The story is not limited to Marin. If a school tax or bond issue has passed anywhere in California this spring, we have missed the report. They have gone down with monotonous and depressing regularity.

THERE ARE A COUPLE of pat explanations: (1) The people are fed up to the ears with high taxes; (2) the people are equally fed up with campus disorders, and take out on all schools their resentment of what has happened at University of California, San Francisco State College, etc.

Doubtless both explanations are true, but it is doubtful that they tell the whole story.

Some non-school bond issues have been passing. In Petaluma on the same day the San Rafael school bonds were rejected, a little issue for expanding police facilities squeaked by, and a larger one for a new firehouse fell only .9 of one per cent short.

Apparently, then, mere resistance to rising taxes does not account for all the school finance turndowns.

HOW ABOUT campus disorders?

That they play their part is undeniable. Many people blame the public schools for turning out the violent anarchists who are wrecking the colleges.

These people, of course, overlook the vast majority of graduates of the public schools who are not anarchists, not criminals, not advocates of violence, but instead are working hard to get their education.

But there are circumstances which tend to confirm the belief that the school system is falling down on its share of the job of turning out good citizens.

Litter on campus tends to confirm it. Lack of discipline, lack of respect for authority tend to confirm it. And when school administrators glibly dismiss these matters as "beyond our control," the confirmation becomes rather complete.

OTHER THINGS, too, add to the resistance.

When teachers demand pay increases far beyond the rise in the cost of living, and reinforce their demands with threats to strike or to "impose sanctions" on the school district, they produce more "no" votes on school bonds and taxes.

When "confrontations," "happenings" and "sensitivity sessions" are substituted for instruction in the prescribed disciplines, they produce more "no" votes.

Taxes for police stations and firehouses hurt just as much as taxes for schools. But it would appear that the people have more confidence that the firemen and those much-damned "pigs," the police, are doing their job than that the schools are doing theirs.

Too Much Of A Good Thing

Everyone who was in Marin last winter to experience the exceptionally heavy rains seems to agree it is possible to get too much of a good thing.

Now, as a direct result of these rains, Marinites may well be faced with yet another example of too much of a good thing. We mean grass. Grass is really great stuff. It binds the soil to hillsides, preventing erosion. Its roots thrust deep into the earth and help loosen the ground and create new topsoil. Green grass on hillsides and meadows is very pretty to look at.

But this year's rains have made grass jungles of some Marin hillsides. Last week in Inverness we found a stalk of grass almost eight feet tall. As dry summer advances, followed by dry autumn, this grass will become veritable tinder waiting for a careless match, a cigarette, or firecracker to start a holocaust.

The sensible thing would be to cut and get rid of the grass before it becomes a fire hazard.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

What Are Duties Of Citizen? Senators Find Them Arguable

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Efforts of Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach (who is also a candidate for state attorney general) to instill in the minds of the citizenry a recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship ran into a snag on the Sanate floor early this week.

"The Duke's" bill, SB 1377, would require that a "statement of responsibilities" for citizens be included in every publication of the state and federal constitutions. The state prints such a volume each time either document is changed.

THE STATEMENT appeared innocuous enough until some of the senators started picking it to pieces. Then it engendered more than a half hour of debate in the middle of a heavy calendar containing 242 items for action. At one point. Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, arose to inquire what was the necessity for the bill anyhow.

Members of both parties jumped on Deukmejian for some of the wording in the statement of responsibilities.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said the wording was "offensive," in that he believed a citizen whould learn what his duties are "someplace other than at the knee of state government."

Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, then got into the act. He said one of the duties outlined, "to pursue, to the fullest extent possible, all educational opportunities available to him, and support efforts to extend educational opportunities," would possibly require citizens to vote for every school bond issue placed on any ballot. The implications are limitless, Schmitz said.

Another "duty" questioned by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, was "to expose, and seek to eliminate by peaceful, persistent means, all prejudice and discrimination."

Bradley said this would add fuel to the fires of dissent, rather than help eliminate it.

The bill never came to a vote.

Former Resident Acclaims 'No' Votes

Please congratulate the voters of your county on behalf of a former resident, for their no vote on an increase in school tax rates! Since school tax rates are based on the assessment of all property in the area, and the value increases annually due to new buildings and normal development in the real estate field, there is no legitimate reason to ask for more sacrifices on the part of property owners.

Marin schools, I regret to learn, have endorsed the new fad of "sensitivity training" and nudist retreats for teachers at "Eselen." This is supposed to be better for students than God.

Recently I handed the Eselen catalogue to two competent doctors, one a noted pediatrician, the other director of research at a famous medical school. The first said, "unscientific gobbledygook"; the other said, "a cruel hoax perpetrated on naive people." Have you ever examined this catalogue yourself? One of the courses offered is the "Death of God" philosophy, discredited several years ago, yet typical of the "opportunities" available to patrons.

Pledge Repetition Value Doubted

Bouquets to Richmond Young and the other Drake High students for their refreshing proposal to stustitute patriotic quotations for the Pledge of Allegiance as a "daily patriotic exercise." And brickbats to those members of the San Rafael Lions Club who were so horrified at the very idea! Rhinoceroses were never so hidebound. I would think there surely must have been some wiser responses than those quoted in the I-J. (June 5), which make the kids and the school administrator appear Socratic by comparison. . . .

In these turbulent times the good Lions are guarding the precious status quo, since there is, or has been, the best of all possible worlds. (For some.) In clinging to the security of tradition, even a self-defeating ritual must be maintained by them. . . .

The question to be answered is whether constant repetitions of something like a patriotic phrase leads to an increase in patriotic fervor . . . To resolve this question I would suggest that Mr. (Clifford S.) Lund and other like-minded Lions assemble their families before every meal and at bedtime and recite together the Pledge of Allegiance. (If once a day is good, then four times should be better). In 12 (school) years we will expect a report as to whether these families are four times more patriotic.

View Of Picnic Valley Dispute

As a Marin County resident and taxpayer for the last 17 years, and also as an investor at times in Marin County projects, I have been fascinated by the controversy between the city council, the petitioners of Picnic Valley, and a sincere and honest group of investors attempting to improve an area of undeveloped San Rafael.

In regards to the petitioners, they have every right to state their views before the city council, and in turn the city council has every right to grant a petition.

But in this case, where were the petitioners back in 1959, 1962, 1964, 1965, 1967, and 1968?

These petitioners, now so deeply concerned, were advised on the above dates that multi-building projects had been approved by the Planning Commission of San Rafael; why were they not cnocerned then? . . .

A better term could not have been used. It is the proper terminology that can be applied to the entire county government for the past 20 years. There has been too much listening to the "whims" of small groups within the County of Marin, resulting in the separation of the county from the rest of the Bay Area Counties in the overall growth of the region. The desire to preserve the quaint woodsy effect of 19th century living in Marin County by certain groups, has divorced the county from enlightened progres. . . .

Theater Practices Annoy Mother

I'm wondering how many others besides myself are disgusted with the lack of consideration our Marin County movie theaters have for the residents of Marin. How many of your readers are angered at such practices as these?

1. Showing a movie rated G with a movie rated M or R, as happened recently at the Rafael Theater with the movie "African Safari." (I wonder what the reaction from the management would be if we demanded half of our money back when the second picture appeared on the screen with an M or R rating.)

2. Allowing such a movie as "African Safari" to remain only a week, giving young people only one week end to see it. (How many of you have waited for months for a worthwhile movie to take your kids to?)

3. Running 10 and 15-year-old short subjects and cartoons while film festival winners pass us by. . . .

And finally the exclusion of the needs of our young people in the poor selecting of films to be shown in a given period of time at all the theaters.

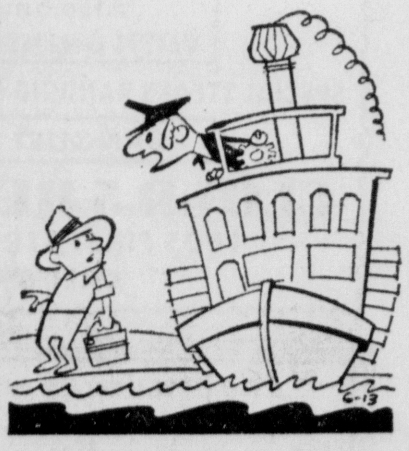
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

NAVIGATING a river with so many shoals, shallows, and mudbanks as the Mississippi presents problems with which most skippers need not contend. In the days of paddle-wheelers, for instance, one captain, picking his way from Cincinnati to Natchez, was attempting to scrape over a treacherous sand bar when he saw a man on the bank filling a pail with water.

"Hey, you scoundrel," shouted the alarmed captain. "You put that water back!"



TODAY WHEN a big magazine goes out of business, it's front page news, but in the depression days so many periodicals folded that their passing often went unnoticed entirely — except by the creditors. A contributor insists that one of these fly-by-night operations employed a treasurer who always wore a gray suit, so the publisher painted the office gray to make him invisible. Creditors lined up in the reception room would see a red spot moving rapidly along the wall, and by the time they realized it was the treasurer's ruddy face, he was ten blocks away.

THE DRUMMONDS

Congress Takes Wrong Approach In Attempt To Regain Power

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Congress had good reason to set out to recover the initiative and power it has lost to activist presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Lyndon Johnson.

But it's going about it in the wrong way.

Congress can't recapture power by passing resolutions to try to reduce the President's power. It can recapture it only by exercising more efficiently and more effectively the authority it possesses.

SEN. J. W. FULBRIGHT'S resolution is a vivid example of how not to do it. It comes at the very moment when Congress has so many opportunities to do it right.

Let's look briefly at how not to do it and then at one way in which in a single stroke Congress could reclaim leadership and power where it is most needed.

The Fulbright resolution is designed to dilute the President's constitutional powers in foreign affairs and to prevent him from using them without prior consent by Congress, even when instant initiative is needed.

Wrong in purpose, wrong in method, harmful in effect.

The Fulbright resolution can't amend the Constitution, but the effect would be to cast doubt, in the minds of enemy and ally alike, about the President's authority to speak and act for the United States in foreign relations.

BUT THINK of what Congress could do positively in the whole range of defense spending and domestic priorities if it would organize itself to use the vast and decisive powers it does possess — and this without trying to hamstring the President.

Congress is now picking at the defense budget instead of appraising it as a whole.

It is now taking hold of the small end of the stick — in the ABM dispute — instead of examining the whole of defense spending to see where or whether Safeguard fits in.

Thus far, Congress has only been talking about the symptoms of the military budget, but at no point has it fully examined the causes to see what can and should be done.

THE REASON Congress is nearly impotent to do this is that it has not given itself the means — in organization, staff and resources — to do the job.

A total review of the interrelationship of foreign policy, security commitments and defense spending is imperative.

But Congress has simply never equipped itself for this kind of review.

More than 20 years ago Congress gave the executive branch the mechanism to relate continuously total foreign policy to total domestic policy. It created the National Security Council which enables the President to examine not just the pieces but the whole mosaic of foreign and domestic policy as it bears on security.

Congress has no comparable instrument, and this is why Congress loses so much initiative to the President. It fails to discharge its own responsibilities adequately.

WHAT IS NEEDED is a Joint Congressional Security Commission to parallel the President's Security Council.

Instead of picking at particular weapons expenditures (that can come later), Congress should be making its own independent and coordinated review of (1) all foreign commitments, (2) contingenciers which can develop from our commitments, (3) U.S. forces needed to meet the contingencies, and (4) the kind and amount of weapons meeded for these forces.

When it does this, Congress will be exercising its power to perform its duty instead of trying to trim the President's power to do his.

German Border Question Getting New Attention

By PHIL NEWSOM

In March, 1968, West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt broke a 19-year-old political taboo by telling Germans they must recognize the Oder-Neisse line as Germany's eastern border with Poland.

It was the first time a member of the West German government had acknowledged the line which was drawn up by the allies fighting Hitler and gave large areas of eastern Germany to Poland.

On May 17 of this year, Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka offered to sign a treaty with West Germany recognizing the border.

Since that time, Polish leaders even have been finding some good things to say about West Germany, thus raising limited hopes for a thaw in Warsaw-Bonn relations which currently are about the worst in Europe.

In making his carefully hedged-about offer, Gomulka had three motives—geographic, political and economic.

Geographically, the Poles fear the rising strength of the West German republic and fear also that an eventually reunited Germany will emerge as the dominating economic and political force of western Europe. Therefore, they want the border question settled as quickly as possible.

The Poles definitely prefer Willy Brandt's Socialists to Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and the Germans have general elections coming up in September.

THE WARSAW newspaper Slowo Powezechne made this interest clear.

Gomulka made his offer, according to the newspaper, because "we think that the recognition of the Oder Neisse frontier represents a fundamental point of departure for appeasement of the German factor in Europe.

"We thus wish to make it easier for West Germany to join in the peace in Eruope, beginning with the most obvious realities (A word also used by Brandt) of modern times."

Since the Christian Democrats have been lukewarm at best in their approach to the Oder Neisse question, the remark seemed an obvious plug for the Socialists in the coming elections.

BOTH SIDES hedge their offers with conditions. Gomulka said agreement must include recognition of East Germany and German signature to the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons treaty.

Germany declares any final agreement must rest upon reunification.

Exerting more immediate pressure on the Poles is the state of their economy. Exports are falling and the Polish press and leaders complain openly of shoddy goods, obsolete machinery and an increasing deficit in hard currency.

The West Germans could supply both know-how and money.

Among the western allies, only France recognizes the Oder-Neisse line as permanent. A settlement of the dispute could go a long way toward defusing the European time bomb.

Priority Assignments May Get Strange At Budget Time

No one envies the Marin County supervisors, or any other elected body, the brain-bending they must undergo at budget time. Once the finite purse is linked to the infinite spending possibilities, the supervisors must make an endless series of decisions about priorities.

But from the point of view of some in Southern Marin, the board has shown a very strange sense of what is and is not urgent.

The board knocked out a $43,000 appropriation to the Sausalito School District, which was sought to make up for taxes not received from public housing in Marin City. The county created the public housing, but the Sausalito schools have the burden of educating the children there.

The board also rejected addition of $15,000 to the Economic Opportunity Council budget for administrative costs of a proposed program offering free pediatric care in Marin City. In so doing, they negated an offer by five pediatricians to donate time estimated at $200,000 to improve children's health.

And the board authorized $25,000 for a bicycle trail from Golden Gate Bridge to Sausalito.

Bicycle trails are a good thing, no doubt. Even though many who have produced such a well-orchestrated outcry for them may never get around to actually using them.

But does anyone believe, or even pretend, that a bicycle trail is more important than children's health or education?

ONE OF MILL Valley's oldest and most famous dogs, Bingo, is looking for a home. Bingo, whom someone named the Bernard Baruch of Mill Valley dogdom, is 13, and he has been without a boss since his mistress, Lila Heffner, died last month.

Mrs. Norman Millar of 65 Sunnyside Avenue reports that Bingo understands everything except politics, and foiled an automatic laundry burglary awhile back with his fearsome barking.

SUPERVISOR Michael Wornum said in Tamalpais Valley not long ago that the county fire department is oriented toward fighting grass fires, not house fires.

If that's the case, why not start some sort of county-aided, community-sponsored volunteer fire department in Marin City? The Marin City fire station had one lone man on duty last month when a school fire broke out. Some skilled help from local people might have paid for itself in that incident alone.

If, as some believe, Marin City is going to incorporate eventually, the volunteers could form the nucleus of a municipal fire department. And for high school or college age youths, it sure beats hanging around on the corner.

WHILE MILL VALLEY is studying its Camino Alto-East Blithedale Avenue corner, it might consider one improvement that would cost about $10.95. Simply restripe Blithedale logically for traffic cominginto town from the freeway.

Right now, traffic going straight ahead or turning left toward Tamalpais High School must funnel into one lane as the cars race away from the Lomita Avenue corner. The right hand lane is marked for right turns only, putting the unwary motorist hellbent for Corte Madera over the hill.

Since 95 per cent of everybody uses the two left lanes, why not restripe them to eliminate the present rat-racing funnel system?

History Of Tamalpais Creek's Inclusion In Flood Control

Fusselman

One plus of having lived 50 years of adult life in one community is the opportunity of seeing and taking part in things as they happen. You can know about all six sides of the cube — six pictures, if you will.

Except for one huge barbecue held on the shore of Lake Washington at Seattle, when I was a 5-year-old, this style of cook-out had never caught on in the Pacific Northwest while I lived there. However, the first big outdoor barbecue in California that I had the pleasure of, left a vivid memory. It was here in Marin some 45 years ago at the Kent Estate, now Kent Woodlands.

It was a benefit affair held somewhere in the area of what is now Woodland Avenue and toward Murray Park. Army chow cups and plates had been borrowed from Fort Baker. Delicious lamb was served with the usual chili beans and so on. It was my first visit to the estate. The fields, sloping up to the wonderful hills studded with live oak and other trees, made a picture of unspoiled beauty. As I remember, the only buildings were the family home, the barns and other necessary structures needed to maintain such a spread. It was wide open space, uncluttered and serene.

LITTLE DID I imagine that, as the years went by, I would be a county supervisor, with this as a part of the district I would represent.

During the seven years prior to 1942, when I was first elected, I served as secretary-manager of Marvelous Marin and was called upon to help in any way possible by the man who managed the first subdivision there.

Then as supervisor, for 22 years, I was intimately concerned with the applications and plans submitted for subdivisions (about 19 now) showing the excavations for home sites and roads together with retaining walls to support the downhill sides of the cuts that were made, also the method and plans for drainage — culverts and such.

In some cases, the natural course of the drainage was changed so that building area could be developed.

ONE SUCH was the area westerly from Kent Avenue and northerly from Woodland and Goodhill Road. It was a swamp of fairly large size, covered with picturesque cattails — a nice rural picture, always a pleasure to see.

This was undoubtedly fed by what is now known as Tamalpais Creek. Some years ago it was filled by damning up the lower end and allowing the silt coming down from the hills, incident to the grading operations, to fill up the swamp. Later, heavy stabilizing material was added, and then the topsoil.

I WAS IMPORTUNED year after year to give the people some relief and I assured them that the Army Engineers had included Tamalpais Creek in their plans for handling the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, as they were doing with all other similar feeder creeks throughout Ross Valley. This inclusion I know to be true.

By-the-way: Regarding Bill Gnoss's remark that the county had to pay damages for the one week stoppage during construction of the administration building at the Civic Center — Bill had better do some more home work. That didn't cost the taxpayers a dime.

$33 Million Is Asked To Expand Airport System

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The manager of San Francisco International Airport has called for an additional $33 million expansion program which would include a rapid transit rail station.

The proposal by manager Geogre F. Hansen to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday would increase presently approved projects of $108.4 million to $141.1 million. He said the expanded program would be financed from the airport's earnings.

The revised program would call for establishment of a non-profit corporation for completion of a larger parking garage, Hansen said. The original cost of garage expansion was $15.9 million, but under the revised recommendations it would be $23 million.

Contract Reports

Reports on current contract jobs and on rights-of-way and property agreements will be given at the Marin Municipal Water District board meeting Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the district office at 220 Nellen Avenue in Corte Madera.

Improvers Favor Scout's Project

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association board has approved a proposed project of Boy Scout John Nichols Jr. to refurbish the San Clemente School tiny tot playground as his community project toward his Eagle scoutship, board president William Ridyard said today.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols of 13 Morning Star Course, must next present his plans to city officials.

The board, which met Wednesday night, also made final plans for the presentation of a $25 savings bond, the association achievement award, presented yesterday to Heidi Bigall, a sixth grader at San Celmente School.

Deputies Nip Ruckus At Dance

Sheriff's deputies dispersed a group of youths disturbing an eighth grade dance at Marinwood Recreation Center Wednesday night and arrested a 17-year-old Marinwood youth for failure to obey.

Deputies said they were called to the dance for Miller Creek School eighth graders at 9:30 p.m. when a group of six to 10 boys, 16 to 18 years, outside the dance were creating a disturbance.

When a deputy arrived the youths became verbally abusive, shouting, "get the pigs out of here," and profanities, he said. A group of about 10 to 12 girls, older than eighth graders, called officers "mother -----" and said, "---- you," deputies said.

An unidentified youth broke a glass window at the northwest corner of the building, and all those not attending the dance were told to leave, deputies reported.

Then, deputies, said, they left to answer another call in the area, but upon return at 10:15, another group was forming near the center.

The 17-year-old boy failed to obey their order and was booked at Juvenile Hall, deputies said. Then, they closed the dance at 10:30 p.m.

Hitchhiking Ordinance Is Proposed

Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones proposed a countywide ordinance last night to close loopholes in state and local laws against hitchhiking.

Jones, speaking at a town council meeting, expressed concern over a rise in hitchhiking through Ross, but said that state and local laws forbidding the activity had no effect when youths remained on the sidewalk.

An ordinance Jones read to the council last night would enable police to arrest persons hitchhiking off the road. Jones, generally supported by the council, said he would submit the measure to the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

However, Councilman Natalie G. Lewis said to some applause from the audience that she was concerned about the plight of students who found it necessary to hitchhike to the College of Marin, adding that "public transportation leaves a lot to be desired."

Jones had complained particularly about the sight of numerous hippies hitchhiking through town.

Pipe Connects Defects Noted

Sewer line tests on a portion of Terra Linda show about 14 per cent of the homes have defects in the laterals (the pipe from the main line to homes), J. Warren Nute, district engineer reported last night to the Las Gallinas Sanitary District directors.

Nute said he used smoke bomb tests on 635 homes between Las Gallinas Avenue, Freitas Parkway, Las Ovejas and Las Colindas and found 90 laterals with leaks or sags.

Directors decided that letters will be sent to owners of the defective laterals, asking them to make repairs.

The directors also awarded a $49,309 contract to MGM Construction Co. of Concord to install sewer lines to serve the Quail Hill development, west of the Emporium. The district will pay 60 per cent of the cost and the developer 40 per cent.

Commute Strike Also Hits Tourist Buses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tourists faced another problem today as a sightseeing bus service joined Greyhound and sightseeing boats as strike victims.

The tourist bus service, Gray Line, Inc., suspended operations yesterday and charged it was a victim of a secondary boycott by mechanics striking at a Greyhound repair depot.

Gray Line, a subsidiary of Greyhound, halted its 60 buses — which carry about 1,000 tourists a day—when its drivers honored mechanics' pickets at a parking lot.

The strike was expected to have a strong effect on the tourist business in Marin County to which Gray Lines brings thousands of visitors daily.

Drivers of Greyhound buses have ignored picket lines at the request of their union, the Amalgamated Transit Union. But Gray Line drivers are members of the Teamster Union.

Like Greyhound, Gray Line had been having its buses serviced at locations away from the local Greyhound maintanance garage, struck by 350 mechanics of the International Association of Machinists and 150 Teamster garage employees.

Although Greyhound continued running buses on schedule since the strike began Monday, picketing spread to machinists' shops in Reno, Redding, Sacramento, San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Los Angeles.

Federal mediator Roger Randall remained in contact with both sides but still had no immediate plans to call them together again.

Mechanics want an increase of $1.50 an hour over three years on their present wage of $5.09 an hour. Greyhound has offered an increase of 68.5 cents an hour over two years or $1.025 an hour over three.

Collier Denies Secrecy In Planning New Capitol

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said today he tried to get publicity more than a year for his proposed new state capitol "and they wouldn't give me any publicity."

And he claimed "the door is open" to meetings of his Joint Committee on Legislative Space Needs.

That is the committee that has been meeting without public notice weekly in the Capitol to discuss plans for the proposed twin tower legislative meeting and office building that would cost an estimated $65 million, The Associated Press reported this week.

Collier said he had models and drawings of the proposed building, nicknamed "Collier Towers" around the Capitol, on full display last year, when the estimated cost was $32 million.

"Evidently the young man from The AP had slipped and suddenly woke up to it and wanted to sit down and talk to me about it and I said no three times," Collier said during a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee, which he heads.

The AP carried extensive stories on the building and plans last year when Collier had the first model on display.

Collier said the committee had been meeting in Room 3198 in the Capitol and "the door is open."

Meetings are not announced in the Senate and Assembly files as are most legislative committee meetings.

Collier said he had been a committee chairman since 1939 and never had held an executive session.

"I've attended some, but I've never held any," he said.

Envoy Undaunted By Outbursts

BONN, Germany (AP) — Israeli Ambassador Asher Ben Nathan said today noisy student demonstrations during speeches he made this week in Frankfurt and Hamburg will not keep him from continuing to appear before young Germans.

The ambassador told a reporter: "If the German authorities would say they feel it best that I not talk to students any more, as a diplomat I would have to go along with them. But if it depends on me, I'll gladly continue."

In Frankfurt, he cut off his talk and left, calling the demonstrators "Fascists"! In Hamburg, he abandoned his speech and opened a discussion with noisy protesters.

Auto Stolen

A 1966 gray Ford sedan, license SFH 020, was stolen last night or today from Robert G. Breniff, 206 Ridgewood Drive, at that address, San Raafael police reported.

Bonn Expecting New U.S. Envoy

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government confirmed today Wahington reports that Kenneth Rush, president of Union Carbide Corp., will be appointed the next U.S. ambassador to Bonn.

Deputy government press spokesman Conrad Ahlers told a news conference: "The report is correct but we have had no official word as yet."

Rush, 59, would succeed Henry Cabot Lodge, whom President Nixon appointed chief U.S. negotiator to the Paris Vietnam peace talks last January.

Photographer Denies Marijuana Possession

Andrew Dennis Chute, 23, A San Francisco photographer, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to having marijuana when he was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on May 28.

A preliminary hearing was set for July 3.

Ross Calls For Traffic Signal Bids

The Ross Town Council last night called for bids July 10 to install new traffic signals and make other improvements to the Lagunitas Road-Sir Francis Drake Boulevard-Laurel Grove Avenue intersection.

Town engineer Philip B. Lygren estimated the long-awaited work would cost $39,540, of which $18,300 would be borne by urban throughfare funds and the balance by town gas tax funds.

Lygren said it is hoped the project, to include auto turning lanes and improved pedestrian movement, will be completed in late September.

The council will summon two bids — one to cover signals and street improvements, projected to cost $33,540, and the other for equipment to countrol the signals, estimated at $6,000.

The council also voted to call for bids on an about $9,762 in repaving work on four streets — Redwood Drive, Madrona Avenue, Woodside Way and part of Upper Road. Lygren hoped it was the beginning of a planned 10-year program to improve town streets.

Henry W. Calvin, a Madrona Avenue resident, said to no avail that he did not want his street paved because it would attract more traffic and encourage speeding.

The council said it would get the repaving funds from $5,000 carried over from the street fund this year and $5,000 in capital expenditures.

The Ross Town Council also:

HOME — Adopted an amendment to the zoning ordinance redefining home occupation.

BUSINESS — Introduced an ordinance changing terms for issuance of business licenses, with adoption of the measure scheduled for July 10.

PISCHEL — Conditionally approved a tentative map for subdivision of the 15-acre Pischel property on Canyon Road into four parcels ranging from 1.4 acres to 6.7 acres. Councilman Roy Farrington Jones abstained, saying he had performed an appraisal of the property. However, he engaged vigorously in discussion on the merits of the application.

LAGUNITAS — Approved clarification of the boundary between the Lagunitas Country Club and Lagunitas Road to permit club improvements.

BARN — Directed City Atty. Robert W. Elliott to start abatement proceedings against the Goldstine barn on Upper Road.

GARAGE — Granted a variance to Tracy Cummings of 23 Oak Way, who seeks to reconstruct a concrete garage which has been condemned.

DENIAL — Unanimously denied a request by Charles W. Thissel of 2 Garden Road for a variance to relocate the kitchen to allow placement of the master bedroom and a bathroom on the first floor. The work would have lessened the required rear set back.

INSURANCE — Renewed the employees' hospitalization policy with West Coast Life insurance at a slight increase in rates.

Horse Shoe Will Benefit School

A benefit horse show on behalf of St. Vincent's School for Boys will be held tomorrow and Sunday at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa by the Golden Gate Arabian Horse Association.

MRS. SEBASTIAN Tallitsch, who has volunteered more than 2,000 hours and been awarded an honorary active membership by the Novato Hospital volunteers, chats with a member of a patient's family in the main lobby of the hospital. Mrs. Jerry Evans, vice president in charge of orientation, and Mrs. Ray Monson, special services, show Sharon Eyford some of the items for sale at the hospital. When the new wing at the hospital is completed in July, an additional 50 volunteers will be needed as 22 new beds and an intensive care unit will be installed.

Marin Women

Novato Hospital Helpers Stay Busy

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Do you have a few hours a week to devote to volunteer work in Novato?

The hospital now has 50 volunteers but in July a new wing will be completed adding an additional 22 beds or doubling the capacity at the hospital and an additional 50 volunteers will be needed, president Mrs. Gerald Lombard said.

An orientation period of 25 hours on all three shifts with a volunteer is required before becoming a permanent volunteer working a four-hour shift. When the new wing is opened a volunteer will be at the front desk from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Older women will be able to fill this need, Mrs. Johnson said. Mrs. Jerry Evans is vice president in charge of orientation and Mrs. Harry Lyon is orientation chairman.

Mrs. Johnson interviews all those applying to do volunteer work.

The volunteers were organized on Nov. 2, 1960 and the hospital opened in January 1961.

Lennie Johnson, who was the first president of the volunteers, is the liaison between the volunteers and the hospital administration and she says "the first two years I nearly lived up there." (the hospital.)

It was pointed out at a recent meeting of the California Hospital Association meeting that California hospital volunteers are more than three years ahead of any state as they are so well organized, Mrs. Lombard said.

One of Novato's outstanding programs is the tour conducted for school children. In this way, the child is not terrified if he must go to the hospital for a tonsilectomy or is involved in an accident. The youngsters are given the tour of the hospital and also shown X-rays and various functions of the lab.

On special holidays, the patients are given favors on their food trays. This is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ray Monson. As an example of her interest in this program, at Easter she made individually decorated eggs for each tray.

A few years ago every group or organization in Novato had its own blood bank. In order to coordinate this, under the direction of Lennie and the volunteers, the Novato Community Blood Bank was formed and now the mobile unit comes to the Novato Community House every three months. The volunteers help in this program, providing juice and coffee and helping to fill out forms. Until December they also provided cookies, but now the Novato Hostess Club provides them.

Anyone in Novato may draw on the blood bank as well as a relative living anywhere in the country.

Novato General Hospital is a proprietory hospital which pays taxes rather than a community hospital which is tax exempt Lennie said. The volunteers, through the Patient Memorial Fund, purchase items for the hospital that the hospital would not normally purchase.

The volunteers have given such items as radios with ear plugs for eye patients, equipment to be used by heart patients with no charge to the patient and lounge chairs to be used by members of the family of a patient who might have a long wait at the hospital.

In order to raise money for their projects, they hold an annual harvest ball, a gift cart for patients and sell baby pictures to new mothers. The baby picture fund is used only for nursing scholarships, with two scholarships awarded each year.

The Hospital Volunteer Service has a memorial and patient service fund and any money they make or donations go into the fund. The board of directors, George Tocalino, Jack Sparrow and Irving Links, all of Novato, after suggestions from the volunteers, decide how the money is to be spent and if it is a worthwhile project.

Among the patient services provided by the volunteers are filling water pitchers, arranging flowers, assisting with trays, delivering newspapers, chatting with the patients, reading letters if the patient requests it and running errands.

Several Novatans have been honored by the volunteers and Mrs. Eleanore Snare, a member of the Senior Citizen's but not a member of the volunteers, with the assistance of Mrs. Pearl Schivers, has been making hand puppets for the volunteers for many years. These are given to hospitalized children. Her work has been recognized and she was awarded an American Hospital Association pin and Mrs. Schivers was awarded a certificate of appreciation.

Also being recognized for her outstanding work and for more than 2000 hours of volunteer work at the hospital was Mrs. Sebastian Tallitsch. She was awarded an active honorary membership as was Mrs. Matilda Freeman.

Milton Scott, administrator at the hospital, has very high priase for the volunteers and said, "They're terrific."

The volunteers, with Mrs. Johnson as chairman, will be hostesses when the new wing is opened.

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER prevailed for Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wise of Novato on their trip north to the Arctic Circle. They drove as far as Seattle and visited with their daughter Elizabeth and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen, for a few days.

Their daughter then drove them to Vancouver where they went by ship on the inland passage making stops at Ketchikan, Juneau and Skagway. At Skagway, they took the Narrow Gauge Railroad to Whitehorse, where they spent a few days.

They continued the trip by bus to Fairbanks and then flew to Nome and Kotzebue. Mrs. Wise said that at Kotzebue they viewed the beautiful sunset to sunrise within two hours and also saw the Eskimos and their homes with meat and fish hanging outside to dry.

They returned to Seattle, first stopping at Anchorage and Mt. McKinley National Park, spending three weeks on their tour. While in Anchorage Lee also took side trips to Natanuska Valley and the Alyeska Ski Resort.

FRIENDS ARE honoring Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lehmann who will be leaving Belvedere to make their home at Cobb Mountain in Lake County this summer.

Registration Is Open For Weight Control Classes

The Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley will be the setting for a summer weight control class offered by the Marin County Heart Association.

By popular demand, the eight-week series will begin June 24 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and will continue on subsequent Tuesday mornings for eight weeks.

Instruction focuses on food preparation around the whole meal pattern, selection of foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appealing meals, while holding to a low calorie count.

The 1200-calorie base used in the weight control series given by Mrs. Pamela Gilroy, dietitian, requires written physician approval. Emphasis will be placed on low calorie foods.

Classes are open to both men and women.

Members will weigh in and chart progress throughout the course. Based on past weight control classes, weight loss of 1½ pounds per week is anticipated.

Advance registrations can be made with the Marin County Heart Association, San Rafael.

During the Annual California Heart Association meeting in San Francisco last month, Marin County Heart Association was recipient of the state award for its year-round weight control and diet consultation program.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

New Philosophy In Marriage To Blame For Divorce Rate

DEAR HELEN:

I've spent my Army tour in Vietnam and am now stationed in Europe. What disturbs me is the high divorce rate among servicemen. Hundreds of men come through my office, broken up because their wives have found somebody else over in the states.

Can't women be faithful any more? Or didn't they love their husbands in the first place? What is it that causes supposedly decent women to become tramps, hopping in and out of bed with anyone who catches their eyes? If they can only be true when they have a husband around every minute to watch them, they'd better forget marriage and take up the profession they're suited for—the oldest.

—DANNY

DEAR DANNY:

Low fidelity works both ways: I've heard from many wives whose husbands have sent "Dear Jane" letters. In fact, this war's "out of sight, out shopping" syndrome has produced the greatest per centage of breakup in military history.

Why? Some blame it on an "unpopular" war, but I'd say it's mainly because of the growing attitudes that marriage doesn't cancel the right to change your mind. Pity.

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a widow of three years, middle-aged, active — and lonely. No. I'm not looking for a man, just to be included in social life. I am excluded from almost all the little dinner parties and other gatherings planned by my married friends. My husband and I were once leaders in this group.

I wouldn't expect to be in everything, but I do miss contact with those people we associated with for so long. Just because I have no escort I'm considered excess baggage, good only for all-female parties.

I have no designs on anyone's husband, am not ugly, and can pay my own way. What hurts is the hushed planning, the pretense that nothing is going on, when I know better. I have too much pride to intrude where not wanted.

Is my problem common, and what do other widows do about it?

—SOMETIMES LONELY

DEAR LONELY:

Your problem is common only to those who won't exchange old patterns for new.

Join one of those swinging singles clubs (you can get names and addresses from your local library or newspaper), enroll in interesting classes, do volunteer work—mix with other single people who will welcome your company.

Don't expect your married friends to "carry" you after the first year of widowhood. From here on out, you're on your own!

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Once a week my husband goes next door to talk, drink and play cards with our neighbor. The problem is, she's an attractive divorcee. As Dick has a small drinking problem, I don't like other people serving liquor—which I refuse to keep in our house. And I'm not exactly fond of his staying until midnight even though I'm sure, so far, they're only playing cards and talking.

She is a likeable woman and I don't want to seem jealous for no reason, but should I put a stop to this?

— CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED:

You won't cure Dick's "small drinking problem" by refusing him liquor at home. As you see, he goes elsewhere for it, and perhaps for other comforts too. Why not introduce this likeable divorcee to an eligible man and make it a card playing foursome?

—H.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Writer Gil Pearson continues his series of special stories for the I-J's Marin Magazine tomorrow with an illustrated feature about a Marinite with a most unusual and interesting hobby. His subject is Joseph J. Bernstein of Mill Valley and his collection of authentic ship models. Some Joe Bernstein has built himself, and some he has acquired from others. But they are all little nautical gems, and you will want to read about them and see Gil Pearson's photos of them.

The neighbor who owns a dog can be the worst possible neighbor. But he need not be. Marin's many dog-oriented organizations plan to prove that Sunday with demonstrations at a day-long "Marin Goes to the Dogs" Day observance at the armory in Santa Venetia. Jeff Greer has written about one of those groups, the Marin City Canine Training Club, for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, telling how proper instruction can turn dog-owners and their pets into good neighbors.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, June 13, the 164th day of 1969 with 201 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1877 the Russo-Turkish War began.

In 1935 Jim Braddock decisioned Max Baer to win the Heavyweight Boxing Championship of the world.

In 1944 Germany began using its "Buzz Bomb" secret weapon on England during World War II.

In 1967 Ohio National Guardsmen were called out to quell a racial uprising in Cincinnati.

A thought for the day: William Butler Yeats born on this day in 1865 said, "The years like great black oxen tread the world, and God, the herdsman, goads them on behind."

Triple Pensions Keep Him Going

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charles Johnson is a pension collector.

He gets one from the Veterans Administration, one from Social Security and pensions from the telephone company and an insurance agency.

In 1943, after 25 years with Southern Bell, Johnson retired and began selling insurance. In September, 1968, after 25 years on that job, he retired again.

Johnson, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, still drives his car, although he is 90 years of age.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Ruff Trick–A Handy Item When Needed To Win Contract

Ruffing a loser in the dummy is not a very complicated play. Don't lose sight of the fact that your ruffing trick enables you to lead from the dummy. If you execute your simple maneuver at precisely the right time, the lead from dummy may be just as important as the ruffing trick itself.

LEADS HEARTS

West leads the three of hearts, and your finesse loses to the king. East returns the jack of diamonds and you begin to worry about losing all three finesses.

You cautiously play a low diamond at the second trick, winning with dummy's ace. Now you try a finesse with the queen of spades and close your eyes. When you open your eyes, you discover that your finesse has succeeded.

You continue with the ace of spades, capturing the jack and ten. East's king remains out, but you wisely decide to ignore it. You need dummy's last trump to ruff your third heart.

POSTPONE RUFF

What about that ruff? Should you go after it at once, before it gets away from you? If you do, you will eventually lose two diamonds and a trump in addition to the heart trick already lost. There is no glory in playing for down one.

Your best chance is to set up the clubs, and you need all of dummy's entries for the purpose. After your two rounds of trumps you cash the top clubs and ruff a club. Return to dummy with the ace of hearts and ruff another club.

LAST CLUB GOOD

Now dummy's last club is good, and you can return to dummy by ruffing your last heart with dummy's last trump. The ruffing trick would have been welcome at any time but it is doubly welcome wien it puts you in the dummy to cash the last club. East gets his king of spades whenever he likes, but you discard a diamond on dummy's last club, assuring the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ K 10 4
♥ K 10 7
♦ J 10 9
♣ Q J 9 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no trump.

Most experts avoid this response on a really weak hand, since it is preferably to bid a four-card suit at the level of one or to raise clubs with a poor hand. The wasteful notrump response is used to show a balanced hand of eight to 10 points without a biddable major suit.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Ballad of Josie" — An amusing western set in Wyoming at the time the State was a struggling territory and Doris Day struggles for woman's independence.

"Gone With The Wind" — Famous film classic now transposed to super screen with sterophonic sound remains one of the landmarks in American filmmaking.

"Longest Day" — Superb historical documentary drama which recreates pictorially D-Day invasion of Normandy Coast by the Allies. Magnificent spectacle.

"Shoes of the Fisherman" — Film retains author's concern with human integrity. Magnificent pageantry surrounding the Papacy and the grandeur of the Vatican.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle Beneath the Earth" — Science Fiction tale of investigation of network of tunnels constructed by Chinese terrorist group in U.S. complete with Atom bombs.

"Green Slime" — Produced in Japan with American cast, this science fiction tale is amateurish and trite.

"Romeo and Juliet" — The great tragedy is made vividly new and immediate in a superlative production.

"Winning" — Story of a race driver, his wife and stepson. It will appeal to those who enjoy car racing.

BODERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Goldfinger" — Ian Flemings' tale of mystery where violence, mayhem, sadistic brutality abound.

"How I Won the War" — Anti war message is clear and disturbing. War is utter lunacy; but the film offends by the mockery it makes of the tragedy of war.

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas" — Establishment and the hippies are spoofed to a fare-thee-well in this lively contemporary comedy.

ADULTS ONLY

"Big Bounce" — Nice scenery is wasted on this murder mystery. Dialogue and nudity are offensive.

"Dr. No" — This time James Bond is wading through a welter of blood, sweat and swamp water and takes sex and assassination in stride.

"Killing of Sister George" — Title taken from character which an actress portrays on TV. Film treats lesbianism with unprecedented explicitness with lewd scenes blatantly shown.

"Stolen Kisses" — Sophisticated French drama about a young man who is a misfit gaining his maturity.

Volunteers Planning Two Beach Cleanups

SYMBOL AND CHOIR

The mortar-boarded choir sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" as Prinicpal Donald Kreps listened at last night's graduation ceremony at Redwood High School. Redwood wreath peace symbol (right—voted upon by students—hung above the stage. "It was one of the nicest graduations I can remember," said Kreps who said everything went smoothly. Out of 479 students, only one did not attend because the symbol was to be used. Another picture of the ceremony appears on page 1.

Drug Charges Against Rock Group Trio Are Dropped

Drug charges against three members of a rock group called Bogy were dropped again yesterday in Marin Municipal Court when the district attorney's office was not ready to proceed with a preliminary hearing.

Freed again were John Howard Barrett, 28; Barry Lowell Bastian, 25, and William Warren Leidenthal, 22 all of Fairfax.

The case was dismissed once before after the defendants claimed that their right to a speedy trial had been denied when many continuances were granted because a chemist was not available to testify.

The district attorney's office, however, refiled a new suit immediately, charging the same offenses, growing and possessing marijuana.

The men were arrested at their home at 7 Live Oak Avenue on Jan. 13.

Driver Breaks Foot In Crash

A car driven by Martin David Barrios, 45, of 444 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, went over an embankment yesterday at 9:45 a.m. in Fairfax and landed on the right front fender of a parked car owned by Charles Jenks of 191 Cascade Drive, police reported.

Barrios said a small vehicle forced him to swerve to another lane.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for minor head injuries and a broken foot. No charges were filed and damage to the two cars has not been estimated.

Driver Hurt In Minicycle Crash

Pamela Thomas, 17, of 86 Convent Court, San Rafael, was treated for broken ribs and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after she rode a homemade minicycle down an embankment, San Rafael police reported.

Police said Miss Taylor borrowed the machine from its builder, Ronald E. Palmer of 8 Blossom Drive, and rode it down a hill to the end of Blossom Court, where the brakeless cycle hit the curb and threw her some 20 feet.

Palmer told police the machine, powered by a lawnmower engine, was not finished. An ineffective friction plate was its only brake, police said.

College Now Seeks A Superintendent

Marin Junior College District trustees met in closed session last night to discuss the hiring of a permanent president for College of Marin, then reconvening in open session, announced they will look not for a president but a superintendent.

The board directed that the six-member presidential screening committee meet again to consider a search for a superintendent, trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy reported.

Mrs. Deedy said that the action does not mean that the three candidates for the office of president were, in effect, turned down.

She said that, if the board decides to hire a superintendent or a superintendent-president, and if the three men qualify, they may be considered for the post.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman told the board that the college needs to appoint a chief administrative officer for the 1969-70 academic year. This position requires a general administrative credential.

Mrs. Deedy also said she believed a superintendent should be someone who could make major studies which would allow the college to develop its Novato campus as Marin's population grows.

She said the board is trying to name a new college head by June 30, the end of the school year. Louis H. Herkenhoff is now acting president.

Reed Pupils' Reading Test Off Slightly

Reading levels of Reed School District pupils on Stanford achievement tests last year fell below those of the previous year except in the second grade.

Results of the tests given in May of last year were reported to the Reed School District board 12 months later. They show Reed District pupils in first grade reading at 1.8 in May, 1968, compared to 2.1 for the first graders of a year earlier. (National norm for first graders tested in May is 1.9.)

In the second grade, the average raises from 2.9 in May, 1967, to 3.1 a year later — .2 above the national norm.

In third grade, it dropped from 4.1 in 1967 to 3.8 last year, or .1 below the norm.

Results of sixth grade tests given in October were announced at the same time. These showed last October's sixth graders reading at average grade level of 6.2 — exactly on the national norm but down from 6.6 for the sixth grade a year earlier.

Comparative 1968 scores for a leading San Francisco school, Madison Elementary School, as reported in January were: Second grade, 3.9; third grade, 5.2, and sixth grade, 9.3.

City Battling Sewage Leaks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Emergency repairs have been ordered for leaks that have dumped about 10 million gallons of raw San Francisco sewage into the bay since last Friday.

Raw sewage started flowing out of manhole covers near Islais Creek June 6, forcing a shutdown of the Southeast Sewage Treatment Plant, which handles 18 per cent of city sewage. The flow is 18 million gallons a day.

"This happened," said City Engineer Robert Levy, "because sewage coming from the plant was diverted to empty several hundred feet farther out into the bay."

Levy said sewage began backing up into the treatment plant forcing its shutdown. The task now, he said, is to excavate around several manhole covers and pour cement collars to seal them.

To Superior Court

James Wade of 105 Shaver Street, San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on six charges of signing another person's name to a credit card. He is to appear in court June 23 for arraignment.

Span Board Increases Salaries

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board, overriding protests by Supervisors Michael Wornum and other Marin directors, today increased the salaries of four of its top five adminstrative officers by 8.7 to 23.4 per cent.

At the same time, the board approved a general salary increase of 5 per cent for most other employees.

Dist. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring's salary, the only increase which did not draw objections, was raised from $24,000 to $27,500 a year, a 14.6 per cent boost.

Dist. Auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren received the biggest increase — 23.4 per cent — from $20,256 to $25,000. Engineer Robert E. Shields's salary was hiked from $23,000 to $25,000, which at 8.7 per cent was the lowest increase. A raise of 15 per cent from $17,376 to $20,000 was given to Dist. Secty. Helen Jack.

Action on the salary of the other top administrative officer, the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, was postponed. White now receives $14,760 a year.

Minesweeper Is Bumped By Sub

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — A British Royal Navy submarine bumped a U.S. Navy minesweeper while docking at this American naval base today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The submarine, the Rorqual, was not damaged and no members of its crew were injured.

The spokesman said the minesweeper, the USS Endurance, had a hole about three feet in diameter punched in her wooden hull. There were no injuries aboard.

General Lockup At Quentin

Conditions at San Quentin were reported "very quiet" today as a general lockup for more than 3,000 prisoners remained in effect after the outbreak of racial violence Wednesday which left one convict dead and six wounded.

Warden Louis S. Nelson warned the inmates on the prison radio to "cool it" or risk the prison being operated "along the rigid rules of Alcatraz."

Warden Nelson blamed a "Klu Klux mentality" on both sides for the Negro-Caucasian flareup Wednesday.

Questioning of 13 Negro suspects, including another added today, is being conducted in special detention cells.

Associate Warden James Park said he is not able to predict when the general lockup will end and classes, job assignments and recreational activities can resume. He said, however, the restriction will not be lifted before Monday while officials are "feeling out the climate."

Park said the vast majority of the prisoners "want no part of the violence and are unhappy about being locked up." Only those needed for hospital, kitchen and laundry duties are not locked up.

The assailants in the stabbings used a scissor's blade and toilet plunger rods sharpened into knives. Park said officials are tightening up, present tool control procedures as the general shakedown of the prison continues.

The six men injured Wednesday were reported in good condition today at the prison hospital and are expected to recover, according to Parks.

Numbers Sprayed On School's Walls

Juveniles got away intth darkness last night after spray-painting the number 69 on walls and doors at San Rafael High School and attempting to cut down the school flagpole with a chain saw, San Rafael police reported.

The juveniles were chased away by a maintenance man and the flag pole was only scratched, police said.

Sabella Defendant Ill; Trial Halted

By MARY LEYDECKER

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella was continued today until Monday when one of the defendants was too ill to come to court.

A county doctor told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court that he thought Daniel Thomas Stathos, who is in jail would be well enough for the trial to resume on Monday. He remained in a cell where a nurse was to check him.

Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal are on trial for the Sabella crime last November, and Stathos is also charged with the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

A third man, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Larkspur, has pleaded guilty to his part in both offenses and is serving a term at San Quentin. He has testified in the trial that Stathos and Harnal were crime partners.

Yesterday, Stathos, who has been acting as his own attorney, called witnesses to testify that Hoefler was prejudiced against him because of an alleged affair with Hoefler's wife, Darlene.

Another San Quentin inmate, Ednumd A. Chatham of San Francisco, a friend of Hoefler and Stathos, testified that Hoefler has told him that he "would get even" with Stathos.

Under cross-examination, Chatham admitted that he had once lived with Stathos in Pacifica for a short time before being convicted of a San Francisco armed robbery and that Stathos collected bail money for him last year.

An 18-yearpold girl who was with Stathos at the time of an arrest in San Francisco last fall told the jury that Hoefler's wife was fearful of being arrested herself after her husband was jailed on armed robbery counts.

Charlyce Brant of Brisbane also said that she had never known Stathos to carry a gun, contradicting testimony by Mr. and Mrs. Hoefler. Last witness to be called by Stathos was his wife, Sharon, who said Mrs. Hoefler had called her last summer to say that Stathos and Mrs. Hoefler were having an affair.

No defense witnesses were called by Jerome C. Durham, public defender, who is representing Harnal.

Final arguments in the trial are scheduled for Monday.

Twin Sisters, 19, Booked As Weed Growing Suspects

Nineteen-year-old twin sisters, granddaughters of the chairman of the board of a large publishing firm, were arrested yesterday in Kentfield on suspicion of cultivating marijuana.

Booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $1,250 were Deborah Wadsworth Prentice Ettinger and Pamela Prentice Ettinger, who were arrested at a house they had been renting at 53 Redwood Drive.

Marin Drug Abuse Bureau agents said there had been reports of a great deal of nighttime traffic to the house as well as rumors of marijuana growing.

An agent spotted about 50 plants in pots and planters at the home through binoculars and then went to the house, where the sisters told him that the plants were indeed marijuana, the agent said.

He added that the "girls were dressed in hippie clothes and the house was a filthy mess."

One of the twins, Deborah, today told a jail matron today that "jail is just like boarding school but the girls are nicer."

Their grandfather is Richard Prentice Ettinger Sr. of New York, co-founder of Prentice-Hall Inc., and their father, who lives in Atherton, is also associated with the publishing firm.

The girls remained in jail today in lieu of bail and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m.

Task Force Will Probe Student Acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has ordered the creation of a task force system to gather intelligence and prepare for prosecution of the central figures in campus rebellions.

The avenue: a year-old civil rights law.

The Appropriations Committee advised the Senate today that Mitchell had ordered development of "a strong program looking toward the vigorous prosecution of dissidents on college campuses whose actions interfere with a federally conducted civil rights of nondissident students or faculty members."

PLAN DESCRIBED

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard described the plan in May 13 testimony before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

The civil rights division, which Leonard heads, would get funds for 30 new employees under the bill before the Senate.

The Appropriations Committee, in recommending the new positions, said it expected the civil rights law authority "will be utilized to the fullest extent" against campus revolts.

The testimony and the committee's recommendations were made public as both Senate and House committees prepared to look into the troubles afflicting college campuses.

HEARINGS SLATED

The Senate permanent investigations subcommittee opens hearings Monday on militant organizations involved, and Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said testimony about the groups would be heard from police officials in New York, Los Angeles, Oakland, Detroit, Chicago and other ares.

The House Education and Labor Committee, also on Monday, will hear from administration officials and the heads of eight colleges their opinions on a bill dealing with campus unrest.

OPPONENTS REQUEST

Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said the one-day hearing was scheduled at request of opponents of the bill, which the committee will consider on Tuesday.

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations subcommitte, Leonard said the chances of convicting campus militants under federal conspiracy law would be remote.

The civil rights law ban on interference with people benefiting from federally financed programs offers a better avenue for action, he said.

Pistol, Cash Stolen

A .22-caliber carbon dioxide pistol and $53 in cash were stolen Wednesday night or yesterday in a burglary of the Country Club Barber Shop, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael police reported.

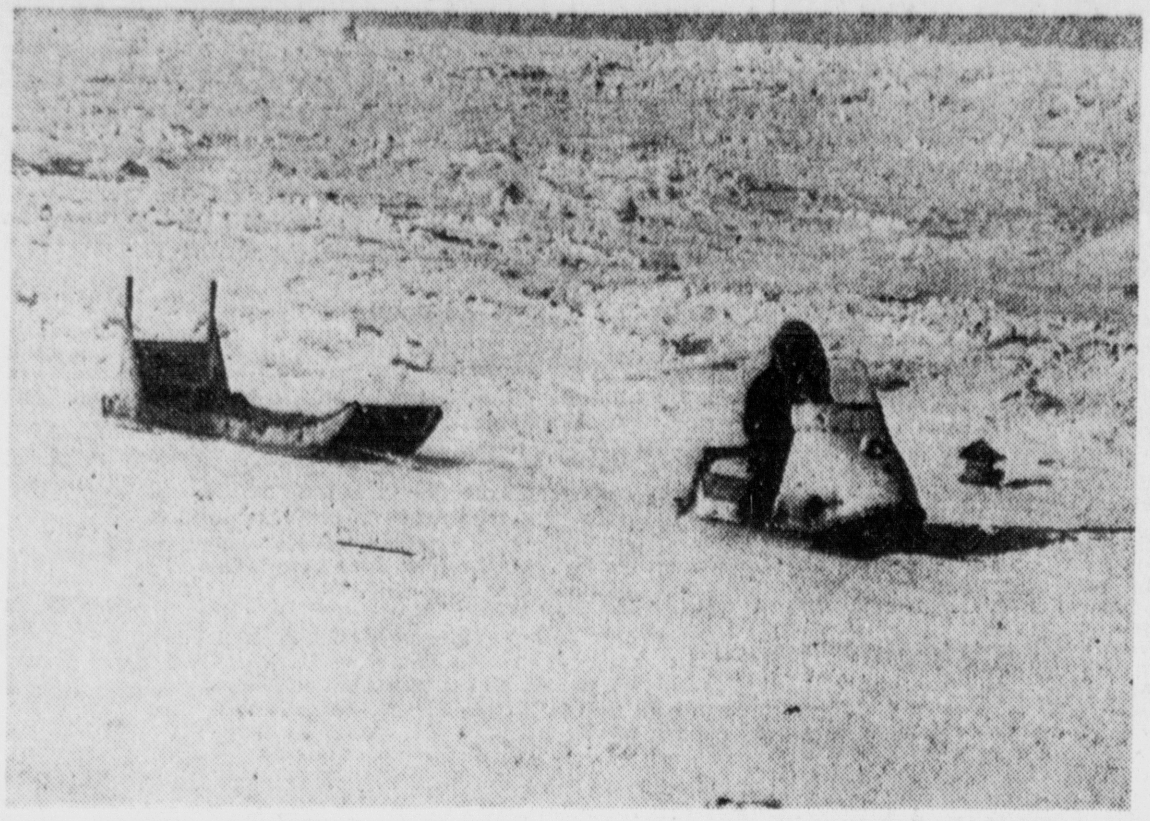
Alaskan Sled Dogs Join Horse, Buggy



NO MORE 'MUSH' — Instead of knowing how to crack the whip on a team of sled dogs, an Eskimo at Barrow, Alaska, now must know how to operate a snowmobile, but he still uses the traditional sled for carrying his cargo across the arctic wastes. (UPI Telephoto)

BARROW, Alaska (UPI)—Count among the romantic casualties of our age, the sled dog. He is disappearing from the Arctic with scarcely a whimper.

His replacement is the ubiquitous snowmobile—faster, more economical, but pitifully unromantic.

A few short years ago, virtually every Eskimo or Indian family had at least one team of seven or eight dogs staked out in front of the house. Now it is far more common to find a loudly painted snowmachine parked there.

FEW TEAMS REMAIN

At Barrow, the world's largest Eskimo village, about 2,200 people comprise 400-odd families. Just 10 years ago the village boasted uncounted scores of dog teams. Today, only 11 teams are left.

The situation is similar at other Alaska Eskimo villages and in the Canadian Arctic, where the Mounties recently ran the last of their fabled sled dog patrols.

Traditionalists bemoan the disappearance of the sled dog. They recall the countless legends—many of them, unfortunately, untrue—about devoted dogs saving their masters' lives during Arctic crises, and the standard fiction-writer's portrait of the husky as more noble than nature and bigger than life.

But the Eskimos are not a sentimental people and for them the adoption of the snowmobile has been just economic common sense.

DOGS EAT FISH

A working sled dog will eat five pounds of meat or fish a day. Thus, an average team can consume 35-40 pounds of food daily and in theory could devour six tons a year—though it is highly unlikely that any Eskimo dog team has ever had such extraordinary good fortune.

This is food out of the Eskimo's mouth, since his traditional diet is much the same as his dogs'. And as the development of the Arctic continues, game becomes scarcer.

INEVITABLE REPLACEMENT

So it was inevitable that the snowmobile would replace the dog, just as the rifle has replaced the bow and arrow and harpoon.

The sled dog's life has never been much of a bargain anyway.

The typical dog is usually smaller than one would imagine. He is gaunt and his ribs show, for in the Arctic the sled dog competes for survival, like everything else.

Here, the dog is not man's friend and companion as he is elsewhere. He is the common beast of burden, a tool to be used like any other.

As such, the dog leads a frequently miserable life, chained to a stake and receiving little food when he is not needed, curled in the snow in the howling, sub-zero nights.

And he is always expendable. When there is enough food for man and beast, he eats; when there is not, he goes without. And in a true emergency—still not unheard of in this wild land—he may become food himself, for his master or the other dogs.

Swim Classes At Terra Linda

The summer swimming program at Terra Linda High School has been postponed for two weeks because of pool maintenance and repairs, the San Rafael Recreation Department announced today.

Public swimming will begin July 1 instead of Tuesday and the Learn to Swim programs and Tiny Tot swimming lessons will start July 8 instead of June 24.

The Water Safety Aid program will be conducted as scheduled, Tuesday through Saturday, but will be switched to the San Rafael High School, reported Andrew J. Snyder Jr. parks and recreation director.

The San Rafael High School pool schedule will remain unchanged.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Persons Lacking Inner Stability May Be In Perpetual Anxiety

VAN DELLEN

Some individuals are in a perpetual state of anxiety and discomfort; they face one crisis after another; many of these problems are of their own making. Many are not so bad off as it would seem, because, by ordinary standards, their problems are minor.

These men and women never acquired the emotional stability in childhood to help them overcome the everyday ups and down of adulthood.

THEY NEED TO learn the habits and attitudes necessary for emotional security. If their work loads seem unbearable they ought to do the most urgent tasks first. The remaining chores can be tackled later.

Many persons expect too much of themselves. They full and fume when their achievements fall below expectations. These people should do the best they can without shirking and be satisfied with their productivity.

HELP SHOULD BE sought when ever life's tribulations seem overwhelming. Confide in a level-headed friend, counselor, clergyman, or physician.

Rulnning away from trouble is not good policy but there are times when it is the thing to do. During the interval, the person has an opportunity to regain balance and see the problem in its true light.

The emotionally mature individual has learned to give and take. He yields a little even though the challenger might be wrong.

IT IS WISE TO let off steam by working in the garden or cleaning outth e garage or basement. This is better than retaliating via a nasty phone call or poison pen letter. It is surprising what counting to 10 will do to maintain the respect of others.

It is well known that the cheerful person can better cope with problems. Skulking through life with a chip on the shoulder never solves any problem, be it small or large.

CARDIAC ASTHMA

G. G. writes: Is there such a thing as an asthmatic heart?

REPLY

Yes, unless you refer to cardiac asthma, in which symptoms mimic asthma. This form of heart failure involves the left ventricle. The victim awakens at night, gasping for breath. This disorder is not on an allergic basis and should not be confused with bronchial asthma. On the other hand, the right side of the heart may be strained by the scar tissue on the lungs brought about after years of asthma and chronic bronchitis.

20 CARROTS A DAY

A reader writes: I'm always bloated and my skin is yellow. One of my neighbors told me the 15-20 raw carrots I eat daily could be responsible. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes, provided the whites of your eyes remain clear. In jaundice, the whites of the eyes as well as the skin become discolored. A blood test will answer your question.

FLU AND THE KIDNEYS

A reader writes: Can an attack of flu cause infection of the kidneys and bladder?

REPLY

Yes, particularly if the individual has had this experience before. These are the people who say, "Every time I catch cold it goes to my bladder and kidneys."

RELAXATION AIDS ULCER

A reader writes: How does a tranquilizer help the victim of a duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

By encouraging relaxation. When the sufferer is calm, so is the stomach; and tranquility reduces the activity of the acid-producing glands.

SURGERY IN DEAFNESS

L. P. C. writes: Is surgery beneficial in any hearing defect other than otosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Lymphoid tissue that covers the openings of the eustachian tubes can be removed surgically to improve hearing. Some types of developmental defects or chronic infections can also be corrected surgically. I know of no operation that will help nerve deafness.

DIABETIES IN CHILDREN

T. T. writes: Is diabetes more serious in children than in adults?

REPLY

Yes. Older individuals usually develop the disease in its mild form.

MANY RED CORPUSCLES

L. Y. writes: An analysis of my son's blood showed too many red corpuscles. Is there any treatment besides bloodletting?

REPLY

Polycythemia vera is treated with radioactive phosphorus or regular bleeding. Irradiation of the bone marrow and nitrogen mustard are less frequently used treatments. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on polycythemia vera.

BOWEL RESECTION

A reader writes: What is a bowel resection?

REPLY

In this operation a segment of the intestine is cut out and the open ends are sewn together. The procedure is done when the structure contains a tumor, ulcer, or an inflammatory mass. It is just as if a segment of garden hose were cut out and the two ends were fastened together. The hose is shorter but works just as well as before.

ENURETIC TRADITION

A reader writes: Is bedwetting inherited? My 7-year-old son still does it and recently my husband told me he was bothered as a child.

REPLY

I doubt it, even though some studies have shown that the condition is two to three times more prevalent in families where one parent had been a bedwetter. The enuretic tradition may be a family affair or a matter of emotionally disturbed parents having emotionally immature offspring.

Today's Health Hint — Follow instructions carefully when using toxic garden sprays and lawn fertilizers.

Span Shows Vehicle Hike During May

Traffic and revenue for Golden Gate Bridge were both up during May, with revenue increasing by $18,000 over a year ago, Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, said today.

In his report to the directors, Luehring said traffic during May increased 3.99 per cent over last year. The number of vehicles crossing the span was 2,726,142, compared to 2,621,437 in 1968.

Revenue was up 4 per cent to $570,407, compared to $548,489 last year.

The highest single day was May 18, a Sunday, when the number of vehicles crossing the bridge was 101,246.

Luehring said Greyhound commuter bus traffic was down significantly during May with a figure of 11,576 busses crossing, compared to 12,157 during the previous May. This is a decrease of 4.78 per cent. U.S. government passes decreased 8.18 per cent to 55,972 crossings.

Luehring told the directors there are now 46 bridge officers, 18 less than the 64 authorized under two-way toll collection. The current number of toll-takers, he said, appears to be as low as he can go with the one-way tolls and is saving $196,706 annually.

Teachers Workshop

Caleb Gattegno of New York, director of Schools for the Future, will conduct a four-day workshop for teachers on mathematics starting tomorrow (Saturday) at Bahia Vista School in San Rafael.

Policeman Kills Ex-Mayor's Son

BURBANK (UPI) — The son of a former Burbank mayor was killed by a shotgun blast fired by a policeman investigating a burglary.

Frank Brandon, 23, whose father, Dr. Robert Brandon, served two terms as mayor, was shot by officer Robert H. Jacobs, a 13-year veteran of the force.

Jacobs said he was investigating a report yesterday of a burglary in progress at a cafe. He shouted to man inside, "Come out with your hands up."

The man ignored the warning and ran to the rear of the building. The officer warned him a second time and the suspect ran toward a plate-glass window in the front of the cafe.

Jacobs fired a single blast from his 12-gauge shotgun, fatally wounding Brandon in the chest. Brandon had a police record of misdemeanor arrests on burglary and narcotics charges.

Collier Asks Meeting On Shrimp Crisis

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — State Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, has warned the California shrimp industry may be faced with a "critical" shortage and has called for a "meeting of the minds" between commercial fisherman and the state fish and game department.

Collier pointed to the loss of the sardine and bay shrimp indistries this week as being warnings of what can happen to the California shrimp industry.

He said the fish and game department has also warned the situation could become critical unless action is taken immediately to demand that quotas be strictly adhered to.

Collier said that in 1952 the California shrimp yield was 206,107 pounds. In 1968, the state harvest rose to 2.3 million pounds.

However, Collier said, warnings of shrimp depletion off the coast was made evident when the known shrimp beds at Bodega Bay and Fort Bragg did not provide a yield as they have done in the past. In fact, he said, they have been abandoned as a profitable commercial venture.

He called for commerical fishermen to protect the industry, "as is required of the timber, mining and agriculture interests."

The senator also warned that the Pacific crab, and with the advent of scuba diving, the abalone, may be faced with the same fate.

Blaze Destroys Abandoned Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A three-alarm fire destroyed the abandoned three-story Sequoia Hotel last night.

The building, at Third and Howard streets, was scheduled to be torn down within the next two years as part of the Yerba Buena redevelopment project.

More than 140 firemen had the blaze under control 45 minutes after it started.

Marin City Council Postpones Session

The Marin City Council canceled its scheduled meeting last night for lack of a quorum, and Chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. said a special session would be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Manzanita Center.

Banks said the council, which recently received a federal planning grant, will have to plan staffing, three full-time employees including a community coordinator, and the opening of an office. The federal grant of $50,000 is slated to be matched by $25,000 in Marin County services.

Prejudiced Questions Tossed Out

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Prejudiced questions about television:

Will somebody please tell me how the CBS-TV situation comedy, "The Queen and I," ever got on the air? I mean, if "Turn-On" was canceled after one performance, could anyone justify giving "The Queen and I" more than 15 minutes?

Isn't Raymond Burr, of NBC-TV's "Ironside," the most underrated major star on the home screen? The man is as solid an anchor for a television series as there is around.

Shouldn't somebody advise ABC-TV's Tom Jones, a potent singing performer, that he would be twice as effective all-around if he only took some lessons on how to deliver lines?

Isn't it nice that Edward Mulhare and Hope Lange of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," canceled by NBC-TV, will be around against next season on ABC-TV?—because aren't they far and away the most attractive mature couple in all the regular video series?

Will someone please explain to me what has been so funny about "Get Smart" for the past couple of years?

Isn't Robert Conrad, of CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West," the most inconspicuous star on television?

And isn't it also obvious to everyone that CBS-TV's Glen Campbell will be on video for every bit as long as he wants to be, and that he is a tremendous television star in the making?

Weren't you surprised—along with the video industry—when NBC-TV's "Julia" series, the most talked-about and successful new show of this past season, was overlooked in last weekend's Emmy awards presentations?

Isn't Robert Wagner, of ABC-TV's "It Takes a Thief," the Cary Grant of television?

And could you find a better all-purpose series star than Darren McGavin of NBC-TV's "The Outsider"?

How in the world did anyone decide that Jonathan Winters would be able to carry a weekly one-hour CBS-TV show?

And how can anyone fail to see that Goldie Hawn, of NBC-TV's "Laugh-In," and Susan Saint James, of the same network's "The Name of the Game," have surefire movie careers in the offing?

And aren't those enough questions for one day?

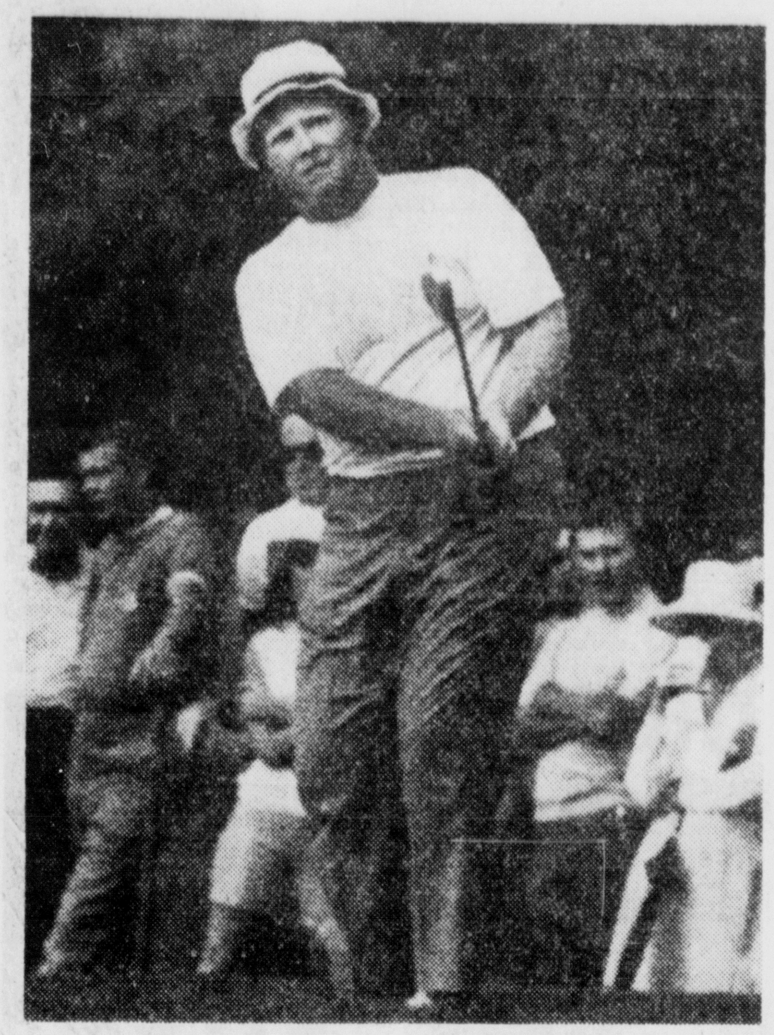
Murphy Paces U.S. Open Field



ON TARGET — Bob Murphy, whose 66 took the first round lead in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament in Houston yesterday, was on target with this shot from the edge of the 16th green. (AP Wirephoto)

Roly-Poly Golfer Fires 66

HOUSTON (AP)—Roly-poly Bob Murphy held the lead going into today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship because there's a big blonde mystery man walking around in Jack Nicklaus' spikes.

"I was driving the ball exceptionally well," Nicklaus said. "I didn't miss a fairway—something I've never done before in the U.S. Open. From where I drove the ball, Jack Nicklaus could have shot a 65. But I haven't seen that character around for a while."

The slump-ridden Nicklaus, who said "my irons deserted me," finished with a 74, four over par for the 6,967-yard Cypress Creek layout at Champions Golf Club.

IN A TIE

That put him in a tie with a couple of pretourney choices, defending champion Lee Trevino and Billy Casper, well back in the pack and in some danger of missing the cut when the field of 150 is trimmed today to the low 60 finishers and ties for the final two rounds.

And since Nicklaus himself said Nicklaus wasn't there, and the 65 didn't materialize, the sparkling 66 posted by Murphy, a 214-pound Florida redhead, topped the field.

Tour regular Miller Barber, a balding paunchy guy from Sherman, Tex., was alone in second at 67, with stringbean Al Geiberger, who said he was competing against doctors orders, and former Amateur champion Deane Beman locked at 68.

Here's Wonderful Gift For That Favorite Dad

Okay, no peeking, you guys. This is for women and children only. All men are banished from this corner for the rest of the day. Amscray, ya' heah? Go read Jack Hanley on page 40 or Al Giddings on page 41. You might even give Molly Marin a whirl.

Okay, girls, now that we're rid of them, let's get on with today's subject. I've just been dying to tell you about an ideal Father's Day gift for the family bread winner.

It's a handy little paperback Bantam Book titled "Guinness Book of World Records." Every man should have one. So should every saloon and sports department because this little gem of wisdom can settle more arguments than a proboscis full of knuckles.

You know how men can argue over the longest this, the fastest that, the firstest with the mostest, the strongest and weakest, etc. Their lives are one big statistic. Well, the British twins Norris and Ross McWhirter, underwritten by the Guinness brewery outfit have compiled the dangedest list of records imaginable.

A Conversation Starter

The book is invaluable. Especially at cocktail parties. For example if a dirty old man wants to strike up a conversation with some blonde cupcake he can sidle up to her and begin: "Say, little flower, did you know that Craig Breedlove's car skidded six miles — a world skid mark record — while attempting to set a world land speed record in 1964 at Bonneville Salt Flats. What? You didn't? Well, come into my parlor while I tell you all about it."

Yes, for those who dote on trivia, this is a bible.

Women golfers, my favorite outdoor athletes, even have a chapter titled: "Most shots for one hole." A lady, according to Guinness, used 166 strokes on the 130-yard 16th hole at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa. in 1912. Marin County's fairway flowers have been known to challenge it.

Then there's a local angle noting that the world record for voluntarily staying under water is 13 minutes, 42.5 seconds by Robert Foster, 32, then an electronics technician of Richmond, who stayed under 10 feet of water in the swimming pool of the Bermuda Palms at San Rafael on March 15, 1959. He hyperventilated with oxygen for 30 minutes before his descent.

Some other gems gleaned at random from Guinness:

Greatest distance achieved in the U.S. Spitting Championships at Raleigh, Miss. is 21 feet, 3 inches by George Craft in October, 1966. (Distance is dependant on the quality of salivation, absence of cross wind and the coordination of the quick hip and the neck snap.)

Greatest handshaker in public life was Teddy Roosevelt when, as president of the U.S., he shook hands with 8,513 people at a New Year's Day White House reception on Jan. 1, 1907. In non-public life, the record is 37,500 hands by George Borkowski in London on Feb. 22, 1967.

No Stranger To Marriage

Greatest number of wives accumulated by a man in the monogamous world is 18 by Glynn de Moss Wolff, who married his 18th at Las Vegas, Nev., on June 4, 1967. After the ceremonies the parties drove off in opposite directions.

Fastest talker in public life was President John F. Kennedy who delivered at a rate of 327-words-per-minute in a 1961 speech.

Most prolific dog in the world was a pedigreed Dalmation of England who fathered 637 puppies between 1957 and October 1965.

Bowsie WOWsie. Happy Father's Day.

WEIGHTY LIFT — Kevin Robinson of Mill Valley, victim of cerebral palsy, lifts weights three times a week and also does some long distance running. His handicap hasn't kept him down and out. (Independent-Journal photo)

YOUNG MAN WITH DESIRE

The Courageous Weightlifter

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Robinson lifts weights three times a week, and when he's not weight-lifting, he's running. Kevin is 5-foot-8, 140 pounds. And he has cerebral palsy.

A junior at the Mill Valley high school, Kevin lives with his mother, Mrs. Anita Jean Robinson at 387 Vista Linda Drive, Mill Valley. They plan to move to Santa Rosa in the near future.

He's been lifting weights for two years, but his long-distance running is a new bag. His first competitive event was the recent Bay-To-Breakers race in San Francisco, a race which covers 7.8 miles. He won a "Most Courageous Runner" trophy in that race, and you just know he's proud of that prize.

"I trained for about a month before the race," Kevin said in his slow, deliberate, speech. "I did a lot of running, mostly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays . . . about five to seven miles a day."

He would have done some running on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, too, but those are his weight-lifting days at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

"He has more desire than any kid I have ever come in contact with," said John Garber, recreation supervisor for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department.

"He can bench press 225 pounds and get up 350 pounds in dead lift," said Garber. "When he started lifting weights he couldn't even bench press 90 pounds." (In bench press lifting, the person lies on his back, is handed the barbell, lowers it to his chest and then pushes it up again, where they are taken by another person.)

"Kevin is really a good example of what can be done if a person with a handicap tries to better himself," said Garber.

Would it be possible for Robinson to run in the famed Dipsea race from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach later this year?

"There's a slight chance," he cautiously said. "It all depends how much better I get."

"I definitely would not let him run in that race alone," said Garber. "It would be much too dangerous a course. If someone ran with him it might be all right."

Would Garber run with him? "Yes, if he wanted me to," he answered.

"Kevin has always been interested in sports," said his mother, who also has two daughters, Buffie, 13, and Jennifer, 11. Their father, attorney Rodric L. Robinson, lives at 133 Sunnyside Avenue, Mill Valley.

A's To Face Red Sox' Jim Lonborg

BOSTON (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics make their first Fenway Park appearance of the season tonight and right off the bat, they have to face one of the few undefeated pitchers in the American League.

Lanky Jim Lonborg, who appears to have recovered from a skiing accident which required knee surgery two years ago, gets the call for the Boston Red Sox. He has a 6-0 record.

The probable Oakland starter is Chuck Dobson, who has split 10 decisions.

The A's closed out their Washington series last night by dropping a 4-1 decision to the Senators. Hank Allen's first homer of the season and two run-scoring singles by Del Unser turned the trick for the

TO BEGIN CAREER IN MOVIES

Bill Russell Quitting Pro Basketball

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell is quitting basketball in favor of a Hollywood career according to a Boston paper, but his old mentor Red Auerbach says as far as he knows there's been no definite decision yet.

Russell, one of pro basketball's all-time greats, was reported resigning his job as player—coach of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics.

The copyrighted story was written by Sports Editor Cliff Sundberg for this morning's editions of the Boston Herald Traveler.

The story said the 6-foot-9 center, who has sparked the Celtics to 11 NBA championships in 13 years, was giving up his estimated $150,000-a-year post to pursue movie and television work plus other ventures on the West Coast.

The paper said the 35-year-old Russell informed Auerbach of his decision Monday night and then confided to friends Wednesday that he had to make the move "in order to find new sources of income for the future."

It said Russell is currently in Hollywood and staying at the apartment of former Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, another great athlete who made the jump to a film and television career.

It added that imediate plans call for Russell to make two movies, including one with Brown, who is a close friend.

Auerbach, however, said early today in Boston that he hadn't been informed of any such definite decision.

"We had a little conversation Monday, and it was my understanding he was postponing any decision for about six weeks,' the former Celtics coach and current general manager said.

Russell led the University of San Francisco to 59 straight college victories and two national championships, paced the United States team to victory in the 1956 Olympics, then turned pro.

St. Louis drafted him, but Auerbach pulled the master stroke which launched the Celtics' NBA dynasty, trading Cliff Hagan and Ed Macauley for the big man.

He was finally signed for a big bonus, passing up a reported $30,000 bid by the Harlem Globetrotters.

Dominating the league from the beginning with his great defensive play, Russell has been voted the Most Valuable Player five times and is the only man in NBA history to pull down 20,000 rebounds.

Russell's supporting cast in the Boston line-up kept changing through the years, and a succession of great stars like Bob Cousey, Bill Sharman, Tommy Heinsohn, and Frank Ramsey retired, but with the big center as the key the team just replaced them with new faces and kept winning.

The only playoff losses in his 13 years as a player came in 1957-58, when he sat out part of the finals with an ankle injury, and in 1966-67, when arch-rival Wilt Chamberlain finally got the upper hand as Philadelphia eliminated the Celtics in the Eastern finals.

When Auerbach relinquished the coaching duties in 1966 Russell was named in his place—the first Negro to coach a major professional team in this country.

The Celtics lost out to Philadelphia in that first season, but came back to regain their title in 1967-68 and then win it again last season.

Will Giles Support Umps On Greaseball Rulings?

Nine months ago Warren Giles said he would issue a statement in "four or five days" about the grease ball, successor to baseball's banned spitball. The other day the National League president finally issued the statement.

Giles told the league's umpires that if they were convinced a foreign substance had been applied to a ball by a pitcher then the pitcher should be immediately ejected from the game.

GILES FURTHER told the umpires that if they suspected a pitcher of getting grease or illegal sticky stuff from the back of his neck, the inside of his wrist or any place else, they were empowered to make him stop it under penalty of ejection.

Now, it remains to be seen whether umpires believe they will get backing from Giles if they crack down on pitchers who use a little dab to get the job done. Impires have ignored the grease ball ever since last August when Chris Pelekoudas was left looking like a conscientious umpire without backing from his boss.

IN THE seventh inning of a game between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds at Wrigley Field, Phil Regan took the mound. Pelekoudas on several occasions accused Regan of throwing illegal pitches.

Pelekoudas later said he found no evidence on the ball but detected the illegal pitches by the flight of the ball. He declared: "A sinker spins when it breaks down. An illegal pitch breaks down without any spin."

REGAN PETITIONED for a hearing before Giles. Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs and the Cubs' vice president John Holland accompanied Regan to Giles' office.

"Mr. Holland asked me to hear Phil Regan's version of the incident," said Giles in a statement following the meeting. "I know Phil and have respect for him and felt a gentleman like he should be shown consideration and courtesy of hearing him.

"PHIL TOLD me he did not have any lubricant on his sweatband in this incident and I believe him."

Pelekoudas and his fellow umpires weren't accorded the "consideration and courtesy" of a hearing. Naturally, they weren't happy over Giles' failure to back up Pelekoudas who certainly has had enough practical experience to tell when a ball is doing funny things.

SO THOSE pitchers suspected of doctoring balls became more brazen in their actions on the mound. Managers and batters complained from time to time but, believing the grease ball was here to stay, stopped complaining.

However, Gil Hodges, manager of the Mets, stopped a game between the Giants and Mets for five minutes a couple of weeks ago in New York. Hodges didn't rant or rave. He didn't wave his arms. But he quietly and forcefully told Frank Secory, plate umpire in the game, that he didn't like what Gaylord Perry was doing.

HODGES LATER told New York reporters he sympathized with the umpires who couldn't stop something "illegal" because league headquarters wouldn't back them up.

Whether Giles read the New York papers is a matter of conjecture but within a fortnight he issued his statement spelling out the power of umpires in dealing with the grease ball. Furthermore, he todl them that whatever decisions they made concerning illegal pitches could not be appealed because they were "judgment rulings."

first time in a decade, remained in contention after a par 70. Sam Snead, 57, and still chasing this big one, Gary Player and Julius Boros were in a group at 71, with Frank Beard and Gene Littler at 72.

HARD WORK

Murphy, 26, a former amateur champion and 1968 PGA Rookie of the Year, credited hard work with the driver and adjustment to his new daughter, Kimberly, for the improvement in his game.

"I'm usually a pretty good driver," he said. "Not long, but straight. But in the last five or six weeks I hadn't been driving well at all. I guess I hadn't been driving since the National Airlines (in March).

"But sometimes some hard work pays off. I must have hit 1,000 drives in practice the last few weeks. That's all you can do, just go out and swing."

And about the daughter, a six-month-old?

"She came on the tour with me when she was just a few weeks old," Murphy said. "My wife, Gail, was used to the noises she makes at night, all those snorts and snuffles and she'd sleep right through it. But I couldn't.

"I wasn't getting but about three hours sleep at night. Now I'm getting used to it."

Canadians To Invade Candlestick Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey, who is surprising even himself with the way he is swinging the bat these days, tries to extend his hitting streak to 17 games tonight when the San Francisco Giants take on the Montreal Expos.

The big Giants' first baseman is hitting .355 and has 20 home runs, 11 coming since he began his hitting streak May 23.

Though the pressure doesn't bother McCovey, who professes to be more interested in driving in runs than in base hits, it is getting harder and harder for him to keep the streak alive.

In the last two games against the New York Mets, McCovey came to bat 10 times and was walked six times.

McCovey blasted a home run in the ninth inning of the 15th game of the streak and got two hits in the late innings of the 16th. All those walks—not official at-bats—have contributed to the rise in his batting average.

Juan Marichal, 62 goes to the mound for the Giants tonight, hoping to repeat the masterful three-hit performance he threw his last time out against the Philadelphia Phillies. Don Shaw, 1-3, will pitch for the Expos.

The game will be marked by a double National Anthem singing with Canadian opera star Alan Monk expected to sing "O Canada" following the Star Spangled Banner.

The fourth Washington run was chased in by Paul Casanova.

George Lauzerique, who had picked up two straight victories since his recall from Des Moines, took the loss while National League reject Jim Shellenback evened his record at 1-1.

After a three-game weekend series here, the A's go to Kansas City for three more games before returning home to host Minnesota next Friday.

ATLANTA (AP) — The Chicago Cubs recalled Archie Reynolds, 23-year-old righthanded pitcher, from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League yesterday.

Phils Again Blank Dodgers; Pirates, Reds Triumph

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

After nine straight defeats, the Philadelphia Phillies needed something...and it turned out to be nothing.

That's exactly what Philly pitchers have given the Los Angeles Dodgers the last two nights—nothing. The results has been a modest, but welcome two-game winning streak.

Rookie Billy Champion broke the losing string Wednesday night with a five-hit shutout and Grant Jackson made it two in a row last night by scattering seven hits as the Phillies nipped the Dodgers and hard-luck Bill Singer 1-0.

RIGHT PLACE

Philadelphia pitchers had only three shutouts—one by Jackson—all year entering this series, but they came to the right place. The Dodgers now have been blanked nine times and Singer has had only five runs scored for him in his six defeats.

It was the only shutout of the night on a limited schedule as Montreal beat San Diego 4-1, Cincinnati downed St. Louis 4-3 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh slipped by Houston 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs outhit Atlanta 12-6 in the National League. Washington defeated Oakland 4-1 in the only American League game.

FOUR RUNS

Jackson, 5-6, who has allowed only four runs in his five complete-game victories, avenged a 7-6 loss to Singer two weeks ago. Johnny Briggs gave him a game-opening homer, his first of the season, on Singer's second pitch and Jackson made it last.

He struck out 11, including two when the Dodgers had runners on first and third with one out in the sixth. And in the second outfielder Larry Hisle threw out Andy Kosco at the plate on the last of three singles in the inning.

While the Dodgers were being whitewashed for the second night in a row, one of their former big hitters was helping Montreal win its third game in four starts after a 20-game losing spin. Ron Fairly, acquired Wednesday from the Dodgers for Maury Wills, singled in the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning.

PINCH HIT

Gary Sutherland opened the ninth with a double off loser Tommie Sisk, 0-4, and Fairly, pinch hitting in his first appearance for the Expos, laced a pitch by reliever Billy McCool for a 2-1 lead. Mack Jones tripled another run home and scored on a ground out.

Rusty Staub's seventh inning homer for Montreal had broken a scoreless duel between San Diego's Joe Niekro, who gave only one other hit in seven innings, and Jerry Robertson, who had broken the 20-game spin last Sunday.

Robertson had a four-hitter entering the eighth, but Bobby Wine's error led the way to Ed Spiezio's tying two-out single.

Lee May, who hit his 16th homer earlier, slammed a game-winning single with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th inning for Cincinnati.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Minus Tides Mean Action For Clam And Abalone Fans

First we have minus .9 tides at 6:24 a.m. tomorrow and at 7 a.m. Sunday which will give the clam diggers and abalone pickers another try at their favorite bivales or mollusks. This tide is also good for rockfishing and eeling. The winds made the seas rough at the last series of low tides, so there are good numbers of abalones left.

In Sonoma County, game wardens issued 41 citations during those tides. Four of these were for possession of abalones out of the shell, 16 were for undersized abalones, and 21 for overlimits of abalones.

Wardens in Marin issued 13 citations for similar violations.

I CALLED Vince Catania at Antioch today for the latest bass dope. Vince is the Fish and Game Department's net man who captures the bass and sturgeon for the tagging crews in the Antioch area. As of Wednesday, the crew had tagged 16,000 bass. Monday, they tagged 62 but only 32 on Tuesday. Vince feels the bass are rapidly leaving the delta, and he says this weekend's minus tides will put the fish in our backyard. The biggest fish tagged by the crew was 50 inches long which was estimated to weigh possibly 60 pounds.

Now listen to this! I asked about tagging sturgeon and Vince said, "We tagged 3,000 sturgeon in three weeks at the San Pablo Bay pump house area during October and November." I asked him how big the largest sturgeon was and his answer floored me! He said, "It weighed about 500 pounds." (I have just put my fly rod away, that's for sure!) It's fantastic; that would be like hooking a submarine from Mare Island.

TROUT FISHING spots in the Sierra are opening up with the warm temperatures. And added to the Rainbow and Mackinaw fishing at Lake Tahoe is the news that the Kokanee salmon fishery has started with good catches already this year. A group of outdoor writers fished the lake May 24 and 25 and caught 104 Kokanee averaging 16 inches, 52 Mackanaws averaging 22 inches and 4 rainbows averaging 15 inches. Some five fish limits were caught in an hour. The Kokanee were taken near the surface in Emerald Bay using 10 pound test monofiliament, a big two blade flasher followed by 18 inches of 6 pound test leader, with a Kokanee spoon or a trailer of worms. About 100 feet of line behind the boat does the trick.

A QUESTION came up: Can I catch a limit of trout everyday, get them smoked and bring them all home?

The take and possession limit on trout is 10. (Some lakes have special lower limits.) A person then can only take 10 trout per day, and never can have over 10 in his possession whether smoked, salted, frozen or otherwise. It is possible for a family of four to bring 40 trout home even though only the husband did the fishing. He could only catch 10 per day, but he could give his first day's limit to his wife, his second and third days limits to the kids and keep his fourth day's limit for a total of 40, even though the wife did not have a license. (It is legal, of course, to give fish to someone without a license.) A fisherman cannot catch 10, give them to his wife and then catch another 10 all in the same day. To quote old timer Walter Sellmer, Marin's fish and game warden in the 1930's, "Be careful, the game warden may be watching you now." could aptly apply here.

RODEO LAGOON will be stocked this week in Marin County for those who want to fish close to home.

SALMON FISHING continues to be good out of Sausalito, and the rockfish party boats are getting limits, with some big lingcods as the bonus fish these days.

Simpson Heads All-Star Grid Team

CHICAGO (AP) — A 52-player squad headed by Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson of Southern California was named yesterday for the 36th College All-Star football game in Soldier Field Aug. 1.

The graduate collegians will oppose the pro champion New York Jets.

Simpson still is bartering with the Buffalo Bills, who got first crack at the great running back in the player draft.

As of the moment, the Jets are without their Super Bowl hero Joe Namath, who announced retirement rather than sell his interest in his New York bistro.

Without Namath, the impressive collection of All-Stars might be given a good chance to beat the pro champions for the first time in five years.

Otto Graham, returning as All-Star coach after three years at the Washington Redskins helm, handpicked the collegians to face the first American Football League team to play in the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. classic.

Marty Domres, Columbia quarterback, and halfback Calvin Hill of Yale are the only players of 26 first-round draft choices this year to be missing from the squad.

Leroy Keyes of Purdue, voted most valuable in the Big Ten last season, is listed as a defensive back. The versatile Keyes was No. 3 pick in the draft and is still haggling with the Philadelphia Eagles over salary.

The All-Stars, whose main hopes of upsetting the pros usually rest with a strong passing attack, will have some standout receivers. They include Jim Seymour, Hanratty's record-breaking battery mate at Notre Dame.

Seals Draft Seven Junior Loop Players

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals' management headed home from Montreal today expressing satisfaction with the players they picked up in the National Hockey League draft there.

In a busy final day of drafting yesterday the Seals gained seven players from junior teams and lost one minor league player they had just picked from their own American Hockey League farm team at Providence.

He was Jerry LaFond, a 24-year-old defenseman, who was snapped up in the reverse draft by the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League. The Totems paid $15,000 for him.

In the junior draft, the Seals got two players they were interested in—Tony Featherstone from the Peterborough, Ont., Juniors, a right wing — and Ron Stackhouse, a defenseman from Peterborough.

Seals General Manager Frank Selke said the club didn't expect them both to last as far as the second round and added, "we were delighted that we were able to get them both. We think they are excellent prospects."

Brokerage Account Easy To Establish For Child

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you advise me how I may establish a brokerage account for a junior nephew? He saves $5 a week from his earnings as a newsboy. I have pointed out to him that an early purchase of IBM would now be of significant value due to the growth over the years. Would you recommend a company with similar prospects for him. — I.D.

A. Opening an account for your nephew is a very simple procedure, somewhat the same as opening a department store charge account. In your area there are several branch offices of New York Stock Exchange member firms, any one of which would be satisfactory for your purpose. The account would be in your name as custodian for your nephew under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act.

Your second question is not nearly as easy to answer. In the last decade shares of International Business Machine appreciated over 400 per cent while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average grew about 60 per cent.

Finding a company or an emerging industry with IBM potential is a quest that keeps several thousand financial analysts employed. Some of the areas that look promising for the '70s include: nonwoven fibers, oceanography, 3-D photography, leasers, the health industry, security and protection devices, containerized shipping, psychopharmacology and automation.

International Paper not only has a position in the health industry but has entered the nonwoven fiber field. A more aggressive, younger management effected a turnaround in earnings last year, reflecting greater efficiency and a large-scale modernization program. A 30 per cent gain in first-quarter net was generated by a 12 per cent increase in sales. Company ownership of about 8 million acres of timberland is supplemented by rights to an additional 15 million acres.

While International Paper is the world's largest papermaker, it is also an important factor in building materials. Development of some of the company's land for real estate is another recent innovation and will be handled by recently acquired American Central Corp. Shares, now trading at 17x estimated 1969 earnings of $2.55, have good long-range possibilities.

Lincoln Bank Gets New Name Monday

A new sign changing the name of Lincoln National Bank to Commonwealth National Bank will be installed at the bank's San Rafael office at 888 Fourth Street on Monday.

Don Fazackerly, vice chairman of the board of Commonwealth, said a "changing of the sign" ceremony will be held at 10 a.m. followed by an open house until 3 p.m.

He said the mandatory 30-day waiting period following approval from the comptroller of the currency for Lincoln's merger into Commonwealth will expire tomorrow. At that time the name will be changed at Lincoln's headquarters in Santa Rosa.

Merger discussions between the two banks were initiated last December. Lincoln National stockholders voted their approval in April and permission was received from the comptroller of the currency last month.

Fazackerly said the San Rafael staff headed by assistant vice president and manager Don F. Mailander will continue unchanged.

Lincoln National was established in Santa Rosa in 1964 and the san Rafael office was opened in May 1966. It reported resources of $7,776,383 at the end of 1968. San Rafael is its only branch office, but approval has been received for an additional branch in the Terra Linda-Northgate area.

Commonwealth National, with resources of $63,622,000 reported at the end of last year, has four offices in San Francisco and one in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County. Its outstanding shares are 98 per cent owned by the Morlan Pacific Corp., San Francisco.

Market In Decline At End Of Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market see-sawed today with the downswing not quite so pronounced as the upswing. Turnover was brisk.

Prices opened lower, were buoyed by a buying spree and then began drifting back down late in the last hour. Declines held a narrow edge over advances.

The initial strength, according to brokers, was technical, a normal occurrence following the recent steep decline. The basic jitters about the nation's economy apparently took on greater significance near the end.

Steels were firm. U. S. Steel showed little reaction to news the Justice Department had filed an antitrust suit against the industry kingpin. The issue was off fractionally for most of the session on fairly light volume.
